Salmon Cakes

At a recent barbecue, we actually had some salmon left over, a rarity at our house. So the next day I made salmon cakes. If you start from scratch, boil the salmon for about five minutes.

Salmon Cakes

1/2 pound salmon
1/4 cup chopped scallions
1 egg, beaten lightly
1/4 cup fresh parsley chopped
1 1/4 cups bread crumbs
1/4 cup grated cheese enough corn flake crumbs for coating (you can also use bread crumbs)

2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons vegetable oil

Preheat oven to 200. With a fork, flake the salmon. Add the scallions, egg, parsley, grated cheese, bread crumbs, and mayonnaise. Stir to blend. Form mixture into 2-inch patties (use ounce scoop). Dredge in the corn flake crumbs. In the oil, over medium heat, add salmon cakes in batches. Cook until golden brown. Turn and cook 1 to 2 minutes more. Transfer to baking sheet and keep warm in the oven. (any favorite sauce can be used for dipping)

Eugene Desaulniers Completes Eagle Scout Project

Quincy resident Eugene Desaulniers, a Life Scout from Troop 2 in Weymouth, has completed his service project toward the rank of Eagle: the restoration of Safford Park on the corner of Winthrop Ave. and Beale St.

In completing his project, Desaulniers planned and oversaw the removal of brush, replacement of railings, the installation of two park benches provided by the Park Department, and the planting of 10 trays of flowers courtesy of Mantis Flowers of Wollaston Center.

The three-day project required more than 280 hours of labor and crews of 19 and 16 volunteers on the first and second days, respectively. In addition to the installation of the two park benches and the planting of flowers, volunteers also planted grass seed and laid mulch at the park.

Desaulniers, a senior at North Quincy High School, said the idea for his Eagle Scout Project came from a neighbor who remembered Safford Park as a nice area for children to play.

Desaulniers thanked the city's Park Department for their help and their contributions of the park benches and the mulch, Mantis Flowers for the trays of flowers, volunteers for their efforts, and Safford Park neighbors for their encouragement and support.

Before Desaulniers can gain the rank of Eagle, he must still pass a board of Review from District and Council boards.

Eagle is the highest rank a Boy Scout can earn.

18 Public Safety And Social Groups Organize Norfolk Firewall Partnership Launched To Prevent Youth Firesetting

A coalition of 18 public safety and social service organizations serving Quincy and 27 other communities of the Norfolk District came together recently at the international headquarters of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in Quincy to help establish a community partnership for addressing a serious and complex public safety issue: youth firesetting.

For some time, many in the county's public safety community have been concerned about the incidents of juvenile firesetting that have come to their attention. Unfortunately, accessible programmatic responses and intervention services for involved children and families have historically appeared limited in this region of the state.

Over the last year, the Quincy Fire Department, the Quincy Police Department, the Norfolk District Attorney's Office, and others have been working to develop appropriate and practical initiatives that might help address these needs while promoting early intervention and accountability.

In this collaborative research and planning effort, the group has been reaching out to local law enforcement, social service providers, state agencies, court officials, and other potential community partners for input, expertise, and support.

The "Norfolk Firewall Partnership," a multidisciplinary coalition on behalf of children, families, and safer communities, is expected to begin on a small-scale, pilot basis in Quincy and then expand incrementally to the six other communities served by the Quincy District Court and, ultimately, to the rest of the Norfolk District.

"It is estimated that firesetting left untreated has an 81 percent probability of being repeated -- one of the highest recidivism rates for juvenile crime," stated Norfolk District Attorney William Keating.

Those invited to the first regional meeting of the "Norfolk Firewall Partnership" included: Quincy Fire Department, Quincy Police Department, Quincy Public Schools, Quincy Housing Authority, Office of the State Fire Marshal, Massachusetts State Police, Norfolk County Fire Chiefs Association, National Fire Protection Association, Office of the First Justice of the Norfolk Juvenile Court, Office of the Clerk Magistrate of the Norfolk Juvenile Court.

Office of the Commissioner of Probation, Norfolk Juvenile Probation Department, Norfolk Juvenile Court Clinic, Massachusetts Department of Social Services, Massachusetts Department of Youth Services, Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, Massachusetts State-wide Coalition for Juvenile Firesetter Intervention Programs, Norfolk District Attorney's Office.

Forum attendees heard from experts on various facets of the juvenile firesetting issue, from both Massachusetts and across the nation, and had opportunities to participate in task force projects and specialized training sessions.

"Jim has boundless energy and his dedication to his family and community are obvious in his civic commitments," Bellotti said.

A certified public accountant with his own prac-

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

A LOOK AT THE APPOINTMENT BOOK

A recent analysis of data shows that preschoolers and individuals over age 65 are going to the dentist more often. While the number of adults making visits to the dentist remains constant, however, there has been a drop in the number of visits (perhaps because dentists have been able to meet their parents' needs with fewer visits). As for older adults, they may have more reason than ever to visit the dentist because they are keeping their teeth longer. Among adults ages 65 to 74, the percentage with no teeth dropped to 29 in 1996 from 46 in 1977. And, the rise in dental visits among children under 6 may reflect a greater concern for the health of "baby teeth."

Our goal is to help our patients reach their own unique and highest level of oral health. We believe it is our responsibility to share our acquired knowledge and understanding of oral health with each and every patient, one on one. All of our patients are individuals, and as such will achieve our goal in different ways and at different paces. No two patients are alike, so no two treatment programs will be the same. Our office is located at 44 Greenleaf Street. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule your next dental checkup. Let us help you keep that winning smile. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

ATLANTIC MIDDLE SCHOOL students put their city pride and environmental awareness into action recently as more than 100 students participated in the annual Coastsweep Cleanup at Wollaston Beach, sponsored by the Ward 5 Community Association and Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission. Together with neighborhood residents, the student volunteers collected more than 50 bags of trash which had accumulated along the beach. Thanking the students for their efforts are Doug Gutro, organizer of the cleanup for the Ward 5 Community Association and vice chairman of the Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission, and Atlantic teacher Donna Glynn. ## More Than 100 Volunteers Clean Up Wollaston Beach

More than 100 students from Atlantic Middle School and neighborhood residents participated in the annual Coastsweep Cleanup recently at Wollaston Beach, sponsored by the Ward 5 Community Association and Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission.

"We collected more than 50 bags of trash and debris that accumulated along the beach during the summer months," said Doug Gutro, organizer of the cleanup for the Ward 5 Community Association and vice president of the Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission. "Consistent with cleanups in recent years, the vast majority of debris was a result of human behavior. Items included plastic, paper, glass, cigarette butts, cups and wrappers."

Gutro credited Donna Glynn, a teacher at the Atlantic Middle School, for enlisting the help of her fellow teachers and students.

"For the past three years, Ms. Glynn has brought environmental education into the classroom, and brought her students into our local environment --- all for the betterment of our community," Gutro said. "Her work, and that of many teachers throughout this city, help to illustrate that students can make a difference in their own neighborhoods and we are grateful for their help and support."

As part of the state-sponsored Coastsweep, volunteers fill out data forms which help tabulate the type and amount of trash along coastal areas. Glynn's class at Atlantic Middle School is tabulating the cards, which will be sent to the Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management Agency and integrated with information collected from other beaches across the state. Over 3,500 volunteers were expected to turn out to remove hundreds of thousands of pieces of debris along almost 200 miles of coastline.

The Ward 5 Community Association has sponsored beach cleanups at Wollaston Beach twice annually since 1996. Last year's event attracted 80 people who collected 350 pounds of trash and debris.

Coughlin Discusses Ward 3 Concerns With City Officials

Ward 3 city council candidate Kevin Coughlin met with city officials recently to review and address a number of concerns of residents of that ward.

Coughlin said he was assured that an established timetable to remove the requested oak trees in the Puritan, Priscilla, Joan, and Miles Drive area would move forward by mid-November after the leaves have fallen, easing the removal process.

The root structure from these trees has caused significant problems with sewer pipes and consequent collateral damage to homes, uprooted sidewalks, curbing, and lawns and interfered with utility lines.

A follow-up was also made, he said, to petitioned requests for various improvements at senior housing locations including the restructuring of two sidewalk wheelchair ramps at Hancock Court and School St., the repaving of Hancock Court, and the addition of a dedicated left turn arrow at the intersection in front of 125 Granite St. to facilitate safer access to this location.

A petitioned request for the installation of a sidewalk along Lincoln Ave. between Belmont St. and Highland Ave. was presented and forwarded to the Department of Public Works. Coughlin noted that neighborhood residents who traverse the area and are compelled to walk in the street continue to be at risk from motor vehicles. Coughlin said he plans to be vigilant about these and numerous other Ward 3 resident concerns.

Liang Proposes Environmental Board

Jimmy Liang, candidate for city councillor at-large, is proposing that Quincy create an Environmental Management Board.

Quincy's environmental resources is splintered and lacks coordination, Liang said.

"An Environmental Management Board would play an important advisory role to the mayor and council, fill the gaps and bridge the efforts of our parks, public works, inspectional services and health departments," he said.

The board would be appointed like many of our volunteer boards such as zoning or planning and supported by an existing department such as the Department of Planning and Community Development. That way the budget impact would be very small. He said "this is a quality of life issue that can be addressed in a financially responsible way."

"One important aspect,

Liang said "is to give concerned citizens, community organizations, and business people a public forum to be heard. It's really about finding a way to bring people together, with different views on environmental issues and unify them, wherever possible, to the benefit of our natural environment."

Recent public debate over the health of Black's Creek in the newspaper could have been done in a public forum moderated by a panel rather than a reporter suggested.

"The members of the Board could reflect the views of the many back to those who lead the City."

Liang said that the Board be comprised of at least one individual with experience in the appropriate sciences.

"Our environment is simply too important to leave completely in the hands of novices," said Liang.

summer. "I was delighted to see a sample of your work and learn about your love for our country. I appreciate your friendship and support."

"Mrs. Bush joins me in sending our warmest wishes to you for a fun-filled and safe summer. God bless you."

Ye's personal letter from the most powerful man on the planet is a result of the student's own hard work and the efforts of second grade teacher Reynolds and teacher's aide Donna Guyer, who forwarded letters of Ye and Reynolds and samples of Ye's practice speeches to Pennsylvania Congressman Todd Platts, a family friend of Guyer's, who forwarded them to the president.

Although almost three decades shy of his 35th birthday, the minimum age to become president, Ye already has the vote of Reynolds.

"He'd make a wonderful leader," said Reynolds, who spoke of Ye's enthusiasm as a student of the presidency, including: the reading on his own time of 30 presidential biographies from The Thomas Crane Public Library and the Marshall School's media center; the "devouring" in class each morning of his personal copy of The Boston Globe as he sought articles on the 2000 election; his watching of the presidential debates "for pointers"; and the daily practicing of his own speeches.

GEORGE W. BUSH
"I appreciate your friendship..."

A stickler for detail, Reynolds said, Ye would wear a suit while practicing his remarks and, in the manner of the candidates, single out certain people for thanks. In his case, Ye chose to thank Johnny Appleseed and Thomas Edison, two topics of a recent classroom discussion.

"Every day he had a new question," said Reynolds, who credited Ye's success to the support of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bo Ye of Quincy Point, who have encouraged their son's interest with trips to The White House as well as the John F. Kennedy Library and JFK's birthplace.

At Reynolds' advice, Ye began his political journey at the local level, writing a letter to Mayor James Sheets along with 25 questions about the role of the mayor in municipal government.

Sheets responded to Ye's letter by answering all 25 questions and having the Marshall School student as his lunch guest, letting Ye tour the mayor's office and "try out" the mayor's chair.

Not only did Ye write the mayor a thank-you letter, he also included the mayor's public speaking suggestion to "speak what you feel" in the letter and said he would always remember the advice.

Even more impressive, Reynolds said, was that prior to his meeting with the mayor, Ye researched information about the Galapagos Islands, remembering Sheets' visit to the islands and his discussion of the trip in Ye's first grade class.

"That type of caring, to want to bring up in the conversation something of interest to the mayor, is amazing," said Reynolds.

Ye's political drive is good news for Reynolds, who has already been promised a seat beside Ye when he takes the oath of office sometime after 2028, but it's not so good news for future city and state politicians who will have to take Ye on as he climbs his way up the ladder.

"When the mayor told him he only had to be 18 years old to run for local office, his eyes brightened," said Reynolds.

The Importance Of Moving Forward In This Time Of Crisis

By CAROL BULMAN
President

Conway Financial Services

The national disaster, which has engulfed us all, has put us on edge and forces us to realign and focus on what's most important to us. It's at this time that we need to work hard to sort things out and put things in order.

As I sat here today in front of my computer preparing myself to write my monthly mortgage column, I discovered that I just could not write about a mortgage product or a new way of qualifying. I needed to focus today on setting a foundation of moving forward.

President Bush has urged us all, as citizens of the United

CAROL BULMAN

States of America, to get back to work and, at this time, more important than any other, we must be the best that we can possibly be. We owe it to ourselves, our families, our co-workers and our country to dust ourselves off and put our best face forward.

The times ahead are going to be challenging ones. But American was built on challenges, and this particular one will be our generation's legacy. We are strong enough and prepared enough to meet this challenge.

It will not only be in the lands of the Middle East that the citizens of the U.S. will need to prove their strength, but also here at home. We need to continue to be good to our families, to participate and to support our economy and work the hardest we possibly can at our jobs. We also need to show one another that we have the strength to return to normalcy, a word that has a different definition than it did a few weeks ago.

Here at Jack Conway Company and Conway Financial Services, we will remain dedicated to serving our customers. As president of Conway Financial Services, I report to you that rates are the lowest they have been in many years. This means affordability to the first-time, second-time or move-down buyer. There are still people who have homes to sell and for them we will work hard to deliver qualified buyers.

Although faced with the largest adversity of most of our lives, we will remain focused on our responsibilities and our pledge of superior service.

As a mother, wife, daughter, friend and co-worker, I am afraid. But I am mostly proud and hopeful. I am proud that we are people of a country that believes in justice and in being good to one another. It will be only with a steadfast commitment to our country, led by leaders who are just and resolute, that we will prevail.

And I am confident that we will.

Neighborhood Housing Services 20th Anniversary Celebration Oct. 23

Neighborhood Housing Services of South Shore, formerly Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, will celebrate 20 years of creating and maintaining safe and affordable housing Tuesday, Oct. 23 at the Neighborhood Center, 27 Glendale Road, Quincy.

Rev. James Kimmell, the organization's first president, will be the featured speaker. There will be a social hour at 6 p.m. followed by dinner and program at 7 p.m. Tickets are $25 and can be ordered at 617-770-2227, ext. 25 or 26.

Founded in 1981 through a collaborative effort of residents, local government and bankers, the organization originally focused its efforts on housing rehabilitation in Quincy's southwest neighborhood.

Currently, the agency offers a home rehabilitation program for homeowners, a first-time homebuyers education and financial assistance program, and specialized housing development.

Pre-Application Meeting For Nehemiah Homes Oct. 18

An informational meeting on the "Nehemiah Affordable Homes" program sponsored by the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO) will be held Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Those wishing to be considered for Nehemiah Homes should attend the Oct. 18 meeting to obtain complete information and to fill out a pre-application.

The GBIO expects to build 1,000 two-family homes in the next five years in the metropolitan area.

The homes are expected to sell for approximately $195,000, making them affordable to families with incomes between $30,000 and $50,000.

There will be some restrictions on re-sale and rents to prevent speculation.

The homes will have a three-bedroom, owner-occupied unit and a two-bedroom rental unit.

Buyers will be selected by lottery.

Discussions are proceeding with government officials in Quincy, Cambridge, Boston, and several other localities about constructing Nehemiah Homes.

The project is named after the Biblical prophet

Nehemiah who rebuilt Jerusalem after the Babylonian Captivity.

Real Estate in the New Era

by Vin Moscardelli
Owner/Broker

A COMPARATIVE VALUE

Many homeowners have a selling price in mind when they first think about selling their homes. They usually begin with the amount they paid for the house, then add what they would like to realize as a profit, plus a percentage for their blood and sweat. This evaluation is not likely to be as valid as the Comparative Market Analysis, which compares the home to others similar in size, configuration, condition and location. It should include such details as square footage, number and size of rooms, number of bathrooms, lot size, garages, and special amenities. By comparing and analyzing the recent selling prices of comparable homes, agents arrive at an asking price based on reason -- not emotion.

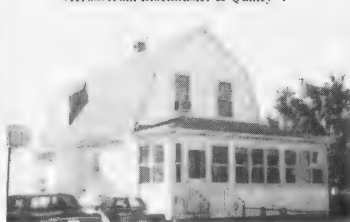

The real estate market continues to be healthy, with homes still being in demand. When setting the sale price of the home, the factors outlined in this week's column must be kept in mind. When ERA CENTRAL REAL ESTATE sells a home, we perform a market analysis that establishes a fair market price that will attract qualified buyers. Our goal is to bring buyers and sellers together to the mutual satisfaction of both through maximum exposure of the property. From negotiating your offer to overseeing the house inspection and closing, you can rely on us for complete and reliable guidance. Call us at 617-328-1312 to arrange a consultation, or visit us at 128 Mayor McGrath Highway. We sell on purpose -- not by accident!

HINT: A home with an unreasonably high asking price is likely to languish needlessly on the market, thereby jeopardizing its chances for a quick sale.

Flynn And Co. Nearing Completion Of Thoreau Woods Town Homes

Daniel J. Flynn and Company, Inc., a Quincy-based full service real estate firm, is nearing completion of Thoreau Woods, a 16-unit town home development in North Quincy.

Following the completion of Victory Point at Marina Bay, a 15,000 square foot commercial building, Thoreau Woods represents the first major residential project for the firm. Joseph Burton, vice president of Daniel J. Flynn & Co. construction division, has managed the project since its planning stages.

The town homes are scheduled for completion in November. Each unit offers 1,800 square feet of space, flexible amenities and an attractive Colonial exterior which blends in with its neighborhood surroundings.

Exterior finishing has begun on the first of three buildings. With interior finishing soon to follow, Burton expects to complete a model unit by mid October.

Each town home will feature three finished levels, and will include dual master bedrooms, two and one-half baths, a spacious living area and upscale finishes. Pre-construction options, such as hardwood flooring, fireplaces and customized finishes will enable early buyers to apply a personal touch to their new homes.

Daniel J. Flynn & Co. Residential salesperson Kelle Sutliff heads up the sales team assigned to the development.

"Sales have been brisk, and we expect to sell out on our pre-construction pricing in the next week," Sutliff said. "We've generated a great deal of interest just from people driving by the site, which speaks volumes about Thoreau Woods' desirability."

"This is an outstanding opportunity to show off our full service real estate capabilities," said Dan Flynn, Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc. Chief Executive Officer. "With the construction division finishing up its work, our real estate sales team has begun marketing Thoreau Woods. We expect to sell out quickly."

Disaster Area Taxpayers May Get Quick Refunds By Claiming Casualty Losses

because of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks that they may get a quick tax refund by claiming these losses on an amended return for 2000.

Affected taxpayers — whether individuals or businesses — in a presidentially declared disaster area have the option of claiming their casualty losses on the tax return for the year of the disaster or the previous year. By amending the 2000 return, a taxpayer gets a refund in a few weeks, rather than waiting until filing the 2001 return next year. Taxpayers who were still on an extension of time to file a 2000 return may include the disaster loss on that return. Taxpayers must reduce the amount of loss by any insurance or other reimbursements received or expected.

For personal use property, individuals must first subtract $100 for each casualty event. From the remaining total losses for the year, they subtract 10 percent of their adjusted gross income. They may take the remaining amount as an itemized deduction.

Taxpayers claiming the loss on an amended or original 2000 return should put "September 11, 2001 Terrorist Attack" in red ink at the top of the return to expedite processing.

The IRS has a special toll-free number to answer tax questions from those affected by the terrorist attacks: 1-866-562-5227.

A GREAT COMPANY TO DO BUSINESS WITH

Sheets Complimented Quarry Hills Project Impresses Mayors' Assn.

An hour-long presentation on the Quarry Hills Golf Course Project in West Quincy was received favorably at the monthly meeting of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association held recently at the Marriott Hotel at Crown Colony.

"I take my hat off to you," remarked Beverly Mayor William Scanlon, Jr., who said his city had vied unsuccessfully to receive fill and the lucrative "tipping fees" from the massive Central Artery Project. "You got in there early with the big idea and you got it."

Scanlon was one of more than a dozen mayors in attendance for the MMA meeting, hosted by the city and Mayor James Sheets, who listened to the two-part presentation given by Walter Hannon III, a partner of the developer Quarry Hills Associates and former mayor of Quincy, and DPW Commissioner David Colton.

"The city has invested zero dollars in this project," said Colton, who added that the transformation of quarry landfills into a 27-hole golf course with baseball and soccer fields was the largest DPW project in the history of the city, entailing the acceptance of 12 million tons of "Big Dig" fill and 547,800 round-trip truck trips.

In fact, Colton told the visiting mayors, many of whom have landfill issues in their own communities, his list of the 27 separate permits and corollary agreements needed for the project totals nine pages.

Colton called the project "a public-private partnership" where a public asset -- roughly 450 acres of land owned by the city, the town of Milton, and the MDC -- was combined with a private developer -- Quarry Hills Associates -- who took the risk.

Of the roughly $92 million already paid by the Massachusetts Highway Department in tipping fees, Colton said, $18 million had gone to Quarry Hills Associates for design, engineering, management and other costs and $68 million had gone to McCourt Construction for placement of the fill. There were also additional monies paid to the city for oversight, funds for the construction of a clubhouse, and $2.2 million in a reserve account.

In exchange for Quarry Hills Associates' 50-year lease on the property, after which it reverts to city control, Colton said the city would receive the new ballfields and an estimated $1.5 million annually from a combination of greens fees, clubhouse receipts, and real estate taxes.

Another advantage, said QHA's Hannon, was that neighborhood residents would be ridding themselves of dangerous quarries which for decades had been used as dumping grounds for old mattresses, refrigerators, and the like.

Hannon emphasized that, despite the private development, the course was, is, and would be public.

"This is a 100 percent public facility. There aren't even going to be memberships," said Hannon. "It's public money that built this on public land and we feel that (no memberships) is important."

Discussing an opening date for the long awaited facility, Hannon admitted to being "a season behind" but said 18 holes of golf should be ready to play by the spring of 2002.

St. Mary's Food Drive Benefits Southwestern Community Center

When the call for help came, the students of St. Mary's School in West Quincy responded.

After finding out recently that food supplies for the needy were in short supply at the Southwestern Community Center, the school staged a three-day emergency food drive, collecting hundreds of food items donated by students and their families.

"They were pretty amazing," said Principal Jane Abel of her students, taking special note of their enthusiasm in accepting the challenge.

In a three-day period, the school's 206 students raised enough food to completely fill a food van with heavy grocery bags.

The food drive, Abel said, was the September project for St. Mary's, whose student council selects monthly a different cause for the students to support.

The Southwestern Community Center is still accepting donations of non-perishable food items for the needy and is located at 388 Granite St. in West Quincy.

Council Permits New Lease For Police Dispatch Console

The City Council recently authorized the city to enter into a five year lease with the Motorola Corporation to replace the emergency call dispatch console of the Quincy Police Department.

In making the case Sept. 24 for permission to lease the Centracom Gold Elite Console, Charles Phelan, chief information officer of the Department of Information Technology and Telecommunication Services, said that a June 30 lightning strike had temporarily brought down the radio system in the 911 Center, damaging the system.

Although Phelan emphasized that temporary repairs reactivated the system "within hours" and that officers were still able to communicate at all times using hand held radio equipment, he also said the cost to make permanent repairs to the console would be almost as much as buying a new console.

Other advantages to the plan, Phelan said, were the ability to get replacement parts and the fact that the new console would be the same as those used by the Massachusetts State Police, The MBTA Police, and several surrounding communities, creating "instant communication" capabilities through a process known as "Smartnet Trunking."

The new console would provide a direct line to the Milton Police Department, the immediate 911 back-up for the city.

New grounding techniques in the Motorola system, Phelan added, would "reduce by about 90 percent" the probability of future lightning strikes.

The current console, which Phelan said was nearing the end of its five-year service agreement, handles an average of 63,000 calls per year, an average of 176 per day.

The first payment on a new lease would not be required until June of 2002. Because of funds already set aside within the department budget, the full annual payment of $59,000 would not have to be appropriated until Fiscal Year 2004.

The Department of Information Technology and Telecommunication Services was formerly known as the Data Processing Department.

Classification Tax Vote Seen Dec. 3

The council is scheduled to meet Dec. 3 and Dec. 17. Although he said he favored the Dec. 3 date to vote, Harold said the decision was in the hands of the council and its members.

Reached for comment Tuesday, Sheets called the Dec. 3 date "realistic" but said the date can only be set after Marion Fantucchio, chairwoman of the Board of Assessors, has reported the actual financial numbers to the mayor.

In his remarks Oct. 4 before the Quincy Business Council, Harold pointed out that all property in the city is scheduled for revaluation next year and that residents could see an increase in their Feb. 1 bills, which are based on actual figures.

Harold cited recent real estate figures which showed an average one-year increase in value of 23 percent for homes across the city.

"The best measure of value is a sale," said Harold.

South Shore Chamber of Commerce invited Connolly and D'Amico to debate on Oct. 11. After D'Amico claimed a conflict on that date, the chamber rescheduled for Oct. 22, a date that D'Amico had identified as acceptable. The chamber reissued its invitation in a letter sent to both candidates by certified mail and dated Oct. 2.

In a letter dated Oct. 8 and hand-delivered to the D'Amico camp, Connolly told D'Amico that "this decision, like so many others, raises the types of questions about your credibility that debates are meant to address."

Connolly's letter goes on to urge D'Amico to stand by an earlier promise to debate on Quincy Access Television, but his letter's contention that the studios will be made accessible to the candidates is disputed by QATV's Bette Campbell, who said Connolly discussed becoming a QATV member to train and make use of the equipment, but that's all.

QATV's role, Campbell said, was primarily as "a teaching facility" although it did commit to covering such activities as the city's Christmas Parade and Flag Day and had committed to cover the current mayoral debates sponsored by The Patriot Ledger.

"A ward debate belongs in the ward and to the people of that community," Campbell said.

Reached for comment Tuesday, Connolly said he did discuss those things with Campbell and did indeed become a member but maintained that, although QATV emphasized it has not and would not sponsor debates, its facilities could be used.

D'Amico, for his part, said he is focusing his energy on the Oct. 17 debates.

Stop & Shop Fund Aids Victims Of Sept. 11 Tragedy

All of the dollars raised through the American Heroes Fund will be given to victims and families affected by the national tragedy.

The program, designed to allow customers and associates to make contributions at their local Stop & Shop, is underway and additional information is available at each store.

Ahold USA operating companies will support the program by matching funds collectively raised, dollar for dollar, up to $1 million.

Contributions can be made in all 318 Stop & Shop stores throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, and New Jersey.

"Stop & Shop takes great pride in our connection to the community," said Marc Smith, president and CEO of Stop & Shop. ## Optometrist Mary Mathias: A Love Of Helping Others

At the age of 15, Dr. Mary Mathias met a blind prep school classmate. It was this encounter that sparked her interest in optometry and her lifelong love of helping others.

After graduating from the New England College of Optometry in 1988, Dr. Mathias began to travel abroad to help give vision screenings and dispense glasses to underprivileged citizens in countries such as India, South Africa, Egypt, Russia and China. In total, Dr. Mathias has been to over 40 countries for both charity work and vacations.

"It makes me really appreciate where I come from," said Dr. Mathias. "In Mexico, people string hammocks over stoves because they have no place to sleep and in Russia all the showers are ice-cold. As a tourist you just don't always get to see how good life really is for an American, but when you are on a mission you get to experience life as the natives live it."

Dr. Mathias has had her share of close encounters in her journeys.

"I've been jumped by a lioness and suffered life-threatening illnesses," she said. "But in the end, it's all worth it to see the smile on people's faces when they get their first pair of glasses — sometimes decades after their eyesight has started to deteriorate."

Dr. Mathias now uses her experiences to help the residents of Quincy and Bedford, N.H., as an optometrist at the Vision Center inside of Wal-Mart. Dr. Mathias also serves as a representative to state Sen. Edward Kennedy. She has been appointed to this role for the past three years by the Massachusetts Society of Optometry to advise the senator on the needs of optometrists throughout the state.

Among many other honors, Dr. Mathias has received the American Optometric Association's Recognition Award every year since 1996. She also attends the yearly American Optometric Association's Congressional Conference in Washington, D.C., and serves on the New England Board of Directors for the Volunteer Optometric Services to Humanity.

To schedule an appointment with Dr. Mathias, as well as Dr. George Dyer, call the Vision Center located inside Wal-Mart in Quincy at 617-472-2167 or stop by 301 Falls Boulevard.

To make an appointment at the Wal-Mart in Bedford, call 603-623-0622 or stop by 17 Colby Court.

Germantown Neighborhood Center's Youth Leadership Programs

A Continuum Of Care For Pre-Adolescence Through Young Adulthood

By KATHERINE QUIGLEY
GNC Director

The relationship between the Germantown Neighborhood Center (GNC) and Impact Quincy (IQ) is over five years long. It is a highly productive and mutually satisfying relationship. IQ not only supports GNC's programs and events with staff power and youth volunteers, but also financially sponsors numerous community celebrations.

Some of the recent events sponsored by IQ and aimed at the celebration of the diversity of Quincy population, included "Puerto Rican Celebration," "Haitian Event 2001," and "Arabic Children Celebration." Other joint projects were "Active Parenting" training, four "Women Alliance" events, and many others.

Now GNC is involved with new Youth Initiative programs, which use a developmental approach as its main tool. These new programs contribute in designing a continuum of care for pre-adolescence through young adulthood. These programs are aimed at re-targeting the same young people. As students complete one program at GNC, they are registered for the next one. All activities are designed to help teens attain the personal maturity needed to achieve healthy and productive lives.

The neighborhood center and South Shore YMCA established a powerful network linking together IQ, the elementary schools, the middle schools, the health center, various community organizations and faith institutions. All that was done in order to provide a caring, educational, and protective environment for the young people within Germantown.

This network has enabled GNC to expand its Youth Educational Leadership training programs (Peer Leadership Program, Girls to Women Program, Girl Power Program, and Boys Making Healthy Choices Program). The main themes that peer leaders and facilitators enthusiastically promoted this summer were closely related to alcohol/tobacco/drug prevention.

Among other vitally important themes emphasized by all programs were healthy lifestyles, conflict resolution techniques, and appreciation of diversity. Adolescents have assisted with numerous community service programs, such as the Holiday Food Assistance Program, Intergenerational Program, and Cultural events. Students also focused on subjects supporting and fostering self-esteem. This in turn helped them to increase self-respect and their level of social competence.

The main goal of the programs is to help enhance protective factors, and to build the resilience needed for girls and boys in order to achieve their objectives. Impact Quincy has been highly instrumental in helping the center to make these programs possible by providing the professional and financial resources to address issues of alcohol/tobacco/drug abuse in the city of Quincy.

Impact Quincy's prevention programs have helped GNC to out reach to large groups of students in middle and high schools. There is a great need in our community for these types of programs, with many parents working there has been an increase in the number of unsupervised youth. This is even more obvious in Quincy during the summer months. Impact Quincy has helped our teens to continue to live healthy lifestyles. IQ's help in the delivery of these services is greatly appreciated by our community that we all care about.

Granite Hosts Springfield In EFL Semi-Finals

By CHRIS POISSON

Whether it was the freezing weather or rustiness from a three-week hiatus, the Quincy Granite just couldn't seem to warm up Sunday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

While the offense and special teams had more cobwebs than an old attic, the stalwart defense went above and beyond its call of duty, enabling the Granite to pull out a 29-13 victory over the Middleboro Cobras in the quarterfinals of the Eastern Football League playoffs.

Quincy (10-0) advances to the semifinals Saturday night at 7 when it hosts the Springfield Blitzin' Bears, 43-12 winners over the Rhode Island Prowlers last Saturday in the quarterfinals.

In the only meeting between the two teams, Quincy triumphed, 21-13, at Springfield.

"Springfield is very big and very strong," said head coach Ken McPhee. "They're going to come well prepared. They scored 43 points against Rhode Island. We have our work cut out for us. No question."

That Springfield game on Sept. 15 happened to be Quincy's final regular season game. It had a bye during the final week of the season and another bye for the first round of the playoffs.

The 21-day layoff really showed in the first quarter, as Quincy gained 6 total yards, threw two interceptions and fumbled back-to-back punt returns. If it weren't for the defense, Quincy could've been blown out in the first 15 minutes.

On the first play of the game, safety John Skabeikis picked off quarterback John Lindskog's intended pass for split end Alan Monteiro and returned it 50 yards for a touchdown. Kicker Greg DiCenzo added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

The defense then forced Middleboro to punt on its next five possessions, including two three-and-outs after Quincy fumbled punt returns deep inside its own territory. And after quarterback Liam

Kick-Off 7 PM Saturday

Higgins threw his second interception that gave the Cobras the ball at the Granite 25, the defense stiffened as Middleboro turned the ball over on downs.

"They always bail us out," McPhee said of his defensive unit, nicknamed the Dark Side by the team.

When it appeared Quincy was finding its rhythm offensively early in the second quarter, it turned the ball over again. After marching 63 yards to the Cobra 11, Higgins fired a quick pass on third and 3 but George Fernandes picked it off to kill the drive.

"We had a lot of rust," McPhee said. "We hadn't played in three weeks and that showed in the first half. It really did."

Middleboro got on the scoreboard with 8:53 left in the half when the ever-dangerous Monteiro beat the defense for a 51-yard TD catch. Jay Miller's extra point tied the game.

But only for 17 seconds. Quincy's John Barr fielded the ensuing kickoff at the 20-yard line, dodged a few would-be tacklers and raced 80 yards along the right sideline for the touchdown. DiCenzo added the extra point.

"Unbelievable," described McPhee. "He's a threat after the catch. He's a game-break kid. The only problem is we don't have a spot for him. There are other guys playing ahead of him. But he definitely needs to play more."

Middleboro responded on its next series with a 60-yard drive in 2:14, capped by Lindskog's 3-yard TD pass to Monteiro. Monteiro received a penalty on the play for taunting and 15 yards were added to the extra-point attempt, which Skabeikis blocked to preserve a 14-13 lead for Quincy.

Seemingly galvanized by the blocked kick, Quincy finally orchestrated a scoring drive on its next possession. Higgins caught fire, hitting wideouts Dwayne Williams for 20 yards, Billy MacDougall for 21 yards, and then Williams for a 33-yard

TD strike with 3:34 left in the half. Kicker Matt Kulesza missed the extra point and Quincy held a 20-13 lead at the break.

In the second half, Quincy's defense shut out Middleboro, forcing four turnovers with two fumble recoveries and two interceptions — the last one by Skabeikis on Middleboro's final drive of the night.

In the third quarter, Middleboro fumbled a punt return and Quincy converted the turnover into a 25-yard field goal by DiCenzo for a 23-13 lead. With 6:27 left in the fourth, Quincy iced the game when Higgins connected with MacDougall for a 47-yard TD pass. Kulesza missed the extra point.

ROAD CONDITIONS

If you think that roads in need of repair have an impact on your vehicle, you are right. According to a recent report by The Road Information Program (a Washington-based highway transportation research group), traveling on roads requiring repair or improvement costs the average American motorist an estimated $222 ($41.5 billion overall) each year in extra vehicle operating expenses. Bad roads contribute to costs related to repair, fuel, and tires, as well as accelerated vehicle depreciation. While only 33% of the major roads in the nation's 50 largest metropolitan areas were assessed to be in good condition, 19% are in poor condition and an additional 19% are in mediocre condition. Twenty-nine percent are in fair condition.

You safety and that of our family is our concern. Please use seat belts and the proper seat for your children and watch the road conditions. # Offensive Rut Plagues Presidents, Bow To W-H

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School football team and the end zone have not been synonymous of late.

With one touchdown in their last three games, the Presidents are in an offensive rut to say the least.

After scoring 28 points in the season-opening win, they scored a late fourth-quarter touchdown in a 12-6 loss to Hanover and zilch in the 32-0 shellacking to Catholic Memorial.

Last Friday night they moved the ball against Whitman-Hanson, but they were victimized once again by crucial turnovers and untimely dropped balls in a 28-0 loss at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"I'm disappointed that we lost," said head coach Bob Noble. "But am I disappointed the way I was a week ago in terms of our effort and our desire to play? Absolutely not. I told you we would show up and play hard tonight. We accomplished that goal."

Now, Quincy (1-3 overall, 0-1 Atlantic Coast League) will try to snap out of its funk tomorrow (Friday) night at 7 p.m. when it hosts nemesis Randolph (1-3, 0-1). The Blue Devils have beaten the Presidents in the last two meetings, both in come-from-behind fashion.

After Randolph, Quincy hits the road for the next three weeks against Nauset, Sandwich and Dennis-Yarmouth. It then returns home to take on Plymouth North before the Thanksgiving Day showdown.

"We have six games left," Noble said. "Every single one of them is a game we can win. There's no one on the schedule that I would say is certainly better than we are."

Trailing 21-0 at the half, any chance of a Quincy comeback was eliminated on the opening drive of the second half as Whitman-Hanson marched 72 yards on 14 plays for a score, chewing off 7:18.

Senior quarterback Tom Pimental (8 of 9, 109 yards) completed all four of his passes, capped by a beautiful fade to senior Ryan Armstrong (3 TDs) from 2 yards out for his fourth TD pass of the game.

"He's a three-year quarterback," said W-H head coach Bob Bancroft. "He made a lot of mistakes as a sophomore, but now we're reaping the benefits of his experience. He has a good arm and makes lots of good decisions."

On Quincy's next series, it moved the ball downfield as senior quarterback Mike Lorenzano converted two third downs on the ground and completed a 26-yard pass to senior Scott Kelley to reach the W-H 20. However, the drive ended when Armstrong picked off a pass on third down at the 17.

"We seem to get a big pass play to put us in position," Noble said. "But you have to finish. That's why we're not scoring any points. It's not like we're not moving the football."

W-H scored on its first possession of the game when Pimental found senior tight end Sean Conover wide open on play-action for a 24-yard touchdown with 3:34 left in the quarter. Pimental added the first of four extra points for a 7-0 lead.

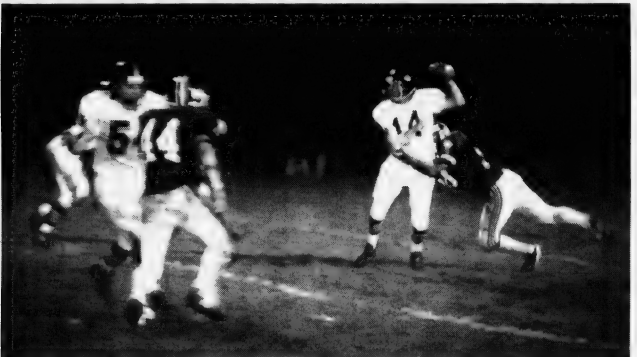

On Quincy's ensuing possession, it turned the ball over in its own territory when senior Alex Maskell came up with an interception after it bobbled in and out of the hands of several players.

With a first down at Quincy's 32-yard line, senior back Tony Celia reeled off 20 yards and three plays later Pimental hit Armstrong on a slant for an 8-yard TD pass with 32 seconds left in the first.

In the second quarter, W-H again intercepted a pass deep in Quincy's territory and quickly converted it into a score. Pimental rolled left and floated a 27-yard TD pass just over the reach of a defensive back and into Armstrong's hands for a 21-0 lead.

"We didn't give our defense a chance," Noble said. "We turn the ball over critically in the first half on two interceptions that set them up for touchdowns. You can't do that against a team like this. It's as simple as that."

SCOTT KELLEY (28) sacks Whitman-Hanson backup QB Chris Bonzagni for a 6-yard loss on third down in the second quarter. The senior linebacker and the rest of the defense turned in a solid effort.

JOHN CHEVALIER (27) gets to his knees after making a 4-yard reception late in the fourth quarter. Chevalier received some playing time along with some other junior varsity players.

Kyle Costa, Zach Really Power Apaches Past Panthers

Kyle Costa and Zach Really each scored a pair of touchdowns to power the North Quincy Apaches to a 28-26 win over the Point Panthers Sunday in Quincy Youth Football action.

A match-up of two high-octane offenses, the game came down to the conversion attempts, as the Apaches cashed in twice and the Panthers once.

The Apaches took the opening kickoff and marched to midfield before Costa raced 55 yards for a touchdown. Really added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead. The Panthers, however, responded on their first play of scrimmage with a 60-yard

TD run to make it 8-6.

On the ensuing possession, Really busted up the middle for a 40-yard TD run and Costa added the two points for a 16-6 lead after the first quarter.

In the second, the Panthers quickly narrowed the game to 16-12. Near the end of the half, the Apaches increased their lead to 22-12 on Costa's 8-yard TD scamper.

In the second half, the Panthers scored on their opening drive to cut the lead to 22-18.

The Apaches threatened for another touchdown, orchestrating a long before they fumbled at the Panthers' 2.

The Panthers proceeded to turn the ball over at their own 25-yard line and three plays later Really rumbled into the end zone for a 28-18 advantage.

In the fourth, the Panthers scored with three minutes left in the game and added the two-point conversion to cut the lead to 28-26. But they didn't get another chance as the Apaches' offense killed the clock to end the game.

The Apaches will battle the Elks Sunday at 4 p.m. In the other games, the Panthers take on the Storm at 1 p.m. and the Manets face the Mustangs at 2:30 p.m.

Barnstable's Brown Runs Raiders Ragged

By CHRIS POISSON
Clinton Brown: Now you see him, now you don't.

The Barnstable standout showcased his latest magic exhibit last Friday night on the Cape in his team's 35-8 victory over the North Quincy High School football team.

The senior back was up to his old tricks, running over North Quincy for 206 yards on just 10 carries.

Oh yeah, last year's Division I leading scorer also tallied four touchdowns to increase his total to nine this season, one behind leader David Nelson of Xavierian.

Move over David Copperfield.

"He had a great game," said North Quincy head coach Tony Green. "It's not a question of catching him. He's quick and fast. He's quick inside and has break-away speed when he gets outside. He just dominated us."

Although North Quincy (2-2 overall, 1-2 Old Colony league) has made great strides this year, Green still has a lot more work to do before the program can compete with the Barnstables of the world.

"We're a good team and Barnstable is a very good team," Green said. "We're at a certain level and we have to raise the bar of the entire program to play with a team like Barnstable."

North Quincy has a great opportunity to climb back over .500 Saturday afternoon at 2 when it hosts Taunton (0-5, 0-2). The Tigers have struggled on both sides of the ball, scoring just 28 points while yielding a Division I-high 158 points.

"There're no gimmicks for us," Green said. "I'm predicting a tough game. We're playing seniors with almost no varsity experience and they're playing juniors and a couple of sophomores. It's a pretty good matchup. We hope to be competitive."

The Red Raiders might be without their starting tailback, senior Pat Bregoli. Bregoli sprained his ankle on the third play of the game against Barnstable and did not return.

"He's going to be OK," Green said. "We'll monitor him carefully and take it day CHRIS DOLBEARE (31), shown here against Falmouth Sept. 28, scored the Red Raiders' only touchdown in their 35-8 loss at Barnstable last Friday night. to day."

Barnstable (2-3, 1-0) scored three times in the first quarter for a 21-0 lead. Greg Hill galloped for a 15-yard score before Brown found paydirt from 25 and 3 yards out. Jeremy Schilling kicked the extra points.

In the third, Brown jetted for a 56-yard touchdown run and scampered 31 yards for his fourth of the night. Greg Donheiser added the extra point for the 35-0 lead.

North Quincy cracked into the scoring column in the fourth quarter. Senior quarterback Dennis Thomson tossed an 8-yard TD pass to junior fullback Chris Dolbeare and rushed for the two-point conversion.

North Girls Step Closer To State Soccer Tourney

By CHRIS POISSON

With a win this week, the North Quincy High School girls' soccer team clinches a spot in the state tournament for the fifth straight season.

This was made possible after last Saturday night's 3-0 shutout over cross-town rival Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Also last week, North Quincy battled Marshfield, last year's Division I state finalist, to a 1-1 tie and blanked Taunton, 3-0.

North Quincy (8-2-2) traveled to Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday) and tomorrow it remains on the road at Bridgewater-Raynham.

"Big week for us," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "We have to play a little bit better against them."

Although the Red Raiders are still without the services of junior forward Christina Conley, who sprained her ankle and Achilles' tendon Sept. 22 at Martha's Vineyard, several players have picked up the pace of late, including senior quad-captains Lauren Sleeth and Kelly Rice as well as junior midfielders Lauren Kalil, Rachel Enos and Jackie Koch.

"We're starting to play better," Bregoli said. "We're getting good performances from Kalil. She's playing better on the outside. Rachel Enos is picking her game up a little bit. Lauren Sleeth played probably the best game she has played all year. She's starting to get her mobility back, her speed, her touch. Jackie Koch showed me some stuff. If she keeps playing like that, she's going to get more time."

It was a game of firsts for North Quincy. Koch staked North Quincy to a 1-0 lead with a header in the ninth minute for her first varsity goal. Junior midfielder Kara Cheesman, who has been hurt for a good part of the year, earned the assist.

Nearly 50 seconds later, senior quad-captain Allie Lacey (7 goals, 4 assists) just missed handing the Red Raiders a two-goal cushion as she blasted a shot wide left. Lacey had several chances to notch a goal, but either her shots just missed the net or Quincy keeper Sarah Shea made a great save.

North Quincy extended its lead to 2-0 in the 23rd minute when freshman midfielder Amanda Saylor lofted a 20-yard shot just over the hands of Shea for her first varsity goal. Junior defender Jessica Jacques tallied her first assist.

"We had a lot of firsts tonight," Bregoli said.

In the second half, the Presidents came out with some fire early, the only real pressure against North Quincy keeper Kathryn MacRitchie, who made three saves for her fifth shutout of the season. She also sports a 0.83 goals-against average, second in the league.

North Quincy closed out the scoring when Enos deposited a goal into the top corner in the 66th minute.

"I hate playing this game," Bregoli said. "I'm not playing kids in position. I'm trying to get all the kids in the game and give the seniors as much time as possible, and still beat a pretty good team. Quincy is playing better."

Indeed, Quincy (0-11-1) looked like a different team since the first meeting between the local rivals, a 6-1 North Quincy win on Sept. 7. First-year head coach Don Martin said he played a 4-4-2 against North Quincy this time, which seemed to frustrate them a bit.

"We have told ourselves that we are going to be a better team the second time around," Martin said. "And this was our second time around and we were a better team. I think my players have come a long way. I think we played much better as a team.

In the Marshfield game, North Quincy controlled play both offensively and defensively in the first half. Sophomore sweeper Sarah Gregory was truly impressive, outrunning the quick Marshfield forwards time and again.

In the second half, North Quincy finally broke through in the 61st minute. Senior defender Caitlin Herlihy took a throw-in deep in the Rams' territory and Sleeth headed the long throw to Lacey, who ripped a shot past a startled Marshfield keeper.

With 15 minutes left in the game, North Quincy almost lost MacRitchie when she hit heads with a Marshfield forward causing her left eye to nearly close shut. Marshfield went on to score the equalizer on a penalty kick in the 74th minute.

In the Taunton game, Sleeth tallied her first goal of the season and 16th of her career in the first half. Sophomore forward Jenn Ryan rounded out the scoring with her 4th and 5th goals of the season. Lacey picked up an assist. Junior defender Lauren McGee, junior midfielder Lisa Schifone, Jacques and Saylor also played well.

North Quincy Boys' Soccer Sweeps Series With Quincy With 2-0 Win

The North Quincy High School boys' soccer team swept the season series against rival Quincy last Saturday night with a much needed 2-0 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Senior keeper Eric Stanton recorded his first shutout of the season, while senior co-captain David Rochon deposited both goals to raise his total to 11, tops in the Old Colony League.

North Quincy (4-7-1) hosted Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday) and tomorrow it squares off against Bridgewater-Raynham at 4 p.m. at Teal Field. Quincy (4-8) will travel to Dennis-Yarmouth tomorrow at 4 p.m.

"This is a very young team, and we've been struggling this year," said North Quincy head coach Robert Dano. "We needed a solid win after some difficult losses, and we got it. I think this game is an indication of the improvement to come, not because of the score but because of what the kids had to overcome."

North Quincy outplayed

Quincy in the first half and its hard work paid off in the 17th minute when Rochon slammed the ball home off of a short dish from senior co-captain Steve Pizzi in front of the net.

"I don't think we played the type of soccer we're capable of," said Quincy head coach Kevin Orcutt, who had pumped some life into the program in his first year. "North Quincy played hard. They outworked us to the ball."

Rochon closed out the scoring late in the game when he cashed in on a penalty kick for his second goal of the night.

Quincy, meanwhile, followed up the loss with a tough 3-2 setback at Nauset Monday. After falling behind 3-0, Quincy stormed back in the final 25 minutes. Freshman midfielder Nabil Movad scored two goals, with junior forward Washington Morisset assisting on both.

"We're still learning how to win," Orcutt said. "We're in every game. We're fighting hard."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

At one time or another we have heard someone say, "Oh, if I only had . . . a million dollars, a new home, a better job, etc., everything would be all right with me."

But we know better, don't we? . . . It reminds us of the story about the man who slipped on the ice on a bridge and fell into the cold water. All he wanted as he struggled to the surface was a breath of fresh air. When he got that, all he wanted was to get to shore. When he got there, all he wanted was to get near a stove. When he was standing near the stove and began sweating in his damp clothes, all he wanted was a new suit and some clean underwear. And when he got all that, all he wanted was to sue somebody because the bridge was icy!

There is an old proverb which says: "He who is not contented with what he has, would not be contented with what he would like to have."

So let us never take it for truth when we hear someone say, "Oh, if I only had that, everything would be all right with me."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Someone from your past could arrive with welcome news concerning your future. Meanwhile, avoid taking sides in a workplace confrontation until you have more facts to go on.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A decision about a relationship could have long-lasting consequences than you might imagine, so be sure of your facts before you act. A trusted friend can help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A strained relationship could be restored with more personal contact between the two of you. Letting others act as your go-between only adds to the ongoing estrangement.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) New facts could mean taking a new path toward a goal you've been hoping to reach. However, be sure all your questions are answered before you undertake to shift directions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good week for all you fine Felines to turn your attention to some important considerations, such as your health, your job situation and the status of important relationships.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Avoid making a quick decision about a matter that needs more study. Keep your mind open for possibilities, even if they don't seem plausible — at least not yet.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might welcome the emphasis on openness in relationships that mark this period. But it's a good idea to avoid sharing personal secrets with people you hardly know.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) There are still some questions that need to be asked and answered before you can feel confident enough to make a potentially life-changing decision.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Some lingering effects from a now largely resolved workplace confrontation could make things difficult for you. Act on this before it becomes serious.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You feel you're finally in control of your own life after months of making compromises and concessions you never felt comfortable with. Congratulations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) No sooner do you decide to pass on one job offer than another suddenly turns up. This one might not have everything you're looking for, but it's worth checking out.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Congratulations. With Jupiter's strong influence dominating this week, don't be surprised to get some good news about a troubling financial matter.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are usually kind and loving. But you can be highly critical of those who don't measure up to your high standards.

Shoreline Surveys Planned On Neponset, Fore River Watersheds

The Neponset River and Fore River Watershed Associations are sponsoring a Rivers Shoreline Survey of the two waterways and the surrounding estuary in Quincy.

The survey is designed to locate problem pipes or discover trash or uncover current and potential problems caused by land development near the water resource.

The findings will be shared with local government agencies to encourage more vigorous and timely protection.

Shoreline surveys have many benefits," said Ian Cooke, executive director of the Neponset River Watershed Association.

"We have learned that they increase the awareness of everyone — citizens, businesses and town boards — about the conditions and needs of local waterways.

"By locating problem pipes or discovering trash, groups can work within the community to improve the situation. By identifying habitat and pinpointing access areas, we can protect these areas."

The Shoreline Survey involves a training session where volunteers will learn how to spot pollution problems and areas in need of special protection.

Anyone interested is invited to the training session Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 7 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 11 Hayward St., Quincy. No experience is necessary.

Training will be conducted by State Department of Fisheries and Wildlife Riverways Program Coordinator Rachel Calabro.

For more information, call the Neponset River Watershed Association at 781-575-0354.

Bill Phelan's Plan to Move Quincy Forward

Bill Phelan's top concern is restoring fiscal responsibility, public accountability and good judgment to the Quincy Mayor's office. As Mayor, Bill will stand up for all the taxpayers of Quincy, and not just the interests of the developers and the special few.

But Bill will also improve our schools, help make housing more affordable, fix our crumbling sidewalks and streets, and strengthen public safety.

Stronger schools. Bill Phelan will seek state and federal funding to implement all day kindergarten and institute a citywide early childhood learning center to get our kids off to a good start.

Using savings gained when older teachers retire and new teachers come in at lower salary levels, Bill will shrink class sizes, provide literacy and math specialists to each school, and offer more educational development opportunities to attract and keep the very best teachers.

As Mayor, Bill will expand public/private partnerships between businesses and our schools, and host an annual fundraiser to provide our schools with the computers and state-of-the-art technologies they need.

And he has a neighborhood-by-neighborhood mentoring plan to get more parents involved in their children's schools.

Affordable housing. Bill supports the Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance and the strengthening amendments currently before City Council. "It's long overdue," he says.

As Mayor he'll more aggressively notify seniors on fixed income of property tax relief available, and he'll support legislation expanding that kind of relief.

Bill will also establish a program to help firefighters, teachers, police and other city employees become first time homebuyers, and to help young people be able to afford to buy homes in the city they grew up in.

"Too many people who work for Quincy or who grew up here cannot afford to live here," he explains. "The city should do more to help city employees and other first-time home buyers invest in our neighborhoods."

Bill will create an Affordable Housing Clearinghouse at city hall to cut through the red tape and make it easier for city employees and others to access existing city, state and federal programs designed to help homebuyers with their down payment and getting their first mortgage.

Opening up city government. Tiny legal notices buried in the newspapers' back pages are not the way to communicate major municipal decisions and developments to the public, Bill said.

"I'll appoint a member of my administrative team to act as Community Relations Officer. The city's website will be made more user-friendly and keep citizens informed about hearings, events and services," he explains.

And there will be more outreach to the Asian community, with the hiring of a part-time assistant to the current Asian Community Relations position. And Bill will make sure legal notices, and news of important events and services are translated and advertised in local Asian newspapers.

Tourism and downtown development. As Mayor, Bill will establish a Tourism Advisory Council of local business and hospitality leaders to guide the city on tourism, and together they will organize and publicize more events and attractions to draw tourism dollars.

"And Quincy should play a larger role in the tourism associated with the new Harbor Island National Parks, beginning with using the MDC pier at Marina Bay," Bill said. "We could provide trolley service from there to and from Quincy's historic sites."

And to further increase business activity in Quincy Center, Bill believes we need more people living and working there. To do that, he will work to encourage more office and residential development in Quincy Center creating more activity at downtown shops and restaurants.

And he'll create a Quincy Business/Labor Partnership to work together to create more jobs.

Public safety. "Recent events have reminded us all of the bravery and dedication of our public safety officers," Bill Phelan explains. "But the Mayor hasn't backed up our firefighters or police with the modern equipment they need."

"We cannot continue to short-change them. We can't skimp on safety"

"Firefighters in particular lack the tools they need to do their jobs," Bill explained. "And we can actually save money by instituting a long-term plan that maintains equipment before it fails."

Zero-based budgeting. Despite the best economy in our lifetime, Mayor Sheets has eaten away at the city's $4 million budget surplus from a few years ago, so we now face a budget deficit.

"I'll institute zero-based budgets instead of automatically expanding each department by a certain percentage each year," said Phelan. "We will find the savings we need by examining each department's expenditures line by line, and justifying each item every year from the ground up."

He'll institute a more stringent planning and review process to ensure city funds are never again squandered on ill-conceived projects like the shipyard deal.

And he'll move to renegotiate the terms of the agreement in the Quarry Hills golf course deal, and secure a better return for the city on the $100 million paid for dumping on city land.

Bill will also work to increase the stabilization/free cash account to at least five percent of the annual budget.

Sidewalks and streets. "Angry residents wait years for repairs to crumbling sidewalks and streets, and have no way of knowing when or if those repairs will be made," Phelan continued.

"As Mayor I'll institute rational, long-range planning. Residents will know exactly when a repair is scheduled, and why such repairs are delayed."

Bill knows too much money is wasted on unsupervised outside contractors doing work city employees could perform more cheaply. "I'll keep a closer watch on contractors, while providing and better maintaining equipment needed by our DPW to do the job," he says.

Courage, independence, and fresh ideas. Quincy needs a Mayor who will stand up for working families and seniors, and represent their interests over the interests of the special few.

Bill Phelan has proven he has the courage, independence and fresh ideas Quincy needs.

Move Quincy forward. Vote Phelan for Mayor.

"Bill Phelan's bid to unseat 12-year incumbent James Sheets...is a breath of fresh air to the city's stale politics."

Calls Late Press Conference Sheets Plans $9.8 Million Open Space, Parks Project

Mayor James Sheets scheduled a press conference for late Wednesday to announce a $9.8 million plan to acquire open space and renovate Quincy's major park locations.

The conference was called for 4:30 p.m., after The Quincy Sun had gone to press.

Sheets is calling the plan Project PROSPER, described as "an aggressive open space acquisition initiative and park and recreational facility rehabilitation plan."

An advisory on the conference said there "are eight specific parcels that will be acquired/protected" under the plan.

Sheets' announcement, the advisory said, "will also include major rehabilitation plans for Veterans Memorial Stadium, Adams Field, Varsity Soccer Field, Mitchell/McCoy Fields, Merrymount Park, Faxon Park and other improvements throughout the city's park system."

The announcement will also include Sheets' proposal to utilize revenue generated from the city's new hotel/motel tax to pay for the initiative.

As Bethlehem Steel Files For Bankruptcy Phelan Calls For 'Immediate' Clean-up Of Quincy Ave. Parcel

Mayoral candidate William Phelan called upon Mayor James Sheets to immediately begin the clean-up of the land off Quincy Ave. previously considered for the new Quincy High School.

Phelan's call comes on the heels of the recent bankruptcy of Bethlehem Steel, one-time owner of the property and the company responsible for clean-up of the former landfill used for the Fore River Shipyard.

It also coincides with the mayor's announcement Tuesday that he expects clean-up to begin at the site by the spring of 2002.

"The land should have been remediated long before now," said Phelan, who as a member of the School Committee led the successful battle not to site the new QHS on the parcel. "Because the city waited so long, we are now at risk of footing the bill for the entire clean-up since Bethlehem Steel has filed for bankruptcy.

"If there is truly money available in escrow, then the city should be able to access it immediately to begin the remediation process."

The escrow account referred to

Anti-Terrorism Seminar For Officials Oct. 23

City Stepping Up Terrorism Readiness

The city continues to step up its preparedness measures against terrorism in the wake of the national tragedy Sept. 11 and increasing incidents of chemical and biological terrorism across the country.

On Tuesday, Oct. 23, the city will host an Anti-Terrorism Seminar at the Quincy Naval Reserve Center which will feature keynote speaker Colonel David Gavigan, nationally and internationally recognized specialist in terrorism and school violence.

The seminar, intended for city officials and security professionals, is not open to the public.

In addition, Mayor James Sheets met recently with department heads and directed them to create a new framework for the city's emergency management, which could include such features as a bomb-sniffing dog and the placing of responsibility for emergency preparedness directly with a deputy chief of the Quincy Fire Department.

"The world is different today than it was before Sept. 11," said the mayor, who said quick action on the matter was prompted both by recent bomb scares — all hoaxes — which have burdened the city as well as the need to have a working plan in place if and when state and federal funds become available.

"I want the city of Quincy to be in a position to apply for and receive federal monies when they become available from recent congressional appropriations requested by President Bush," Sheets said.

"Quincy is already in a position to deal with an emergency to assist its citizens and hopefully be able to assist Boston and smaller communities surrounding us. This new reorganization will improve on our emergency procedures to deal with incidents which could arise in the future."

One change already made by the mayor was his decision that the Emergency Management Department be re-assigned from the police department to the fire department with headquarters at the Fire Department Training Center located on the MWRA facility at the Fore River Shipyard.

"I have determined that it makes more sense to interact Emergency Management with the Fire Department inasmuch as the training and requirements are more similar than that of the Police Department," the mayor said.

Last week's meeting with department heads, Sheets said, was also attended by representatives of Quincy Medical Center who ex-

More than $100,000 was raised in the walk which was held the day before the theft.

The thief forced open a door to the volunteers office on the second floor at Quincy Medical Center and took the money from drawers in the office.

The theft is under investigation by police who said they had no leads as of this week.

NFPA EMPLOYEES pay their respects to the victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks at a flag-raising ceremony at their national headquarters at Batterymarch Park. The raising of four NFPA flags to full-staff marked the end of the official mourning period for the tragedy.

SGT. DANIEL CLARK of the Massachusetts State Police, known as "The Singing Sergeant," sings the National Anthem at last week's flag raising ceremonies at the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) national headquarters in Batterymarch Park. The event, which took place exactly one month after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, honored the men and women of the fire, emergency, and police services who gave their lives in service to others on that day. Flags were raised to full-staff in a ceremony attended by Mayor James Sheets, Quincy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, and Acting Quincy Police Chief Thomas Frane.

At Quarry Hills Ground Broken For Youth Baseball, Soccer Fields

Mayor James Sheets presided Tuesday morning over groundbreaking ceremonies for four little league baseball fields and four youth soccer fields to be built on a parcel adjacent to Ricciutti Drive as part of the Quarry Hills Project in West Quincy.

Quincy-based D&D Enterprises, Inc., was recently awarded the $814,000 contract to build the new ball fields, which are to be seeded in the spring of next year and will be ready for use in the Fall of 2002.

Also participating in the groundbreaking ceremonies were Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico and Thomas Koch, executive director of Park, Forestry, and Cemetery Departments as well as members of developer Quarry Hills Associates, area businesses, abutters, and members of the project's advisory groups.

The little league and youth soccer fields will be managed by the city's Park and Recreation Department and will be maintained by golf course groundskeeper personnel. Construction is expected to commence shortly.

Walter Hannon III, a partner with Quarry Hills Associates, said D&D Enterprises was selected for the $814,000 contract at the conclusion of a search that included several well-known and respected firms. Hannon cited the company's vast experience, local knowledge, and successful track record of building first-class parks and ball fields for the cities of Quincy and Boston.

"We have been admiring their work for years and we are excited to have the opportunity to work side by side with D&D Enterprises," said Hannon. "Their excellent work reflects the pride and commitment they have to our city and youth of this area."

Owned and operated since 1994 by brothers R.J. and Matthew Delmonico, D&D Enterprises have developed well-known projects including the revitalization of Christopher Columbus Park in Boston's North End, the creation of bike paths near Dionis Beach on Nantucket, and construction of Doherty Park in Charlestown, among others.

"We are honored to be a part of this project," said have fun.

"We have a very positive and longstanding relationship with the people of Quincy and we are proud to be involved in this landmark project."

The fields, which will be available for the city's youth athletic programs, are part of the Quarry Hills project that features a 27-hole golf course, a 43,000 square foot clubhouse and function facility, and 316 luxury townhouse apartments near the foot of the 30,000 acre Blue Hill Reservation.

The facility is expected to be fully operational by 2003.

A Handshake The Right Ending

The mayoral campaign continues to heat up, fueled by hot exchanges at the debates and candidates' nights and in press releases, but when it's all over, hopefully it's really all over.

It would be nice to see Jim Sheets, 66, and Bill Phelan, 41, shaking hands after the final results are in Nov. 6 -- just 19 days from now.

Not the time for winner or loser to let campaign differences turn into grudges. But time to be willing to work together for the good of the city in what since Sept. 11 has become an uncertain future for all.

This, fortunately, hasn't been a real bitter mayoral race. But Quincy has had a few of those down through the years. Even ones when they were over, winners and losers not only didn't shake hands but didn't speak to one another, either. And, for sometime before finally patching things up.

It wasn't who won or lost but the way it ended that made the 1959 mayoral election my favorite as a newspaperman.

That was the one in which City Council President James McIntyre, only 29, challenged powerful, veteran incumbent Amelio Della Chiesa. It wasn't a bitter campaign but hard-hitting and one of the best mayoral races in years.

I walked into McIntyre's campaign headquarters on Hancock St. just a couple of doors from where The Quincy Sun is now located election night, Nov. 3.

He and James "Pete" Ricciuti, his campaign manager and long-time friend and confidant, were studying what they considered key early returns.

"I don't think we're going to make it," McIntyre said, shaking his head.

Later figures would prove him right. They would show Della Chiesa the winner by a margin of 1,177 votes -- 17,650 to 15,533.

McIntyre's wife, Sheila, was there, too. She had promised to call her mother in Niagara Falls, N.Y. with the outcome. And when it was certain it was not to be their night, she made the call.

"Jimmy didn't make it," she told her mother. And then she added: "But it's only an election. We lost something much more important than that."

She was referring to the death shortly before the election of their infant son, William, named after McIntyre's father, Police Capt. William McIntyre.

Now it was getting late. McIntyre and Ricciuti looked

Dec. 3 Council Meeting Rescheduled For Dec. 11

The Dec. 3 regular meeting of the City Council has been rescheduled to Tuesday, Dec. 11 at the request of Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi, who said he would be out of state on the original date.

Councillors gave a vote of unanimous consent to Raymondi's request who said he did not want to miss the council's vote on the setting of new tax rates, which was expected Dec. 3.

The change to Dec. 11 is pending notice from Marion Fantucchio, chairwoman of the board of assessors, who will address whether the Dec. 11 date would impact the timely issuance of the city's tax bills.

at one another and knew what they were doing to do. "Let's go," McIntyre said.

I went along with them as they walked across the street to City Hall and climbed the stairs to the mayor's office. Della Chiesa had gone there after leaving his own campaign headquarters across the street from McIntyre's.

"Congratulations, Mel," McIntyre said, extending his hand. "You're still the mayor."

The two shook hands and then Della Chiesa, like a father image, slipped his arm around McIntyre's shoulder and said: "You're young, Jimmy. Your day will come."

(It did in 1965 when Della Chiesa retired after 12 years as mayor, eight under Plan A and four under Plan E and McIntyre succeeded him, defeating Joseph LaRaia.)

Della Chiesa and McIntyre had campaigned hard against one another. Strong words had been hurled back and forth between the two political camps.

Both were strong and quite capable public officials. Their views differed but they shared a deep love for Quincy.

The election was over. One had won, the other had lost. But they could still be friends. It would still be Mel and Jimmy.

Both serving the city they loved.

And that's the way it should be -- and hopefully will be.

IF YOU LIKE auctions and unusual items to bid on, this one should be for you.

How much would you bid for Mayor Jim Sheets, challenger Bill Phelan, and Ward 3 candidates Jack Garland and Kevin Coughlin?

The four will auction themselves off to "Take a Voter to Lunch" at the Wollaston Congregational Church Trick or Treat Dinner and Auction Saturday at 6 p.m.

Highest bidders will get to be taken to lunch by the one they bid on.

The four stepped in to help because of fewer donations of gift certificates from businesses negatively impacted by the Sept. 11 terrorism.

Tickets for the dinner and auction are $10 and can be obtained by calling the church office at 617-773-7432.

TWO OF QUINCY'S favorite people, Bob and Gloria Noble, recently returned from a trip to Arizona and New Mexico.

They flew from Logan to Phoenix, Ariz. Oct. 1, and with the date Sept. 11 still very fresh, took note of security measures and the number of passengers on their flights. Going out, their plane was about 80 percent full and coming back, 100 percent.

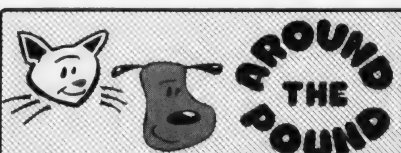

And what about security? Well, at Logan, Gloria's carry-on bag was searched after the metal detector went off as she passed through. Bob says Gloria's hair curler did it.

But they found security somewhat tighter in Phoenix airport on their way home.

First, a chain Bob was wearing set off the metal detector and he was patted down.

And, then, every passenger had to take his or her shoes off and carry them through the detector.

Who's sounding the false alarms in Quincy?

Mayor Sheets has made Quincy a safer place to live.

— Quincy Fire Chief Thomas F. Gorman Jr.
— Acting Quincy Police Chief William Falco

Are our homes & streets safer?

YES, according to Acting Quincy Police Chief William Falco.

Using Federal grants to supplement our budget, Mayor Sheets established the highly successful Community Policing program — new officers, with specific neighborhood beats, developing relationships with the people of the city. And he set up the Special Operations unit — police equipped with motorcycles, mountain bikes, dogs, horses. The result? A 40% drop in crime.

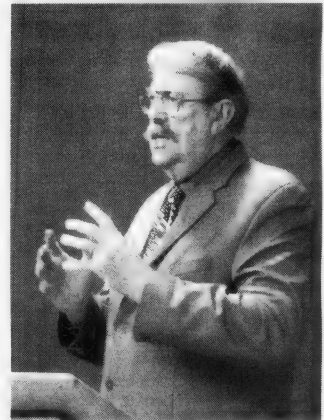

Don't listen to the "false alarms." Listen to the facts. And the fact is, Quincy has never been safer. We need Mayor Sheets to make sure it stays that way.

Quincy is a great City. Thanks to Mayor Sheets, it just keeps getting better.

Is our Fire Department properly equipped?

YES, according to Fire Chief Thomas F. Gorman Jr.

During Mayor Sheets' administration, Quincy acquired 11 firefighting vehicles and upgraded the entire department with life-saving defibrillators, radios, inhalators, thermal image cameras, and 2 miles of new firefighting hose.

Coughlin Stresses Delivery Of City Services

Speaking at the Montclair Wollaston Neighborhood Association Candidate Forum, Ward 3 council candidate Kevin Coughlin stressed his commitment to deliver city services for all of the ward.

"My vision for this ward is simple," he said. "I want to bring city hall back to the neighborhoods, keeping every resident and every neighborhood informed about issues of interest and concern. Whether it's the problems with the oak trees on Priscilla, Puritan, Joan and Miles Drive, the flooding and sewer backups in streets surrounding the Bog, low water pressure on some streets on Hospital Hill, or the oversight of development at High Point. I will be there to fight for the integrity of the neighborhood and the will of the people. I will be there, in what may be tough economic times ahead, to fight for Ward 3's equitable share of every single tax dollar. We will not be overlooked."

Speaking to residents at the conclusion of the forum,

Coughlin emphasized the importance of making certain that there is adequate oversight of city projects.

"In light of recent events and their potential impact on city finances, we must be vigilant to ensure that money designed for a project must be spent on the project, and that the work performed is up to acceptable standards and satisfies the purpose for which the project was intended," he said.

However, he stressed that not all projects can be completed immediately, and that if anyone promises immediate relief, he is "pulling a rabbit out of a hat."

Coughlin also stressed that he "will be accessible, proactive, return every call and be at your door. I will be your bridge between the problem and the solution."

City Council at-large candidate John Keenan, who has lost his endorsement from the Norfolk County

'Won't Trade Principle For Endorsement,' Says Keenan

Central Labor Council, says he will "not trade principle for an endorsement."

The labor council withdrew its previous endorsement of Keenan over his stand against setting "responsible employer" conditions on private landowners for building projects on private land.

Keenan, an attorney, says the conditions the labor council seeks to have enacted by the city council are illegal and not recognized under city, state, or federal law.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath has questioned whether the city council can in fact impose such conditions on a private project.

Keenan said last week he appeared before the labor council which had previously endorsed him for his support of issues of concern to labor.

Keenan said he reiterated his position that he supports many of the Labor Council's initiatives such as the right to organize, the use of project labor agreements and responsible employer requirements on public projects, the prevailing wage, health insurance coverage, and local hiring preferences.

But he said he told the Labor Council he could not agree to seeking "responsible employer" conditions on private building projects on private land.

"The building and trades unions within the Central Labor Council made it very clear to me," said Keenan, "that unless I changed my position and pledged my support for such conditions, they would not endorse my candidacy. I made it equally clear to them that for me, it is a matter of principle. I made it very clear that I would not trade principle for an endorsement."

"I stood in front of 30 union leaders and stated my position. They know where I stand. I stand as a strong advocate of union causes -- that's how I was raised -- but if elected to the City Council, I will not be a puppet for them or any other special interest."

After Keenan's appearance, and after debate, the Central Labor Council voted to rescind their endorsement.

"I've since been encouraged by the response of several rank and file members of various unions," said Keenan. "They have told me that regardless of what the leadership of the trades unions does politically against me, they will be supportive. They've voiced their respect for me taking a stand on principle, and appreciate my support for unions on other important matters."

'Cayla's Crew' Raises $1,500 For Juvenile Diabetes

Cayla Newman, a 14 year-old freshman at North Quincy High School, led family and friends on a walk through Squantum recently to raise funds for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation (JDF).

The team, dubbed "Cayla's Crew," was originally scheduled to join the JDF Walk in Boston but, in the wake of recent events, Cayla's mother Karen Newman thought it best to keep "friends and family close to home but still participate," a move supported by the JDF.

"Cayla's Crew" was comprised of 20 participants, including Cayla's mother, who organized the event, as well as eight-year old brother Stephen, grandparents, aunts, uncles, friends, and neighbors. They began their walk from the Newman home on Lansdowne St. in the early afternoon and continued to the Star of the Sea Church, then doubled back to the Newman household for pizza.

"We wanted to do our part for JDF, both for the sake of my daughter and for the thousands of other kids with Juvenile Diabetes," said Karen Newman, who thanked all those who walked and everyone who contributed to the $1,500 amount raised.

She also thanked Dependable Cleaners for defraying the cost of the "Cayla's Crew" T-shirts.

The 14-year old Newman is a former news carrier for The Quincy Sun.

'CAYLA'S CREW' was out in full force in Squantum recently, raising $1500 for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Participating in the walk were 20 friends and family of Cayla Newman, a freshman at North Quincy High School who has Juvenile Diabetes.

Sheets, McCauley Disagree Over 'Deficit'

The answer to the question of whether or not the city posted a deficit for Fiscal Year 2001 is either yes or no, depending on whom you ask.

"Absolutely, there was a deficit," said Councillor Frank McCauley, chairman of the Finance Committee, who presented an informational report to councillors Monday night in the course of issuing a remonstrance to Mayor James Sheets for his comments in the Sept. 27 issue of The Quincy Sun that "Councillor McCauley projected a deficit last year and there was no deficit."

By McCauley's numbers, which examine projected and actual revenue and expenses for FY2001 and take into consideration end of the year transfers including funds in the Free Cash account, the city had a FY2001 deficit of $3,106,539.

McCauley emphasized the report was for informational purposes only but said he found preparing the report useful, adding that he may do similar reports in the future.

Mayor Sheets, on the other hand, said McCauley's numbers were just that:

McCauley's numbers.

"Councillor McCauley started with the objective of finding a deficit and he did," said Sheets, who attributed the findings to "fuzzy math" on the part of McCauley, who, Sheets said, has already expressed his disapproval of year-end transfers set forth by the mayor.

"Basically, last year we paid all the bills and put $1 million into reserve," said Sheets. "Anyone who runs a household will tell you that's a great year."

Fiscal Year 2001 was from July 1 of 2000 until June 30 of 2001.

Delahunt Web Site Outlines Post-Attack Resources

Congressman William

Delahunt has revised his congressional web site to outline the extensive resources associated with the national response to the recent terrorist attacks on the United States.

"As the events of Sept. 11 have reframed our view of the world, it seemed useful to adapt this online tool so it can offer practical assistance in a digestible format," Delahunt said.

The web site is www.house.gov/delahunt.

"There are scores of reliable sources on the attack and its aftermath, and it serves no purpose to duplicate what can be found elsewhere," Delahunt said. "We're attempting to sift through volumes of detail on federal services and resources, legislative proposals and evolving White House policy — and to identify homeland security developments of particular importance to southeastern Massachusetts."

For example, he said, the web site outlines assistance to Reservists and their employees; changes in tax and student loan deadlines; the impact on the future of Social Security and the Coast Guard. It describes federal and state assistance to displace workers; new security rules governing Washington tourist attractions; and volunteer opportunities close to home.

The web site links to daily reports on the FBI investigation, on the freezing of terrorist assets, and on humanitarian efforts in Afghanistan — as well as to maps, unclassified CIA analyses and Pentagon updates on the military campaign. The site offers direct links to report leads helpful to the ongoing investigation, as well as threats to personal safety or civil liberties. It also explains how to purchase American flags and Treasury notes, with a summary of proposals to authorize the issuance of US War Bonds.

Delahunt said one of the most important sections is the site's "Mailbag," which contains a sampling of unedited correspondence since Sept. 11 from residents of the South Shore and the Cape and Islands. These letters, cards and e-mails are among hundreds arriving each week, he said.

"This kind of dialogue is the heart and soul of our democracy," Delahunt said. "With so many difficult decisions ahead, nothing is more important than a determination to speak together plainly and respectfully on the direction our nation is headed."

With these new sections, the web site also features the congressional agenda, Delahunt's work at home and in Washington, and a variety of other services available though his office.

Sheets, Phelan Clash Over Atlantic School Possible Options

By CRAIG SALTERS

Mayor James Sheets criticized a recent debate response made by School Committee member and mayoral challenger William Phelan which discussed re-districting and construction of a sixth middle school as possible options to the potential problem of overcrowding at Atlantic Middle School.

Phelan, in turn, accused the mayor of "playing politics" with Phelan's 90-second response made during the Oct. 9 debates which, he said, discussed re-districting and a new middle school but was not a proposal for either.

"Bill Phelan talks about listening to the people and fiscal accountability," said Sheets in a statement released Tuesday, which reiterated the mayor's support for building an addition to Atlantic Middle School. "Yet, in his proposal to re-district our city's middle schools, he's not listening very well."

Re-districting at the middle school or elementary level, Sheets said, would produce "real social and logistical problems" for parents and a new middle school would raise such issues as cost, staffing, and location.

"Where's the fiscal accountability?" asked Sheets. "Where, in an urban area, would he locate a sixth middle school? What's the cost, $20 million? How about he pays for that? What about the cost of staffing and equipping a sixth middle school?"

"If Atlantic Middle School becomes so overcrowded as to require additional space, the best solution, the least disruptive to students and parents, and most cost-efficient approach is an addition to Atlantic Middle School."

Sheets also cited the city's previous commitments to Sterling, Broad Meadows, Point Webster, and Central Middle Schools which "must be fulfilled before we start talking about a sixth middle school."

Phelan, who said Oct. 9 that "re-districting would be tough politically, but it's a decision which has to be made," called any suggestion that he "proposed" re-districting or a sixth middle school as "pure fabrication" and invited residents to watch televised replays of the Oct. 9 debate.

"I did not say we were going to build a new middle school," said Phelan, "and I am very sympathetic to parents who don't want their children sent out of district."

What he did say on Oct. 9, Phelan said, was that the city should look at re-districting "to see if it makes sense" and that he would love to see a sixth middle school but that it wasn't likely as a practical matter.

Explaining further Tuesday, Phelan said any mention of re-districting was with an eye towards giving West Quincy middle schoolers the option of going to Sterling rather than Atlantic Middle School, a concern he said had been expressed by West Quincy residents.

Phelan also criticized a resolution introduced at Monday night's City Council meeting introduced by Councilors Joseph Newton and Stephen Durkin that the council oppose re-districting of middle school students and the construction of a sixth middle school and support an addition to Atlantic Middle School.

"It was not a well-thought out resolution," said Phelan, citing recent statements by School Committee members and Superintendent of Schools Richard DeCristofaro that larger middle schools were not beneficial to students.

Newton and Durkin's resolution was referred to the Education Committee of the council.

Atlantic Middle School, which currently has an enrollment of 511 students, is the only middle school located in north section of the city which, unlike other parts of the city, is increasing in population.

The third and final debate between Sheets and Phelan is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 24 in the auditorium of North Quincy High School.

Children's Room At Library To Be Dedicated In Patricia Toland's Memory

The Children's Room in the new Thomas Crane Public Library wing will be dedicated Friday in memory of Patricia Toland.

Mrs. Toland, who served as a school committee member, city councillor at-large, council president and assistant city clerk, died in 1994 after a long fight against cancer.

The dedication will take place at a 7 p.m. wine and cheese reception sponsored by Mrs. Toland's family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bates, John Toland, and Mr. and Mrs. Brendan Toland.

Many of her friends who contributed to the new library addition in her name have been invited to attend.

Approximately $12,000 was raised by "Friends of Pat Toland" at a fund-raiser at the Neighborhood Club in 1999 with more than 300 attending.

PATRICIA TOLAND

The Mayor's Golf Tourney added to the amount to help reach the goal.

A committee, comprising friends Gloria Noble, Alicia Gardner, Elaine Clark and Alicia Coletti, Library Director Ann McLaughlin, and assistant Jane Granstrom, assisted the Toland family in planning the dedication.

State Development Agency Visits Quincy 2000, Local Businesses

Professionals from the Massachusetts Office of Business Development (MOBD) stopped by the offices of Quincy 2000 recently as part of an outreach campaign in which MOBD representatives paid visits to several companies in Quincy and throughout the South Shore.

John Urban, newly appointed director of the MOBD, led the delegation, calling the day-long visit a great opportunity for businesses in Quincy and surrounding communities to learn about state resources available for creating and maintaining jobs in the state.

"This is who we are and what we do," Urban told listeners gathered in the meeting room of the Quincy

2000 offices inside Presidents Place. "At a time when there are concerns about an economic slowdown, we're redoubling our efforts both in maintaining Massachusetts companies and in attracting new ones."

Mayor James Sheets was unable to attend the morning meeting, which included a roundtable of MOBD officials joined by Weymouth Mayor David Madden and Braintree Executive Secretary Terri Ackerman.

In welcoming these guests to the city, Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino spoke of the similar goals of the MOBD and Quincy 2000 and said economic development would become increasingly part of a community's agenda in coming years.

"The goal of next year is going to be retention," said Mannarino, noting the beginnings of an economic downturn which were seen even before the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks which have caused unease in the nation and in the nation's economy. "We can't rest on our laurels. We have to keep moving forward."

The Massachusetts Office of Business Development assists state businesses in creating and maintaining jobs. It also works to attract new businesses by facilitating their relocation to -- or expansion within -- the Commonwealth.

Quincy Environmental Network To Hold Candidates Night

The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN), a consortium of various environmentally active groups and individuals, will sponsor a Candidates Night for mayoral and at-large candidates tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 11 Hayward St.

Mayoral candidate William Phelan has confirmed his participation, as have all the at-large candidates.

Mayor James Sheets is expected to attend for at least part of the evening. Councillor at-Large Timothy Cahill and Joe Finn, candidate for councillor at-Large, will attend the latter part of the evening due to previous commitments.

The evening will be a question-and-answer format covering a range of environmental, open space, and wetlands issues that affect the city. In addition to questions prepared by the QEN, audience members will have the opportunity to pose their own questions and voice concerns.

Moderator will be Joan Pierce, former member of the League of Women Voters.

"This is a chance for citizens to hear on record how candidates feel about pressing environmental issues," said QEN member Gail Macdonald.

In August, the QEN sent a questionnaire concerning environmental issues to all candidates for mayor and city council. To date, both mayoral candidates and many councillor at-Large and ward councillors have submitted their answers, which are available for viewing at the QEN website: www.QENet.org.

REAL ESTATE

Flynn & Co. Closes $2.45 Million Transaction Of 100 Penn Street

Daniel J. Flynn, III, chief executive officer of Quincy-based real estate firm Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc., has negotiated the sale of 100 Penn Street in Quincy.

In a $2,450,000 transaction, the 30,000 square-foot mixed use building changed hands from Penn Street Development Corporation of Quincy to 100 Penn Street Realty Trust.

The site is currently home to a variety of businesses, including Homans Associates, Inc. and Xpedx Paper and Graphics, and consists of retail, warehouse, automotive repair and office space.

"It's a great sign for the City of Quincy for property values to remain so high," Flynn said. "This property already has a very strong rent roll, due in part to its close proximity to highways and prominent visibility. These conditions, which exist in many areas of the city, have a very positive affect on property value."

Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc. is a full service real estate firm specializing in commercial sales and leasing, residential real estate, real estate auctions, property management and construction.

Pre-Application Meeting For Nehemiah Homes Tonight

An informational meeting on the "Nehemiah Affordable Homes" program sponsored by the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO) will be held Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Those wishing to be considered for Nehemiah Homes should attend the Oct. 18 meeting to obtain complete information and to fill out a pre-application.

The GBIO expects to build 1,000 two-family homes in the next five years in the metropolitan area.

The homes are expected to sell for approximately $195,000, making them affordable to families with incomes between $30,000 and $50,000.

There will be some restrictions on re-sale and rents to prevent speculation.

The homes will have a three-bedroom, owner-occupied unit and a two-bedroom rental unit.

Buyers will be selected by lottery.

Discussions are proceeding with government officials in Quincy, Cambridge, Boston, and several other localities about constructing Nehemiah Homes.

The project is named after the Biblical prophet Nehemiah who rebuilt Jerusalem after the Babylonian Captivity.

For more information, contact Ann Yeomans at (617) 773-5306.

Bellotti Donates $5,000 To Houghs Neck Rink

In response to a letter from a Quincy 13-year-old, Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti recently joined city officials in breaking ground for a new in-line skating rink at Brill Field in Houghs Neck.

Bellotti will donate $5,000 toward the construction cost, which is estimated to be $75,000. Mayor James Sheets is providing $20,000 in city funds and the Stop & Shop Co. is donating the remaining $50,000.

"It's important that our youth have a place to recreate after school," Bellotti said. "This is a worthwhile project that will give kids in Houghs Neck a safe and constructive place to be active."

City Councillor Greg Hanley secured the $50,000 corporate commitment for the rink after receiving a letter from Broad Meadows Middle School eighth grader Michael Giordani, who expressed a need for more opportunities in Houghs Neck for after school and weekend activities.

Being a hockey fan, he suggested a rink that would support in-line skating in the summer and ice-skating in the winter.

Construction of the rink is expected to begin in two weeks.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

FLOSSING PHILOSOPHY

To floss your teeth correctly, begin by breaking off about 18 inches of floss. Wind it around your middle or index finger of each hand so that about an inch or two of floss is stretched between the fingers. Holding the floss between thumbs and forefingers, guide it between your teeth, using a gentle rubbing motion. When the floss nears the gum line, gently slide it between the gum and tooth. Avoid snapping the floss into your gums. Hold the floss firmly against the side of one tooth and gently rub it up and down. Do the same for the neighboring tooth, unwinding a clean area of floss for each tooth. Repeat this method for the rest of the teeth.

This column on flossing has been brought to you in the interest of better dental health. Most dental insurance policies allow two cleanings per year. Have you had yours? Take advantage and call us at 617-479-6220 for an appointment. Have you been putting off seeing a dentist? We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we're currently accepting new patients. We provide cosmetic, functional, and preventive dental care for all ages. You can rely on us to answer all of your questions about dental treatments and procedures. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Waxed floss slides more easily between tightly spaced teeth than unwaxed floss.

Elder Advocacy Is Proposed By Liang

Jimmy Liang, candidate for city councillor at-large, proposes that an Elderly Advocacy Group be established with the city's Elder Services Department.

"Quincy generally has very good elderly services," he said. "However, recent events and conversations with many of our city's elders has brought home to me the need for improved advocacy."

The sudden rent increases at Naval Terrace, the evictions at West

Squantum Street and the continued difficulty older Asians have in communicating with the city were cited by Liang as examples.

"Mayor Sheets did an excellent job of diffusing the Naval Terrace problem, but we need to have protections in place so that these types of issues never get to the level of a crisis that requires the mayor to intervene," he said.

"An advocacy group could provide the legal and social support needed to assure our elders that they are valued by our city and will be supported in times of need."

The City of Quincy elder service currently provides transportation services. While that is important, Liang said that outreach to the Asian community doesn't go far enough and that there is no one who understands the legal implications of evictions, rent increases or important issues around patients' rights and estate planning.

"The group could be as simple as one staff person with the ability to access volunteer, non-profit and state agency assistance," Liang said. "The staff person could also develop and promote programs, such as foster grandparents and other intergenerational approaches."

Will Continue Through Dec. 7 Health Dept. Flu Clinics To Begin On Nov. 5

The Quincy Health Department announces the schedule for flu clinics for Quincy residents over 18 years of age which will be held from Nov. 5 through Dec. 7.

Clinics are scheduled for:
• Monday, Nov. 19, 10 to 11 a.m. at Quincy Elks, 254 Quarry St.

• Tuesday, Nov. 27, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. at Atherton Hough School (Gym), 1084 Sea St.

• Thursday, Nov. 29, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. at Pagan Towers, 109 Curtis Ave.

• Saturday, Dec. 1, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at North Quincy High School (atrium), 318 Hancock St.

• Tuesday, Dec. 4, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. at Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 11 Hayward St.

• Friday, Dec. 7, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. at Squantum School, 50 Huckins Ave.

This year's flu shot contains the strains of A/New Caledonia, A/Moscow,

B/Sichuan to provide immunity against the types of flu which have been circulating in the past year and thought to be most likely to occur in the United States this winter.

Because influenza vaccine contains only killed viruses, it cannot cause influenza.

Annual vaccination against influenza is recommended and available at the public clinics for:

• Everyone 65 years of age or older.

• Adults with serious long-term health problems such as heart, lung, kidney disease, asthma, diabetes, anemia, and other blood disorders.

• Adults whose immune system is weakened due to HIV/AIDS or other diseases that affect the immune system, those receiving treatment with drugs such as long-term steroids, and those receiving cancer treatment with X-rays or drugs.

• Healthcare workers and people providing essential community services or home care due to the above high-risk categories.

• Women who will be more than three months pregnant during the flu season.

Those who should consult with their physician

before getting the flu vaccine include:

• Anyone who has ever had a serious allergic reaction to eggs or a previous dose of the flu vaccine.

• Anyone who has a history of Guillain-Barre Syndrome.

• Anyone who is moderately or severely ill should wait until they recover before receiving the vaccine.

Residents of long-term care facilities and homebound senior citizens with chronic medical conditions should receive the vaccine. For this reason, the Quincy Health Department provides the vaccine to all healthcare providers for dispensation by medical staff to their residents and patients. Homebound seniors are encouraged to call the Quincy Health Department at (617) 376-1274 to arrange for a time to receive the vaccine from Quincy Health Department Nurses.

The flu vaccine is only available at the public clinics to Quincy residents 18 years and older. Anyone six months to 18 years on long-term aspirin treatment, who could develop Reye Syndrome if they catch the flu, should be vaccinated and should contact their medical provider to receive the vaccine.

plained that the medical center has an emergency preparedness plan in place which is reviewed every six months and has a command center already in place in the event of an incident whereby the hospital would become available to deal with patients evacuated from other facilities and to accept new patients in the event of an emergency incident.

Sheets said he was "thrilled" at the level of preparedness shown by QMC but added that the new emergency framework would have to factor in such issues as the city's schools, the oil tank farms along the waterfront, the possible arrival of tankers at the shipyard, and traffic concerns in the event of an evacuation of Boston.

The mayor directed each department head to define their role in the new emergency organization. A steering committee will be formed from the department heads to assist in coordinating new Emergency Management procedures with the Quincy Fire Department.

The Oct. 23 Anti-Terrorism Seminar is being organized by the mayor's office in conjunction with the Quincy Naval Reserve Center, Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency, and the Quincy Emergency Management Agency.

Ann Stewart Outreach Rep At Quincy Medical Center

Ann Stewart recently joined Quincy Medical Center as the QMC/Boston Medical Center/MassHealth outreach representative.

In her new role, Stewart assists individuals with the application process for MassHealth, the BMC HealthNet Plan and other government assistance health programs.

"It is critical that people in the community realize the entire QMC family cares about them," said Stewart, who considers herself a health care problem-solver.

Stewart's new position

ANN STEWART

will allow her to work closely with QMC's inpatient admissions staff to expand patient enrollment in a state-wide health insurance program. Soon, she will begin development of a low-cost prescription program for the medical center's uninsured patients.

Before joining QMC, Stewart served as a community outreach worker for SHARE (Self-Help and Resource Exchange), a non-profit community development organization, and as an ombudsman for the state's nursing home industry.

Heartening News About Aspirin

(NAPS) - When it comes to combatting America's number one killer one of the most powerful weapons may already be in your home. The killer is Cardiovascular Disease (CVD), and the answer, in many cases, may be low-dose aspirin.

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, studies have shown that aspirin can reduce the risk of a second heart attack or stroke. Studies are underway to see if aspirin can prevent a first heart attack or stroke; some doctors recommend aspirin to certain patients who are at risk.

It's important to talk to your health professional before taking aspirin for CVD prevention.

Here are some frequently asked questions and answers about aspirin:

Q: Are all pain killers, or analgesics, the same?

A: No. There are many types that work in different ways in the body. Some are more appropriate than others for certain conditions.

Q: How do I know which analgesic is right for me?

A: Talk with a health professional: doctor, nurse, or pharmacist.

Q: Do other pain killers reduce the risk of heart attack or stroke?

A: Only aspirin (salicylic acid) has been proven effective. Read the label to make sure you are taking aspirin.

Q: Can I take just any aspirin?

A: Consult your health professional. There are different varieties of aspirin. For example, enteric-coated aspirin is designed to dissolve more slowly to avoid stomach upset. Buffered aspirin contains antacids to neutralize the stomach acid that causes upset. Read the labels.

Q: What's the right dose?

A: Studies suggest a low dose (81 mg. a day). Most aspirin come in 325 mg. or 500 mg. doses. Look for a product with the dose recommended by your health professional.

Q: What about side effects or interactions with other medicines?

A: As with any medication, you should tell your healthcare provider about any over-the-counter and prescription medicines and dietary supplements (vitamins, minerals, herbals) you take. Certain medications and dietary supplements may interact with aspirin and cause serious problems. Always read the labels of all your medicines to check for side effects and interaction warnings.

A Message From Welch Healthcare Continuum Of Care For Seniors

By YVETTE COLE
Director of Communications
Welch Healthcare

Census Bureau statistics report that from 1960 to 1994 the number of people age 85+ increased by 274% compared to 100% for those 65 and older.

Between 1994 and 2020, America's 85+ population is projected to double to 7 million, and swell to between 19 and 27 million by 2050, making seniors the fastest growing segment of the population.

These statistics are important for many reasons, but should especially be important to you because at some point you will be making long term care decisions for your parents or yourselves.

Trends today show that more younger seniors are looking to leave their empty nest for a senior living independent community that offers an array of quality services and an independent lifestyle. As you age, health issues will evolve and you may perhaps have a need for an adult day health center, assistance with care at home, an assisted living community, or a skilled nursing facility.

This is where a continuum of care may become important. Webster's Dictionary defines 'continuum' as a continuous extent or whole, no part of which can be distinguished from neighboring parts except by arbitrary division. Therefore, a single organization that offers and coordinates the various senior living services, i.e., independent living, adult day health, home care assistance, assisted living, and skilled nursing and rehabilitation services can be identified as offering a senior continuum of care.

The idea of transitioning a resident from independent living to a nursing center, and then to assisted living in a seamless manner is unique to the senior healthcare industry, but can be found. In most cases, families that do not place their family member in a continuum of care are starting the application process all over as they enter into a different type of care, and they lack certainty that the quality of care will meet their standards.

A continuum of care removes those doubts and makes the transition an easy one, as residents' healthcare needs change. Another benefit is that the healthcare professionals within the continuum of care work together as a team, and can effectively communicate the needs and desires of the senior as they transition into a different setting.

A continuum of care, however, does not mean that stand-alone communities and/or facilities aren't to be considered for your senior health care needs - they should. A continuum of care may simply be your preference in the long run. For Fifth Straight Season

North Quincy Girls' Soccer In Tournament

The North Quincy girls' soccer team has done it again.

With last Wednesday's impressive 3-1 victory at Falmouth, the Red Raiders qualified for the Division 1 South Sectional tournament for the fifth straight season.

They followed that performance with a tough 1-0 loss on the road to undefeated Bridgewater-Raynham last Friday.

"Last week was like playing in the state tournament with the quality of opponents we played and the intensity level of the teams," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "We are playing very good soccer now but I still don't think we have peaked yet."

North Quincy (9-3-2 overall, 5-3-2 OCL) played Barnstable Tuesday, and today (Thursday) it travels to Plymouth South and tomorrow it hosts Martha's Vineyard at 3 p.m.

"We have six games left and we are playing for a couple of things," Bregoli said. "A high seed in the tournament and a home game, second place in the league, and a girls' team record of 15 wins."

In the Falmouth game, the Red Raiders were emotionally high and dominated the first 25 minutes of the game, despite playing without standouts Lauren Kalil and Christina Conley.

At the 7:35 mark, senior quad-captain Allie Lacey notched her eighth goal of the year when junior midfielder Erin McFarland played a ball towards the Falmouth penalty area. Lacey won the foot race, out-hustling the Clippers keeper to the ball and putting a shot into the empty net.

Minutes later, senior quad-captain Lauren Sleeth tallied her second goal of the season (career No. 17), collecting another McFarland pass and ripping a 15-yard shot past the helpless keeper.

McFarland, who played her best game of the year, has five assists on the year.

Late in the first half, Falmouth got a goal back to cut North Quincy's lead to 2-1. That seemed to spark the Clippers in the second half as they controlled the first 20 minutes.

North Quincy withstood the pressure as keeper Kathryn MacRitchie, a senior quad-captain, made several difficult saves. The defensive quartet of senior KATIE TIMMONS (1), shown here Sept. 7 against Quincy, and the rest of the Red Raiders are aiming for a high seed in the tournament after clinching a spot last week with a win at Falmouth.

quad-captain Kelly Rice, Caitlin Herlihy, Sarah Gregory and Lauren McGee also played well.

After taking a timeout at the 20-minute mark, the momentum slowly shifted in favor of North Quincy.

The insertion of freshman midfielder Amanda Saylor proved to be important as she neutralized Falmouth's Ann Neelon, an outstanding midfielder who was controlling everything in the air. Saylor, also good in the air, began winning her share of balls and helped the Red Raiders mount several counter attacks.

Junior Rachel Enos gave North Quincy some breathing room, netting her third goal of the year to the far post off a feed from sophomore Katy Faherty.

Jessica Jacques and Kelly Coleman also played strong games for the Red Raiders.

In the Bridgewater-Raynham game, North Quincy took it to the OCL front-runners with Lacey, Sleeth and Katy Mercurio all putting scoring bids on the keeper.

The Red Raiders' best chance came at the 10-minute mark when McFarland's shot from 30 yards away hit the bottom of the crossbar and bounced straight down at the goal line.

North Quincy's defense excelled again until late in the first half when a bouncing ball in the area was not cleared and spun into the net.

North Quincy didn't fold, however, as it produced several more scoring bids. Faherty drilled a low, hard shot to the near post early in the half in which the keeper made a sensational diving save. Mercurio then saw her volley from in close just miss the top corner.

Wins For Girls, Boys Raiders' Cross Country

The North Quincy cross country team's whirlwind schedule featured seven meets in 15 days, including two tri-meets. The boys hit the win column just once, while the girls triumphed three times.

North Quincy hosted Marshfield Tuesday and will compete in the Catholic Memorial Invitational Saturday at Franklin Park.

The boys lost to Plymouth South, 23-32, with John Fidalgo taking second and Steve Price third. Rob Gardner, Chris Mercurio, Mike O'Malley, Phil McGillicuddy and Tony Martin placed 7-11.

Price was the top finisher in North Quincy's 16-44 loss to a seasoned Bridgewater-Raynham squad, which earned the top four spots.

A few days rest did the trick for the boys, as they turned in great times in the Silver Lake-New Bedford tri-meet. The Lakers and Whalers, however, put three and four runners, respectively, ahead of first-place finisher Fidalgo.

The boys finally got their second win of the season with a 20-43 drubbing of Taunton. Fidalgo, Price, Gardner, O'Malley, Will Gardner, Mercurio, McGillicuddy, Martin, Eric Wilson and Charlie Vidoli grabbed 10 of the top 12 spots.

At the Bay State Invitational, Rob Gardner and Mercurio both finished in the top 75 with fast times in the competitive 3K race.

On the girls' side, they picked up a win over Plymouth South, 27-30. Natalie Caron, Brenna O'Brien, Sheila Jafarzadeh, Beth Goodrich, Caitlyn Dow, Lily Luo and Lauren Ready all placed in the top 11.

The fatigue of too many meets was evident in a 22-34 loss to Bridgewater-Raynham. Caron won and O'Brien finished fifth. Luo and Goodrich took eighth and ninth, respectively, while Ready, Dow, Lisa Rubino and Meghan Haines were 11-14.

The girls split with Silver Lake and New Bedford despite great times by nearly everyone. The Red Raiders fell to the Lakers, 22-33, but pulled out a 27-32 win over the Whalers. Caron finished second overall, while O'Brien and Ready also cracked the top 10.

The crazy schedule took its toll against Taunton and Fontbonne. North Quincy lost a heart-breaker to the Tigers, 28-29, but managed to rebound by edging Fontbonne, 28-30. Quincy resident Kylie Mansfield of Fontbonne was the overall winner. Caron took second and O'Brien seventh. Goodrich, Jafarzadeh, Dow and Luo finished 10-13.

At the Bay State Invitational, freshmen Adrienne Doucette, Christi Haines, Valerie Ayer and Danielle Thomson all placed in the top 200 in the large freshmen 3K race.

GETTING A GOOD JUMP

When jump-starting your vehicle, be sure to connect the jumper cables in the proper order. Clamp one positive cable (red) to the positive terminal on the good battery and the other positive cable to the positive terminal on the low battery. Clamp one negative cable (black) to the negative terminal on the good battery and the other negative cable to a clean, unpainted area on the engine block or frame on the disabled vehicle, away from the battery. Never connect the last cable directly to the disabled battery's terminal, which runs the risk of a dangerous explosion. After starting the dead battery, disconnect in reverse order, starting with the negative clamps on the block or frame of the disabled vehicle.

Safety is important when jump starting your car. If you need service, LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO is small enough to provide friendly, personal service, and large enough to have the latest, most modern test equipment and ASE Certified technicians who are constantly trained and retrained. ## Penalties Hurt Raiders; Fall To Taunton 14-12

Despite a banged up backfield, the North Quincy football team had to be optimistic last Saturday afternoon about its chances of finally toppling Taunton.

Having lost the last four years to the Tigers, the Red Raiders were facing a different team this time around. With only five returning starters from last year's 7-3 squad, Taunton had endured some growing pains as it stumbled into Veterans Memorial Stadium with an 0-5 record.

As it turns out, Taunton felt something much more soothing: Its first win of the 2001 season.

Taunton (1-5, 1-2) converted two North Quincy (2-3, 1-3) turnovers into touchdowns and stymied three North Quincy drives in the fourth quarter en route to a 14-12 victory.

"Congratulations to Taunton. They're in the win column," said first-year coach Tony Green. "Our kids played hard but it wasn't enough to beat Taunton."

North Quincy, which has dropped its last two games, will look to get back on track tomorrow (Friday) night at 7

DENNIS THOMSON (8) breaks outside for some running room. With some injuries in the backfield, the starting quarterback, who a two TD pass, also lined up as a tailback for several plays.

at Plymouth South (2-3, 1-2).

The Red Raiders were plagued by costly penalties, many of which put them in a hole offensively.

"Penalties are what killed us," Green said. "If our game is to run the clock and get first downs, you can't do it when it is first and 15, first and 20."

Trailing 12-8 late in the third, Taunton caught a huge break when North Quincy fumbled inside its own territory. With the ball at the 23, Taunton turned to its go-to guy — Lee Totten — and the junior delivered.

After three straight rushes, Totten darted 6 yards untouched for his second touchdown of the afternoon to put the Tigers ahead 14-12 with 10:02 left in the game. Taunton missed the two-point conversion.

Taunton's defense, which came into the game yielding a Division I-high 158 points, stiffened down the stretch, coming up with an interception and forcing the Red Raiders to turn the ball over on downs on their final two series.

Taunton opened the scoring in the second quarter when sophomore Justin Paull intercepted a pass and returned it the North Quincy 9. Three plays later, Totten rumbled 4 yards into the end zone with 4:30 left. Chris Feidhouse's two-point conversion pass to Mike Robinson made it 8-0.

North Quincy responded with a 10-play, 67-yard drive that ended with senior quarterback Dennis Thomson's 11-yard TD pass to senior Gary Dalton with 12 ticks left in the half. North missed the two-point conversion and trailed, 8-6, at the break.

North Quincy took a 12-8 lead on the opening series of the second half. On third and 8 from the Taunton 41, senior wideout Joe Fitzpatrick beat the defense for a touchdown from backup quarterback Kevin Holleran.

Holleran relieved Thomson at times, as the Red Raiders needed Thomson in the backfield due to injuries. Starting tailback Pat Bregoli sat out the game with an ankle injury and, to make matters worse, junior tailback Ryan Farnham injured his ankle on the second play of the game and did not play in the second half.

"We were so short at tailback we put Dennis Thomson at tailback for some plays," Green said. "We needed some bodies. We were dropping like flies."

City Crowns Tennis Tournament Champs

While many matches were postponed or canceled because of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, the champions of the 31st annual City of Quincy Tennis Tournament have been crowned.

Sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Municipal Credit Union, the tournament featured a talented class of newcomers who displayed their skills on the Russell Park tennis facility.

Recreation Director Barry Welch thanked Tournament Director John Franceschini for the extra efforts with match postponements over the three-week event.

"John and Tournament Assistant Michelle Hanley went the extra mile to see the conclusion of this annual tradition," he said.

"I would also like to thank our sponsor, the Quincy Municipal Credit Union, for recognizing the great value of the tournament that brings together city residents from all ages in an event that provides fitness and fun. Their support allows us to keep the fee to each participant at a reasonable level and insures great number of players can take part."

No one was more of an impact to this year's tourney than Jirawat Aektanasap, a junior at Quincy High School, who became the first unseeded men's single player in over 15 years to win a championship.

After knocking out defending champ Pham Nyugen, 6-4, 6-4, in the second round, everyone knew Aektanasap was for real. Up against one of Quincy's finest players, Mark Scanlon, LORENA ASLLANAJ (left) and Jirawat Aektanasap captured the William F. Ryan Cup in mixed doubles. Aektanasap also won the Lionel Buckley Cup as the men's single champ.

Aektanasap used his overpowering serve and unbelievable quickness to win the Lionel Buckley Cup in two sets, 6-1, 6-1.

Aektanasap went on to team up with Lorena Asllanaj, a sophomore on the Quincy High team, to capture the William F. Ryan Cup in mixed doubles. Both Aektanasap and Asllanaj should be formidable opponents in the future.

In other action, defending champs Dave Hamburger and Mike Kenney defeated Pham Nyugen and North Quincy High School senior Paul Vu in three grueling sets, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4, to win the McAuliffe Cup in men's doubles. The consistent play of Hamburger and Kenney at the net proved to be the difference in this two-hour match.

In the men's 50 and over singles, Joe Ryan and Lenny Ciavarrro squared off for the title for the fifth time. Having played each other many times in the careers, their matches are always highlighted by strategic play and long rallies. Ryan outlasted Ciavarrro this year, winning 6-2, 6-3.

Ron Bartels defeated Chi Man Wong, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, for the title in the men's 35 and over singles. On the women's side, Francesca DiBona knocked out Punya Wijesundara, 6-0, 6-1, with powerful ground strokes. DiBona is one of Quincy's finest young players and has developed a consistent game.

In the boys' 16 and under title match, Quincy High's Michael Chan pulled out a 6-1, 6-4 win over North Quincy High freshman Bobby Newcomb. Chan's overall game was too strong for Newcomb, who will be a great player in the future.

In the city employee division, a new category, brothers Geoffrey and Christopher Meade went head to head. With his big, lefty serve on target and solid net play, Geoffrey defeated Chris, 6-4, 6-4.

Billy Harding won the men's B consolation singles over Geoffrey Meade, 6-2, 6-1.

Springfield Blocks Granite From EFL Championship

By CHRIS POISSON

There will be no championship for the Quincy Granite this season.

Haunted by special teams, Quincy fell to Springfield, 22-19, last Saturday night at home in the semifinals of the Eastern Football League playoffs.

Springfield (7-4) will face Marlboro (10-1), the 10-time defending champs, Saturday in the championship game. The Shamrocks defeated Clinton, 12-8, last Saturday in the other semifinal match.

After rampaging through the regular season with a perfect 9-0 mark and knocking out Middleboro in the quarterfinals, the Granite believed they would be the team to dethrone the Shamrocks this year.

Instead, they suffered their first loss of the season — a painful loss — to finish with a 10-1 record in only their third year as a franchise.

"We should've been there," said head coach Ken McPhee in reference to the upcoming championship game.

And Quincy most likely would've been there if it didn't have two extra points and two field goals blocked, including Greg DiCenzo's 27-yard game-tying attempt with 52 seconds left in the game.

"Special teams killed us," McPhee said. "We have a kicker that can kick the ball out of the park. They blocked what, four of them. That can't happen. But it did."

Trailing 16-12 at the break, Quincy opened the second half with a scoring drive, highlighted by quarterback Liam Higgins's laser pass to John Barr, who turned upfield for a 31-yard touchdown. DiCenzo kicked the extra point for a 19-16 advantage.

The Granite defense tightened like a vise, forcing the Bears to punt on their first two series of the half. Early in the fourth quarter, however, Quincy's offense committed its third turnover of the game when Springfield's Kelly Smith intercepted a pass.

And Springfield capitalized on DeJuan Brown's 1-yard TD run with 8:05 left in the game. The Granite blocked Chris Kolodziej's extra point and were down 22-19.

On that Bears' go-ahead drive, quarterback Chris Borders single-handedly wounded the Granite, converting two huge third downs with a 24-yard keeper and a 19-yard scramble.

"Their quarterback played a really good game," McPhee said. "He doesn't throw the ball all that well, but he certainly runs the ball well. That was frustrating."

On Quincy's final drive, tailback Cy Butler picked up 29 of his 56 second-half yards on two carries and Higgins converted a huge third down with a 13-yard strike to wideout Dwayne Williams.

On third and 2 at the Springfield 10, Higgins overthrew Williams in the end zone and the Granite had to settle for the field-goal attempt that was blocked.

"We weren't stepping down and taking the inside seam, and they were running up the 'A Gap' and blocking them," McPhee said. "The kid can kick the ball a mile. You can't kick it when someone is in your face."

Quincy opened the scoring in the first quarter when Higgins tossed a 22-yard TD pass to wideout Bo Garcia with 6:02 left. DiCenzo's extra point was blocked.

Quincy cornerback Louis Bullard intercepted a pass on Springfield's ensuing series and returned it to the Bears 10. Two plays later, though, Quincy fumbled a pitch in its end zone for a safety.

The exuberant Bears followed with Brown's 1-yard TD run that capped a 50-yard drive. Kolodziej tacked on the extra point for a 9-6 lead with 14:12 left in the second.

Midway through the quarter, defensive end Andelson Merisca recovered a fumble at the Springfield 12 that set up fullback Mike Elder's 1-yard score for a 12-9 Quincy advantage. DiCenzo's extra point was blocked again.

With less than 30 seconds left in the half, the Granite fumbled at their own 6 and Springfield's Adrian Milewski pounced on it in the end zone for a touchdown for a 16-12 lead.

"Defensively, I can't complain," McPhee said. "The defense played great all year. They didn't let us down. We didn't come out and do what we had to do offensively. We didn't protect the ball like we should've. We fumbled down inside the 5-yard line. That's a defensive touchdown for them. That can't happen. That kills you."

Tie With Randolph Frustrates Presidents

By CHRIS POISSON

In a seesaw-like exchange of turnovers, neither the Quincy nor Randolph football teams were ready to claim victory last Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

With the score knotted at 14-all, both schools could have used a dose of Robitussin as they coughed the ball up a number of times over the final 6:30. Quincy fumbled three straight times, while Randolph snapped a ball over a punter's head, fumbled, tossed an interception and was stonewalled on fourth-and-goal from less than a yard.

Because of Atlantic Coast League rules, there was no overtime and the teams settled for a lackluster 14-14 tie.

"I'm not going to be happy with a tie," said Quincy head coach Bob Noble. "I'm happy we didn't lose. I'm not happy that we tied at all."

Quincy (1-3-1 overall, 0-1-1 ACL) will be on the road the next three weeks, beginning Saturday at Nauset (4-1, 2-1) followed by games at Sandwich and Dennis-Yarmouth.

Trailing 14-6 at the half, Quincy orchestrated an impressive 16-play, 73-yard scoring drive on the opening series, capped by junior backup quarterback Kevin O'Connell's 3-yard plunge with 2:58 left in the third quarter. Starting QB Mike Lorenzano hit senior Scott Kelley for the two-point conversion to even the score.

With senior back Chris Sullivan out with an ankle injury, Noble moved Lorenzano to the backfield and brought in O'Connell for the final seven plays of the drive. Quincy also used that offensive set several times on its first series of the game.

Quincy had an excellent chance to break the deadlock midway through the fourth quarter when Randolph snapped the ball over the punter's head, giving the Presidents a first down at the Blue Devils 23. On the first play, however, Quincy fumbled.

And that was just the beginning of the volley of blunders.

After Randolph marched to the Quincy 25, it coughed the ball up on third down and junior Anthony Boyle recovered for Quincy.

On Quincy's first play, Lorenzano was sacked, jarring the ball loose and the Blue Devils pounced on it at the Quincy 33.

Randolph marched towards the end zone where it faced a fourth-and-goal from a half-yard out. Senior quarterback Pat Sullivan tried to score on a keeper, but the Presidents' defense conglomerated at the line to stuff him.

Three plays later, Quincy fumbled again and Randolph took over at Quincy's 12-yard line with 40 seconds left in the game. On the first play, Sullivan dropped back, fired a pass over the middle, but senior Dan Galligan picked it off to stymie the threat and preserve the tie.

"Right now, I'm just exceedingly frustrated," Noble said. "You're not going to beat a lot of teams with the mistakes that we've made over the last three games. We're better than this, but we're not showing it."

Randolph scored on the first play of the game when sophomore Akenba George jettied 81 yards into the end zone for a 6-0 lead.

The Presidents answered on senior fullback Kris Kamborian's 1-yard touchdown run with 3:16 left in the first to even the score.

Randolph regained the lead on George's second score of the game, a 2-yard run with 7:33 left in the half. Sullivan rushed for the two-point conversion to make it 14-6.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We wouldn't be human if we, at some time or another, did not disagree with another person. We are all individuals: we have our own personal ideas and beliefs; our thoughts of right and wrong... As we all know, this can and does lead to quarrels and arguments. And, yes, they can be small or they can be "hurdlingers."

According to this "tale" this is how early Indians resolved their quarrels. "Burying the hatchet" is an old expression, said to have originated from an Indian custom. They believed that evil spirits in the air caused people to quarrel and put hatred in their hearts. Therefore, whenever a dispute was settled between the parties involved, the hatchet, the symbol of hatred, was placed where it could have no power. At the burying of the hatchet those quarreling would stand over the hole and talk out their grievances, pacifying their souls that they buried their grievances with the hatchet. This is superstition, of course, but the Indians firmly believed that it ended all personal troubles between them.

We are always happy to hear from our readers concerning the articles printed here...

Why are so many Sheets voters switching to Bill Phelan for Mayor?

"Bill Phelan has a plan to lead Quincy forward."

— Kathy Shaw, 97 Bird Street

"Bill Phelan has been listening to the people," says Kathy Shaw. "He has solid plans to improve our schools, fix our crumbling streets and sidewalks, and restore fiscal responsibility to the Mayor's office."

"Jim Sheets has lost touch with the people. We need a change."

"Bill had the courage to stand up for our kids when no one else would."

— Julie Graham, 44 Braintree Avenue

"I supported Mayor Sheets in the past," explains Julie Graham. "But when he proposed building the new Quincy High on a toxic waste dump, I began to question his judgment."

"When I learned that a Sheets' contributor bought the land for $1 million, then sold it to the city a few weeks later for $3.5 million, it became clear to me we needed new leadership," she said.

"Bill Phelan was the only one who stood up to the Mayor and the entire city establishment to stop that plan for the sake of our kids. He has the courage and the independence we need, and he'll make a great mayor!"

"Sheets' shipyard deal torpedoed taxpayers."

— Anthony "Dinny" DiNardo, 87 Edward Street

"How can Mayor Sheets continue to waste millions and millions of taxpayers dollars on this ship building scheme, and still have no alternate plan to utilize the valuable shipyard land?" asks Dinny DiNardo of Edwards Street.

"This is a priceless resource, waterfront property that's sitting empty for years. Instead of earning the city tax dollars to hold down our property taxes, Mayor Sheets is still defending his decision to blow millions."

"It's time for new blood, new ideas. That's why I'm for Bill Phelan."

"Who'd pay $100 million for a golf course?"

— Tom Kelly, 77 Wren Terrace

"Jim Sheets ran for Mayor promising to control developers," says Tom Kelley. "But time and time again he has favored developers over taxpayers."

"He turned Quincy land over to developers for 50 years, tax free, for $1 to develop a golf course," Kelly explains. "And while Quincy had negotiated with the Big Dig to receive money for dumping soil on the site, taxpayers never got any of it."

"Instead, the Mayor's developer friends, who are also contributors, received $100 million from the Big Dig!"

"Bill Phelan knows that's wrong. The Mayor doesn't get it. That's why I'm switching from Jim Sheets, and voting for Bill Phelan for Mayor."

"Sheets' mistakes drive up taxes, driving seniors from their homes."

— Marion and Paul Ricca, 129 Madison Avenue

"We are on fixed income, but our taxes keep rising," explains Marion Ricca.

"If the mayor hadn't wasted millions on the high school siting and millions more on the golf course and the High Point development, taxes wouldn't need to go up so much!"

"Bill Phelan understands that, and he's got the judgment to do the right thing, and the courage to make it stick!"

"Jim Sheets has been Mayor too long. It's time for a new Mayor. That's why we are supporting Bill Phelan."

"Bill Phelan's bid to unseat 12-year incumbent James Sheets...is a breath of fresh air to the city's stale politics. Quincy has taken a beating from private developers and corporations in the past decade."

Newton Resolve Seeks Tax Relief For 'In-Law' Apartments

The Senior Citizen Committee of the City Council will meet Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 6:25 p.m. to discuss possible tax relief for homeowners who have in-law apartments.

The resolve, introduced to the council by Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton, would allow homeowners up to $500 in tax relief for work done on such apartments.

The proposal received praise at a similar meeting Oct. 15 from Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, chairman of the Senior Citizen Committee, and Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott. The matter, however, was kept in committee so that councillors could seek advice from Marion Fantuccio, chairwoman of the board of assessors, as to the impact such a rebate would have on the city.

A similar law was already enacted in Braintree, Newton told fellow councillors.

Terrorism Expert Urges Awareness

By CRAIG SALTERS

Nationally and internationally recognized terrorism specialist Colonel David Gavigan had everyone's attention as the keynote speaker of an Anti-Terrorism Seminar held Tuesday at the Quincy Naval Reserve Center.

Balancing the need for calm with an urgency to battle terrorists "who don't play by the rules," Colonel Gavigan said Americans needed to incorporate increased vigilance more into their daily lives and "work more as a cohesive unit," similar to the society of Israel.

"The best thing you can do is maintain awareness and the worst thing you can do is stay at home," Colonel Gavigan said.

"It was quite an eye opener," said Ken McPhee, coordinator of Security and Transportation for Quincy Public Schools, referring both to Colonel Gavigan's presentation and the need for such a seminar in the wake of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. "This is something that hasn't been addressed and now it is."

McPhee, who said the process of preparing the Quincy Public Schools against terrorism had already begun, was joined by close to 100 other audience members, including Acting Police Chief William Falco, Deputy Fire Chief Paul Cuddy, Inspection Services Director Walter White, School Committee Vice Chairwoman Jo-Ann Bragg, and a host of other representatives, including individuals from the Health Department, Harbormaster, Underwater Recovery Team, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA).

Colonel Gavigan, a retired colonel with the Army National Guard with numerous degrees in Anti-Terrorism who teaches a course on the subject at Northeastern University, discussed the makeup, goals, and tactics of both the national and international terrorist, defining important terms and painting a picture of global terrorism as well planned, well funded, and well connected, tracing a pattern tying Sept. 11's horror as far back as the Oct. 23, 1983 killing of 241 United States Marines in Lebanon and the 1988 downing of Pan Am Flight 103.

Bedros Baharian, was removed at a recent Rally Day and will be replaced with a similar time capsule for future generations.

City Drafts Road Improvement Master Plan, Seeks Public Input

The Department of Public Works (DPW) has drafted a Roadway Improvement Master Plan for the city and is currently seeking community input on the proposal.

The draft, which proposes recommendations for roadway improvements over the next five years and contains maps of possible resurfacing projects, anticipates a move by Acting Governor Jane Swift to restore, and even increase, Chapter 90 funding for the city, which has seen a sharp decrease in recent years.

The next step in the process, said DPW Commissioner David Colton, will be to schedule neighborhood meetings with the help of ward councillors. Hopefully, Colton said, the city can finalize the draft by the first quarter of 2002 and begin implementation as soon as Spring of 2002.

"The plan is a draft intended for public discussion," said Colton, who added that copies of the draft will be available in each branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library and additional copies will be furnished to any interested parties upon request. "The final plan will be shaped greatly by public input."

Mayor James Sheets said the draft of the master plan is in response to Swift's proposal before the Legislature which, if passed, would provide close to $2 million in Chapter 90 funding to the city for Fiscal Year 2002.

Sheets, who said he was unaware of any attempt to block Swift's proposal in the conference committees of the Legislature, said the funds would represent a dramatic increase in Chapter 90 funding, which he said has declined by almost 40 percent over the last three years as the state sought to address deficits in the Central Artery Project.

"Chapter 90 is a major source of funding," said Sheets, who admitted that the city had "clearly gotten behind" in the area of road repair "as did many other cities and towns."

The draft, Colton said, addresses the process of roadway improvements, the scope of work, and possible avenues of funding. It addresses the needs "of the entire street", including the need for sewer and drainage work, and also includes maps which mark streets targeted for possible improvement.

According to Colton, the city received roughly $1.4 million in Chapter 90 funds before the state cut-backs. The Chapter 90 funding for Fiscal Year 2001, Colton said, was between $700,000 and $800,000.

Although Colton said the effects of paying off the "Big Dig" project will be felt for many years in the state, he applauded Swift's initiative as a "recognition that cities and towns have been affected by the cuts."

Stormwater Treatment Systems Planned For Wollaston

Quincy will begin the process of establishing stormwater treatment in the city by installing two stormwater treatment systems in Wollaston.

Cost for the two systems, which will be installed underground in front of the Wollaston School on Beale St. and at the intersection of Brook St. and North Central Ave., is $150,000, funded by a $112,500 coastal pollution remediation grant from Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management and $37,500 in city matching funds recently approved by the City Council.

"This is an important first step," DPW Commissioner David Colton told councillors before they voted to transfer the $37,500 from the city's Sewer Rehabilitation Fund, explaining that more systems were planned in the future.

The system will be designed to treat the first flush of runoff, believed to contain the vast majority of pollutants. The primary goal of the project is to reduce the amount of sediment and associated contaminants such as bacteria, metal, and oils in the drainage system and, ultimately, Wollaston Beach.

Artificial Turf Planned For Veterans Memorial Stadium

By CRAIG SALTERS

Planned improvements to Veterans Memorial Stadium, part of a $9.8 million "Project Prosper" bond initiative to acquire open space and renovate the city's major park locations, will include the installation of artificial turf and the construction of an eight-lane track at the stadium.

City officials say the installation of artificial turf, estimated to cost between $600,000 and $800,000 and described as "state of the art" by Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry, and Cemetery Departments, will eliminate maintenance costs at the stadium but, more importantly, increase the availability of the stadium to host sports and other events.

"It's nearly impossible to keep turf there," said Koch, who said the stadium grass handles roughly 60 games a year but deteriorates with each use and is currently not in good condition.

Koch was eager to dispel possible concerns over the use of artificial turf, whose earlier versions were seen as hard on athletes and the cause of increased injuries.

"The material today is nothing like Astro-Turf," said Koch, adding that the Park Department has a sample of the material available for interested residents. "It's actually difficult to tell the difference between it and real grass."

Similar artificial turf, Koch said, has been installed at Boston University, Catholic Memorial High School, and Dennehy Park in Cambridge. And recent studies, Koch said, demonstrated that there were actually less injuries on the new turf than on natural grass.

Voicing skepticism on the purchase of artificial turf was Julie Berberan, who made the restoration of brickwork at Veterans Memorial Stadium a component of her recent unsuccessful bid for councillor at-large.

"The stadium should be re-pointed before we spend money on artificial turf," said Berberan, who also called the mayor's bond proposal in general "a $10 million loan paid for by an account that has nothing in it right now."

Addressing the renovation plans in general, Koch emphasized that the artificial turf was only one piece of the puzzle for Veterans Stadium, which would also see improvements to its exterior, its track, its locker rooms, its rest rooms, and the visitors' side bleachers.

"Veteran's Stadium is in need of everything," Koch said.

And Veterans Stadium, Koch added, was only a part of a plan which will include restoration of the lighting and fencing at Adams Field, the "complete renovation" of Mitchell/McCoy Field, and improvements to city parks to meet safety and ADA requirements.

Mayor James Sheets echoed the importance of artificial turf as part of renovations to Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"What it does is expand the use of the field and limit the damage," said Sheets, who announced Oct. 17 his "Project Prosper" plan, which calls for the acquisition and/or protection of eight open space parcels in the city and calls for renovations to the city's park facilities, including: Veterans Memorial Stadium, Adams Field, Mitchell/McCoy Field, Merymount Park/Adams Walk, and Faxon Park.

Sheets' initiative calls for a $9.8 million bond, which he said would be submitted to the City Council in November, earmarking $4.1 million for open space preservation and $5.7 million for the city's park system.

Debt service on the bond, said Sheets, would be paid for entirely by the city's hotel/motel tax which went into effect this year.

The Open Space Committee has targeted 8 open space parcels in the city for acquisition and/or protection, including: 0 Harriet Ave. in Montclair; Lots 68 and 69 in Marina Bay; 5-49 Cleverly Court in Quincy Point; Brook Road/School St. lot in southwest Quincy; 40-66 Newbury St. in North Quincy; Grotton St. in Wollaston/Montclair; and the rezoning of land owned by Quincy Medical Center and marshland owned by the Trustees for Eastern Nazarene College.

"The key to today's plan is that we have the funding,"

PARK AND RECREATION board members recently attended a press conference in City Hall held by Mayor James Sheets (center) to announce details of Project PROSPER, the mayor's open space initiative. The mayor's plan calls for a $9.8 million bond for open space and park renovations which would be serviced by the city's hotel/motel tax, which went into effect in July. Board members joining the mayor are, from left: Leo Kelly, Ted DeCristofaro, Chairman Peter Kenney, Frank Santoro, Bryant Carter, and Jack Nigro.

said Sheets at the Oct. 17 press conference at City Hall. "We no longer have to worry about a source of revenue to keep our ballfields up to standard. It will be there."

The mayor, who received the loudest ovation at the press conference when he said that one of the new ballfields under construction at Quarry Hills would "absolutely be dedicated to girls' softball," said funds from the hotel/motel tax would enter the city's coffers in the next few weeks.

The hotel/motel tax, authored by Ward 2 Councilor Daniel Raymond, created a one percent local room occupancy tax which went into effect July 1 of this year. The occupancy tax will increase by one percent annually until it reaches the state maximum of four percent in 2004.

Funds generated can only be used for the preservation or acquisition of open space of the promotion of tourism, with 85 percent going to open space and 15 percent allocated towards tourism.

Pat Would Have Liked It

Pat Toland would surely have liked it.

Having the Children's Room in the new wing of the Thomas Crane Public Library named for her would have had her smiling that infectious Pat Toland smile.

But just having her family and all her long-time friends around her once again would also have made last Friday evening a special night for her, too.

Those friends who were instrumental in having the Children's Room dedicated in her memory and raising approximately $12,000 to have it furnished couldn't have thought of a more appropriate honor.

Pat loved children.

Before her political career, she was an elementary school teacher for 11 years. And that love of children and her strong feeling for their need of a good education grew through the rest of her life.

A life that was far too short.

Pat served nearly two decades with distinction in public life in Quincy. Including six years on the school committee and 12 years on the city council.

Two of those 12 years in the city council were as president, the first and only woman in the city's history to hold Quincy's second most powerful elective office.

She went on to become assistant city clerk, a job she loved, but sadly, would hold less than two years.

On Sept. 7, 1994, she lost a gallant, courageous battle against cancer. She was only 62.

Four mayors were among the more than 300 at Friday evening's dedication: Mayor James Sheets and former Mayors Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia and Frank McCauley, now a city councillor.

Sheets, who served in the city council with Pat and who earmarked proceeds from two of his golf tournaments to be added to the $12,000 raised by Pat's friends to complete the Children's Room, said of her:

"Pat Toland is Quincy's modern day Abigail Adams. She was the embodiment of all that Quincy stands for -- fairness, justice and to recognize the strength of Quincy is in its diversity."

Former Council President Peter Kolson, also known as "The Voice," and who also served with Pat in the council, led the large turnout in one of Pat's favorite patriotic songs, America the Beautiful, (all four verses.)

Another of her colleagues, City Clerk Joseph Shea, with whom she worked as a councilor and assistant clerk, emceed the program.

Shea seldom misses a face in the crowd that should be introduced. Even though scattered here and there, he managed to spot, among others, retiring School Supt. Gene Creedon,

SHEA

Dist. Atty. Bill Keating, Senator Michael Morrissey, Reps. Bruce Ayers, Steve Tobin, Ron Mariano, Councilors Tim Cahill and Pat McDermott, former Councilor Chuck Phelan and former School Committeeman Charles Sweeney, etc.

The reception was hosted by Pat's children: daughter Elizabeth Toland Bates and sons John and Brendan Toland in appreciation of all the effort that went into bringing about the Patricia Toland Children's Room.

Alicia Coletti, whose friendship with Pat spanned a half-century, recalled her love of children and the importance she placed on education and books making the naming of the Children's Room in her memory a fitting honor.

And, she added: "People can learn a lesson from Pat. She lived every day like it was her last. She was a very special person who cared about people."

Pat was held in high esteem by all who were fortunate to know her. Political friends, of course. And, political foes, too.

The late John Quinn, for example, served 24 years in the city council -- the longest ever. But in 1981, coming over from the school committee, Pat upset him by 382 votes and brought his political career to a skidding halt.

But John still liked her and they remained good friends.

And another of Pat's long-time friends, Gloria Noble, recalled Friday evening that Quinn's wife, Lorraine, played a role in honoring Pat.

After her death, Noble recalled:

"Lorraine Quinn said to me, 'We have to do something for Pat.'"

That got Noble to thinking and she came up with the idea of having the Children's Room to be named for Pat. Friends agreed.

She and the friends put together a fundraiser March 16, 1999 which would have been Pat's 67th birthday. Some 300 attending raising the nearly $12,000 for the Children's Room.

Those friends, in addition to Gloria Noble and Alicia Coletti, included Isabel Armstrong, Joyce Baker, Mary Blood, Elaine Clarke, Mary Collins, Norma Gacicia, Alice Gardner, Patricia Hannon, Ann Kane, Barbara Morris, Josephine Shea, Carol Stafford and Agnes Trillcott.

Most of them were together again Friday night to see their dream come true.

In politics and life, as I've said before, Pat was a lady always -- and in all ways.

If she had a fault, those who knew her would agree it had to be tardiness. It seems she never arrived at political or social functions or kept appointments on time.

She became famous for it. But no one really minded.

Her late arrivals became a lovable Pat Toland trademark. Half the fun of attending those functions was wondering how late Pat would arrive.

Somehow you got the feeling Friday evening that maybe Pat was there. And maybe she got there, for once -- on time.

City Employees To Receive Enhanced Basic Life Insurance

Mayor James Sheets recently announced the increase in basic life insurance for all active and retired employees of the city from the present amount of $5,000 to $7,500 effective Jan. 1, 2002 and to $10,000 effective July 1, 2002.

The mayor made the announcement at the Oct. 17 annual meeting of the Quincy Retiree Association.

A recommendation for such an increase had been made to the mayor earlier in the year by the Quincy Employees Insurance Advisory Committee, which meets monthly and consists of all union representatives and includes participation of retirees.

According to the QRA, the increase in basic life insurance is one of several "significant increases" in insurance benefits the mayor has made over the past decade, including: allowing surviving spouses to participate in subsidized health insurance programs; allowing a retiree who lost his or her spouse to include a new spouse in the city insurance program; and increasing the basic life insurance for active and retired employees from $2,000 to $5,000.

Thick Crunchy Cookies

If you like a thick crunchy cookie like I do, here is a great recipe I recently came across that really fit the bill.

Giant Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 cup dark brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter or stick margarine softened
- 1/2 cup applesauce
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 cups oats (regular)
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat sugar and butter for about five minutes. Add the applesauce and egg and beat well.

Combine the flour, oats, soda, cinnamon and salt. Add this mixture to the sugar mixture and beat at low speed until blended. Stir in the raisins, walnuts and the vanilla. Use about three tablespoons per cookie and drop two inches apart into a slightly greased cookie sheet. Flatten them slightly and bake for 10 to 15 minutes. Remove and place on a wire rack.

DENTISTRY

for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

MORE ON IMPLANTS

The endosteal (in-the-bone) dental implant involves making an incision in the gum and creating a hole in the jawbone. An artificial root, or "fixture" (usually made out of titanium), is then inserted in the jawbone to anchor the replacement tooth. The goal is osseointegration, in which the bone heals and creates a direct bond with the implant, which stabilizes it. Until a few years ago, getting an implant was a two-stage process that required incising the gum twice and two periods of healing. It took 6-8 months from evaluation to completion. Now, when only one or two teeth are involved and the gums and bones are healthy, a single-surgery technique can reduce the time to less than three months.

Do you have questions about implant dentistry? We want to provide you with the best dental care possible. Our goal is to be known as dentists who are gentle, caring, and friendly. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we use the most modern techniques and equipment. We want you to look and feel your very best. Call us at 617-479-6220 today for the professional attention and home care guidance that will make a difference in your oral health care regimen. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Much of the success of the one-stage dental implant process is due to advances in technology that improve stabilization of the fixture.

HAPPY HALLOWEEN!

Tips For A Safe Halloween

By ROBERT HANNA
Quincy Crime
Prevention Officer

Halloween may be a fun holiday for kids, but for parents, trick-or-treat time can be a little tricky. Concerns about children's safety — whether they are out in the neighborhood or back home with bags of booty — can darken the day more quickly than a black cat. But not to worry. To make Halloween a treat for all, follow these safety tips:

Make sure your kids dress up safely

- Check that the costumes are flame retardant so that little ones aren't in danger near burning jack-o-lanterns and other fire hazards.
- Keep costumes short to prevent trips, falls and other bumps in the night.
- Try make-up instead of a mask. Masks can be hot and uncomfortable and, more importantly, they can obstruct a child's vision — a dangerous thing when kids are crossing streets and going up and down stairs.

ROBERT HANNA

- Make sure kids wear light colors or put reflective tape on their costumes.
- Trick-or-treaters always should be in groups so they aren't tempting targets for real life goblins. Parents should accompany young children.

Make trick-or-treating trouble free

- Make sure older kids trick-or-treat with friends. Together, map out a safe route so parents know where they'll be. Tell them to stop only at familiar homes where the outside lights are on.

• Try to get your kids to trick-or-treat while it's still light out. If it's dark, make sure someone has a flashlight and pick well-lighted streets.

• Make sure kids know not to enter strange houses or stranger's cars.

Treats

• Kids need to know not to eat their treats until they get home. One way to keep trick-or-treaters from digging in while they're still out is to feed them a meal or snack beforehand.

• Check out all treats at home in a well-lighted place.

• What to eat? Only unopened candies and other treats that are in original wrappers. Don't forget to inspect fruit and homemade goodies for anything suspicious. By all means, remind kids not to eat everything at once or they'll be feeling pretty ghoulish for awhile.

Halloween can be a lot of fun for parents and kids alike — if everybody remembers the tricks and treats of playing it safe.

AAA Issues Motorist, Pedestrian Advisory For A Safe Halloween

Citing the fact there is a fourfold increase nationwide in young pedestrian injuries on Halloween, AAA issues a motorist and pedestrian advisory approaching the first Halloween of the new millennium.

"Every year, thousands of pedestrians across the United States and Canada are injured as a result of motor-vehicle crashes," said Robert P. Murray, AAA Southern New England Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs. "While this reality is reason enough for concern and action, government data shows a fourfold increase in injuries among young pedestrians on the evening of Halloween alone."

An analysis of data from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration indicates that among pedestrians age 5-14, an estimated four thousand injuries occur on Halloween between the hours of 4 to 10 p.m. This compares with an estimated one thousand injuries during these hours on every other day of the year.

"On Halloween evening, we're placing our children in probably some of the most dangerous traffic situations you could imagine," Murray said. "Our children are outside after dark, they walk on and cross unfamiliar streets and they often wear dark colors difficult for motorists to see."

Because of these safety concerns, many parents are finding alternative methods to celebrate such as local mall events and Halloween parties. For those parents and children who continue with a traditional Halloween, AAA recommends a few simple tips for a safe Halloween.

Motorists:

- Slow down: try driving 5 mph slower than the posted speed limit to give you extra time to react to children who dart out in front of you.

• Be extra alert to children crossing the street between parked cars or in the middle of the block.

• Broaden your scan -- look left and right into yards and front porches.

• Turn your headlights on even in daylight -- lights make you more visible.

• Arrive home a little earlier on Halloween if you can. Make sure you have all your treats ready, so you can avoid that last-minute rush to the store.

"Keeping kids safe is a huge safety children on Halloween," Murray said. "Keep in mind that trick-or-treaters are focused on candy and fun, rather than traffic safety. Remember that you're going to see pedestrians where you usually don't, and if you don't put safety first, you have thousands of accidents just waiting to happen."

Whose bright idea was this?!?

Mayoral candidate Bill Phelan:

"I want the mayor to agree to a moratorium on development...to halt all development...to freeze development 'till after the election."

— Mayoral Debates 10/2 & 10/9

Does that sound like a responsible suggestion to you — the wisdom of someone who has thought out the consequences? Halting development in Quincy would...

- Put hundreds of people out of work.
- Violate dozens of legal agreements, possibly putting the City of Quincy at serious financial risk.
- Needlessly delay completion of housing, parks, schools and more

Why would anyone want to stop the very projects that are making Quincy better, and helping us bridge difficult economic times?

Mayor Sheets says...

"The president has urged us to go about our business and return to normal as best we can. Bill Phelan won't lose his job in a shut-down, but hard-working electricians, plumbers, iron-workers and carpenters will. With your vote and your support, I'll keep Quincy moving forward."

Deware Offers To Dispose Of Old Flags With 'Respect'

If you've been flying the flag non-stop since the terrorist attack on New York Sept. 11 and Old Glory is getting a bit tattered by the wind, the Deware Funeral Home is ready to help.

Dewares is accepting old and damaged flags Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. or during scheduled visitation periods and will dispose of them "showing respect and dignity."

Old and damaged flags should not be disposed of with the regular trash and the funeral home will see that it is retired using the procedures recommended by the federal government.

There has been a dramatic increase in patriotism reflected in the display of the flag from homes and businesses as well as flying from cars and trucks since the attack on New York.

Michael Torchetti Graduates Basic Training

Army Pfc. Michael A. Torchetti has graduated from basic military training at Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Mo.

His aunt, Michelle Torchetti, lives at 362 West Squantum St., North Quincy.

Torchetti is a 2001 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Brian McNamee, a candidate for city Councillor at-large, says serving veterans will be a priority with him.

In speaking with veterans during the course of his campaign, McNamee said he learned older veterans have experienced delays in disability determinations. In particular, there is a large backlog of valid disability claims filed by World War II era veterans, he said.

McNamee said he welcomes a recently announced effort by the Veterans Administration to reduce the huge number of backlogged claims. He applauds the VA's recent announcement to hire 50 full-time employees to resolve more than 81,000 long-pending claims over the next 18 months. Most of these claims have been filed by veterans who are 70 or older and whose claims have been backlogged for a year or longer.

"If elected councillor at-large, I will work vigorously to assist Quincy veterans to receive the attention they deserve from the Veterans Administration," he said. "In light of the events of Sept. 11, we are again reminded of the sacrifices made by our members of the armed services. This is a time to renew our commitment to address the real needs of our veterans.

"I will fight to make sure Quincy veterans not wait one minute longer for assistance in their greatest hour of need. After all, those of us today who benefit from the sacrifices made by America's "Greatest Generation" did not have to wait when these brave individuals were asked to serve our nation."

QHS' Migdalia Tracy Named National Hispanic Scholar

Migdalia Tracy, a senior at Quincy High School, has been recognized as a scholar in the National Hispanic Recognition Program (NHRP), announces QHS Principal Robert Keuther, Jr.

Tracy is one of only 4,200 Hispanic students nationwide to have been selected for recognition.

Students enter the program by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) as high school juniors and identifying themselves as Hispanic. From the more than 200,000 students nationwide, approximately 4,900 of the highest scoring students were initially identified as semifinalists.

Based on further evidence of academic achievement, a select group of 4,200 have been recognized as a Scholar or Honorable Mention.

The names of all Scholars and Honorable Mentions are listed in the NHRP Publication, which has been released to colleges and universities to encourage them to seek out talented Hispanic students as potential candidates for admission.

JOHN ADAMS

At Adams Academy Symposium On John Adams' Life Oct. 29

The Adams National Historic Park will observe the 266th birthday of the nation's second president with a symposium entitled "John Adams: Monuments Will Never Be Erected to Me."

Ironically, the symposium will be held Monday, Oct. 29, a couple of weeks after the U. S. House voted to erect a memorial to Adams on or near the Mall in Washington, D. C.

The symposium will begin at 8 a.m. with registration at the Adams Academy, headquarters of the Quincy Historical Society, and continue throughout the day until early evening.

It is jointly sponsored by the Historical Society, the National Park Service and United First Parish Church, where Adams, his son, John Quincy, and their wives are buried.

John Ferling, professor of history at the State University of West Georgia, will open the program at 8:30 a.m. with a dissertation on "The Early Life of John Adams."

He is the author of "John Adams: A Life," and "Setting the World Ablaze: Washington, Adams, Jefferson and the American Revolution."

It will be followed at 10 a.m. by an examination of "The Legal Career of John Adams," by Judge Hiller B. Zobel, assistant justice of the Massachusetts Superior Courts.

He is the editor of "The Legal Papers of John Adams" and author of "The Boston Massacre."

The Rev. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister of the United First Parish, "the Church of the Presidents," will lecture on "The Religious Thought of John Adams" at 11:15 a.m.

After a break for lunch, Gregg L. Lint, editor of "The Adams Papers" and the principal editor of "The Papers of John Adams," will cover "The Diplomatic Career of John Adams" at 1:15 p.m.

C. Bradley Thompson, associate professor of history and political science at Ashland University, will speak on "The Political Thought of John Adams" at 2:45 p.m.

He is the author of "John Adams and the Spirit of Liberty."

Pulitzer Prize-winning author Joseph Ellis, who was cited for his "Founding Brothers: The Revolutionary Generation," will examine "The Character and Legacy of John Adams" at 4:15 p.m.

Ellis is also the author of "Passionate Sage: The Character and Legacy of John Adams."

The evening part of the program will feature a performance of "Adams and Jefferson: Posterity Must Judge," with Steven Perlman in the role of Adams and Bill Barker as Thomas Jefferson, starting at 7 p.m.

In this dramatic portrayal, Perlman of the Independence National Historical Park and Barker of Colonial Williamsburg engage in a lively dialogue about the political, economic and social development of the nation they helped to found.

The welcome to the symposium will be given jointly by Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Park, and Joyce Baker, president of the Quincy Historical Society at 8:15 a.m.

The symposium will be followed on Tuesday, Oct. 30, John Adams' actual birthdate in 1735, by a wreath-laying at United First Parish Church and a talk by David McCullough, author of a best-selling biography of John Adams.

Curry Family To Be Honored By Maria Droste Agency

Quincy's Curry Family will be honored by the Good Shepherd's Maria Droste Agency Thursday, Nov. 8 for exemplifying family values.

Three generations of the Curry family, headed by Paul, founder of the Curry Hardware stores, and son, Robert, community activist, will receive the third Family Award at a 6 to 8 p.m. reception in the atrium at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Washington St., Quincy Center.

Previous recipients of the award were Mayor James Sheets and Family and Henry Bosworth and the Bosworth and The Quincy

BOB CURRY

Sun Family.

All three recipients were unanimous choices of the committee.

This year's committee is co-chaired by Robert and Gloria Noble.

The committee and Sister Joanne Westwater, executive director of the Maria Droste Agency, 1354 Hancock St., Quincy Center, said the Curry family, like the past recipients exemplify the same values that the agency, through its counseling services, strives to cultivate and encourage.

For more than 10 years, the agency's focus has been directed to restoring dignity to those who would otherwise not be able to afford the type of counseling it offers.

Medal Of Honor Recipient Returns To NQHS Today

Congressional Medal of Honor recipients, Everett P. Pope, will return to North Quincy High School today (Thursday) to visit with current students.

Pope, a member of the class of 1937, was originally scheduled to visit his alma mater Sept. 13, but that was postponed because of the terrorism attacks Sept. 11 in New York City and Washington, D.C.

The Congressional Medal of Honor Convention scheduled for Boston the same week was also postponed until this week because of the attacks.

North Quincy High School, which Pope will visit today from 9 a.m. to noon is one of 10 selected schools in the Greater Boston area that Medial of Honor recipients will visit in conjunction with the convention being held by the Congressional Medal of Honor Society.

Purpose of the school visits is to give students the opportunity to meet the Medal of Honor recipients and hopefully inspired by them to develop strong character and leadership skills.

Pope received the Medal of Honor in World War II for heroism in the invasion of Peleliu Island in the Pacific where he also saw action at Guadalcanal and Cape Gloucester. He also earned the Bronze Star with Comat V for meritorious action.

Pope was born in Milton in 1919 and after attending Quincy public schools, graduated with honors from Bowdin College in 1941.

He then entered the U.S. Marine Corps and was commissioned a second lieutenant with the 1st Marine Division.

After World War II, Pope entered the banking industry and became president of Workmen's Cooperative Bank in Boston. He was called to active duty briefly during the Korean War and retired from banking in 1980.

He has been married to NQHS classmate Eleanor Hawkins for more than 59 years. They have two sons and two grandchildren and now live in Florida.

In addition to the school visits other special events are planned during the Medal of Honor Convention.

They include a memorial service at Old North Church in Boston, a public reception at the State House, a Patriotic Concert at the Hynes Veterans Convention Center and the Society's Patriot Award Dinner.

The dinner Friday will feature the presentation of the Patriot Award to Richard J. Egan, chairman emeritus of EMC Corporation, the "Tex" McCrary Award to Tim Russert, NBC and the Bob Hope Award to Celtic tenor John McDermott for his work with veterans causes.

The Medal of Honor Society is still open to sponsorships. For more information, contact Deborah Hefan at 617-439-7700.

Broad Meadows Fair Nov. 3 To Aid Child Victims Of Sept. 11 Attacks

The students and PTO of Broad Meadow Middle School will hold a Red, White, and Blue Children's Fair Saturday, Nov. 3 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the school, located at 50 Calvin Rd.

All proceeds from the fair will benefit the child victims of the Sept. 11 attack on America, specifically: The Twin Towers Orphan Fund; The Families for Freedom Scholarship Fund (endorsed by former Senator Bob Dole and from President Bill Clinton); The American/United Airline Victims' Families Fund; and The September 11 Fund.

Funds raised will be used to provide long-term aid to the children who lost parents in the attack, including scholarships, housing, and counseling.

In highlighting the importance of funds specifically dedicated to child victims, Broad Meadows Language Arts Teacher Ron Adams noted estimates by The New York Times that as many as 15,000 children may have lost a mother or father, or both, as a result of the Sept. 11 attack.

The event will feature a yard sale, bake sale, and bike sale as well as an auction and raffle. There will also be facepainting, games, and other activities for children.

One highlight of the Red, White, and Blue Children's Fair will be an 11 a.m. ceremony in which students will present "certificates of thanks" to invited representatives of all military branches, the Quincy Police Department, the Quincy Fire Department, and the Quincy Emergency Management Agency.

"It's a way to say 'thank-you' to those who protect our freedom Sept. 11 and every other day," Adams said.

The certificates of thanks, Adams said, were individualized for each particular group. For instance, the certificate for firefighters was designed by the daughter of a Quincy firefighter.

Students are calling the event a "fair" rather than fundraiser, said Adams, to emphasize the community aspect of the project, which has already seen efforts by students and PTO members and "incredible support" from the local business community.

Since 1994, students at the Broad Meadows Middle School have initiated numerous community service projects and global campaigns to help educate children in Pakistan, Nepal, El Salvador, and Haiti. The students have worked to improve daily life in Quincy and have also raised more than $100,000 for children in developing countries.

Recipients of several awards, including the 1995 Reebok Youth-In-Action Human Rights Award, Broad Meadows students, led by Adams, raised $147,000 in the mid-1990's to a build a five-room school in Kasur, Pakistan in memory of 12-year-old Iqbal Masih, a former child labor slave who visited and spoke at Broad Meadows in 1994 and was murdered the following year on his return to Pakistan.

The purpose of the Red, White, and Blue Children's Fair Nov. 3, as expressed in an appeal letter sent by Grade 7 students Tom Keefe, Laura Bloomer, and Jackie Sullivan, is twofold: to demonstrate that student activism at the school will not stop because of terrorism and to help "innocent US kids who lost a parent on Sept. 11."

A RED, WHITE, AND BLUE Children's Fair will be held Saturday, Nov. 3 at the Broad Meadows Middle School to raise funds for the child victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. The community event is sponsored by the students of Broad Meadows and its PTO. Helping to spread the word about the event are future, current, and past Broad Meadows students including, kneeling from left: Emily Murphy, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Kristen Bloomer, grade 5, Merrymount; Jackie Sullivan, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Laura Bloomer, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Rita Wang, grade 9, North Quincy High School; and Mary Bloomer, grade 9, Archbishop Williams High School. Standing from left are: Maria McNulty, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Helen Do, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Keri Dolan, grade 4, Merrymount; John Cappellano, grade 10, Quincy High School; Tinny Zhu, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Carina Correia, grade 6, Broad Meadows; Ivy Huang, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Alice Correia, grade 8, Broad Meadows; Mai Pham, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Donyelle Carmody, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Lillian Sticco, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Genevieve Humez-Rousseau, grade 9, North Quincy High School; Tom Keefe, grade 7, Broad Meadows; Elizabeth Bloomer, grade 11, Archbishop Williams High School; Alicia Cappellano, grade 11, Quincy High School. Holding sign are Michael Quigley, grade 11, Quincy High School and Kayla Dolan, grade 7, Broad Meadows.

Finn Endorsed By Local 285 Service Employees International

Joe Finn announces he has received the endorsement of SEIU Local 285 in his bid to become an at-large city councillor for the city of Quincy.

Finn, the only at-large candidate in Quincy to receive an endorsement from the Local, has promised to protect working families in Quincy by ensuring access to affordable health care, provision of a living wage, and stemming the tide of privatization which lowers wages and destabilizes city services.

Finn said he firmly supports the right of workers to gain a voice at the workplace.

"I firmly believe in the importance of organized labor. I also believe that much of what is wrong in the midst of our present economy is that the input of the most vested stakeholders of the workplace (workers) is ignored," Finn said.

Finn also supports a Responsible Employer Ordinance and Project Labor Agreements in the city of Quincy. Both of these measures will help to ensure a well-trained and well-protected workforce for the city of Quincy, he said.

Finn was endorsed by Local 285 after the Local's Committee on Political Education (COPE) recommended the endorsement that was then adopted by the Local's Executive Board. Both the Local 285 COPE and Executive Board are comprised almost wholly of rank and file members of Local 285.

SEIU Local 285 is a 12,000 member statewide union. Local 285 represents several hundred members in the city of Quincy in the public and health care sectors.

Connolly Calls For Ward 4 Development Master Plan

Bryan Connolly, candidate for Ward 4 councillor, is calling for a master plan for development in Ward 4.

"Development done right is good for a community,"

Connolly said. "But to do it right, you need to establish thorough plans that assess the impacts on neighborhoods and ensure any future development is in the community's best interest. That's why we must make Ward 4's long-needed master plan a reality."

Connolly said that since 1997, there have been five major office buildings, five large-scale apartment and condominium complexes, a hotel, and another Home Depot permitted for development in Ward 4.

He noted that these new Ward 4 developments create 1,642 new apartment units and 31 new stories of hotel and office space, which will bring 29,500 new vehicle trips per day to Ward 4.

"In Ward 4 over the past four years, we've had too much, too fast, with too little in return," Connolly said. "I want to make sure that any future development in Ward 4 is what our community really wants and brings the mitigation our community deserves."

The list of Ward 4 developments permitted and built since 1997 in the absence of a master plan, he said, includes: The Rosecliff Apartments on Willard Street, Four Batterymarch Park off Willard Street, The Village at Crown Colony, the Marriott Hotel, and four major office buildings in the Crown Colony office park.

Other major developments that have recently been approved he said, include the Highpoint Apartments on Quarry Street. (1,040 apartments), the Village at Quarry Hills apartment complex (316 apartments), the new Rosecliff Apartments extension (130 apartments) and the second Home Depot on Centre Street.

"I want to bring a balanced approach to development that regains control in Ward 4 and considers all the issues, including traffic, local labor agreements, open space and the general quality of life issues that development brings," Connolly said.

"By establishing a master plan for development, we can ensure that development in Ward 4 moves forward in the community's best interest," he said.

Four Point Education Plan Proposed By Keenan

John F. Keenan, a candidate for city councillor at-large, proposes a four-point education plan.

The first point, he said, calls for the city to proceed with the construction of a new Quincy High School on Coddington Street.

"The site has been chosen, so now it is time to resolve the neighborhood and site drainage issues and begin construction before another generation of school children miss the opportunity to attend a new high school," said Keenan.

As a member of the High School Siting Commission, Keenan was an advocate for the Coddington Street site and prepared a financial analysis detailing the cost benefits of the site versus other sites under consideration.

"As a city councillor," Keenan said, "I would vote for the funding for the new high school on Coddington Street. There is the opportunity to have 90 per cent of the cost of the school reimbursed by the state. It makes good educational and financial sense to proceed now."

The second point, he said, is for the city council to provide the funding for the repair, renovation and maintenance of a school buildings.

"The city has made progress in this regard," said Keenan, "especially with the recent window projects at the Broadmeadows and Atlantic Middle Schools. As a

Show Nov. 2 & 3

The Massasoit Ceramic League of Quincy will hold its 27th annual ceramics show Friday and Saturday, Nov. 2 & 3, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Braintree Armory on Union Street.

The show will feature exhibitors from all over the country, booth demonstrations, amateur and professional competition. Parking is free and the armory is wheelchair accessible.

Admission is $3 or $2.50 with discount tickets that are available by calling 617-479-4107.

city councillor, I would work to ensure sufficient funding for the regular repair and upkeep of all school buildings in the city. Preventive maintenance and regular repairs, rather than delaying matters, will save money in the long-run."

The third point, Keenan said, would be to work with the School Committee to ensure that the school system offers a teaching environment that will attract and keep the best and brightest teachers.

"Beyond making sure that school buildings are in good shape for teachers and students, we must make sure we are offering competitive teacher salaries and benefits and a positive work environment," said Keenan. "With so many of our teachers retiring, we owe it to our students to replace them with the best and brightest young teachers available. The City Council can work with the School Committee to provide the resource necessary to accomplish this goal."

The fourth point, Keenan said, is to keep class sizes down, new books on desks, computers in the classrooms and essential programs in place.

"Like everything else," he said, "to accomplish this will require a commitment from the City Council to provide the necessary funding. Although finances in the city will get tight over the next few years, I believe that with sound financial management we can meet this goal."

"As a graduate of the Quincy Public Schools (Wollaston, Central and North Quincy High '82)," Keenan added, "I appreciate the value of public education in Quincy. As a councillor at-large, I will work with the School Committee to ensure that our students and teachers have the very best we can offer."

Three Easy Steps For Removing Wallpaper

• Step 1: Score the wallpaper. Since most wallpaper has a washable, water-proof surface, it's necessary to score it first to ensure that the wallpaper stripper is able to reach and loosen glue underneath. Zinsser's PaperTiger, a palm-held tool with small cutting wheels that perforate the wallpaper without damaging the wall, is designed specifically for safe, fast and easy scoring.

• Step 2: Apply a liquid or gel wallpaper stripper to the surface. Zinsser's DIF Wallpaper Stripper is available in a liquid concentrate, gel or spray gel. Simply apply the wallpaper stripper with a sponge, brush or roller. Or, spray it on with new DIF Gel in a 32 oz. spray. Wait 15-20 minutes. The fast acting enzyme formula dissolves even hard-to-remove glue, like clay-based adhesive.

• Step 3: Scrape off the loose wallpaper. Zinsser's Paper Scraper helps get the wallpaper off without hard work or surface damage. If any glue remains, simply re-apply the stripper to the area, wait 15-20 minutes, remove with Paper Scraper or a sponge and rinse with clean water. It's that simple.

For more information, call Zinsser at 732-469-8100.

DOWN TO BASICS

The typical first-time buyer saves for about 2 1/2 years for the down payment on a home. If that seems beyond your reach, bear in mind that the typical first-time homebuyer now puts down 10% or less, thanks to many low-down payment programs available from banks, mortgage lenders, and developers. The advantage of a low down payment is obvious. Many financial experts, however, advise coming up with the full 20% down payment whenever possible for several reasons. For one, the lender will not require you to pay for mortgage insurance. You might also get a better interest rate. And with more equity in your home, the greater the likelihood you will come out ahead financially should you need to sell quickly.

Many first-time homebuyers have a down payment of about ten percent.

However, low-down-payment programs are available for those buyers who have less than that amount. ERA CENTRAL REAL ESTATE provides complete guidance on all aspects of real estate purchases. We can review your income and savings and direct you to loan programs that are most suitable. With interest rates at their lowest in many years, you may find that a monthly mortgage may be equal to or less than rent. As a locally owned office, we live and work in the community and remain committed to its growth. Call us at 617-328-1312, or visit us at 128 Mayor McGrath Highway.

HINT: For low-down-payment options, ask your lender about first-time buyer programs offered by the FHA and VA, which require just 5% or even 3% down to qualified buyers.

Quincy Park, Recreation Board Reaffirms Support For Quarry Hills Lease

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board has voted unanimously (9-0) to reaffirm its support for the Quarry Hills Recreational Complex lease agreement between the City of Quincy and the Quarry Hills Associates.

The board voted unanimously to voice its support at its October meeting in response to recent public criticism of the deal.

"The City of Quincy will benefit from this project for generations to come," said Peter Kenney, chairman of the Park and Recreation Board. "The city will receive hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue every year. We will receive the use of four new baseball diamonds and four youth soccer fields. This deal is a home run for the citizens of Quincy. Anyone who promises you a better deal might also try to sell you the Brooklyn Bridge."

The City of Quincy entered into a 50-year lease agreement with Quarry Hills Associates for the construction of an 18-hole golf course and a youth recreational complex at the site of an old city dump.

The lease agreement requires the city to pay for none of the construction costs of this championship golf course. In addition, the city will receive 10 percent of the annual gross revenue of the greens fees and 10 percent of the annual net revenue generated by the clubhouse facility. It is estimated that the revenue share generated for the City of Quincy will exceed $500,000 annually.

"Not only will Quarry Hills undertake the construction of the new youth playing fields, but they will also be responsible for the day-to-day maintenance of the facilities," said Bryant Carter, secretary of the Park and Recreation Board. "This is a large burden lifted off the shoulders of our city's resources."

The Quarry Hills Recreational Complex is being constructed on the site of a former municipal landfill in West Quincy. The landfill is being capped by the Quarry Hills Associates with excavated fill materials from the Big Dig. In addition to the landfill area, Quarry Hills Associates purchased several adjacent industrial zoned parcels that could have been developed into commercial or industrial use. Due to this project, this entire area will now become open space. Upon completion, there will be 475 acres of active and passive recreational open space.

"This project represents the most significant addition of open space and recreational resources in Quincy's history," said State Rep. Ron Mariano, Quincy Park and Recreation board member. "I have been involved with this project from the legislative side as state representatives and the park side as a board member and I firmly believe that the interests of all the citizens of Quincy are very well represented in this lease agreement."

The golf course is scheduled to open in 2002. A clause in the lease agreement ensures that the youth playing fields are ready for play before a round of golf is played.

"Our city's children will enjoy one combined athletic complex that cities as densely populated as Quincy never get to enjoy," said Howard Crowley, an 18-year member of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board. "This facility will provide countless recreational opportunities for the people of Quincy without any cost to Quincy's taxpayers and without any loss of open space."

"In all my years of involvement with park and recreation issues, I have never seen such a winner of a deal for the city. The benefits of the project are immense and should not be overshadowed by political pandering."

In the aftermath of the Sept. 11 attacks on the United States, many people have reported anxiety-related symptoms such as heartburn, upset stomach, insomnia and headaches.

It's important to recognize that you can treat temporary symptoms with over-the-counter remedies. You don't need to suffer from headaches, heartburn and insomnia when you can take pain relievers, antacids and sleep aids.

However, if problems persist, make an appointment to see a doctor. Chronic headaches, for example, could signal more serious problems.

Morrissey Joins Legislators In 'Going Back To School'

Sen. Michael Morrissey was among the members of the State Senate who participated in recent "American Legislators Back to School Week" by visiting North Quincy High School.

Morrissey, the father of both middle school and a high school students, has had a strong interest in education. His father was a vocational school teacher for almost 30 years and Morrissey himself holds a teaching certificate.

"American Legislators Back to School Week" is a national program developed and sponsored by the National Conference of State Legislatures and the Center for civic Education.

"This is the second year that state legislators from every state joined with their educational counterparts to participate in this exciting program," said Morrissey.

National professional groups representing elementary and secondary school principals are among the educational organizations that have offered support for the program.

"The goal of 'America's Legislators Back to School Week' is to educate future citizens about what it is like to be a state legislator, what the legislature does and how citizens can influence the process," said Morrissey.

The vent focuses the attention of state legislators on improving civic education during the same week all across the country and building personal links between the schools. It also provides legislators an opportunity to observe what is going on in schools.

"Legislators who 'go back to school' in their districts are expected to explain what it's like to represent other citizens in helping to decide large and small public policy issues," Morrissey said.

"Rather than simply explaining how a bill becomes a law, participating legislators will discuss how they respond to competing interests and resolve disputes on public issues and problems."

The legislators, using examples from their own experience, talked about the role of negotiation and compromise in efforts to achieve consensus among competing groups of interest to issues which are often contentious because of deeply held viewpoints.

Back Freeze On Unemployment Insurance Rate

The Massachusetts House of Representatives recently approved legislation freezing the current unemployment insurance rate schedule at its current rate, Schedule "B".

The legislation will help maintain the stability of the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund, and prevent further financial burden on Massachusetts business currently struggling in the slowing of the economy, according to Quincy's three representatives.

Rep. Ronald Mariano said "it is important in these unpredictable economic times that we make sure businesses have something to fall back on." Rep. Stephen Tobin said "now is the time to tap into the surplus funding in order to keep people confident that businesses will keep running smoothly."

Rep. Bruce Ayers also stressed "it is important for us in the legislation to ensure that we keep the needs of employers and employees in mind by making sure the stability of our economy is guaranteed."

According to Commerce and Labor Chairman William Greene, it is the appropriate time to offer consistency to the business community.

"The Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund is truly an insurance fund," he said. "We build up this account in good economic times to insure a surplus during economic downturns. Because we now have close to a $2 billion surplus we feel very comfortable recommending a rate freeze at the current "B" Schedule. By doing this we will allow Massachusetts businesses to save $100 million to guarantee economic stability."

Also approved in the debate was an amendment, which sets aside the one-week waiting period for collecting unemployment insurance benefits. House Speaker Thomas Finneran said, "This legislation is both prudent and cautious. It will allow the commonwealth sufficient certainty that the fund will continue to offer financial guarantee to both the employees and employers of Massachusetts."

For nine of the last 10 years, the legislature has set the rate below the rates required by the decades old rate setting statute. Under state law the present unemployment rate, 3.9 percent, would trigger a change in the amount businesses are required to pay into the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund. Currently operating under Schedule "B", the shift to Schedule "C" would cost employers an extra $40 a year. Over the past 10 years of economic growth the fund has grown to almost $2 billion. This is enough to cover 17 months of Unemployment Insurance costs at projected rates.

The Commerce and Labor Committee has received support for this legislation from both Associated Industries of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts AFL/CIO.

Delahunt Lists Benefits Available To Active Reservists, Employers

Congressman Bill Delahunt has outlined the resources available to families of military reservists called to active duty and for small businesses that may suffer from the loss of key employees in the wake of the terrorist Sept. 11 attack on New York City.

For tens of thousands called to service on Sept. 14 --- and for their families, employers and communities --- the days and weeks ahead are fraught with uncertainty," he said. "Getting well informed early about the options can save money, time and anxiety.

"It will help you to ask questions and gets answers now, so you won't run into trouble later that could have been easily avoided. In many cases, practical help is available and accessible --- but you have to seek it out."

A provision of federal law that entitles reservists to significant reductions in home mortgage rates is well-publicized but, said Delahunt, less attention has been paid to several other programs that could be helpful as 35,000 reservists leave for up to two years.

The Small Business Administration (SBA), he said, will offer low interest loans of up to $1.5 million to firms financially impacted by the loss of key employees. The money can be used to pay debts, payroll, accounts payable and other bills.

The interest rate on these loans is 4 per cent, with a maximum term of 30 years. Businesses may apply for Military Reservist Economic Injury Loans beginning from the date the employee is ordered to active duty.

Small businesses on the South Shore may apply through the SBA office in Niagara Falls, N. Y., by calling toll-free 800-659-2955.

While the SBA assistance is geared to employers, other federal agencies are also focused on the financial and practical needs of the reservists and their families.

Delahunt noted that the Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR) website, www.esgr.org, has a comprehensive description of the rights and opportunities of reservists.

The ESGR also offers an ombudsman service, reachable toll-free at 800-336-4590.

Anyone seeking assistance about reemployment can also call the Veterans Employment and Training Services (VETS) office at the U. S. Department of Labor at toll-free 866-4-USA-DOL or visit the VETS service center in Room E-315 at the JFK Federal Building in Boston. No appointment is necessary.

The Department of Defense administers the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, which ensures that mobilized reservists can maintain employer-sponsored health care coverage for 18 months.

These regulations are outlined on the ESGR website at www.esgr.org/faqmembers.html.

As an alternative, families of reservists called to duty for over a month can choose to enroll in TRICARE, the Pentagon's health maintenance organization, whose background can be found online at www.tricare.osd.mil.

The Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act of 1940 has been invoked by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to relieve some of the reservists' anxieties about meeting monthly housing expenses.

Among other things, it entitles active duty reservists to reductions in mortgage interest rates to 6 per cent, protects against foreclosure and permits termination of rental leases without financial penalty.

Details are available online at www.hud.gov, and the toll-free hotline is 888-297-8685.

Further details about these provisions and other federal responses to the Sept. 11 attacks are available through Delahunt's internet website at www.house.gov/delahunt.

COLONEL DAVID GAVIGAN, a specialist in the area of terrorism, was the keynote speaker of an Anti-Terrorism Seminar held Tuesday at the Quincy Naval Reserve Center. "There is no silver bullet," Colonel Gavigan warned his listeners, which included many city officials and department heads including several representatives of the Quincy Police Department and Quincy Fire Department.

Terrorism Expert Urges Awareness

"We are not set up to deal with terrorism in this country," said Colonel Gavigan, explaining that America was adequate in Counter Terrorism, which he defined as the active response to terrorism, but lacking in the area of Anti-Terrorism, which he defined as the unglamorous but necessary "passive" activities such as planning, training, equipment, intelligence, and media.

"We don't do this well. We're getting better but there's more work to be done," he said.

The presentation, which included an almost prophetic PBS special Jihad in America produced in 1994, was straightforward and unemotional, even as it discussed chilling facts such as the extremist group Al-Kifah's distribution of 25,000 copies of its "Al-Jihad" newsletter in the United States or 1991 phone records showing a known terrorist who made two calls to Quincy.

Colonel Gavigan said one goal of terrorism was to influence an audience far beyond that of its direct victims, adding the United States should start counting and treating the "psychological victims" of terrorism.

Emphasizing the importance of awareness, Gavigan warned of hoaxes and rumors which distract the nation from true concerns. He urged listeners to ignore common stereotypes of the terrorist, one of which is that the terrorist is not intelligent.

"They (terrorists) are some of the smartest people in the world," he said, noting their years of training and single-mindedness of purpose.

"Remember: there is no silver bullet," he added.

Colonel Gavigan, whose most recent assignment is to command the Bristol County Sheriff's Office Special Operations Unit, investigated both the bombing of the World Trade Center in 1993 and the recent attack Sept.

Tuesday's seminar, which had strict security including the inspection of vehicles, was sponsored by the mayor's office and the Quincy Emergency Management Association.

New Electricity Supply Contract Will Save City Estimated $260,000 A Year

The city has signed a contract with AES NewEnergy to supply electricity to municipal buildings for the next three years.

Mayor James Sheets said the city is taking advantage of falling energy market prices which will reduce the annual cost to the city by approximately $260,000.

The city issued a request for proposals to four companies in early October, and received bids from three of those companies Oct. 17. AES NewEnergy was the low bidder and was awarded the contract.

Sheets said, "Many communities are shocked by the budget busting increases in electricity that occurred earlier this year. We have demonstrated in Quincy how to achieve low, fixed, stable, long-term prices that make it easier to manage municipal budgets."

Under terms of the contract, AES delivers the electricity to Massachusetts Electric, and Mass Electric delivers that electricity over its own wires to the meters in the municipal buildings. Mass Electric is the provider of last resort in the event AES is unable for any reason to deliver the electricity to the utility.

Consequently, the reliability of electric supply is not impacted by this contract, Sheets said. Mass Electric continues to be responsible for the reliable delivery of electricity to city buildings. The only difference is that the price is reduced.

Quincy is only the third community in the state to successfully procure power supply, in a single community procurement, for its own municipal accounts. The price procured by Quincy stands as the current record for the lowest price obtained by any municipality this year. This includes single community procurements and the larger multiple community procurements.

Robert Kinschurf of AES NewEnergy said, "AES NewEnergy is pleased to have the opportunity to provide electrical service to the city and we look forward to a long and positive relationship."

Mexican Restaurant Planned At Downtown Landmark

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

After more than 50 years as Barry's Ship's Haven and then Barry's Deli on 1237 Hancock St., the site will become a Mexican Restaurant called Fajitas & 'Ritas when the request is expected to be approved next week by the License Board.

At the request of Police Chief William Falco and supported by chairman Joseph Shea, the vote was delayed a week while board members have more time to review the request. Falco said he would refer it to Det. Lt. Robert M. Perchard, liquor inspector.

Manager Bradley Fredericks outlined the new concept as he addressed the board Tuesday.

Fredericks also asked for a cabaret license in addition to the all alcoholic and common victualer license for the tex-mex oriented eatery with about 70 percent of the business being for food and 30 percent for liquor, he said.

Fredericks said the 80 seat restaurant will be converted where the cafeteria line is now, will be the bar area with the dining room on the left.

There will be handicapped rest room on the first floor. Also a TV and back ground music with a DJ for special events.

There are two other Fajitas and 'Ritas, one in Boston and one in Brookline Village. Chairman Joseph Shea said he plans to visit the one in Boston before next week's meeting.

The hours will be from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday; and from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursdays and 11:30 to 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association said the city does not have this "ethnic style restaurant" and that it would "add excitement at this location."

James Mullaney, candidate for Ward 5 councillor said he had attended the QCBPA meeting in which Fredericks outlined his plan and said he was "very impressed" and said it would be an "excellent addition for people and families."

The menu will include chicken and shrimp fajitas, smoked barbecue featuring a brisket platter and pulled pork platter, quesadillas, burritos, chili, tequila wings, nachos, salads, soups and various side dishes and dessert specials.

The drinks will feature Margaritas ('Ritas), frozen strawberry 'Rita, as well as draft and bottled beer and wines and cocktails. There will also be many non-alcoholic beverages as well.

LEO KELLY, chairman of the Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission, stands with a new sign at Edgewater Drive Beach. Signs at the city's other municipal beaches have also been erected by the Quincy Parks Department. In the background is a sand raker loaned to the city by the Town of Weymouth. The raker cleans sand and removes debris, preparing for new sand to be added at city beaches next spring.

Better Business Bureau Cautions Donors About False Appeals During National Tragedy

In the wake of the tragic events at the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, many charitable organizations are launching campaigns to help victims and their families.

The Better Business Bureau warns potential donors against fraudulent appeals for relief. While the BBB encourages the public to contribute to helpful causes, it is critical for donors to check out soliciting groups to make sure that their contributions go to those who need them.

"As resolute as Americans are to bring the perpetrators of this act to justice, so too are the other cowards who will prey on our emotions and attempt to take advantage of our good will and generosity," said Robert H. Williams, president and CEO of the Better Business Bureau of Eastern Massachusetts, Maine, and Vermont.

Organizations conduct solicitations for relief in several ways: through the mail, telephone, door-to-door appeals, solicitors stationed outside busy stores or traffic intersections, the Internet, and announcements in magazines, newspapers, radio, and television. Fraudulent solicitors rely on the fact that individuals will not question their efforts and often demand on-the-spot contributions. Remember, the opportunities to give will continue. The tragedy's aftermath will not disappear when the headlines do.

The public will receive appeals from both established and newly formed organizations. Regardless of the organization's age, appeals should clearly describe the specific services the charity intends to provide to those with injuries or whose family members were killed or are missing due to terrorist attacks.

Further, they should describe whether the organization intends to meet immediate or long-term needs of those victimized by this tragedy, or both. Even newly established charities should have written material available describing their programs, anticipated expenditures, and how they will carry out activities.

Dependable Cleaners Collects Books For Department Of Social Services

This summer, Quincy-based Dependable Cleaners, in partnership with the Department of Social Services, encouraged area residents to donate new and/or slightly used books for the 40,000 children under the care of DSS social workers.

Throughout the seven-week Caring for Kids books drive, each of the 16 Dependable Cleaners locations throughout the South Shore and Boston, served as a depository for the books. The first donation to DSS was made in June, when 1,500 books were delivered to needy children in the Weymouth area.

In July, Dependable Cleaners donated the rest of the books to the Park Street office of DSS in Dorchester. Books will be delivered to needy children throughout the region by DSS social workers. Additionally, due to the overwhelming response, some of the books were shipped to the Plymouth office of DSS and handed out to needy children in that region as well.

"The Department of Social Services is extremely grateful to Dependable Cleaners and to all of the organizers and sponsors of the Read to Ride Program," said DSS Commissioner Jeffrey Locke. "The very vulnerable children in our care will benefit tremendously from the generosity and compassion of Read to Ride participants."

"Through reading, children can explore new worlds, broaden their horizons and expand their imaginations. This program will help to ensure that every child in Massachusetts, regardless of personal circumstances, will be able to enjoy the enriching experience of owning a favorite book," Locke said.

The Fore River Watershed Association (FRWA) will hold a general meeting for members and the public Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7 p.m. in the Canoe Room at Tufts Library, 46 Broad St., Weymouth Landing.

Topics will include discussion on the impacts of Sithe Energies, the MWRA, the Algonquin/HUB Gas Pipelines, Greenbush, the Fore River Bridge, the shipyard and Twin Rivers on the Fore River. The Board of Directors welcomes input from members and the public during this meeting on other issues concerning the Fore River watershed.

In preparation for the annual meeting Tuesday, Nov. 27, nominations may be made for officers to serve on the board. The officers are chairperson, vice chairperson, secretary and treasurer.

Present board members are Frank Singleton of North Weymouth, chairman; David Tandy of Germantown, vice chairman; Dolores Jakaus of Weymouth, treasurer; and Connie Tandy of Germantown, secretary.

The goal of FRWA is to promote, protect and improve the water quality, natural resources, cultural sites and recreational opportunities of the Fore River watershed.

Dr. Jack Dempsey will speak at the Oct. 30 meeting on two of the Fore River's most prominent cultural sites: Merrymount in Quincy and Wessagussett in Weymouth.

Dr. Dempsey is a novelist of the ancient Mediterranean world, a documentary producer, editor of "New English Canaan" by Thomas Morton of Merrymount and author of "Thomas Morton: The Life and Renaissance of an Early American Poet."

"New English Canaan," originally published in 1637, has only been reprinted twice, once in Peter Force's "Tracts" (1936) and in 1883 by the Massachusetts Historical Society. Dempsey's is the first edition created from and textually-collated with all known original copies in the world; and his is the first full-length biography of Morton.

Dempsey has also produced a documentary film "Thomas Morton and the Maypole of Merrymount" and has written a full-length feature film screenplay titled "Merrymount — a different early American," which tells the story of Morton's relationship with the land and the native people who inhabited it.

Dempsey's latest work is "Good News from New England and Other Writings on the Killings at Weymouth Colony," which includes a new edition of Pilgrim Edward Winslow's 1624 "Good News," the first printing since 1858 of Weymouth colonist Phineas Pratt's account of those tragic events of 1621-23; plus excerpts from influential, related works by William Bradford, Thomas Morton, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Charles Francis Adams, Jr., and others including Karen Ordahl Kupperman, all in one meticulous, easy-to-read volume

North Quincy Wins 3

GIRLS SOCCER

If the season were to end today, the North Quincy girls' soccer team would be the sixth seed in the Division 1 South Sectional tournament after posting three wins last week by a combined score of 9-2.

North Quincy (12-3-2 overall, 7-3-2 OCL) hosted Marshfield yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. and tomorrow afternoon it travels to Randolph. On Monday, it closes out the regular season at home against Silver Lake at 3:30 p.m.

Last Friday, the Red Raiders blanked Martha's Vineyard for the second time this season, winning 5-0 at home. They found themselves clinging to a 1-0 lead at the half when senior quad-captain Lauren Sleeth one-timed a cross from senior quad-captain Allie Lacey.

Junior midfielder Rachel Enos gave North Quincy some breathing room 10 minutes into the second half, taking a cross from junior forward Katy Mercurio and netting a shot to the far corner.

Sophomore forward Jenn Ryan then netted her sixth goal of the season with an assist from Lacey. Junior forward Christina Conley, who is slowly recovering from an ankle injury, redirected a pass into the net for her second goal. Junior forward Jen Venuti tallied her first varsity goal with freshman forward Eileen Price assisting for the final score.

Seniors Jackie Koch, Laura Matos, Meghan McLean and Amy O'Donnell all played well. Senior keeper Kathryn MacRitchie, a quad-captain, registered her sixth shutout and 21st of her career.

The previous day North Quincy traveled to Plymouth South and came away with a hard-fought 2-1 win. It dominated play throughout the game. Ryan had two excellent chances early but saw her shots miss high.

The Panthers took a 1-0 lead with 18 minutes left in the game on junior Shannon Venezia's penalty kick that beat MacRitchie. That goal seemed to fire up the Red Raiders as they pressed the attack.

Freshman Amanda Saylor, junior Katie Timmons and senior Kelly Coleman dominated midfield. Sleeth and Lacey pressured the Plymouth South defenders into numerous mistakes. Finally, senior Kate Markhard took a pass from Lacey and fired a perfect cross to a streaking Lauren Kalil, who headed a laser into the net for the equalizer.

Sophomore sweeper Sarah Gregory, junior defender Lauren McGee and sophomore forward Katy Faherty also played well.

Last Tuesday, North Quincy edged Barnstable, 2-1, at home. Timmons got the Red Raiders on top early, taking a ball which had deflected off a Barnstable defender and knocking a shot into the top corner for her second goal of the year.

Kalil, a junior midfielder, then scored her fourth of the season, and third game-winner, roofing a deflected shot just under the crossbar.

Barnstable scored with 10 minutes left to ruin MacRitchie's shutout bid. Senior quad-captain Kelly Rice, junior defender Jessica Jacques, McGee and Saylor played well.

Squirt B Travel Squad Bow, 6-2

The Quincy Squirt B Puck Hogs recently opened their travel hockey season with a 6-2 loss against a strong Needham team.

After falling behind 5-0 in the first period, Quincy regrouped in the second and third frames. Despite the score, Thomas Ridge and Nick Block provided strong goaltending.

The Puck Hogs avenged the loss with an 8-2 triumph over South Boston. Kevin Keith, Seamus McKenna and Matt Rodriguez each netted two goals, while Pat Young and Zack McCaul chipped in with one apiece.

Strong forechecking kept South Boston bottled up in its own end most of the game.

Quincy tied Parkway, 4-4, in its next game. After a tight first two periods with the score tied at 2-2, Parkway went up 4-2 at the start of the final frame. Quincy's defense, led by Victoria Virtue, Young, Andrew McCarthy and Kevin Chenette, kept Parkway at bay until the offense took over with less than five minutes left.

McKenna potted a pair of goals, while Peter Eeley and Rodriguez each had one. McCaul collected two assists.

MacDonald darted 20 yards for a touchdown and Joe Picone rushed for the two-point conversion to give the Panthers a 14-6 lead.

In the second half, the Manets moved the ball effectively, but the Panthers' Matt Moracame up with several defensive stops.

Freshmen Make Impact Quincy Volleyball Tourney Bound

By CHRIS POISSON

Not many would have expected the Quincy High School volleyball team to be in the position it is in now, including head coach Christine Barrett.

With the graduation of nine seniors from last year's team — a team that just missed the tournament by one game — the Presidents returned only three players with varsity experience and welcomed three freshmen this season.

Amazingly, Quincy roared out to a 9-3 start and eventually clinched a spot in Division I Central tournament.

Quincy fell to Plymouth North Monday but knocked off Rockland, 2-0, at home last Friday. The Presidents sport an 11-7 overall record, 10-5 in the Pilgrim Conference.

Against Rockland, junior Diane Gilbody tallied eight kills, four services aces and four digs. Junior Danielle Christi had six assists and freshman Nicole Cahill and junior Jen Gropp combined for 10 digs.

Quincy played Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) and tomorrow it travels to Marshfield to close out the regular season.

"If you had asked me at the beginning of the year that we'd start off 9-3, I would have said no," Barrett said. "We came in with just two players with a lot of varsity experience, a third with a little bit of experience and three freshmen. I would have said that I didn't expect to be where we're at."

One reason Quincy has rebounded to make the tourney in what was thought to be a rebuilding year has been the play of two freshmen: setter Rebekah Sorensen and middle hitter Cahill. Graduates of Tom Henderson's program at Central Middle School, both rookies were inserted into the starting lineup on Day 1 and they've been there ever since.

"They were put in roles that weren't the easiest and they stepped up and rose to the occasion," Barrett said. "I'm very impressed with the way they have played and they can only get better."

"Nicole has played for a couple of years and is an excellent addition to the team. She's a smart player who knows the game. She has good techniques.

"Rebekah is very good skills-wise. She stepped into a huge role as a setter as a freshman. That's like a freshman stepping in as the starting quarterback of a football team. There's big time pressure."

While Cahill and Sorensen have sparked the team, other players on the roster have contributed as well. Senior co-captain Meagan Donohue, a middle hitter, junior outside hitter Stephanie Fiandacca, junior defensive specialist Jen Gropp and Gilbody, a setter, have all performed well as starters.

The backups are senior co-captain Christina Roosa, freshman Nicole O'Sullivan, junior Danielle Christie, senior Lauren Sullivan and sophomore Bonnie Hirtle. Hirtle has provided important minutes off the bench as an outside hitter, helping the team recover from the loss of junior Shannon Paine, the projected starter who went down with an ankle injury before the season and hasn't played a game yet.

The Presidents' best game of the season was a loss last Wednesday at Dennis-Yarmouth, the Atlantic Coast League champs. They lost a tough first game, 18-16, and fell, 15-7, in the second match.

Although Quincy lost, the match gave Barrett an indication of what type of team she has going down the stretch and into the postseason.

"It has been a positive season," Barrett said. "The kids have worked hard. Their goal was to make the tournament and they have fulfilled that goal. Now our goal is to win the rest of our games to get a higher seed in the tournament."

Continues Dominance Over Barnstable North Girls Volleyball Win OCL Championship

By CHRIS POISSON

There were signs of greatness last season when the young and inexperienced North Quincy volleyball team shocked just about everyone by reaching the Division 1 Central finals, where it bowed to Newton North in five games.

There were signs over the summer when the team competed in the Junior Olympics, finishing second in the East Coast Championships at Penn State, the first time a New England team has placed that high.

Still, head coach James Rendle never expected the type of the season his Red Raiders have orchestrated this year.

After a 2-0 win over Plymouth South last Friday at home, North Quincy clinched the Old Colony League championship and remained undefeated with its 18th win of the season.

On Monday it beat Milford for its 19th win. It played Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) and tomorrow it travels to Marshfield.

"I didn't think we'd be as dominant as we have been," Rendle said. "I knew we would be strong, but the question was how strong?"

The Hancock Street juggernaut showed its strength last Wednesday when it traveled to the Cape and knocked off a powerful Barnstable team, 2-0, for the second time this season. Barnstable has lost only five times in the last three years — all to North Quincy.

"It was a big confidence booster for the kids," Rendle said. "That was just a huge win. There was a big crowd down there and a lot of noise. We withstood them in the first game, winning 16-14. They had two opportunities to win that game. We came back and controlled the second game, winning 15-8. That confidence is huge going into the tourney."

North Quincy's success this season can be attributed to its experience from a year ago and, more importantly, its depth. Rendle has no set starting lineup, using all 12 of players as much as possible.

"We've been dominant so far because of our balance," Rendle said. "All of the kids could start for any other team that I've seen. We have 12 starters. Our best competition is in practice against each other."

"Our strength is in our numbers. I've had a pretty successful program here for a number of years, but I've never had this kind of depth. I've got kids that are all-scholastics on the bench."

North Quincy does have specialists: Junior Makini Thompson (kills), junior center Kathleen McCarthy (assists), junior middle hitter Krystle Neves (blocks), senior captain Beth Houghton (digs) and junior Shannon Desmond (service points) lead the team in the respective categories.

And junior starters Julia McGunigle (second in digs and aces) and Kristen DiMatti play every position on the court.

"They very rarely come off court," Rendle said. "They're incredibly versatile. As are all the kids."

Other contributors are senior outside hitter Kahli Dearani who provides instant offense, six-footer Jill Mullen, defensive specialist Shelly Cheung and juniors Emily Haskins and Casey Lorman.

"We don't have a weakness," Rendle said. "Sure, anyone can have a bad day, but we have kids on the bench that can come in for them."

Presidents Playing Hard But Must Make Plays Visit Sandwich Saturday At 1:30 PM

There was one play last Saturday afternoon that defined the way things have been going for the Quincy High School football team the last five games.

Trailing 14-6 at Nauset early in the fourth quarter, junior Shawn Munchbach blocked a Nauset punt attempt that should have energized the team. But it just hasn't worked out that way for Quincy lately.

A President picked up the ball, fumbled and a Nauset player recovered for a first down. Although it didn't score, Nauset took about three or four minutes off the clock. Quincy went on to lose, 21-6, extending its winless streak to five games.

"The kids have been playing hard," said head coach Bob Noble. "At some point, we can't turn the ball over and we have to make a play."

Quincy (1-4-1 overall, 0-2-1 ACL) remains on the road Saturday afternoon when it takes on Sandwich (4-2, 1-1)

FOOTBALL

at 1:30 p.m. On Nov. 2 it travels to Dennis-Yarmouth and then it returns home the following week to battle Plymouth North before the Thanksgiving Day game.

The Presidents grabbed an early 6-0 lead on junior Shawn Munchbach's 90-yard opening kickoff return. The extra point was blocked.

On Quincy's next series it drove 60 yards to the Nauset 17, but it fumbled to end any chance of going up by two scores.

"It would've been a significantly different game," said Noble, if his team could've finished off the drive. "We've been plagued with inopportune turnovers. It has prevented us from scoring points. We've been our own worst enemy."

Nauset (5-1) took an 8-6 lead in the second quarter on junior quarterback Matt Polhemus's 7-yard TD pass to senior wideout Alex Dugas. Senior Mike DeVito rushed for the two-point conversion.

Near the end of the half, Quincy appeared to have scored another touchdown, but a Nauset defender ripped the ball out of a Quincy player's hands in the end zone for an interception.

"That was just a great individual effort by the Nauset defender," Noble said. "He came out of no where and literally stole the ball out of his hands."

In the second half, Nauset scored on the opening drive when senior fullback Ben Woods scored from 7 yards out for a 14-6 advantage.

Quincy had several opportunities, but were unable to convert on fourth-and-short situations to sustain drives.

Polhemus found the end zone from 5 yards with about three minutes left in the game and Sean Sullivan added the extra point for the final score.

Raider Rally Falls Short North Quincy At Silver Lake Friday Night

The North Quincy High School football team rallied back from a 14-0 deficit last Friday night at Plymouth South, but it still wasn't enough.

Trailing 21-14 late in the game, the Red Raiders were making their second comeback attempt but they came up short when Brian Shanley intercepted a pass and returned it 71 yards for a touchdown and a 28-14 victory.

North Quincy (2-4 overall, 1-4 OCL) will look to snap its three-game losing skid tomorrow (Friday) night at 7 at Silver Lake (3-2-1, 3-1), which is coming off a 25-0 win over Falmouth. It returns home the following week to battle Bridgewater-Raynham and hosts Canton Nov. 10 before the Thanksgiving Day game.

After falling behind 14-0 at the beginning of the third quarter, North Quincy finally got on the scoreboard on quarterback Dennis Thomson's 1-yard TD run. On the extra point attempt, Joe Fitzpatrick picked up the bad snap and found the end zone for two points to make it 14-8.

The drive was set up by junior defensive back Kevin Halloran's interception deep inside Plymouth South territory.

The Red Raiders received a break when the Panthers (3-3, 2-2) fumbled a punt return at their own 20-yard line and junior Gary Dalton pounced on the loose ball. Junior fullback Chris Dolbear tied the game with a 7-yard run. Thomson came up short on the go-ahead two-point conversion.

Plymouth South engineered a long scoring drive, capped by Shanley's 18-yard run with 3:02 left that put the Panthers ahead for good, 21-14.

The Panthers grabbed a 7-0 lead late in the first half on Greg Linnehan's 2-yard run. After North Quincy fumbled the opening kickoff of the second half, Linnehan scored his second TD of the night from 2 yards out for a 14-0 advantage.

City Cross-Country Championships Saturday

SAVING MONEY AT THE PUMP

To save money at the pump, use regular unleaded gasoline unless your owner's manual advises otherwise. Since as much as 50% of the energy needed to power your vehicle goes to acceleration, try to maintain a steady speed. Frequent switches between the brake and gas pedal use gas unnecessarily. Underinflated tires, clogged air filters, and poorly tuned engines also waste gas. Fuel efficiency drops off two percent for every pound of pressure a tire falls below the recommended level, and a poorly tuned engine can increase fuel demand by up to 20%. Finally, slow down. By simply reducing highway speeds from 70 mph to 65 mph, you can save about $5 for each extra hour spent driving a car.

With gas prices sky high it is important to do whatever you can to keep your car operating at top performance. Whether you are driving a new car or a used one, LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO at 258 Quincy Ave., E. ## Dick Morris Still Sparkles On The Diamond

Former NQHS Baseball Star A Softball Standout In Florida

By CHRIS POISSON

With a runner standing on second base and his team trailing by a run in the bottom of the ninth, Richard Morris steps into the batter's box with the outcome of the game pending on his potent bat.

It is April and Morris finds himself in this timeless baseball scenario, one that youngsters aspiring to be professional ballplayers fantasize about, hoping one day in the future this dream becomes reality. Only for Morris, there is no more future. His time is now.

In what has become commonplace this year in Major League Baseball cities San Francisco, Chicago and Arizona, Morris crushes a ball over the fence for a two-run homer, delivering his team a victory in the season finale against one of its rivals.

Welcome to Richard "Dick" Morris's second career.

A former standout at North Quincy High School, who later played two years in the minors, Morris recently wrapped up his first season with the world renowned Kids & Kubs softball club of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Morris dazzled fans with never-seen-before power, smashing home runs at an unprecedented and record-breaking clip. In fact, he became the first player ever to hit a homer — over the fence — in the Kids & Kubs' 71-year history. He did it 11 times.

DICK MORRIS, who played shortstop for the North Quincy baseball team in the 1940s, is now a softball slugger in St. Petersburg, Fla.

And St. Petersburg digs the long ball. He became so popular among club members that they named him Rookie of the Year, MVP and, get this, their vice president, the only rookie to earn that distinction. And the city of St. Petersburg presented him a plaque honoring him as "Sunshine Ambassador."

All this at the young age of 75.

That's right, Morris is 75 years old, which happens to be the minimum age requirement to even be considered as a member of the Kids & Kubs Three-Quarter Century Softball Club.

The club was established in 1930 by Evelyn Barton Rittenhouse, a New York actress who came to St. Petersburg for health reasons.

After falling in love with the city, her father bought the Hibiscus Hotel and she was placed in charge.

One day, while working in the Tourist Relations Department of the Chamber of Commerce, she found a purse on the floor. Searching for identification, she discovered that the owner was a Three-Quarter Century Softball Club member in California. After talking with the owner, she learned the club disbanded the first year because of inactivity.

Operating her father's hotel, she thought it would be a good idea for the tenants to play softball. And for the past 71 years, the Kids & Kubs, the grand daddy of all softball teams, has been entertaining both residents and tourists with their fun-loving style of play.

Over the years, Babe Ruth, Bob Feller, Lefty Grove and Phil Rizzuto (expected to join the club this year), to name a few baseball stars, umpired games at North Shore Park, located near the Vinoy Hotel, a favorite spot of Ruth's in spring training.

Dressed in white uniforms with bow ties, the Kids & Kubs play three games per week (Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday) during the regular season, which begins next month and ends in April. During the offseason, they practice every Tuesday and Thursday.

The season opener Nov. 6 will be played as a benefit to the firemen and policemen killed in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center. The Kids & Kubs also contribute to many charities, such as the Salvation Army, Arthritis Foundation, Little League and the Goodwill Industries.

Morris first heard of the club when he and his wife, Nancy, left Squantum to move to their retirement home in St. Petersburg in 1990.

"I just went down there one day to watch," Morris recalls.

His good friend from

Quincy, Charlie Ayers, whom he recently visited, offers a different version: "No, you've been saying for five years that you wanted to play."

How ever it happened, Morris soon found himself trying out for club. "I never played softball before until the tryout," Morris says modestly.

True, but Morris had played baseball. In 1943 he was a star shortstop at North Quincy High as a junior, playing alongside third baseman Dick Donovan. Donovan eventually developed into a Major League pitcher, winning 122 games in his 15-year career, including a World Series game in 1959 against the Los Angeles Dodgers as a member of the Chicago White Sox.

Morris's baseball career, however, was temporarily put on hold when he left school during his senior year to enlist in the Navy. After World War II, he went back to school and received his diploma at the age of 21, and he also resumed his baseball career.

Playing in the Cape Cod League, Morris was scouted and received offers from the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves. He decided to sign with the local team, where he bounced around the farm system for a couple of years before leaving the game for good in 1950.

"I gave it up and had to get a real job," says Morris, who later worked as a boat builder at Building Super in Boston. "My father always used to say, 'When the hell are you going to get a real job?' He discouraged me."

Now, over 50 years later, Morris again finds himself strapping on leather and swinging lumber, with many men from his generation who share a similar baseball background.

"I enjoy the camaraderie," he says. "Being with the guys. We're all in the same age bracket. And most of us are War World II veterans, and we all love baseball."

And he admires how his teammates are still chasing a dream.

"Most of them can't even run," he says. "Most of their legs are all gone. Some of them even tape their legs with duct tape. If I ever had to do that, I'd quit. But that's just how bad they want to play. They're still trying, still up there swinging a bat."

"I don't know how long I want to do this," he adds.

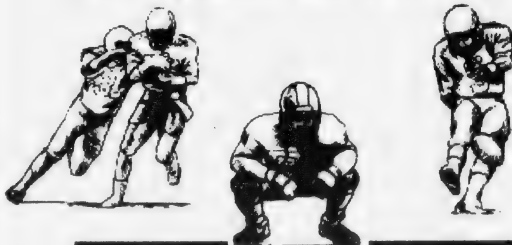

"But I never thought I would play baseball again."

Let's hope there's no sophomore jinx.

Quincy Girls Rally For Tie With Randolph

The Quincy High School girls' soccer team came from behind to tie Randolph, 2-2, in an exciting game last Thursday.

The Presidents held a 1-0 lead at the half on sophomore sweeper Kaila Saxe's goal on a direct kick. Randolph, however, scored two quick goals in the second half to take its first lead of the game.

"I am so proud of these girls," said head coach Don Martin. "This is the first time they were able to come back and score to tie the game."

"This is a young team. I have two freshmen and five sophomores that play 40-plus minutes a game. My back defensive line sees up to 60-80 minutes in a game. Our ranks are thin, so we are looking for players to replace the five seniors who are graduating."

The five seniors are tri-captains Makena Cahill, Pam Jacobs and Hill, along with Michelle Pilalas and Alex Powers.

Martin and assistant coach Molly Metcalf have focused on improving the girls' ball handling skills and improving communication on the field this season. They have also continued to work on developing scoring chances. Quincy has scored 10 goals this season, compared to last year when it just tallied one.

Injuries have plagued the Presidents throughout the season. At the beginning of the year, both keepers were injured and a JV player moved up to fill in. Sophomore midfielder Colleen Martin was out for most of the season but is starting to come back from her injury.

"We do not have the depth that other teams have so these injuries really hurt us," Martin said.

Martin said that Metcalf has done a terrific job with the JV players, with several of them moving up to the varsity level.

"I want to get the word out: Come to Quincy High to play soccer and you will be on the field and not on the bench," Martin said. "We have a great future ahead of us."

11-Year-Old Travel A All-Stars Win 4 Tourneys

The Quincy Youth Baseball 11-Year-Old Travel A All-Star team recently completed another successful summer season, finishing 17-5 overall and winning tournament championships in Weymouth and Middleboro.

Quincy won 10 of its last 11 games, including a perfect 5-0 mark in the Middleboro tourney, which it also won as 9 year olds in 1999. Middleboro doesn't have a 10-year-old division.

Looking to the future, the Quincy team will compete as 12 year olds next July in a week-long tournament in Cooperstown, N.Y. The local boys have already begun fund-raising for their trip and other fund-raising events will be scheduled throughout winter.

The team would like to thank the following for their sponsorship and support: Quincy Youth Baseball, Play It Again Sports, Pat Flanagan's Restaurant, the Tobin Memorial Fund and Rep. Stephen Tobin.

After reaching the semifinals of tournaments in Mansfield and Foxboro earlier in the summer, Quincy turned up its performance in Weymouth and Middleboro in early August.

In Weymouth, Quincy began the tourney on a Friday night with a tight 5-4 win over the hosts. First baseman Brian Mahoney led the offensive attack with three hits and an RBI, while Dan Myers added two hits and played a solid game in center field. Chris Doyle was named Player of the Game for a strong all-around performance at the plate and in the field.

On Saturday, Quincy came back to play twice more in Weymouth, while it also made its first appearance at the Middleboro tournament.

The day began with rain but the skies quickly brightened for Quincy, as the boys won all three games, beginning with a rain-delayed 15-4 victory against Bridgewater in Middleboro. Chris Boyd led the locals, going 2 for 3 with two RBI. Joe Lousararian and Dan Munkley added two hits each.

It was then back to Weymouth to battle a hard-hitting team from Easton. Quincy prevailed, 6-4, as Kyle Tobin had three hits and an RBI. Steve Connolly played a strong game at shortstop and added a single, double and an RBI.

In the third and final game of the day, Quincy knocked off Whitman, 6-2. Pat Totten broke open the game with a three-run homer in the third to back Glen Misho's complete-game, four-hitter.

On Sunday, Quincy played three more games, once again beginning the day in Middleboro where it blanked the Taunton West All-Stars, 8-0. Doug Myers tossed the shutout, while John Alexander powered the offense with a home run, double and two RBI. The local boys returned to Weymouth and, on a blistering hot afternoon, handily defeated Braintree, 18-2.

In the nightcap, Quincy, having already clinched a spot in the final, suffered its only loss in the Weymouth tourney, falling to Rockland, 7-6, in extra innings.

On Wednesday, Quincy faced Easton in a rematch for the title. Led by Tom Conley, Quincy beat Easton, 6-1, for the championship. Conley pitched a complete game and also went 2 for 3 with a homer.

It was Quincy's first tourney win of the summer and would provide momentum as the team moved back to Middleboro for the quarterfinals.

In Middleboro, Quincy handed Falmouth, the same team it beat for the title two years ago, an 8-4 loss behind a strong pitching performance by Misho. Conley and Alexander homered to pace a seven-hit attack.

In the semifinal, Quincy ousted host Middleboro, 6-0. Mahoney went 3 for 3 and Alexander pitched a one-hit shutout.

In this double-elimination format, Quincy faced Middleboro three days later in the final and pulled out a 2-1 win for the championship. Connolly sparked the offense, going 2 for 3 and scoring the winning run in the fifth.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

MA Medical Society, DPH Discourage Public From Stockpiling Antibiotics

The Massachusetts Medical Society and the state's Department of Public Health recently issued a statement discouraging the public from taking or stockpiling preventive antibiotics, in light of the public's increased requests for antibiotics.

"While the public's concerns are understandable, taking or stockpiling antibiotics as a precaution is not recommended," said Francis X. Rockett, M.D., president of the Massachusetts Medical Society. "First, many strains of bacteria are resistant to antibiotics and taking preventive antibiotics could make the situation worse, rendering them useless. Second, there are many different germs that a terrorist could use, and no single antibiotic is effective against all kinds of germs. Third, antibiotics have a limited shelf life before they lose their strength. And finally, many antibiotics have side effects that could be very harmful to certain individuals."

Massachusetts Department of Public Health Commissioner Howard K. Koh, M.D., M.P.H., said, "There are no cases of anthrax exposure in Massachusetts. In the absence of exposure, it is unnecessary and potentially harmful to self-treat with antibiotics."

According to the American Medical Association, there are large supplies of antibiotics available to treat inhalation anthrax in several areas in the nation and can be delivered to any airport within 12 hours. This system was tested during the World Trade Center incident on Sept. 11 and it worked.

The Massachusetts Medical Society, with more than 17,000 physicians and student members, is dedicated to educating and advocating for the physicians of Massachusetts. Founded in 1781, the MMS is the oldest continuously operating medical society in the country.

The Society owns and publishes The New England Journal of Medicine, the Journal Watch family of professional newsletters, AIDS Clinical Care, and produces Health News, a consumer health publication.

The Massachusetts Medical Society announces the release of a guidebook to help physicians, nurses and other health care professionals identify risk factors, predict and help prevent violent behavior among children.

The "Recognizing & Preventing Youth Violence" guidebook is being distributed to pediatricians, family practitioners, child psychiatrists and emergency room physicians, and will be available for parents, teachers and the public on the MMS web site (www.massmed.org/pages/youthviolence.asp) by the end of October.

Violence is among the leading causes of death for American children, and a leading cause of preventable death and disability. Children who are witnesses and victims of violence are at a significantly higher risk for developmental and mental health problems, including depression, conduct and anxiety disorders, and post-traumatic stress disorder.

The guidebook — developed by the MMS with support from the Harvard Youth Violence Research Center and the Pediatric Adolescent Health Research Center at the Floating Hospital for Children at New England Medical Center — does not focus on determining who is the victim and who is the perpetrator of violence. Instead, it aims to stem youth violence by identifying known risk factors and predictors for violent behavior in order to reduce injury for all youths at risk.

"Recent research suggests doctors can play a critical role in the intervention and prevention of violence," said MMS President, Dr. Francis X. Rockett. "Therefore, we encourage all physicians and caregivers to incorporate the guidebook's information into their practice so that we can play a more active role in preventing youth violence, rather than simply treating its consequences."

"Parents should consider their child's physician as a resource on youth violence," said Robert D. Sege, M.D., Ph.D., associate professor of pediatrics at Tufts University School of Medicine and associate chief of the Division of General Pediatrics at The Floating Hospital for Children at New England Medical Center.

Dr. Sege — an accomplished researcher in the area of violence involving children and adolescents and a contributor to the MMS guidebook — explained that physicians have key opportunities during routine, scheduled health care visits to identify risk factors, intervene and even help prevent violent behavior; therefore, parents should depend on them for help.

The guidebook directs physicians to follow-up services and to additional resources for parents such as the MMS's "Violence Prevention for Children and Youth Parent Education 'Tip' Cards," which give parents advice on dealing with violence at all stages of their child's development, from using positive reinforcement with toddlers to talking to teens about gang and dating violence. Information in the guidebook directly corresponds to the MMS's tip cards so that parents and physicians can stay on the same page.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

While driving have you ever found you were as pre-occupied with your thoughts as you were driving your car? Of course you have. All of us have been guilty of this at one time or another.

Once while driving through a residential section of a large city this happened to me. All of a sudden, I noticed a sign indicating fifteen miles per hour as the speed limit. To my surprise, I was driving nearly 40 miles per hour. I had been driving in the line of traffic . . . my speed not governed by the maximum speed posted but influenced by the other drivers around me.

We become so involved in our everyday living that we fail to see many of the errors we can so easily fall into. We can be thankful when we find ourselves alerted by seeing something that will cause us to stop and take notice of ourselves. These instances may well be God's way of exercising his watchful care over us to stop us from drifting with the crowd and to be mindful of our doings.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Mars, your ruling planet, begins a journey that will open up a growing number of possibilities. Put that surging Arian energy to good use and explore it to your heart's content.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is the time to prepare for a career move coming up next month. Update your resume. Get those proposals in shape. And don't forget to buff up that Bovine self-confidence.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your Gemini instincts will guide you to the right people who might be able to help you get over that career impasse that has been holding you back. Expect to make changes.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're getting closer, but you still have a ways to go before reaching your goals. Continue to stay focused, no matter how difficult it can be for the easily distracted Moon Child.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your Leonine pride might be keeping you from getting to the source of a disturbing situation. Don't be shy about asking questions. Remember: Information is power.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) It's a good time to shake up your tiny little world by doing something spontaneous, like taking an unplanned trip or going on a mad shopping spree.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to get advice on your plans. But don't act on them until you feel sure that you've been told everything you need to know to support your move.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Be careful. You might be probing just a little too deeply into a situation that you find singularly suspicious. The facts you seek will begin to emerge at a later time.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a good week to make new friends and to look for new career challenges. But first, get all those unfinished tasks wrapped up and out of the way.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Relationships need a fresh infusion of tender, loving care. Avoid potential problems down the line. Stay close to loved ones as the month draws to a close.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Take things nice and easy as you continue to build up your energy reserves for a big change that's coming with the full Hunter's Moon on Nov. 1.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) This is the absolute right time to let those often-hidden talents shine their brightest. You'll impress some very important people with what you can do.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are impelled by a need to find truth, no matter how elusive. You would make a wonderful research scientist or an intrepid detective.

Who is this Bill Phelan?

And why is he running for Mayor?

Born and raised in Quincy, Bill Phelan grew up in Wollaston as one of eight kids. His dad started off as a clam digger in Houghs Neck and later worked in the Post Office.

Bill's parents taught him the value of education and hard work, and the importance of giving something back to the community.

And they taught him to stand up for what's right.

He attended

Beechwood Elementary, Central Middle and North Quincy High School, where he co-captained the basketball team and was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

He worked his way through Suffolk University, and then Suffolk Law, where he graduated with honors, and received the American Jurisprudence Award. His first job as an attorney was in the Prosecutor Program in the Suffolk County DA's office.

Bill Phelan has built a law practice here in Quincy, where he lives with his wife, Tracey (Tobin) and their four children.

Bill took his parents' advice to heart, coaching basketball for kids and at Quincy College, serving on the Board of Directors at Father Bill's Place, and as Treasurer of the Quincy Bar Association.

He was elected to the Quincy School Committee, where he serves on the Budget, Policy, and Special Education Subcommittees.

#44, North Quincy High 1978 Co-captain;
Inductee, NQHS Hall of Fame

That's where Bill put into practice his parents' advice about standing up for what's right.

He led, and won, a tough, principled fight against the Mayor's siting of the new Quincy High on a contaminated site. What Bill learned in that fight compelled him to fight for change at City Hall.

The Change We Need.

Now Bill Phelan is running for Mayor to restore fiscal responsibility to City Hall, to stand up for working families, and to represent the taxpayer's interest over the interests of the special few.

Bill will improve basic services like the city's streets and sidewalks, and our water and sewer systems. He'll clean our beaches and parks, and fight for more affordable housing.

In our schools he'll implement all day kindergarten, and institute a city-wide early childhood learning center to get kids off to a good start. And Bill has a plan to get parents more involved in their children's schools.

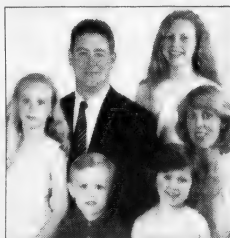

To attract and keep the very best teachers, he'll offer more educational development opportunities. And he'll provide math and literacy specialists at each elementary school to offer the help kids need.

And Bill will hold the line on taxes.

It's time for a real change. Time for a new mayor who stands for us.

It's time to elect Bill Phelan Mayor.

Bill and Tracey Phelan with
Brienne, 9, William Arthur, 2,
Kerry, 5, and Rachael, 11.

Bill Phelan for Mayor. A fighter for us. For a change!

Will Join In Campaign Harold Endorses Phelan

By CRAIG SALTERS

City Council President Paul Harold endorsed the mayoral candidacy of School Committeeman William Phelan at a Tuesday afternoon press conference held at the 1000 Southern Artery senior complex.

Harold told the crowd of more than 50 seniors that he would campaign vigorously on behalf of Phelan, who is running against incumbent Mayor James Sheets, in the days leading up to the election Tuesday, Nov. 6.

"Quincy needs a mayor who is committed to the future of the city and its citizens," said Harold, who called Phelan "a man of unique moral courage" for his successful stand against siting a new Quincy High School atop a former landfill off Quincy Ave. and also touted Phelan's fiscal responsibility, legal background, and energy.

"City services, public safety, fire protection, clean streets, and programs for senior citizens all make Quincy a great place," said Harold. "Bill Phelan will make the correct fiscal decisions to ensure that these programs are in place for years to come."

Phelan thanked Harold

61-63% Turnout Forecast Nov. 6 Sheets, Phelan Are Seen In Close Finish

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Time for a change or stay the course?

That, boiled down, is a big question waiting for the voters' answer in the Tuesday, Nov. 6 city election.

Veteran incumbent James A. Sheets, 66, seeking an historic seventh term, and challenger William J. Phelan, 41, an attorney and a first term school committee member, are locked in the first real mayor's battle in 12 years.

Observers have been calling it "close" for several weeks.

Then suddenly Tuesday came a surprise double boost for Phelan: City Council President Paul Harold and City Councillor and former Mayor Francis McCauley separately announced they are endorsing Phelan for mayor.

Which leaves another question to be answered:

JAMES SHEETS

WILLIAM PHELAN

How much of an impact will the two endorsements have on the final outcome?

The hard-hitting mayoral campaign and hotly contested races for four city council seats — three of them open — are seen spurring a 61-to-63 percent turnout of Quincy's record high 53,021 registered voters.

The forecast is that of City Clerk Joseph Shea who says: "I think with all the interest in the mayor and city council races, the turnout will mirror that of 1989."

An indicator the turnout should be good next Tuesday, says Shea, is the fact that there has already been some 500 applications for absentee ballots. "A good sign," he says.

That was the year Sheets was elected to the first of his six two-year terms, defeating Peter O'Connell in the final election that brought out 60.6 percent.

There were four contenders that year when Frank McCauley bid his famous

Postal Tips On Handling Suspicious Mail

In the wake of recent concerns related to mail containing anthrax bacteria, the Postal Customer Council of Greater Boston offers the following suggestions.

When opening mail, consider the following characteristics:

- Any powdery substance on the outside?
- Is the mail unexpected or from someone unfamiliar to you?
- Is it addressed to a title or to someone no longer with your organization or is it otherwise outdated?

- Is there no return address or one that can't be verified as legitimate?
- Is it marked with restrictive endorsements such as "Personal" or "Confidential"?
- Does it have strange odors or stains?
- Does it show a city or state in the postmark that doesn't match the return address?
- Upon receiving a letter in the mail containing a suspicious substance, follow these precautions:

- Do not try to open the mailpiece!
- Isolate and don't handle the mailpiece.
- Evacuate immediate area.
- Wash hands with soap and warm water.
- Call police, postal inspector, and/or the local fire department/hazmat unit to report that you've received an item in the mail that may contain biological or chemical substances.

A Special Tribute To 'Officer Bill' Draicchio

THE BUSY INTERSECTION of Southern Artery and Washington Street, Quincy Point, is now officially William P. Draicchio Square, named in honor of the retired police officer shown here after unveiling the designated sign at a ceremony Sunday. For 33 of his 38 years with the Quincy Police Department, "Officer Bill," as he was affectionately known, safely crossed thousands of students going to St. Joseph's School, the old Pollard School and the then Point Junior High School. Behind Draicchio is Mayor James Sheets who said, "Bill Draicchio is what this nation is all about." This and three other identical signs with the U.S. Marine Emblem and state and city seals are posted at the four corners of the intersection.

NEARLY 200 FRIENDS and family members attended the ceremony honoring Bill Draicchio. Here he is shown in front with Mrs. Charlaine Draicchio, and children and grandchildren: Christy, Joe, Paul, daughter-in-law Kelly Draicchio, Katie, son, Chris, daughter, Michele, Kris, Jennifer Draicchio, daughter-in-law; Natalie, Nicole, Kerry and son Michael.

OFFICIALS WHO ARE also his friends gather in front of Bill Draicchio and the designating sign at Sunday's ceremony. From the left, Rep. Bruce Ayers, Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi, Rep.-School Committeeman Ron Mariano, former City Clerk John Gillis, now Norfolk County Commissioner, Senator Michael Morrissey, Rep. Joseph Sullivan of Braintree and Rep. Steve Tobin.

A PLAQUE WITH badge, citing Bill Draicchio's long commitment to his community and nation as a U.S. Marine in World War II and the Korean War and his near 39 years in the Quincy Police Department, was a presentation from Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti. Here, Draicchio is flanked by two of his sons, Michael, Sterling Middle School teacher and Quincy High School head baseball coach, and William of the sheriff's office.

McCauley Endorses Phelan For Mayor

Citing the need for new leadership at city hall, former Mayor and present City Councillor Francis X. McCauley has endorsed School Committee member William Phelan for mayor in next week's city election.

"When I go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 6, I will cast my vote for an individual who has the vision and the proven ability to lead this city into the 21st century," McCauley said. "I will vote for Bill Phelan and I urge my fellow citizens of Quincy to do the same."

Phelan's successful campaign to stop the construction of a new Quincy High School on the contaminated Quincy Avenue and Department of Public Works sites demonstrated both his leadership and his ability to get things done despite strong opposition and political pressure, McCauley said.

"Bill Phelan stepped up to the plate and formed a coalition of parents' groups and concerned citizens," McCauley said. "His leadership was instrumental in defeating the proposals to build a school on toxic waste sites."

McCauley also criticized Mayor James Sheets for purchasing the Quincy Avenue site.

"The mayor's original proposal to build a new Quincy High School and renovate the current school for a new Central Middle School received widespread support from both elected officials and the public," McCauley noted. "Unfortunately, the entire construction project got bogged down when the mayor purchased the contaminated Quincy Avenue site without receiving approval from either the School Committee or the City Council on a specific location."

In announcing his endorsement of Phelan, McCauley acknowledged that the Sheets administration has had its share of successes. The mayor's "Cleaner, Greener Quincy" campaign gave the city a brighter face, he said, while the rescue of the ailing Quincy Hospital and the addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library are also to the mayor's credit.

These accomplishments, however, are "more than offset by some major mistakes by the Sheets administration," McCauley said. In particular, he said, "the Fore River Shipyard fiasco was a major blunder that has cost the taxpayers of Quincy millions of dollars."

"Mayor Sheets ignored the advice of just about every shipbuilding expert in the world, all of whom said this plan had no chance of success," McCauley said. "In fact, shipbuilding consultant and maritime analyst Timothy Collins was quoted in the Ledger as saying, 'Everyone thinks it's a lousy and disastrous idea. Chances are this thing will fall apart before the first ship is delivered.' [Patriot Ledger, Dec. 21/22, 1996.] Unfortunately, Mr. Collins was right on target."

Today, nearly five years later, McCauley said, the shipyard is deserted and taxpayers are stuck paying back nearly $11 million in loans defaulted on by Greek shipbuilder Sotirios Emmanouil, who has since left the country.

"Quincy will not have that debt paid off until 2017," McCauley said. "Incredibly, when the federal government finally pulled the plug on this project last year, the mayor's only comment was, 'I would have done it all over again.' [Patriot Ledger, Feb. 26/27, 2000.]"

McCauley also criticized Sheets' handling of city finances.

"In the past few years, the mayor has allowed the city's debt to come close to spiraling out of control; debt which our citizens will be required to pay off for years to come," said McCauley, an accountant and former bank president who serves as chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee.

"A recent review of city operations for Fiscal Year 2001 revealed that city expenses exceeded revenues by over $3.1 million. Yet the mayor has stated publicly several times that the city did not have a deficit last year. Apparently, he's unaware of the situation."

A Quincy political figure for five decades, McCauley noted that in addition to serving as mayor, he had served as a city councillor and school committee member under six Quincy mayors: Amelio Della Chiesa, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin and Sheets.

"Each of these individuals made positive contributions to the city during their tenures," McCauley said. "Mayors, however, can stay too long and become stale in their thinking and outlook for the future."

McCauley did not exempt himself from that assessment.

"In early January 1989, at the conclusion of my mid-term address, I announced I would not seek a fifth term as mayor, saying, 'It is better to leave too soon than to stay too long,'" he said. "I believe our current mayor has stayed long enough."

NO LESS THAN Presidents Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, or at least their likenesses, turned out Tuesday at the Beale Estate to join author and historian David McCullough, wife Rosalee, and Congressman William Delahunt to hear a report on the Adams National Historical Park by the National Parks Conservation Association. In reality, Jefferson is being portrayed by William Barker of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and Adams is being portrayed by Steven Pearlman, a park ranger from Philadelphia.

A Good Job But Can Get Better Report Finds Successes, Challenges At Adams NHP

The National Parks Conservation Association (NPCA) unveiled the results of its year-long assessment of the Adams National Historical Park at a press conference held Tuesday in the Beale Estate.

Its findings: the park, which scored a 72 out of a possible 100 for protection of cultural resources, is doing a good job but can get better.

Specifically, the site must address funding needs for staffing, including a professional curator and historian; the cataloguing of 22,000 archival items, mostly family papers which are currently inaccessible to researchers; and the creation of a permanent visitor center.

"This (the score of 72) is a good rating, not a great rating," said Thomas Kierman, president of NPCA, founded in 1919 and described as a supportive "citizen-run watchdog" of the National Park Service. "Significant work still needs to be done here."

The 16-page Adams as-essment found that the condition of known Adams cultural resources rated 72, while the condition of known natural resources rated 64. "If current funding and staffing levels remain the same over the next 10 years and threats are not addressed, the park's collection and archives are likely to deteriorate, warned Kierman.

Honored guests at the event included Congressman William Delahunt, who

Mayoral Tidbits

How well do incumbent mayors do when it comes to running for re-election?

Pretty well, apparently.

Since 1917 when Quincy adopted the present Plan A form of government, 13 mayors have run for re-election a total of 28 times.

For 23 wins and only five losses.

"That's an 82 percent batting average," notes Frank McCauley, present councillor, former mayor, and city political history buff who came up with that mayoral tidbit.

Eight mayors who rang up 21 re-election wins without defeat:

Joseph Whiton (1), Charles Ross (3), Thomas Burgin (3), Amelio Della Chiesa (3), James McIntyre (2), Arthur Tobin (1), McCauley (3), and James Sheets (5).

Five who lost re-elections were William Bradford, Gustave Bates, Thomas McGrath, Walter Hannon and Joseph LaRaia.

McGrath and Hannon each won and lost a re-election. Bradford, Bates and LaRaia were defeated after one term.

Perley Barbour served one term 1925-1926 and apparently that was enough for him. He's the only mayor to serve just one term and not seek re-election.

IF JAMES SHEETS successfully fends off the challenge from William Phelan next Tuesday he will become the undisputed mayoral champ in Quincy's political history.

Right now he is winding up his sixth term (12th year) as mayor. That's the longest stretch for a mayor under Plan A.

But Amelio Della Chiesa also put in 12 years. Eight years under Plan A and four years under Plan E.

Under Plan E, the mayor was actually a city councillor elected by his council colleagues. He was like the city council president and ran the council meetings. He was also the official city greeter and did most of the ribbon cutting honors.

But the chief executive was a city manager also elected by the city council.

But Della Chiesa held the title of mayor for 12 years -- Plan A and Plan E.

If Sheets is re-elected to a seventh term and completes it, he will have served 14 years as mayor -- two more than Della Chiesa.

Sheets' political career spans 28 years -- 16 as Ward 4 councillor before winning the mayor's office in 1989.

A GOOD MAYOR'S race is always the main bout in a city election and the main reason for a good voter turnout.

With this year's heated Sheets-Phelan fight and some good city council contests, City Clerk Joseph Shea is forecasting a turnout of 61 to 63 percent.

That's comparable to the 60.6 percent turnout in 1989, the last good mayor's race, when Sheets won the office over Peter O'Connell after the two had eliminated former Mayor Joseph LaRaia and Councillor Steve McGrath in the preliminary runoff that year.

But this year's prediction and the 1989 turnout sort of pale when you look back to 1959 and the Amelio Della Chiesa-James McIntyre battle that brought 79 percent of the voters out. Della Chiesa, the veteran incumbent, defeated the young (29) city council president.

But more voters will get the chance to go to the polls this year.

The city's total registration now is 53,021. "The highest in the city's history," says Shea. (Up 768 from the September preliminary election.)

POLITICALLY SPEAKING, you might say that Charles Francis Adams went on to "bigger and better things" than all of Quincy's other mayors.

Adams, the city's fourth mayor (1896-97) served as Secretary of the Navy under President Herbert Hoover (1929-1933).

But of course, he had a pretty well known name going for him -- a direct descendant of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

QUINCY'S YOUNGEST mayor was its fifth, Russell Sears, elected to a one year term in 1898 at age 27. No one seems quite sure who the oldest elected mayor was. (Anybody know?)

ONLY ONE OF Quincy's mayors died in office. John Miller took office in 1914 when the mayoral term was only one year and was soon diagnosed with cancer.

Under the city charter back then, a special election would be called if a mayor for some reason vacated the office before the last 90 days of his term.

In Miller's case, if he died or had to leave office before Oct. 5, a special election would have to be called to elect his successor.

Miller, obviously quite a conscientious man, had a deathbed wish, according to Frank McCauley who wrote about it in his Quincy Political History book.

"As he lay dying," says McCauley, he wished he would live long enough to spare the city the cost of a special election."

Miller, who was only 60, lived to Oct. 6 -- beating the special election requirements by one day. City Council President Joseph Whiton who would later become mayor himself, finished out the remaining days of Miller's term.

"Imagine," says McCauley, "lying there dying and thinking of just living long enough to save the city money."

A mayor you would have to agree went above and beyond the call of duty. Far above and beyond.

State Increases Funding For SAFE Program

The Executive Office of Public Safety announces an increase in state funding for the Student Awareness of Fire Education (SAFE) program.

In fiscal year 2002, the Quincy Fire Department will receive $7,045 as its share of SAFE funds.

The SAFE program is a state initiative to provide resources to local fire departments to conduct fire and life safety education programs in grades K-12.

The mission of the program is to enable students to recognize the dangers of fire and, more specifically, the fire hazards tobacco products pose.

Rep. Ronald Mariano stated his full support for the program. "The SAFE program has produced positive results in a very serious situation. Additional state funding will only improve our efforts to increase fire safety in the area."

According to the SAFE program, over the past six years more than 120 children who participated in the program have saved themselves or the life of a loved one.

Congratulates Houghs Neck Community Council

As an Atlantic Neighborhood Association board member but more so as someone with many fond memories of Houghs Neck back in the 50's and 60's, I congratulate the Houghs Neck Community Council for yet another successful Good Neighbor dinner.

Many Houghs Neck folks received awards for their community activism. Among them were the volunteers behind Houghs Neck HOPE.

This group raised more than $50,000 to build a new playground at LaBrecque Field.

The winners of this year's Civic Award personify the hard work being done on a daily basis by folks who don't just exist in a neighborhood but rather live in it and for it. A real neighborhood is the coming together of folks working to make things work for everyone.

I remember my Aunt Lizzy and my cousin Lillian.

Their home was 1303 Sea St., right next to Hurley's and the yacht club. Traveling there as a child from Roxbury was always an adventure. Houghs Neck was a great place to visit.

My Aunt Elizabeth Murphy (actually my great-aunt) was born in West Cork but called Houghs Neck home since before World War II. She was about 90 years old when she passed away in 1967. While alive she, like today's Houghs Neck folks, also lived in and for her community.

All neighborhoods work well when people make them work. The positives always outshine the negatives.

Someone needs to give the Houghs Neck Community Council an award for bringing everything together.

Praise For Prince Alwaleed

Prince Alwaleed bin Talal, one of the richest people of the world and one of the most ardent American friends among Arabs, hurried to New York City to show his alliance and the alliance of his country, Saudi Arabia, to America.

On his tour of ground zero, he presented Mayor Rudolph Giuliani with a check of $10 million to aid the victims of the World Trade Center. He also made a suggestion that the United States should re-examine its policies in the Middle East and he added, "We must address some of the issues that led to such criminal attacks." That statement prompted Rudy Giuliani to reject the Prince's $10 million check.

Instead of offering a minute of motionless silence, the Prince acted and he spoke. He gave his money and he gave his advice.

Before the Arabian Prince arrived to America, he expressed his friendship in word; when he arrived in New York, he expressed it in deed.

Rudy Giuliani acted emotionally, Arab Prince acted emotionally and rationally, showing his compassion and his wisdom. No wonder: How does American historical experience compare to the Arab four thousand year old culture?

After America experienced its greatest tragedy in its history, Arab Prince rose to the occasion, as no American and non-American did. Apart from giving a gift in money, he also gave a gift of advice as to how to avoid future tragedies, as to how to achieve peace, instead to continue with war. His political advice was meant to spare not only Arabs and Jews, but also the rest of the world from further bloodshed.

This attitude is quite natural and logical for the Arab Prince. He knows full well that both Arabs and Jews claim Abraham as their common ancestor. The Prince also knows that Abraham is considered "the father of all nations." The patriotism of the Arab Prince is not only Pan-Semitic (Arab and Jewish) but also Pan-Human. His remarks that he made when he gave a check for $10 million dollars to Rudy Giuliani for the victims of September 11, show that he is not a warmonger, but a peace-maker, par excellence.

And, I am sure that all relatives of those who lost their lives on Sept. 11 would not reject a $10 million gift.

What right did Giuliani have to reject a $10 million dollar check that was not meant for him in the first place?

At this critical time in human history, when there is a danger for the world to start "Bellum omnium contra omnes" — the war of all against all — the dictum by President Kennedy could be useful for President Bush and other leaders of the world: "Let us never negotiate out of fear. But let us never fear to negotiate."

Michael Jovanovic

Quincy's Yesterdays

Berfors: Federal Control Of Oil Prices Cuts Supply

By PAUL HAROLD

Fred Berfors, Sr., president of Quincy Oil, returned from Washington where he told federal regulators at OPS that price controls would cut winter supplies.

He said there was no shortage of supplies, just a shortage of tankers. The low profit margins under price controls would divert these tankers to foreign ports where they could sell for a higher price.

Berfors said a half cent per gallon increase was needed for independent dealers to stay in business and to insure an adequate supply of heating fuel.

CLEAN-UP OF SEA STREET MESS UNDERWAY

Motorists along Sea Street between Palmer Street and the Southern Artery ended up with tar on their tires and fenders as a result of a recent seal coating of the roadway with liquid asphalt and pea stones.

DPW Commissioner Charles Herbert said a crew from Old Colony Crushed Stone was sent with a road scraper to remove the coating. It was the first improvement to that portion of Sea Street in 10 years.

Herbert said part of the problem with the curing of the seal coating was adverse weather and heavy traffic.

NEW LITTLE LEAGUE FIELD

Gilbert "Crum" Crofts of the YMCA and secretary of the new Little League announced the Y would make land available for the construction of a Little League field. The work would be done by volunteers and would be ready for the spring season.

Crofts noted Little League's growth in the city was unprecedented in the history of Quincy sports with 12 fully-equipped teams in three leagues in just one season.

Boston Molasses Flood Topic At Library Nov. 6

Historian and writer Steve Puleo of Weymouth will present the story of the Boston Molasses Flood Tuesday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square.

Puleo, who has a master's degree in History from the University of Massachusetts, Boston campus, has done extensive research on the Boston Molasses Flood, which occurred January 15, 1919 when a steel tank -- 50 feet high, 90 feet in diameter, and containing 2.3 million gallons of molasses -- collapsed in Boston's North End.

The flood had a catastrophic effect in the area, killing and injuring people, destroying horses, damaging property, and resulting in an enormous clean-up effort.

Puleo's research has included examining 25,000 pages of court transcripts from the 119 lawsuits that resulted from the flood -- records that contain eyewitness accounts, testimony from the family members of victims, and the court's ruling on each case. Puleo also "broke the seal" on the court records detailing the damage awards to victims of the flood.

Puleo is the author of "Death by Molasses," a major article on the molasses flood that appeared in the February 2001 issue American History.

Puleo is currently working on a book about the flood.

Jimmy Tingle At 3rd Annual 'The Night For The Kids'

Comedian, satirist, and political commentator Jimmy Tingle will provide the entertainment as The Committee for the Italian Home in Boston holds its third annual "The Night for the Kids" fundraiser Friday beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the new ballroom at Venezia's Restaurant, 20 Ericsson St., Neponset Circle in Dorchester.

Quincy resident Gayle Bellotti serves as chairwoman of the committee, which also includes Quincy residents Stella Mahoney, Anita Kintigos, Anne Halisey, Jennifer Kriegel, and Michelle Lydon-Phelan.

"The Night for the Kids" will feature a buffet dinner, silent auction, a live auction with Dan Flynn of Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Chet Curtis from New England Cable News, and Tingle, who recently completed two seasons as the humorist/commentator on 60 Minutes II and has been a guest on The Tonight Show, The Late Show with Conan O'Brien, and Larry King Weekend.

The Cambridge-born Tingle has also written and starred in his own one-man show, Jimmy Tingle's Uncommon Sense, The Education of an American Comic, as well as his own HBO comedy special.

The Italian Home is a residential facility for almost 100 young boys and girls from ages of 3-13 who have been victims of severe mental, physical, and sexual abuse and neglect. The Italian Home serves children of all races and nationalities from throughout Massachusetts and provides them with the love and attention they so desperately need, as well as necessary intensive counseling and special education in a safe and secure environment.

One hundred percent of funds raised will be used to purchase gifts for the children from their Santa's list. After Bellotti and her committee complete the wrapping, the gifts are brought to The Italian Home and distributed by Santa.

"You should see the happiness on these children's faces," said Bellotti. "It is a great feeling to know that you have made these children's Christmas happier."

"With all the tragedy that is going on in our country now and all the children without parents because of the Sept. 11 tragedy, it is even more important to us to fulfill these children's needs."

Children, Bellotti said, should not be forgotten during the Christmas season. "Fortunately, we have gotten a great response from area businesses in donations but we can feel the effects of Sept. 11," Bellotti said. "There are many causes that are not getting their usual response of generosity."

Tickets cost $50 per person and can be purchased at the door or by sending a check to: The Italian Home for Children, c/o Gayle Bellotti, 159 Standish Rd., Quincy, MA 02170.

Guests who bring an unwrapped Christmas gift for a child ages 4-13 will receive three free raffle tickets for the evening's raffles.

Broadway Composer Visits Eastern Nazarene College

Brown recently visited Eastern Nazarene College to conduct a master class for his musical Songs for a New World, which opens tonight (Thursday) and runs through Saturday at 7 p.m. in the school's Cove Fine Arts Center.

Brown, who drove from New York City to Quincy to collaborate with director Eunice Ferreira and musical director Jose Delgado on his revue-style show, workshopped the first two songs of Songs for a New World with the student actors and provided performance suggestions.

Tickets for Songs for a New World are $10. For more information, call the box office at (617) 745-3715.

Honored For Distinguished Career In Education

Creedon Grand Marshal For Christmas Parade

By JOHN NOONAN

Retired School Supt. Eugene Creedon has been unanimously selected as the Grand Marshal for the 49th annual Quincy Christmas Parade Sunday, Nov. 25.

George White, chairman of the Quincy Festival Committee, said, "Choosing a parade grand marshal is always a difficult decision but the committee felt Eugene Creedon richly merits this singular honor in recognition of his outstanding career and achievements in the field of education."

Creedon served the Quincy Public School system as teacher, principal and assistant superintendent. He was appointed superintendent in 1992 and officially retired Wednesday.

His Quincy teaching career began in 1966 at

EUGENE CREEDON

Quincy Point Junior High School, now Point Webster Middle School. He also served as principal of St. Ann's School and later principal of the Parker School and Broad Meadows Middle School. In 1987 he was appointed assistant superintendent of Quincy's schools.

Creedon and his wife, Kathleen, of 27 years have a son and two daughters. All three children attended and graduated from Quincy public schools. His wife and daughters, Erin and Susan, teach in Quincy schools. His son, Patrick, attends Emerson College.

When notified of his selection Creedon expressed deep appreciation for the honor.

"What success and achievement I may have had during the 35 years I served the Quincy schools is due largely to those who have served before me, and because of the cooperation received from parents, students, teachers, staff and Quincy city officials," Creedon said.

In an interview about his overall career he was asked about the quality of education in Quincy schools today. He replied he often points out to school administrators, teachers and parents that the very first superintendent of Quincy schools, Francis W. Parker, appointed in 1875, shared similar views on the matter of quality education.

"The same comments about students not being able to read, write and spell leveled at Superintendent Parker in the early days of the public school system, we hear about today's students," Creedon said.

He placed great emphasis on the importance of providing a strong core of liberal arts subjects coupled with a technical education for students in developing vocational skills.

"Why wait until students are in the 10th grade to introduce them to good literature and develop an appreciation for the arts," he asked.

"If you were to ask me right now what is it that defines the soul of America, you would find that of all the things people have done to draw strength, demonstrate love of country and unity, you would find many soul components.

"You see it in the signs, symbols, songs like God Bless America, America The Beautiful, Let There Be Peace On Earth. It is being done in many cases through music, drama, the dance and patriotic displays such as flying the American flag and singing the National Anthem. It is being done through the arts and religion.

"If we didn't have all of these wonderful components, we would not have the opportunity to express our feelings the way the American public does today in this time of crisis."

Asked about his recent trip to China and some of the differences in the education system, he replied, "The differences are tremendous compared to our American system."

Village people do not obtain the quality education needed compared to the more wealthy people in China's large cities, he said. Education is not public or free. Parents must pay for the type of education their children receive.

The ability of parents to pay plus the level of intelligence of their children determine the type of education and school the children will attend, he said.

"I found the young teenage Chinese students to have attitudes quite different from those of generations before them," he said. "They are bright, and there is great hope for the future of Chinese students and our American students, their attitudes are quite different from past generations."

Asked about plans he may have in retirement, he said that many people ask the same question "for fear he might not have enough to do with his time."

He said right now he is getting used to not being beholden to a planned schedule. He is a bibliophile and will catch up on his reading about people. He was a myriad of lectures and seminars to attend without cramming.

He said he loves gardening and putting around his house. He has reached the "retirement age" but as Robert Frost aptly wrote in "Stopping By Woods On A Snowy Evening":

*The Woods are lovely, dark and deep
But I have promises to keep
And miles to go before I sleep.
And miles to go before I sleep.*

He did say he was toying with writing a book. That should not be difficult for someone whose life has been replete with books on diverse subjects.

Creedon has touched the lives of more than 5,500 North Quincy and Quincy High School graduates as superintendent over the last nine years.

Add to that the number of students involved in all grade levels of the Quincy school system during that period and the overall school population numbers many thousands more. The Gene Creedon impact on Quincy's schools will be felt for generations to come.

Riding with his family in an open touring car, along the three-mile parade route Nov. 25, Creedon will see a sea of happy faces and hear the plaudits of a most appreciative audience.

Whose bright idea was this?!?

To solve overcrowding at one school, Bill Phelan wants to redistrict students to other schools across town.

Why can't she go to a school in her own neighborhood?

Shuffling kids around like peas in a shell game is a short-sighted solution to one school's overcrowding.

Redistricting would...

- Add hours to each child's school day
- Increase the size of classes in other schools
- Take children away from their neighborhoods, friends and families

Mayor Sheets says...

"I've built two new schools and renovated seven others. What's more, we've dramatically lowered the average class size in Quincy. We're building a new high school, and we'll add classroom space at other schools wherever they are needed. Moving kids around town isn't moving Quincy forward."

Rep. Tobin Endorses Phelan For Mayor

State Rep. Stephen Tobin Tuesday endorsed School Committeeman William Phelan for mayor.

"I am proud to endorse Bill Phelan for mayor because I know he has what it takes to do the job," Tobin said. "I know Bill personally as my brother-in-law, and professionally as a fellow public servant. I respect him enormously as an honest, intelligent, tireless friend to the working people and seniors in Quincy."

"Throughout this campaign Bill Phelan has been telling the people of Quincy the truth about the Sheets' administration's mishandling of some of the most important development deals in the city's history," he continued.

"Bill Phelan has told the truth about Mayor Sheets' purchase of a toxic waste site for a school, the foolish waste of millions on the shipyard, and the mayor's failure to secure taxpayers a fair share of the $100 million in Big Dig dumping fees paid to Quarry Hills developers."

"Mayor Sheets has not leveled with taxpayers about why he wanted to build a school on a toxic waste site, or why he failed to stand up for taxpayers in these deals," Tobin said.

Tobin also expressed disappointment at Sheets' last minute advertising attacks on Phelan, and called them "unfair and inaccurate."

Tobin described Phelan as: "The candidate with the best plan to lead Quincy forward, and the judgment to know right from wrong."

Bill is the one taxpayers can trust to stand up for their interests."

Phelan has also been endorsed by: Local 369, Utility Worker's Union; Local 26, Hotel Restaurant Institution Employees and Bartenders Union; Local 285, Service Employees International Union and by Local 2222, IBEW.

Quarry Hills Citizens
Advisory Board

"We are the neighbors abutting Quarry Hills, and we're

So much could have gone wrong.

Nearly 13 million tons of dirt, moved in via over 600,000 truck trips. Covering over acres and acres of rotting trash and discarded cars. Filling in deadly, infested quarries. Negotiating with city, town and state governments. Designing an elaborate and enviable complex of a golf course, baseball and soccer fields, clubhouse, function hall, open areas and hiking trails.

Mayor Sheets had the foresight and experience to select the right people to do this job. His creative and bold plan was praised by the US Conference of Mayors as "an innovative approach to achieving quality of life goals."

We — as members of the Quarry Hills Citizens Advisory Board — are the community watchdogs for this project. Our mission is to protect the environmental and economic concerns of West Quincy by providing citizen input, advising and consulting with developers, reviewing plans and advocating for mitigation and controls.

And we wholeheartedly approve of the way Quarry Hills is proceeding. We are delighted with the plans. We enthusiastically applaud Mayor Sheets for his leadership and vision.

And we are grateful that the Mayor chose to concentrate more on the right people to do the job, rather than looking for the cheapest alternative.

Joe Finn is a different kind of candidate. From the beginning of his campaign, he has asked you what the important issues are. # What He Would Do The Next Two Years

James Sheets's 5 Top Priorities As Mayor

Each candidate was allowed up to 200 words to identify each priority and to state exactly what they would do to make it a reality.

Their responses follow:

JAMES A. SHEETS Priorities First Priority: Public Safety

The improvement of public safety is one of the cornerstones of my administration and it will remain a primary focus for the next two years. In order to ensure that crime rates continue dropping, I will complete the implementation of our Community Policing Program and provide at least two of these officers in each ward. Additional resources will be extended to the highly-successful Special Operations Unit, which provides intensive enforcement in problematic cases and contains specially trained officers, like the Canine, Marine and Motorcycle Patrols. These programs and many similar innovations were created by my administration and provide a balanced approach to law enforcement in our neighborhoods.

In the wake of recent national events that have exposed the safety vulnerability of all Americans, I have already taken steps to begin preparing the city for any disaster that could strike, both natural and manmade, old or new. I have created a new office within the fire department to coordinate the city's program of Disaster Preparedness and Response. This will make certain that all disaster plans are continually updated and that proper training and equipment is always available to fully prepare our emergency workers and best protect our residents, visitors and workers.

I consider strong Police

and Fire services to be crucial and will continue to actively support the efforts of our federal government in making appropriate preparations to meet any and all challenges that may arise.

Second Priority: Education

Maintaining our resolve to provide Quincy with the finest in education and school facilities will continue to be a major priority of the Sheets administration. We have made many advances. Computer technology in every classroom, the re-opening and expansion of the Beechwood Knoll School, expansion of the Parker and Bernazzani Schools, the creation of the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center and the Marshall Elementary, and the renovation of the Point Middle School are major improvements, but the job is not done.

The new Quincy High School, the current school renovated and transformed into the new Central Middle and the complete renovation of the Sterling Middle must be completed. These are the initiatives of the Sheets administration. No one has demonstrated more resolve towards these goals than Mayor Jim Sheets.

State of the art facilities are essential, but attracting and keeping good teachers is just as important. Many of our fine veteran teachers are retiring. A major goal of the Sheets administration, for the future, will be to attract the best teachers and keep them here for the long term. Through great facilities and great teachers our public schools will be second to none in Massachusetts. In the end this will do more to insure that our city's great families and neighborhoods will continue to be strong.

Third Priority: Elder Affairs

During the forthcoming term, I intend to implement a number of improvements at the Department of Elder Services that are designed to expand outreach and the security provided to senior citizens.

First, I will augment the transportation division. All surveys show that transportation remains one of the top national priorities for senior citizens. This administration has increased the effectiveness of our transportation services significantly and provides dramatically more options than any community on the South Shore. Therefore, I propose increasing our senior transportation fleet to 18 vehicles. This represents an opportunity to increase ridership by 60%.

We intend to restructure outreach to the community. An outreach worker will be designated to coordinate the services of all area agencies involved with Quincy seniors. This will include the new geriatric program at the Quincy Medical Center. This program is certain to be an asset and we believe it is imperative that our city is involved with it.

We will continue to increase the outreach provided to those recently widowed. The city recently started a program of personal contact with those who have recently lost a spouse in order to outline the services we offer. In addition, we have implemented a support group to help heal the tremendous loss felt by a widow. This is an area previously not covered by the Elder Services Department.

With the assistance of Greater Boston Elderly Legal Services, we provide free legal advice. We will continue to hold regular legal workshops and will expand the frequency of free seminars that assist seniors to organize their business affairs and help with preparation of important legal documents. We are confident that it will be possible to have an attorney present once a month in our office and that this individual can provide basic legal services, like will writing, to the elders of the city at no charge.

Lastly, it is the goal of this administration to build a first rate Senior Center for all of Quincy's elderly population to enjoy.

Fourth Priority: Public Works

Public works continues to be a major priority of the Sheets administration. To that end the following projects will receive the greatest possible attention during the next two years:

- Bigelow Street Flooding Relief Conduit. Decades of flooding must come to an end for the people of Bigelow Street, Elm Street, and Miller Stile Road. We will work to secure the $3.5M in state funding to make this project a reality.

- Furnace/Cunningham Brook Flood Control Project. This project is fully designed and is intended to end flooding in West Quincy. The first phase, rebuilding the Black's Creek tide-gates, is underway and there are three more phases of work. The high cost of this project, estimated by the state at $20 million, makes vigilance by the city of paramount importance.

- Newbury Street/Kendall Avenue Flood Control Project. The BETA Engineering Group is currently conducting the study phase of a comprehensive plan to alleviate flooding that has plagued this area.

- Shirley Street Flood Control Project. The City of Quincy is managing this project aimed to dramatically reduce and essentially eliminate flooding that has become a common concern among residents.

- Wollaston/Montclair Flood Control Project. This is a City of Quincy project that is currently in the permitting process. The construction of new drains and a pumping station will remedy major flooding in Wollaston near Brook Street and the so-called bog area in Montclair.

- Wollaston Beach Task Force Recommendations. These recommendations must continue to be implemented. The next phase, $5 million in city funded sewer replacement, is currently before the City Council. Once approved, we will add this to the $11 million for environmental improvements already completed along Wollaston Beach.

- Water System Rehabilitation. The Water System

Acton Plan enacted in 1997. We have recently completed the draft five-year plan for roadways. This is the capstone of our infrastructure planning. Integrating roadway improvements with underground utility improvements is the only way to insure that funds are spent wisely and where they are most needed. This plan calls for spending in excess of $3 million per year on roads.

Fifth Priority: Parks and Open Space

I recently announced the details and action plan for Project PROSPER, which will be the largest park rehabilitation plan and open space protection initiative in city history. There will be no cost to Quincy's taxpayers for this $9.8 million plan; the revenue from the new hotel/motel tax will be utilized to achieve this ambitious program of park improvements and open space acquisition.

We will spend $5.7 million on improvements at those parks considered "citywide" due to their extensive use by many residents. Highlights of Project PROSPER include: a new "field turf" artificial surface at Veterans' Stadium; a new state-of-the-art track facility at Veterans' Stadium; lighting at Varsity Soccer Field; a tournament-quality girls' softball complex at Mitchell/McCoy Fields; the completion of the Adams Walk project at Merrymount Park; a new picnic facility at Faxon Park; improvements to our City-owned beaches; and a host of other improvements at neighborhood park locations.

In addition, the new youth athletic fields at the Quarry Hills Recreation Complex will be open next year. There will be four new little league fields and four youth soccer fields, creating the largest youth sports complex in Quincy. All this at no cost to the city for construction and no charge for maintenance for the next 50 years.

Our young people spend a tremendous amount of time in our park system. They deserve the best and under my watch this is exactly what they will receive.

Chief Of Staff Andrew Card At Chamber Of Commerce Breakfast

Andrew Card, Jr., Chief of Staff to President George W. Bush, will be the guest speaker this morning (Thursday) at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's "7:44 - Breakfast" at Lombardo's, 6 Billings St.,

Card will hold a press conference following the Chamber event at approximately 9 a.m.

What He Would Do The Next Two Years

William Phelan's 5 Top Priorities As Mayor

WILLIAM J. PHELAN Priorities

First Priority: Safety And Security Of Our City

As mayor, my number one priority will be to address the on-going safety and security of all Quincy's citizens in their homes, schools, and work place.

The events of recent date since Sept. 11th have impacted the lives of all Quincy residents.

I believe it to be of the utmost importance that Quincy's mayor provide the leadership. I will convene a meeting of elected officials, public safety officials, school administrators, medical, EMT and ambulance personnel and business and civic leaders to share their expertise and strategies. I wish to establish and implement policies and guidelines so Quincy's citizens can be assured that in my administration, safety and security concerns will receive immediate attention.

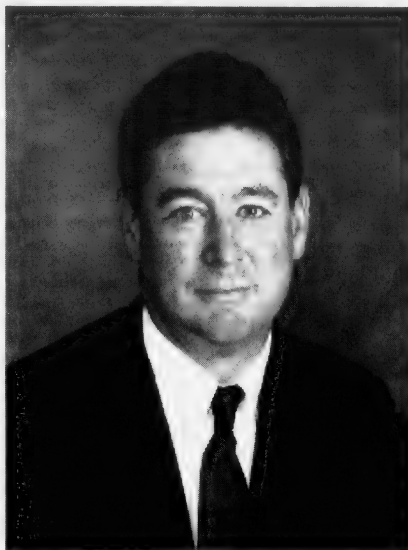

As mayor, I wish to assure every Quincy parent and guardian who entrusts their school children to our care and protection that I will continue to place their safety and security first and foremost. I will never allow our school children and teachers to be placed in harm's way as would have been the case by the present administration wanting to place a new school building on a toxic waste dump; at a location named one of the state's 12 worst environmental and public health threats.

I assure our citizens poor decisions will not be tolerated in my administration.

Second Priority: City's Finances

As mayor, I will undertake a thorough review of the city's financial structures, its indebtedness, anticipated income and expenses.

With the prospect of tighter economic and fiscal days ahead, the present mayor's faulty decisions will cost us millions of dollars. I will implement zero base budget, and scrutinize every department's request. Every request must be justified.

It is imperative that our citizens be informed and understand the present financial condition of our city so that we may take appropriate action.

Massachusetts and our country experienced a tremendous economic growth period during the mid-1990s and still Quincy's tax rate increased. The poor judgment and ill conceived decisions by the present administration cost our taxpayers millions of dollars.

- Example: The purchase of a toxic waste dump for a school - cost $3.5 million plus
- Example: Architect's fee and no school - cost $1.5 million plus

- Example: The shipyard scheme - no ships and no development plans - cost $7 million plus

- Example: The Highpoint development at Quarry Street - cost $3 million plus

- Example: The Quarry Hill Golf Course give away - cost $100 million plus

And, according to the City Council Finance Committee, Quincy could be facing a projected $1.3 million deficit.

The poor judgment of this administration adversely affects senior citizens on fixed income and much needed school programs.

I will fight for the people for a change.

Third Priority: Education

As mayor, I will convene a meeting with School Committee members, the superintendent and school administrators to develop strategies, assess needs and identify challenges. I want to be helpful with direction to our school system to achieve, nurture and ensure that all Quincy's school children have the guidance and support to reach their maximum potential.

Name: William J. Phelan

Age: 41

Home address:

86 Monroe Rd., Quincy

Occupation: Attorney

Education:

- Beechwood Elementary School

- Central Junior High School

- North Quincy High School

- Suffolk University

- Suffolk Law School, Cum Laude

Political Office held:

- Quincy School Committee member, 2000 to present

- Chairman, Special Education Sub Committee

- Member - Policy Sub Committee

- Member - Budget Sub Committee

Family:

Wife Tracey Tobin Phelan

Daughters Rachael, 12; Brianne, 9; Kerry, 5; Son William

Arthur, 2 1/2

Existing school programs and services must be carefully reviewed and assessed for their effectiveness. Valuable resources must be allocated wisely to support the program needs of our children and teachers.

As mayor, I will work closely with School Committee members and the superintendent of schools to provide math and literary specialists at each elementary school to meet our youngsters' needs.

I will be an advocate for all day kindergarten and work for a city-wide early childhood learning center.

Successful programs will be instituted, and ineffective programs eliminated.

Quincy's school system should be the finest. Working together, we can accomplish this goal with pride. I am convinced this is what parents want. It's what our School Committee wants. It's what our superintendent wants. It's what our students and teachers want.

And as Quincy's mayor, it is what I will demand.

Fourth Priority:

City's Infrastructure And Business Community

As a candidate for mayor, I listened to the people when I visited Quincy's neighborhoods. People do not want their basic city services interrupted or neglected as has been the case for too long.

People want their streets and sidewalks installed and maintained on schedule, not just at election time.

As mayor, I would establish a schedule for all streets and sidewalks to be installed and repaired.

I will repair the broken sewer pipe along Wollaston Beach so people can enjoy clean beaches and recreation.

I will meet with public safety officials and neighborhood associations to discuss malfunctioning fire hydrants and discuss needed fire and police equipment to protect our neighborhoods.

I will meet with public safety officials to discuss all pedestrian walks and traffic signals.

I will meet with leaders of the business community to discuss areas of mutual concerns, communications and basic public services.

I will open the doors to city hall for all Quincy's citizens and not just for the connected few.

Fifth Priority:

Quality Of Life - Affordable Housing - Open Space - Ball Fields

We cannot and should not abandon those less fortunate than others in their quest for affordable housing — and we must protect and obtain when available, open space for the enjoyment of future generations. We must review policies, needs and expenditures of our parks and playgrounds. City wide sports programs are a wonderful, healthy enjoyment for youngsters and their families.

The City of Quincy belongs to the people — not the power brokers at City Hall.

It is not the mayor's city to give away.

Example: (1) $5 million plus for a toxic waste dump and architect. (2) $7 million plus to shipyard scheme with no ships. (3) $100 million plus land for a golf course for the developer for 50 years.

Imagine how much we could improve the quality of life of all Quincy's citizens but for the poor judgment by the mayor and his administration.

The mayor floated bonds (your tax money) to repair streets and sidewalks and now he's proposing floating more bonds (your tax money) to install artificial turf at the Quincy stadium to put our young athletes at risk. He has not learned from the mistakes at the toxic waste dump.

When you stop listening to the people, and your thinking process becomes tired, you make poor judgments. Let's take our city back.

Stop business as usual. Give Quincy a mayor to fight for you for a change.

Council Clarifies Role Of Human Rights Commission

The City Council recently approved amendments to the structure of the Human Rights Commission to clarify the commission's duties and powers.

The new language focuses the commission's efforts more to general advocacy of human rights in the city and less in the area of mediation, which commission members said they were not trained enough, at present, to undertake.

Speaking on behalf of the 15-member commission, which favored the amendments, were members Rev. Esther Bowen-Starkey, director of Pastoral Care at Quincy Medical Center, and Dr. Joseph McDermott, a retired optometrist and former member of the School Committee.

"Until we get more training in mediation, we'd rather not be involved in it at this time," said Dr. McDermott, who called the original language defining the commission's role as "rather vague."

MWRA Maintenance Work Could Cause Water Discoloration

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) is performing maintenance work during the weeks of Nov. 5 and Nov. 26 which could cause water to be discolored in parts of Quincy.

The work will take place at MWRA meter 29, Adams St. at Beale St.; meter 85, Beale St. at Summit Ave.; meter 166, Furnace Brook Parkway at Copeland St.; meter 199, West Squantum St. at Amsterdam Ave.

While water may appear discolored during this period, it is perfectly safe to drink. Residents should avoid washing white or light colored items for three days after the work is completed, said MWRA Spokesman Cory Tromblee.

With the holidays fast approaching, the Germantown Neighborhood Center will be accepting applications today (Thursday) from 8:30 a.m. until noon and again in the evening from 6 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. for those in need of assistance at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The center will share the information with all food pantries and agencies in Quincy that assist families for the holidays.

Applicants should provide information about any other agencies which they receive assistance from during the holidays.

The Germantown Neighborhood Center is located at the Snug Harbor Community School at 333 Palmer St. For more information, call (617) 376-1384.

Applications Being Accepted For Assistance During The Holidays

Dr. Murphy received his medical degree from Boston University and completed his internship and residency at Boston Medical Center. He has been a member of South Shore Hospital's medical staff since 1997.

McNamee Urges Increased Funding For Veterans

In a recent letter to Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Brian McNamee, candidate for councillor at large, urged increased funding for veterans claims processing.

"Over the course of our campaign, we have had the opportunity to speak with veterans and have learned about one of their most pressing needs," McNamee said. "We learned disability pay for retired veterans has been delayed because of extended legislative debate."

Legislative wrangling between the House and Senate over the House bill (H.R. 2620) and the Senate version (S1216) has failed to address appropriate funding levels for veterans claims processing, McNamee said.

McNamee's letter urged further consideration of an amendment advanced by Senator John McCain that would increase funds for veterans' claims processing by $5 million. McCain's proposal asked that funding come from Community Development Funds. While the current debate takes place, there are more than 650,000 veterans' claims now backlogged in the VA adjudication system, McNamee said.

"With older veterans being affected by most of these delays and over 1,000 older veterans dying each day, it's a matter of fundamental fairness that pending claims be addressed in a timely matter."

McNamee urged all who benefit from the sacrifices of our armed service members to write to their elected officials in Washington and request adequate claims processing funding.

"After all, we did not have to wait one minute in our time of need when asking these brave individuals to serve in the armed forces, why should they now wait in their greatest hour of need?" McNamee said.

Connolly Outlines Senior Initiatives

Bryan Connolly, candidate for Ward 4 city councillor, outlines initiatives he plans to undertake on behalf of Quincy's senior citizens.

"Our senior citizens built Quincy into the great city that it is today," Connolly said. "As Ward 4 Councillor, I will work to ensure that Quincy always provides our senior citizens with the services they deserve."

Connolly noted that the city's Council on Aging currently offers many outstanding programs on behalf of senior citizens. "I want to support the excellent work of our Council on Aging and assist in developing new programs that benefit our senior citizens."

Connolly's goals include expanding van transportation services for senior citizens, and developing new recreational and entertainment activities available to seniors in South and West Quincy.

In response to concerns raised at a recent meeting he hosted at the Bauer House senior citizen residence, Connolly said that he would explore plans to make influenza shots more easily accessible for local seniors.

Connolly said that as Ward 4 councillor, he would remain accessible himself to senior citizens by holding regular office hours in locations across Ward 4.

In addition to hosting regular office hours, Connolly said he will host workshops in Ward 4 to assist senior citizens with their applications for tax abatements.

Connolly also noted two current programs the city offers senior citizens that he would like to bolster. He said that he would like to increase funding for the "Chores Program," which helps senior citizens with yard clean-up and snow removal. He also wants to restore funding to the Senior Worker Abatement Program (SWAP), which was reduced in the 2002 budget. The SWAP program allows seniors to reduce their tax bill by volunteering their time on city's behalf.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

SPITTING IMAGES

While the persistent lack of saliva known as "dry mouth" may seem like little more than a nuisance, it should not be ignored. Aside from making it easier to talk, saliva helps prevent tooth decay by washing away food and plaque, and minerals found in saliva help repair early tooth decay. Saliva also limits bacterial growth that can dissolve tooth enamel or lead to infections, and it neutralizes acids in the mouth. For all these reasons, cases of dry mouth should be brought to the dentist's attention. Once thought to be a part of aging, it is now recognized that xerostomia (a medical term for dry mouth) is actually related to the medications taken by older individuals rather than age.

Dry mouth is also common among older adults and may be related to salivary gland dysfunction. Call us at 617-479-6220 today and discover how a few simple measures can bring quick relief as well as enhance your dental health! We will do everything we can to insure that your visits to us will be as comfortable and pleasant as possible. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our entire staff is very proud to offer many professional services to all our patients. Remember that preventative dentistry is the lowest cost, most convenient way to retain your smile. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. On any given day, a healthy adult produces about three pints of saliva.

George Burke To Receive J WV Citizen Of Year Award

Atty. George Burke will be honored Sunday by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post as its "Citizen of the Year."

Burke will be presented the 51st annual award at a 9 a.m. breakfast at Beth Israel Synagogue.

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti will be the guest speaker.

Bellotti, a lifelong Quincy resident and a long-time friend of Burke, has been sheriff since January, 1999, and prior to that was a three-term state representative from the First Norfolk District.

Program Chairman Irving Isaac said Burke will be recognized "for helping youth, his fellow man and for his community service."

Burke, now a practicing attorney, is a former Norfolk County district attorney, state representative and city councillor.

GEORGE BURKE

He won wide acclaim last January when he topped a bidding battle at a New York City auction to bring back to Quincy the historic Colonel John Quincy tankard.

Burke bid $160,000 to win the 234-year-old tankard, one of 11 pieces of Colonial silver United First Parish Church auctioned off to finance needed repairs to the church.

Colonel Quincy, after whom the city is named, bequeathed the tankard to the church. He was the grandfather of Abigail Adams and the great grandfather of sixth president John Quincy Adams.

Burke has made generous donations to many worthy causes in the city including thousands of dollars in scholarships to graduating seniors from Quincy and North Quincy High School going on to attend the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, his alma mater.

Bryan Connolly

Vision, Leadership and Integrity

Over the past 8 months, I have met with thousands of you while walking door-to-door to ask about the issues that matter most to you. I want to thank you for the time and support you have given me. As your Ward 4 Councillor, you can count on me to always be honest with you, work hard for you, and listen to your voice, first and foremost.

Paying Attention to Streets and Sidewalks

The condition of the streets and sidewalks in our community concerns many Ward 4 residents. Bryan promises a plan to ensure our streets and sidewalks remain in good condition, as well as straight answers on future maintenance.

Balanced Approach to Development

Over the past six years Ward 4 has absorbed more development than any other area in the city of Quincy. In spite of this, no master plan for growth has been outlined. Bryan wants to create a long-needed master plan to ensure that development is done right.

Seeing the Big Picture with Sensible Traffic Planning

Traffic has made it increasingly difficult to get around our own neighborhoods in Ward 4. Bryan will work with the community to build a comprehensive traffic plan, rather than looking just one sign or intersection at a time.

WHICH WAY NOW?

Affordable place to live and raise a family

Bryan will be a voice for responsible handling of city finances so that taxes do not overwhelm Quincy residents. Bryan wants to keep Quincy an affordable place to live and raise a family, especially for those on a fixed income.

Responsive to the needs of Senior Citizens

Bryan will be an advocate for expanded transportation and recreational activities for Ward 4 seniors. As Ward 4 Councillor he will continue to host breakfasts and coffee hours with Ward 4 senior groups to address their concerns.

Advocate for Families and the School System

Bryan will work hard to give teachers and principals the tools and resources needed to educate our children.

Bryan will also speak out for West and South Quincy students and parents to ensure that school districting plans place our students in schools that are as close to home as can be accommodated.

Public Safety

Especially in the wake of September 11, Bryan will be a staunch advocate for properly staffing and equipping Quincy's police and fire departments. He also wants to expand community policing.

Voice for Working Families:

Bryan will always be a strong advocate for the issues most important to working families in Quincy.

Bryan has been endorsed by:

- Boston Carmen's Union Local #589
- Painters and Allied Trades District Council #35
- International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local #2222

Michael Demeo Member Of Golden Key Honor Society

Quincy resident and Boston University student Michael Demeo has accepted membership in Golden Key International Honor Society and was individually honored during a campus ceremony.

Golden Key International Honour Society is a non-profit, academic honors organization which provides academic recognition, leadership opportunities, community service, career networking, and scholarships to deserving individuals.

Membership into the society is by invitation only to the top 15 percent of juniors and seniors in all fields of study.

"It is only fitting that a high academic achiever like Michael be recognized by Golden Key," said Kali Boatright, assistant executive director of the society. "Our members are inspired and motivated by the challenge not only to be recognized for their outstanding accomplishments but also to make a positive impact on our world through the society's commitment to service.

Demeo, a graduate of Quincy High School, is a junior at Boston University with a major in film production.

The Golden Key International Honour Society has more than 300 chapters in the United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Australia, Canada, Malaysia, South Africa, and New Zealand.

Keenan Plans Neighborhood Preservation Initiative

John F. Keenan, a candidate for city councillor-at-large, introduced a Neighborhood Preservation Initiative at a recent coffee hour.

"The plan is to put safeguards in place to preserve our neighborhoods and to develop plans to improve them," Keenan said.

The initiative includes the Comprehensive Street and Sidewalk Plan proposed by Keenan last spring.

"We should develop a comprehensive plan to address the street and sidewalk issue," he said. Whether you are a senior, a parent walking a child, a pet walker or a child riding your bike, the condition of the streets and sidewalks in the neighborhoods is a matter of safety. The city should work throughout the winter to get the plan in place for the spring and summer paving seasons."

Another component of the initiative is the use of the proceeds from the hotel/motel tax to purchase open space in neighborhoods. Keenan said several such parcels have been identified by the Open Space Committee.

"The open space parcels that are in or near neighborhoods really contribute to the quality of life in our neighborhoods," he said. "Now that a funding mechanism is in place, at no cost to taxpayers, the city should purchase as many of those parcels as possible to prevent denser development."

Keenan's initiative also calls for neighborhood traffic management, coordinated and managed by the city's Traffic Engineer and Traffic Commission.

"The key part to this component," he said, "is the re-introduction of the Traffic Commission. The Traffic Engineer and the Commission, which would include representatives of the Police and Fire Departments and the City Clerk, would have final say in all neighborhood traffic matters, such as one-way streets and stop signs.

"Under the present system, coordination between the departments is lacking, and as a result, traffic solutions on one street negatively impact surrounding streets. The Traffic Engineer and a Traffic Commission, working together, would be able to take a much more comprehensive approach to the issue."

Changes to the city's zoning ordinance, [particularly its zoning districts, are also a part of the initiative.

"There are areas throughout the city where neighborhoods are not adequately protected from increased housing density," Keenan said. "As buildable land becomes scarcer in the city, the pressure will be on to develop lots within or abutting neighborhoods. The city should make appropriate changes in the zoning map to ensure that neighborhoods are protected from surprise developments."

The final component, Keenan said, is enhanced public safety.

"We should work to ensure that our neighborhoods have the best police and fire protection possible," he said. "It becomes more important each day.

"I grew up in Quincy in a great neighborhood, where kids, parents and grandparents shared lives and felt safe and secure. With a family of my own now, I want to same for them. I will fight to preserve and improve out neighborhoods."

Union bosses want candidates to pledge support for a new ordinance that would interfere with private property rights. They want to tell private property owners who to hire. They call it a "Responsible Employer" ordinance.

THE TRUTH: it's irresponsible, and it's illegal. John Keenan believes private property rights are sacred. He told the union bosses he would not support the ordinance.

A trade union just took back their endorsement. They told John it was "because of your statement that you would not be a puppet for the Building Trades and Organized Labor."

Let's make it clear. If accepting an endorsement from unions or anybody else means you have to be their puppet, then John doesn't want that endorsement.

Now unions are making calls to thousands of voters on behalf of a candidate who has pledged to support an illegal ordinance, who will trade your private property rights and try to call it "responsible." They're saying John is against unions, and that he doesn't support "working families." Don't be fooled.

The truth is, John comes from a working family of seven kids. His father has been a union member for over fifty years. His brothers are union members. He embraces union efforts such as the prevailing wage, health care coverage, safe working conditions the right to organize, and PLAs on public projects. What's more, in his career John has spent hundreds of hours working with unions. He has built a record of respect.

He just won't trade your rights for an endorsement.

Isn't that what we want in government? Somebody who will stand up. Somebody who will be independent. Somebody who will fight for all of us.

On November 6th, cast a vote for independent leadership.

South Shore Savings, Charitable Foundation Pledge $100,000 To SSARC

John C. Boucher, president and chief operating officer of the South Shore Savings Bank, announces that, with matching gifts, the bank and its charitable foundation have pledged a total of $100,000 over five years to the capital campaign of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC).

South Shore ARC which is located in North Weymouth, provides disability services in 10 South Shore communities through education, employment, therapy, residential placement, home care and support services.

"The bank and the South Shore Savings Charitable Foundation are pleased to be able to support the work of ARC on the South Shore," said Boucher. "Reaching out to help others is very much in keeping with the bank's role as a leader in the community."

South Shore Savings Bank, which operates under an 1833 state charter, has offices in East Bridgewater, Hanover, Quincy and Weymouth, including an educational and training facility at Weymouth High School. The bank is a member of the FDIC and a member of the DIF.

Bragg Favors Expansion Of Full-Day Kindergarten

In seeking her third term on the School Committee, Vice Chairwoman Jo-Ann Bragg said she plans to continue her work to expand full-day Kindergarten and Early Childhood Education programs and support expanded learning opportunities for both students and teachers.

On school matters, Bragg said, "I have visited every school several times over the years and saw first-hand wonderful learning across the city. I talk to the teachers, students, and parents and I bring their concerns and ideas with me when I vote on school issues."

Bragg said she has been lobbying for education improvements since the mid 1980's and that today many of these improvements are in place, including a nurse in every school, class sizes lower than most communities in the state, the elimination of user fees, and an increase in teachers' pay, particularly that of substitute teachers.

Bragg also cited beginning teacher support programs, an increase in professional development, and the hiring of literacy specialists and expansion of alternative programs "to give students every opportunity to succeed."

Bragg worked to create the present long-range maintenance plan to renovate, fix, and build new schools and, serving in her capacities as a board member, treasurer, and business manager of Quincy After School Child Care, worked to add before and after-school programs as well as summer programs.

Bragg has served on the Quincy School Committee for the last eight years and has served as vice chairwoman the last two years. She was recently honored as one of the recipients of The Mayor's Commission on Women Award and in 1998 was the first woman chosen to receive the Mayor's Good Scout Award from Mayor James Sheets and the local Boy Scouts of America.

As founder and executive director of Teen Get-Away - two teen centers that served 20,000 teens in a safe and healthy recreational environment from 1994 to 1999 -- Bragg received the first Community Hero Award from Impact Quincy.

Coughlin Announces Communication Strategies

Ward 3 city council candidate Kevin Coughlin announced several strategies he said will help more effectively represent the interests of the ward's residents.

Coughlin noted that he has a web site, www.coughlinward3.com, which was established and registered in August.

"This site will assist me in communicating with all residents of Ward 3, keeping them informed with regard to developments of interest to the ward as a whole and individual neighborhoods as well," he said. "In addition, if elected I will install a new constituent dedicated telephone line that will be available 24 hours a day."

Coughlin has also proposed creating a ward wide advisory board of interested residents of the various neighborhoods. These residents would host neighborhood meetings to discuss and address particular neighborhood issues.

"This plan fits with my vision of returning city hall to the people and to the neighborhoods," Coughlin said, "and it would be an adjunct to the restoration of neighborhood associations of which I have had extensive experience over the late decade."

for the endorsement, saying the support would provide a lift just before the Nov. 6 election and, more importantly, refute what he called "eleventh hour attacks" made by the Sheets camp as to the truthfulness of his campaign.

"Councillor Harold's integrity is unquestioned," Phelan said. "This endorsement affirms that I have been telling the truth."

Harold, considered a likely mayoral candidate himself before his decision not to run and subsequent election as register of deeds for Norfolk County, said he remained neutral on the mayor's race "until it became very clear that Bill was speaking on those issues I had been addressing for six years."

As councillor the past six years, Harold has questioned several decisions of the Sheets administration, including those concerning the revitalization of the Fore River Shipyard, the purchase of the proposed high school site off Quincy Ave., and the need for the bailout of Quincy hospital due to what Harold called "poor management from City Hall."

In a statement released Tuesday, Harold applauded Phelan for bringing those issues and others to the voters.

"The people of Quincy need to know the issues and facts so they can vote intelligently," Harold said. "The mayor's claim that everything is sweetness and light is simply not true, and we're all going to have the tax bills to prove it."

In urging his supporters to vote for Phelan, Harold told seniors that Phelan had the qualifications "not only be a mayor, but to be a great mayor for the city of Quincy."

We are proud to support candidates who commit themselves to LOCAL JOBS FOR LOCAL PEOPLE, FAIR WAGES, HEALTH INSURANCE, JOB TRAINING, PENSION PLANS, JOB SAFETY AND SOUND CONSTRUCTION. Through a Responsible Employer Policy that benefits all of us.

The Responsible Employer Ordinance / Policy establishes a hiring preference for the selection of contractors who pay their workers a fair wage and provide employer-paid family health insurance, pension benefits and training opportunities.

A Responsible Employer Ordinance / Policy provides an incentive for contractors to submit competitive bids that include provisions to treat their workers fairly. The Responsible Employer Ordinance / Policy is also good public policy.

The problems of the working poor which are borne by the community as a whole are becoming increasingly common. The percentage of American workers covered by employer paid health care and pension benefits has declined over the last few years. This is particularly true in the building operations services and construction contract areas where contractors increasingly seek a competitive edge by pushing wages and benefits down to the lowest possible levels while walking away with big profits. Many of their workers are forced to rely on public hospitals and welfare programs to make ends meet. The cost of providing these programs to the taxpayer is immense and has put fiscal constraints on several communities across the country. These increasing demands on local and state services has caused elected officials to balance their budgets by under funding public services.

The Responsible Employer Ordinance / Policy is a significant step toward counteracting the increased reliance on government health and welfare programs and ensuring that workers employed on local jobs contribute to the health of the communities they live in instead of detract from it.

Eastern Bank Commits $5 Million For Homebuyers' Program

To Help Municipal Employees Buy Homes In Communities Where They Work

Eastern Bank announces it has committed $5 million to a new state program aimed at helping teachers, firefighters, police officers and other municipal employees buy homes in the communities where they work.

The MassHousing Municipal Mortgage Program allows qualified municipal employees to forego the 5 percent down payment typically needed, enabling them to buy a home in the community where they work with no money down.

Through Eastern Bank, the program is available to municipal employees in Quincy and in communities throughout eastern Massachusetts.

"With today's real estate market, many municipal employees have been priced out of the communities where they work," said Cindy Merkle, Eastern's senior vice president in charge of mortgage banking. "The biggest obstacle is the down payment, not the ability to make the monthly mortgage payments. This program eliminates the down payment issue."

To buy a $250,000 home with a conventional mortgage program, a buyer would typically need a 5 percent down payment, or $12,500. The Municipal Mortgage Program eliminates that requirement. In addition, Eastern is offering reduced closing costs, further reducing the amount of money the buyer needs up front.

"If they have put away some money, the buyers can now spend it on moving costs, some initial home improvements or simply set it aside for other future needs,"

Merkle said. "We are proud to be part of this program and we look forward to helping those in public service achieve the dream of home ownership."

In all, 58 banks have committed $221 million to the program, which was announced recently by acting Gov. Jane Swift. The program is open to full-time, salaried municipal employees living in communities served by the banks. Buyers must meet income eligibility requirements.

The loans will be insured by MassHousing's mortgage insurance fund, reducing the risk to the banks. While allowing buyers to finance the entire cost of the home is riskier for banks, Eastern believes municipal employees are typically more stable than other industries, which substantially lowers any risk.

"Eastern is committed to serving communities in eastern Massachusetts," Merkle said. "With this program, we can also serve the employees who serve those communities."

Experts Warn: Treat For Fire Ants In The Fall

(NAPS) — Imported fire ants, which infest more than 300 million acres in the southern United States, are spreading at a rapid rate across the country, causing an increased need for homeowners to treat their yards at a time when the treatment will be most effective — fall.

Agricultural experts recommend that homeowners treat their yards in the fall with a fire ant bait, such as Amdro, to significantly reduce the number of mounds that appear the following spring.

Dr. Charles Barr, Texas Co-operative Extension Program Specialist Fire Ant Project at Texas A&M, comments, "While spring is when public awareness of fire ants is at its highest, fall is actually the best time to treat biologically, particularly with a product like Amdro."

According to university research, there are four reasons that fall is an effective time to treat ants:

- Winter is approaching and extreme cold is tough on fire ants, making baits more effective in the fall because they weaken colonies and make them less able to respond to the challenges of winter weather.
- Fire ants are more active in the fall than the summer because daytime temperatures return to between 70 and 85 degrees, an ideal temperature for ants to forage for food.
- Mounds are closer to the surface.

- Fire ants are young and colonies are smaller.

Fire ant experts also recommend the following steps for best results with baits, such as Amdro, because ants carry the bait to hidden and visible mounds:

- Apply bait with a hand-held spreader, and broadcast over the entire yard.
- Since fire ant bait works as a "food," using fresh bait from a recently opened container is most effective.
- Use the proper amounts of bait: 1 to 1 1/2 pounds per acre (1 pound treats a large yard three times).
- For best results, apply

Amdro after the rain, but when no additional rain is forecast for at least 24 hours. Do not apply to standing water or on a soaking wet ground.

- Apply bait in early morning or early evening, when worker ants are most likely to forage for food.
- If possible, team with your neighbors to coordinate applications — the fire ants will have no place to go if the entire neighborhood broadcasts at the same time.

- Bait can be applied anytime from spring to fall. Re-apply bait whenever fire ants or their mounds appear.

Sheets, Phelan Seen In Close Finish

"Sayonara" after serving four terms. The other two candidates that year, former Mayor Joseph LaRaia and Councilor Steve McGrath, were eliminated in the preliminary election. LaRaia is now a city assessor and McGrath, the city solicitor, both appointed by Sheets.

Phelan is considered Sheets' most serious challenger and threat since then. Sheets has run unopposed for re-election three times and opposed twice by little known candidates.

Phelan says it is time for a change in the mayor's office and a new direction and fresh ideas for the city to move forward. Sheets, he says, has lost touch with the people.

Sheets says he has the necessary experience that Phelan lacks and the steady hand needed at the city's helm, especially now with the uncertain times ahead for the city and the nation.

As for his 12-year administration, his political advertising slogan is "It just keeps getting better."

Phelan, a relative political newcomer, became somewhat of a household name and propelled into a formidable mayoral candidate after spearheading the fight against siting the proposed new Quincy High School on a former Quincy Avenue toxic waste dump.

To which he says: "And I didn't need a lot of political experience to know a bad site for a school when I saw one."

The City Council

There will be at least three new city councilors elected next Tuesday — one at-large and two ward. And, possibly, a fourth.

Incumbents Timothy P. Cahill, 42, who is also Norfolk County treasurer, and Francis X. McCauley, 71, a former four-term mayor, are conceded two of the three at-large spots by observers.

Cahill (7,518), seeking his eighth term, topped the preliminary election field with McCauley (7,303), running for a third consecutive term, a close second.

Four other candidates have their hopes pinned on an open seat, the one Paul Harold is leaving to devote full-time as Norfolk County Register of Deeds to which he was elected last year.

The four are:

- Joseph G. Finn, 45, former executive director of Father Bill's Place and present executive director of Shelter, Inc., a Greater Boston non-profit agency providing house and programs for the poor.

- John F. Keenan, 37, financial coordinator for the Norfolk County Advisory Board and former executive secretary to Mayor Sheets.

- Jimmy Liang, 24, Quincy restaurant owner and the first American-Asian city council candidate in the city's history, making his first run for elective office.

- Brian F. McNamee, 44, chief financial officer for the South Essex Sewerage District and a former candidate for the Ward 6 seat.

In the preliminary election, Finn (6,268), ran third behind Cahill and McCauley, followed by Keenan (5,659), McNamee (3,154) and Liang (2,859) in that order.

Eliminated from the at-large field were Julie A. Berberan, Denis F. Tardo and Robert J. Boussy.

Two new council faces are guaranteed in Wards 3 and 5:

- Kevin F. Coughlin, 46, and John Garland, 41, hope to fill the seat Patrick McDermott is leaving after being named executive assistant to Paul Harold, Norfolk County Register of Deeds.

In the preliminary election Garland (1,106) topped the four-man field with Coughlin (871) taking the second nomination. Eliminated were John C. Cain, Jr., 55, and David McGillicuddy, 60.

The Ward 5 seat in now an open one due to incumbent Stephen Durkin's failure to win a nomination, believed to be a first in the city's political history.

Vying for the seat are:

- Douglas S. Gutro, 36, program manager with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, making his first run for elective office.
- James E. Mullaney, III, 40, certified public accountant and also a first-time political candidate.

Gutro took the top spot in the preliminary election with a vote of 1,224 to Mullaney's 823. Durkin was only 28 votes behind but did not seek a recount.

The Ward 4 seat is not open but it has triggered one of the hottest battles between the two youngest candidates in this year's election, on-scene by many as "too close to call."

- Michael J. D'Amico, 26, seeking his fourth term, points to accomplishments and says because he listens to his constituents, "city government has never been closer to the people." D'Amico is a Suffolk Law School student and works part time in the Norfolk County Sheriff's office.

- Bryan C. Connolly, 27, says a lot more needs to be done and he will do it and that he is "the change Ward 4 really needs." Connolly is a Boston College Law School student and Notre Dame University graduate making his first run for elective office.

There was no preliminary run-off in Ward 4.

Two former foes meet again for the Ward 6 seat.

- Joseph J. Newton, 34, who is in accounting operations at State Street Bank, is seeking his second term.

- Maryann P. Mahony, 62, making her second bid for the Ward 6 seat is the only woman city council candidate on the ballot. She is a customer representative at Boston Gear.

Newton took the top spot in the preliminary election with a vote of 1,261 to Mahony's 605. Eliminated were Patrick Conroy and William Kiley who tied with 369 votes each.

Ward 1 has been the quietest of all the wards with contested council seats.

- Gregory M. Hanley, 36, a salesman, is seeking a second term.

- Gretchen Grant, 73, who has become the perennial challenger to Ward 1 incumbents, is the challenger once again.

In Ward 2, incumbent Daniel G. Raymondi, 54, is already re-elected to his seventh term. Once again, no one stepped forward to challenge him.

And also re-elected without opposition are three school committee incumbents:

- Jo-Ann Bragg, current vice chairman, to a third term, Ron Mariano, to a fourth and Michael McFarland to a second.

The city's 30 voting precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Applications Available For Transition To Trades Course

Former City Councillor Mike Cheney and the Quincy and South Shore Building & Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO announces applications are available for the second course in a new union construction Pre-Apprentice School called Transition To Trades.

Transition To Trades has been operating from offices located at 1458 Hancock St., Quincy Center. The purpose of the eight-week program is to teach individuals about the Union Building Trades and career opportunities through union apprenticeship programs. The program will outline the requirements of each trade to enter an apprenticeship program. The Transition To Trades program will not guarantee acceptance into any of the Apprenticeship Programs. "Transition To Trades Pre-Apprenticeship program will teach qualified candidates about a career in the construction industry and apprenticeship programs," Cheney stated. "Transition to Trades has just successfully completed the eight week program with a class of 22 and will be starting a new class on Nov. 12.

The only requirements are that you must have a valid drivers license, be drug free and be physically able to perform the work. Classes are two nights a week 2 1/2 hours a night. "We want to stress that an apprenticeship is a commitment to a career not just a job. Apprenticeship requires a long term commitment to a trade. If you are fortunate enough to be accepted into one of the union apprenticeship programs you must be willing to attend school after work," Cheney stated.

There is no charge for the course. Books and supplies are free. The Quincy and South Shore Building and Construction Trades Council received a grant through the U.S. Department of Labor earlier this year. The grant is administered by Commonwealth Corporation and operated by the Building Trades. The course is offered to residents of the South Shore from Quincy to Plymouth.

Laborers, Operating Engineers, Ironworkers, Elevator Workers, Electrical Workers, Bricklayers, Sprinkler Fitters, Sheet Metal Workers, Roofers, Plumbers, Pipefitters, Painters, Carpenters, Teamsters, Pipe Covers and Boilermakers are trades introduced at the school.

The Building Trades Council has advocated that communities adopt Responsible Employer Ordinances, bylaws or policy's (REO). The REO requires contractors performing public construction work for the city or town hire local workers and have apprenticeship programs in place. "We want to make sure local residents have an opportunity to receive the best training through a union apprenticeship program. This school demonstrates our commitment to the community," Cheney said.

For more information or to register for the November course call 617-786-8400. Applications are available at the school located on the second floor of 1458 Hancock St. between 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

McCauley Seeks Report On Library Valuables

Citing what he called "a rash of recent thefts" at the newly renovated and constructed Thomas Crane Public Library, Councillor Frank McCauley has written to Mayor James Sheets asking for an investigation into the matter, an inventory of the library's valuables, and a report prepared for review by the City Council.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin, who expressed disappointment that McCauley did not contact the library directly about his concerns, responded that rumors of persistent thefts at the library have "no basis" but that the library was "very concerned" about security and could compile such an inventory.

"If Councillor McCauley wants an inventory, we'd be happy to provide him with one," said McLaughlin, who added the library keeps catalogues of all items and conducts many such inventories for insurance purposes. "That makes sense."

The Oct. 27 letter written by McCauley, who serves as chairman of the Library Committee, refers to the recent theft and subsequent recovery of a priceless LaFarge stained glass window and, more recently, the disappearance of a chandelier.

"These thefts cannot continue," reads one part of McCauley's letter, which also mentions "persistent rumors" of other missing items, including a kitchen component and Richardson table.

In response, McLaughlin said the returned LaFarge stained glass, which was stolen while the library was in the process of its $19 million restoration, had been installed with increased security measures at the advice of security consultants.

The chandelier, she said, was actually a chandelier piece, useless by itself but valued at $2,184, which was scheduled for installation in the newly renovated Richardson building but was discovered missing prior to the Richardson's re-opening.

Although McLaughlin said she is in contact with authorities on the matter, she said the possibility still exists that the chandelier piece could have been misplaced.

As for the other items mentioned in McCauley's letter, McLaughlin said the unrestored Richardson table was "exactly where we thought it was" in a storage trailer and has been moved to the library and that an appliance for a staff room did go missing early in the construction process but the incident was described by the contractor as common practice on job sites.

License Granted For Mexican Restaurant

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to give Fajitas & 'Ritas a common victualer/all alcoholic and cabaret license at the former Ship's Haven Restaurant, 1237 Hancock St. Most recently was known as Barry's In The Square.

Last week, the board heard plans from Bradley Fredericks, manager of the new restaurant, but it was felt that some board members did not have time to review the plans.

Chairman Joseph Shea said he, Det. Lt. Robert Perchard and Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue visited the other Fajitas & 'Ritas restaurant in Brookline, and had lunch which Shea called a "successful trip with favorable thoughts." The company also has a restaurant in downtown Boston.

The 80 seat restaurant was also approved by Quincy, 2000 and by the Quincy Center Business & Professional Association. The request will now go to the Alcoholics Beverage Control Commission for approval.

Bradley said 25 to 30 percent of the restaurant will be for smoking and the left side of the restaurant will be non-smoking.

The cabaret license includes background music and television set plus a DJ for private parties.

The menu will feature many Mexican entrees including chicken and shrimp fajitas, smoked barbecue with brisket and pulled pork platters, burritos, chili, quesadillas, tequila wings, nachos, salads, soups and many side dishes and desert specials.

Drinks will feature Margaritas ('Ritas), frozen strawberry 'Ritas as well as draft and bottled beer and wines and cocktails. There will also be many non-alcoholic beverages as well.

Bradley said renovations will be taking place December, January and February with a target for opening March 1.

Telephone Solicitation Questioned By License Board

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The legality of a telephone solicitation for funds was questioned at Tuesday's License Board meeting and referred to the city solicitor's office for a ruling.

Mike Quinn Productions, Inc. is seeking a permit to conduct a telephone solicitation in conjunction with the Quincy Police Patrol Officers Association.

Police Chief William Falco questioned whether the solicitation was in compliance with the attorney general's guidelines and Massachusetts General Laws.

Falco told Quinn that he called the attorney general's office and was told that Quinn is supposed to have a "statement of purpose". However, Quinn told Falco that if the event was a charitable one, he would have to have a statement of purpose. He called what he does a non-profit event since the moneys are usually distributed to youth hockey and other sports events as well as scholarships for Quincy students.

Quinn, who told the board that the company plans a Magic Show at North Quincy High School in December, repeatedly told the board that his record was "impeccable" and he had been in Quincy for six years, and Weymouth for eight years. He tried to convince the board that his company showed "professionalism" in their endeavor to raise money. Quinn said the show at the school would bring families together.

Patrolman Joseph Keegan, told the board that Quinn has a license to solicit in Massachusetts, and reiterated where the donated moneys would go.

Falco said he still felt that the telephone solicitation "did not follow under the guidelines."

He said "If I'm confused by all of this, I imagine the license board and the public is also."

Falco asked Quinn if he had to make a full disclosure over the phone as to where the money is going. Quinn said he did not have to do this because his was a "non-profit organization." Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said "no matter how you look at it, telephone solicitation is distasteful." He said especially to the elderly, who feel as though they are pressured to donate money-money he said that sometimes "they do not have."

Gorman said the organization should find another way to raise money, and said he "never felt comfortable with telephone solicitation."

Chairman Joseph Shea, who said he supported referring the matter to the legal department, said as far back as when Francis Mullin was police chief, they have always received phone calls from persons asking about the solicitations.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, told the board that the city should have a set of ordinances that govern telephone and door to door solicitations, and then have a set procedures to follow.

She related how someone recently came to her door and when she asked him if he had a Quincy license, he went to his car and said "so far he hasn't returned."

Shea said he would refer the matter to the city solicitor "today" (Tuesday) so expedite the request.

Report Finds Successes, Challenges At Adams NHP

pledged his support as well as that of Senators Edward Kennedy and John Kerry to preserve and improve the Adams sites, and author and historian David McCullough, whose recent biography on John Adams is considered a key factor in the doubling of attendance at the Adams sites this year to 158,000.

But twice the attendance, said Delahunt, who echoed the report's finding of "professionalism and excellence" among NPS staff, also meant twice the demands on the historical sites, which he said were "truly at a Rubicon."

In addition to addressing security and the need for a "full-time, in-house historian," McCullough told those gathered at the Beale Estate that concerned Quincy residents should "seize the opportunity" and establish a private foundation to support the Adams National Historical Park.

"An Adams Foundation should be established right away," said McCullough, adding that the foundation established for the support of the Boston Public Library provided an excellent model.

Adams National Historical Park Superintendent

Marianne Peak welcomed guests to the Beale Estate and thanked the NPCA for its report, expressing her hope that the report would spur efforts to improve the site.

The Adams assessment is the first such report in the NPCA's "State of the Parks" program, a cooperative effort with the National Trust for Historic Preservation, which is designed to provide an objective assessment of the condition of natural and cultural resources in a variety of national park units across the country during the next few years.

The NPCA has one of the largest memberships of any conservation organization in the country with more than 425,000 members.

Six High School Soccer Players Honored

Six local high school girls' soccer players were honored by their respective leagues for their outstanding play this season.

At North Quincy, seniors Allie Lacey, Kelly Rice and Kathryn MacRitchie were named Old Colony League First Team All-Stars. Seniors Lauren Sleeth (6 goals, 2 assists) and Erin McFarland (5 assists) received honorable mentions.

Lacey was voted one of the top five players in the OCL as she finished the season with 10 goals and nine assists. MacRitchie posted seven shutouts to finish with 22 in her career.

At Quincy, Kaila Saxe was unanimously selected as an Atlantic Coast League First Team All-Star.

"Kaila is a very young and talented player," said first-year head coach Don Martin. "She sees up to 80 minutes a game and the league coaches learn quickly to appreciate her talents. Most teams chose to assign a mark to Kaila and this is where she is at her best. She is a real competitor, highly technical, extremely fit and capable of scoring at any time."

Only a sophomore, Saxe has been a starter for two seasons and finished as the team's leading scorer this year.

"I love playing at Quincy High School because I get a lot of playing time and this helped me to develop more skill," Saxe said.

Martin looks forward to next season when Saxe will work with the incoming freshmen, helping them with the transition to high school.

50 yards on three carries, culminating with a 20-yard TD run to give the Panthers a 22-0 lead at the break.

In the second half, the Storm opened with an 85-yard kickoff return for a touchdown. The Panthers, though, responded with a 70-yard TD run from Joe Picone on his only carry of the game.

The storm returned the ensuing kickoff for another touchdown to cut the Panthers' lead to 28-12. The Panthers answered quickly when Banko jetted 55 yards for a touchdown to close out the scoring.

North Quincy Girls' Soccer Fifth Seed In State Tourney

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team finished the regular season with a 14-3-3 overall record to earn a fifth seed in the Division 1 South tournament.

According to head coach Paul Bregoli, the Red Raiders' fifth straight tourney appearance should begin next Monday with a home game at Teal Field at 2:30 p.m., either against Needham, Newton South or Natick.

North Quincy closed the season Monday afternoon with a 4-0 win over Silver Lake, setting a school record with its 14th win. Last Friday, it routed Randolph, 6-1, and last Wednesday it battled Marshfield to a scoreless tie.

"We are playing super soccer and peaking at the right time," Bregoli said. "Everything is jelling. Defensively, we've only given up six goals in the last 11 games while the offense has taking off, scoring 29 goals during that stretch."

"We feel confident right now," he added. "Our first tourney game will be key.

We are playing very confidently and the kids don't care who they draw because they fear no team."

The Silver Lake game, Bregoli said, was probably the best soccer the Red Raiders have played all season.

Senior quad-captain Allie Lacey fed a streaking Rachel Enos, who calmly beat the Lakers keeper from 10 yards out for her fifth goal of the year. Minutes later, senior quad-captain Lauren Sleeth, who appears to be healthy after preseason knee surgery, took a deflected shot and ripped in into the net for a 2-0 lead.

North Quincy extended its lead to 3-0 when Lacey fed Sleeth, who spun and drilled a low, hard shot past the surprised keeper for her second goal.

North Quincy controlled play throughout the half, as midfielders Kelly Coleman, Erin McFarland, Katie Timmons and Katy Faherty continually won balls to maintain the offensive attack.

The Red Raiders closed out the scoring when sophomore Jenn Ryan tallied her seventh goal of the season with Lacey assisting again.

Lacey finished the season with 10 goals and 9 assists, third in the Old Colony League. Senior keeper Kathryn MacRitchie recorded her seventh shutout of the year, lowering her goals against average to .750.

"Lacey and Sleeth are showing great senior leadership up front, while Kelly Rice, Caitlin Herlihy and MacRitchie are providing the same on the defensive end," Bregoli said.

In the Randolph game, Lacey got the Red Raiders going early with a pair of goals in the first 10 minutes. Enos and Sleeth picked up assists. Junior midfielder Lauren Kalil scored her sixth of the season, drilling a shot off a deflected corner kick.

Junior forward Christina Conley, who is rounding into form after a serious ankle injury, scored her third of the season to make it 4-0. She faked a Randolph sweeper and slotted the ball past the sprawling keeper.

Sleeth volleyed a one-timer off a feed from junior forward Katy Mercurio early in the second half. Mercurio closed the scoring, putting a 20-yard shot to the far post for her sixth of the season. Senior back Allison Downs assisted for her first career varsity point.

Seniors Laura Matos, Meghan McLean and Downs played well in the back and seniors Amy O'Donnell and Kara Cheesman were strong at midfield.

In the rematch with Marshfield, North dominated from start to finish. Lacey, Sleeth, Enos, Mercurio, Ryan and Kate Markhard buzzed the Rams' net all afternoon but could not finish.

North Quincy's best chance came with two minutes left in the game when Lacey served up a corner kick to Sleeth, whose header hit the bottom of the crossbar. Rice, Sarah Gregory and Lauren McGee led a powerful defensive effort.

Significant Strides For Quincy Boys' Soccer

Not many would have thought at the beginning of the season the Quincy High boys' soccer team and tournament would be used in the same sentence.

Although Quincy came up just short of the tournament, its dramatic one-year turnaround still makes for one of the better success stories in the high school soccer circle this year.

After a horrendous 0-18 campaign in 2000, the Presidents rebounded under first-year head coach Kevin Orcutt to finish with a 7-10-1 overall record, winning three of four to close the season on a high note.

"We didn't preach our goal of making the tournament," Orcutt said. "We just missed it by two or three points. I think the kids learned a lot this year. We have a good, strong base coming back next year."

Quincy ended the season with a 1-0 win at Dedham last Friday afternoon. Junior forward Bruno Pereira scored 15 minutes into the second half off a pass from sophomore midfielder Thiago Pereira.

Bruno Pereira was selected as an Atlantic Coast League First-Team All-Star, with junior forward Washington Morisset and junior keeper Matt MacNeil receiving

MacNeil recorded 13 saves against Dedham for his fifth shutout of the season. Orcutt named him a captain for next season, along with junior midfielder Craig Keenan.

"Matt came up really big this year," Orcutt said.

Last Thursday, MacNeil made 14 saves in a 3-0 shutout over Rockland at home. Senior co-captain Andrew Smith, junior midfielder Liam Powers and Morisset provided the scoring.

Last Monday, Quincy suffered a 5-1 loss to Plymouth

North, the ACL league champs. It was the worst defeat of the entire season for the Presidents.

On Oct. 19, Quincy blanked Randolph, 3-0, at home as MacNeil stoned six shots. Bruno Pereira, Thiago Pereira and Morisset all found the back of the net.

Presidents Prevail, 8-0

FOOTBALL

Led by a tenacious defense, the Quincy High School football team snapped its five-game winless streak last Saturday afternoon with an 8-0 victory at Sandwich.

The defense, which has played well all season, forced five turnovers and held Sandwich to 120 yards in total offense for its second shutout of the season.

"The story of the game was the defense," said head coach Bob Noble. "It was a total defensive effort. They never really did anything until their last series. It was the first time they got inside our 30-yard line. We pretty much controlled the whole game."

Quincy (2-4-1, 1-2-1) will travel to the Cape for the third straight week tomorrow (Friday) night when it takes on Dennis-Yarmouth at 7. It returns home the following to battle a tough Plymouth North team, which plays Whitman-Hanson this week with the Atlantic Coast League championship on the line.

"It was a good win and now we go to Dennis-Yarmouth to continue our Cape odyssey," Noble said. "Hopefully things will continue and then we have a big game the following week against Plymouth North. And the Thanksgiving game speaks for itself."

Sandwich engineered its best drive of the game on its final series, in which it completed a couple of passes and was aided by a Quincy penalty. With 20 seconds left in the game, though, Quincy defensive back Bill Reid intercepted at pass at the 15 to seal the win.

Junior Shawn Munchbach also had an interception, while seniors Scott Kelley and Chris Sullivan and junior Steve Eklunscian recovered fumbles.

The Presidents scored the only touchdown of the game on the first play of the second quarter. Senior quarterback Mike Lorenzano drilled a 26-yard TD pass to senior wideout Brian Keefe. Lorenzano ran in for the two-point conversion on a fake extra point attempt.

Keefe started in place of senior wideout Dan Galligan and finished with three catches for 60 yards, including the game-winning touchdown reception.

"Keefe ended up playing an outstanding game for us," Noble said.

Quincy was also without the services of another starter, junior back Matt Ramponi. Noble moved senior Kris Kamborian to wingback and inserted sophomore JJ Niamkey, who played a strong game. The Presidents rushed for 80 yards as a team.

Although the Presidents scored only eight points, they were able to move the ball against Sandwich as they compiled over 250 yards in total offense. Lorenzano (11 of 20, 150 yards) turned in one of his better games of the season.

Penalties were the problem offensively, with over 100 yards of yellow flags.

"Offensively, we moved the ball against them, but penalties seriously hampered us from scoring a lot more points. This week turnovers weren't an issue."

Red Raiders Fall, 41-24

The North Quincy High School football team dropped its fourth straight game last Friday night, falling at Silver Lake, 41-24.

Since their 26-14 win against Falmouth Sept. 28, the Red Raiders have lost to Barnstable, Taunton, Plymouth South and now a hot Lakers team (4-2-1, 4-1).

Injuries have plagued the Red Raiders lately, with several players missing games in recent weeks and many playing hurt last week.

"I'm very proud the way the kids have hung in there," said first-year head coach Tony Green. "We're playing teams that are difficult to beat, and it's even harder with injuries. We're really beat up. The kids gave it their all. Nobody gave up. They showed the true North Quincy spirit.

"In amidst of the resurrection of the program, they understand that it's not going to happen over night, especially when your hurt."

The schedule does not get any easier this week when North Quincy (2-5 overall, 1-5 OCL) hosts Bridgewater-Raynham tomorrow (Friday) night at 6. The Trojans strut into Veterans Memorial Stadium with a 7-1 overall record (4-0 league), outscoring their opponents 202-46.

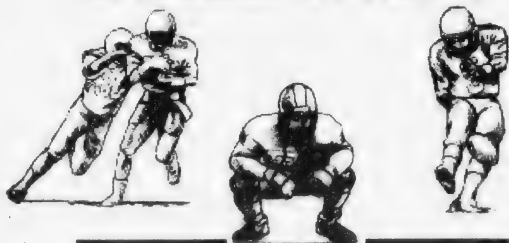

"Bridgewater-Raynham is ranked No. 5 in the state," Green said. "We've scouted a few games and we have some tapes on them. We try to look for chinks in their armor, and they don't have any chinks."

North Quincy fell behind 35-0 in the first half and never recovered. Silver Lake scored on its first two series of the game and in the second quarter it converted three North Quincy turnovers into scores.

In the second half, the Red Raiders finally scored on junior tailback James Coughlin's 9-yard run. Senior quarterback Dennis Thomson rushed for the two-point conversion to make it 35-8. Silver Lake extended its lead to 41-8 on Paul Seyfert's 1-yard TD run.

In the fourth quarter, North Quincy made the score a little more respectable with a pair of touchdown runs (8, 17) by junior fullback Chris Dolbear, who also rushed for both two-point conversions to close out the scoring.

IN FOR A SHOCK

As its name implies, a shock absorber is the primary suspension component in a vehicle that prevents continued bouncing over bumps, turning corners, and during acceleration/braking. It works by converting suspension movement into heat as fluid in a telescopic shock absorber is forced to pass through restrictive valves during the shock piston's compression/extension cycle. Many shock absorbers are gas-filled to reduce foaming as their pistons are forced through the fluid. In addition, a floating piston separates the gas from the fluid to eliminate performance fade and maintain good ride and handling characteristics - even under demanding driving conditions. As shock absorbers wear, their resistance to movement weakens, making replacement necessary to restore good handling characteristics.

When you bring your car into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing, don't hesitate to ask any questions about anything relating to your car's shocks and suspension system or other system. We have modern test equipment, the right parts, and the best ASE Certified service technicians available in the area. ## Getting Help For The Mental And Emotional Trauma Of Sept. 11

By PAUL SHAW,
LICSW
Vice President
Outpatient Services
South Shore Mental Health

Ever since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on America, millions of Americans have found themselves trying to cope with the mental and emotional wounds caused by the tragedy and the ensuing war against terrorism.

Attending a support group and talking through the feelings associated with living through such a traumatic event can help many people deal with the negative psychological effects of the horrific events.

Seeking the assistance of a mental health professional can also aid in the healing process. For some people, particularly those suffering from post traumatic stress disorder, one particular therapy called Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR) can help.

EMDR Therapy
EMDR, first introduced in 1989, is a therapy designed to help people overcome traumatic events — and the anxiety, phobias and stress they can abuse. Like many therapies, EMDR focuses on freeing people from the persistent, intrusive memories of traumas by having the patient bring to mind the trauma in a safe atmosphere.

Unlike other therapies, however, EMDR therapy involves controlled movement of the patient's eyes (or other bilateral stimulation such as touch and sound) as they are re-experiencing the key incidents of trauma. The eye movements (or other bilateral stimulation) are continued until the memory becomes less disturbing.

EMDR works by helping patients reprocess negative memories that have become seemingly "frozen" in their mind. Eventually, the goal is to help the patient remember the trauma in a new and less distressing way.

Bayview Associates, a program of South Shore Mental Health, has licensed psychologists, social workers and psychiatrists who can help people struggling to cope with the mental and emotional problems resulting from Sept. 11. If you or someone you know could benefit from counseling services, call Bayview Associates at 617-847-1950.

Support Groups

In addition, Bayview Associates is offering free support groups to help people in our community cope with the terrorist attacks. They will be held at Bayview Associates offices in Quincy, starting Nov. 5 at 5:15 p.m., and in Plymouth, starting Nov. 6 at 5 p.m. The groups will be facilitated by a member of our professional counseling staff.

If you would like more information about the support groups or to register to attend, call South Shore Mental Health at 617-847-1901.

Beat Stress With Exercise

(NAPS)—Americans are spending more time working and less time exercising. The result: increased levels of stress. According to the 2001 "For the Long Run" survey conducted by Russell Athletic, the most common excuse for skipping a workout among men (50 percent) and women (46 percent) is "not enough time."

Russell Athletic offers a few ways to help reduce stress throughout the day:

- Morning: Instead of taking the elevator, try walking up the stairs. Start gradually, working your way to the top.
- Noon: For your lunch break, take a brisk walk around your building (or around the block).
- End of Day: Wind down by doing small exercises for your neck and arms. If you sit all day, stretch your legs to increase blood flow and loosen tense muscles. It will give you a quick burst of energy and help you finish the day.

The "For the Long Run" survey also found that 18 percent of men and women relieve stress by "yelling and screaming." While we don't recommend using this tactic, we offer a few quiet alternatives to help reduce stress at work:

- Take a Deep Breath: Inhale through your nose. Concentrate as it slowly fills your lungs. Hold for five seconds and release. This helps your body release endorphins, the hormones that aid in relaxation.
- Dress Comfortably: Wear clothes that make you feel good about yourself and keep you relaxed.

• Squeeze! Grab a stress ball and squeeze as hard as you can. Hold and release. These things exist for a reason.

• Find an Empty Room: If you feel the need to get away, don't hesitate. Find an empty room and retreat for a few minutes. Find a room with a window — sunshine works wonders.

Even with the busiest work schedule, you can incorporate these quick activities to promote a healthy lifestyle. Following the above tips will ultimately help you reduce stress and make your work day a positive one.

Russell Athletic products are available at department and sporting goods stores across the nation. this political will to generate a national commitment to learn more about the disease so in the long-term it might be prevented and in the short-term, it can be better managed.

Former U.S. Surgeon General David Satcher said, "One of the real issues is, why are we seeing an increase in asthma? And we don't know the answer to that. Until you understand why you have an increase, and you have documented it, it is very hard to say you have a strategy that is going to make a difference."

Asthma has been around a very long time. The first known descriptions date from the 16th century. Henry Hyde Salter documented the correlation of asthma with cold air, dust and animals in 1911.

Genetics plays a role in which people get asthma, but that does not explain everything. The allergen interaction with genetically susceptible individuals is obviously important. A lot of things are on the suspect list as causes of asthma or being capable of triggering an attack. But, scientific evidence to support many of these suspicions is not conclusive. The answers to "why" or "how" people get asthma will take time and money to learn.

There are far too many children still not being properly medically managed. Proper management should prevent virtually all lost days from school, emergency room visits and hospital admissions for asthma.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Troubles . . . We all have them. We all complain from time to time about them, but they are still there. In our daily lives we continually face difficult decisions, trying circumstances and situations.

A wise and philosophical man was once asked how he overcame his difficulties. . . He replied: "How do I get through a trouble? Well, first I try to go around it, and if I can't go around it, I try to get under it, and if I can't get under it, I try to go over it, and if I can't get over it, I just plow right through it." Then he added, "God and I plow right through it." Good advice? We think so . . .

Here's another good piece of advice . . . "Warning! Following are the names of seven Mischievous Misses who are responsible for most of our troubles: Miss Information, Miss Quotation, Miss Representation, Miss Interpretation, Miss Construction, Miss Conception, Miss Understanding. Don't listen to them! Beware!" - William J. H. Boetcker

Ken Grippi Technical Training Consultant For Dependable Cleaners

Christa Hagearty, president of Dependable Cleaners, announces Ken Grippi has been appointed the company's new technical training consultant.

This is a newly-created position in conjunction with Dependable Cleaners' "Training for Our Future" program, made possible by Department of Employment and Training grant funds.

Grippi brings more than 30 years of experience to the dry cleaning industry to his current position. He has worked with Dependable Cleaners for 27 years, serving as manager and district manager for the company. He was also vice president and president of Beacon Cleaners prior to their merger with Dependable Cleaners in 1972.

In his new position, Grippi

is responsible for instructing small classes in all nine Dependable Cleaners production plans. The classes are part of an ongoing employee development plan at Dependable Cleaners, called the Technical Training Program. It represents the second tier of the company's five-tier "Training for Our Future" program, where employees receive formal training in the technical abilities they have acquired through daily operations.

The "Training for Our Future" program, partially funded by $80,000 in Workforce Training Fund grant money, is an incumbent worker training program, which is financed by Massachusetts employers and administered by the Division of Employment and Training. It is being used to train 115 Dependable Cleaners employees, in an effort to ensure a high degree of employee retention in an economy that is experiencing increased unemployment rates.

Some of the areas in which Grippi will be training employees are: tailoring, laundry, pressing, dry cleaning, hanging loads and minor repairs.

"Ken's industry experience makes him the ideal technical trainer for our program," said Hagearty.

Why are so many Sheets voters switching to Bill Phelan for Mayor?

"Bill Phelan has a plan to lead Quincy forward."

— Kathy Shaw, 97 Bird Street
"Bill Phelan has been listening to the people," says Kathy Shaw. "He has solid plans to improve our schools, fix our crumbling streets and sidewalks, and restore fiscal responsibility to the Mayor's office."

"Jim Sheets has lost touch with the people. We need a change."

"Bill had the courage to stand up for our kids when no one else would."

— Julie Graham, 44 Braintree Avenue

"I supported Mayor Sheets in the past," explains Julie Graham. "But when he proposed building the new Quincy High on a toxic waste dump, I began to question his judgment."

"When I learned that a Sheets' contributor bought the land for $1 million, then sold it to the city a few weeks later for $3.5 million, it became clear to me we needed new leadership," she said.

"Bill Phelan was the only one who stood up to the Mayor and the entire city establishment to stop that plan for the sake of our kids. He has the courage and the independence we need, and he'll make a great mayor!"

"Sheets' shipyard deal torpedoed taxpayers."

— Anthony "Dinny" DiNardo, 87 Edward Street

"How can Mayor Sheets continue to waste millions and millions of taxpayers dollars on this ship building scheme, and still have no alternate plan to utilize the valuable shipyard land?" asks Dinny DiNardo of Edward Street.

"This is a priceless resource, waterfront property that's sitting empty for years. Instead of earning the city tax dollars to hold down our property taxes, Mayor Sheets is still defending his decision to blow millions."

"It's time for new blood, new ideas. That's why I'm for Bill Phelan."

"Who'd pay $100 million for a golf course?"

— Tom Kelly, 77 Wren Terrace

"Jim Sheets ran for Mayor promising to control developers," says Tom Kelly. "But time and time again he has favored developers over taxpayers."

"He turned Quincy land over to developers for 50 years, tax free, for $1 to develop a golf course," Kelly explains. "And while Quincy had negotiated with the Big Dig to receive money for dumping soil on the site, taxpayers never got any of it."

"Instead, the Mayor's developer friends, who are also contributors, received $100 million from the Big Dig!"

"Bill Phelan knows that's wrong. The Mayor doesn't get it. That's why I'm switching from Jim Sheets, and voting for Bill Phelan for Mayor."

"Sheets' mistakes drive up taxes, driving seniors from their homes."

— Marion and Paul Ricca, 129 Madison Avenue

"We are on fixed income, but our taxes keep rising," explains Marion Ricca.

"If the mayor hadn't wasted millions on the high school siting and millions more on the golf course and the High Point development, taxes wouldn't need to go up so much!"

"Bill Phelan understands that, and he's got the judgment to do the right thing, and the courage to make it stick!"

"Jim Sheets has been Mayor too long. It's time for a new Mayor. That's why we are supporting Bill Phelan."

"Bill Phelan's bid to unseat 12-year incumbent James Sheets...is a breath of fresh air to the city's stale politics. Quincy has taken a beating from private developers and corporations in the past decade."

4 New Councillors: Finn • Connolly • Coughlin • Gutro Phelan By 10, Sheets Seeks Recount

THE WINNER -- William J. Phelan gives a big smile and a thumbs up to supporters at a victory party Tuesday night at The Fours following his 10-vote win over Mayor James A. Sheets.

Sheets: Recount Will Be 'Handled With Dignity'

Mayor James Sheets, who said he would pursue a recount of Tuesday's mayoral election results, said that his campaign would handle itself with "honor and dignity" no matter what the election's final outcome.

Sheets made his intentions to seek a recount known to supporters at a post-election party late Tuesday night at the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

"I don't know what the outcome of a recount will be but I have an obligation to all those who have supported me now and in the past to ensure that the vote count is absolutely, unequivocally accurate," Sheets said. "We will accept that final decision and move forward."

In what is seen as the closest mayoral election in the city's history, relatively newcomer William J. Phelan edged out six-term incumbent James A. Sheets by a scant 10 votes in Tuesday's election.

Sheets, who was met with a standing ovation from supporters at a post-election party at the Quincy Lodge of Elks, told them he would seek a recount.

A jubilant Phelan at a victory party at The Fours restaurant credited his campaign workers with making the difference.

"God put all these good people into my life," he said. "I'm absolutely beyond words. I could never pay back the wonderful people who helped me. They came when I needed them."

"It's phenomenal. I'm overwhelmed."

Phelan's vote was 12,325 (49.93 percent) to Sheets's 13,315 (49.89 percent).

City Council President Paul Harold and Councillor and former Mayor Francis McCauley both endorsed Phelan which is credited with helping him to the close win. Sheets was endorsed by The Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun was neutral.

The election also saw four new councillors elected: including Bryan Connolly's upset win over incumbent Michael D'Amico in Ward 4.

The three other new faces: Kevin F. Coughlin (Ward 3), Joseph G. Finn (at-large), and Douglas S. Gutro, Ward 5.

Only 47 percent of Quincy's record high 53,021 registered voters turned out to vote. The prediction was between 61 to 63 percent.

City Clerk Joseph Shea and election workers were checking the write-in votes as The Sun went to press to determine if they would af-

— Kathy Shaw, 97 Bird Street

"Bill Phelan has been listening to the people," says Kathy Shaw. "He has solid plans to improve our schools, fix our crumbling streets and sidewalks, and restore fiscal responsibility to the Mayor's office."

"Jim Sheets has lost touch with the people. We need a change."

"Bill had the courage to stand up for our kids when no one else would."

— Julie Graham, 44 Braintree Avenue

"I supported Mayor Sheets in the past," explains Julie Graham. "But when he proposed building the new Quincy High on a toxic waste dump, I began to question his judgment."

"When I learned that a Sheets' contributor bought the land for $1 million, then sold it to the city a few weeks later for $3.5 million, it became clear to me we needed new leadership," she said.

"Bill Phelan was the only one who stood up to the Mayor and the entire city establishment to stop that plan for the sake of our kids. He has the courage and the independence we need, and he'll make a great mayor!"

"Sheets' shipyard deal torpedoed taxpayers."

— Anthony "Dinny" DiNardo, 87 Edward Street

"How can Mayor Sheets continue to waste millions and millions of taxpayers dollars on this ship building scheme, and still have no alternate plan to utilize the valuable shipyard land?" asks Dinny DiNardo of Edwards Street.

"This is a priceless resource, waterfront property that's sitting empty for years. Instead of earning the city tax dollars to hold down our property taxes, Mayor Sheets is still defending his decision to blow millions."

"It's time for new blood, new ideas. That's why I'm for Bill Phelan."

"Who'd pay $100 million for a golf course?"

— Tom Kelly, 77 Wren Terrace

"Jim Sheets ran for Mayor promising to control developers," says Tom Kelly. "But time and time again he has favored developers over taxpayers."

"He turned Quincy land over to developers for 50 years, tax free, for $1 to develop a golf course," Kelly explains. "And while Quincy had negotiated with the Big Dig to receive money for dumping soil on the site, taxpayers never got any of it."

"Instead, the Mayor's developer friends, who are also contributors, received $100 million from the Big Dig!"

"Bill Phelan knows that's wrong. The Mayor doesn't get it. That's why I'm switching from Jim Sheets, and voting for Bill Phelan for Mayor."

"Sheets' mistakes drive up taxes, driving seniors from their homes."

— Marion and Paul Ricca, 129 Madison Avenue

"We are on fixed income, but our taxes keep rising," explains Marion Ricca.

"If the mayor hadn't wasted millions on the high school siting and millions more on the golf course and the High Point development, taxes wouldn't need to go up so much!"

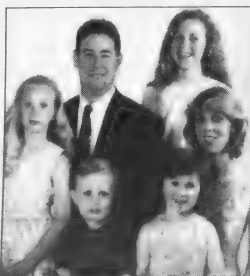

"Bill Phelan understands that, and he's got the judgment to do the right thing, and the courage to make it stick!"

"Jim Sheets has been Mayor too long. It's time for a new Mayor. That's why we are supporting Bill Phelan."

"Bill Phelan's bid to unseat 12-year incumbent James Sheets...is a breath of fresh air to the city's stale politics. Quincy has taken a beating from private developers and corporations in the past decade."

4 New Councillors: Finn • Connolly • Coughlin • Gutro Phelan By 10, Sheets Seeks Recount

Sheets: Recount Will Be 'Handled With Dignity'

Mayor James Sheets, who said he would pursue a recount of Tuesday's mayoral election results, said that his campaign would handle it with "honor and dignity" no matter what the election's final outcome.

Sheets made his intentions to seek a recount known to supporters at a post-election party late Tuesday night at the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

"I don't know what the outcome of a recount will be but I have an obligation to all those who have supported me now and in the past to ensure that the vote count is absolutely, unequivocally accurate," Sheets said. "We will accept that final decision and move forward."

In what is seen as the closest mayoral election in the city's history, relatively newcomer William J. Phelan edged out six-term incumbent James A. Sheets by a scant 10 votes in Tuesday's election.

Sheets, who was met with a standing ovation from supporters at a post-election party at the Quincy Lodge of Elks, told them he would seek a recount.

A jubilant Phelan at a victory party at The Fours restaurant credited his campaign workers with making the difference.

"God put all these good people into my life," he said. "I'm absolutely beyond words. I could never pay back the wonderful people who helped me. They came when I needed them."

"It's phenomenal. I'm overwhelmed."

Phelan's vote was 12,325 (49.93 percent) to Sheets's 13,315 (49.89 percent).

City Council President Paul Harold and Councillor and former Mayor Francis McCauley both endorsed Phelan which is credited with helping him to the close win. Sheets was endorsed by The Patriot Ledger. The Quincy Sun was neutral.

The election also saw four new councillors elected: including Bryan Connolly's upset win over incumbent Michael D'Amico in Ward 4.

The three other new faces: Kevin F. Coughlin (Ward 3), Joseph G. Finn (at-large), and Douglas S. Gutro, Ward 5.

Only 47 percent of Quincy's record high 53,021 registered voters turned out to vote. The prediction was between 61 to 63 percent.

City Clerk Joseph Shea and election workers were checking the write-in votes as The Sun went to press to determine if they would af-

Now Abigail Can See Him Every Day

John Adams Statue Dedicated By Partnership

By LANCE MORGANELLI

Abigail Adams can now look across Hancock St. and be sure to see her husband, John Adams, which she often could not do in real life.

The life-sized bronze statue of the second President, commissioned by the Quincy Partnership at an estimated cost of $60,000, was dedicated Saturday on the edge of City Hall Plaza with spectators standing under umbrellas looking on in the morning rain.

Across the street beside historic First Parish Church is the statue of Abigail Adams depicting her at around age 32 with son, John Quincy Adams, the sixth President to be, as a 10-year-old boy.

This statue, also commissioned by the Quincy Partnership, a cross section of community leaders, was erected in 1997. Both statues were created by sculptor Lloyd Lillie who was on hand Saturday to help dedicate his newest creation.

The Adams statue is so placed that he appears to be looking across the street to Abigail and John Quincy.

The placement of the statue signifies the often distance between Abigail and Adams when he was away from home, sometimes overseas, in service of the fledgling nation.

Edward Keohane, chairman of the Quincy Partnership, and colleagues took part in Saturday's dedication.

Keohane opened the ceremony with a quote from Adams: "Think of no other greater but that of the soul, no other richer but those of the heart..."

day we walk by it of his dedication to his people and the United States," Adams National Historical Park Supt. Marianne Peak said. "He was not always politically popular but he always did the best for the people."

Lillie received an honorary membership to the City of Quincy by Sheets last week during the Quincy Partnership fundraiser dinner at the Boston Marriott Quincy.

Lillie said his inspiration for completing the statue came from reading David

"They (Partnership) have made us proud so many times on many things throughout the city," Mayor James Sheets said.

"(With the statue) we want to be reminded every McCullough's John Adams while he was sculpting.

"At one point the whole clay stomach fell off and my wife held it up while I drove spikes through it to hold it back in place," Lillie said.

At that time, Lillie needed encouragement and a lift to go on and proudly finish Adams' statue. He found the inspiration he required in the first chapter and second page of John Adams:

"Standing at 5'7," mid-sized in his day, and though nearing being portly, had a stately square shouldered stance and was in fact surprisingly fit and solid. His hands were the hands of a man accustomed to pruning his own trees, cutting his own hedges and splitting his own firewood."

Aside from all his achievements, titles, and accolades, John Adams was still a man equal to the people he served in practice and in spirit, said Lillie.

"I am just so pleased with the spirit with which this Partnership gives to the city," Sheets said. "Men and women who want to give something back to the city and they don't want accolades for it."

"(The projects are) hard for the government to do -- people just don't think we should be spending on such things," Sheets said. "And for the Partnership to put certainly thousands of dollars into it is a very good thing."

"He (John Adams) too was willing to lose life for the country," Keohane said in regards to the strong-willed, spirited colonist then, paralleling that with Americans now who have to stand up for a nation and ideal they believe in.

In addition to the two statues, the Quincy Partnership has provided outside lighting for historic sites and "Welcome To Quincy" signs at various entrances to the city.

The Partnership's next project is a fountain for the new Merrymount Park.

President Bush Signs Bill For Adams Memorial

President George W. Bush signed into law Monday a bill to create an Adams National Memorial in the nation's capital.

Bush's action authorizes the creation of a national tribute on federal land to former Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams as well as former First Lady Abigail Adams.

The bill, co-authored by Congressman William Delahunt and Indiana Congressman Tim Roemer and sponsored in the Senate by Senator Edward Kennedy, was passed in June by the House of Representatives and in October by the Senate.

The project now moves to the National Capital Planning Commission which will ultimately determine the scope and design as well as the location of the proposed memorial, said Delahunt Press Secretary Steven Schwadron.

Schwadron attributed the bill's swift passage into law primarily to "the power of the concept," explaining that congressional hearings on the memorial took on the air of history tutorials, opening the eyes of many to the national significance of Quincy's first family.

As part of the education process on the Adams family, Schwadron said, Congressman Delahunt personally escorted more than a dozen congressmen to the Adams National Historical Sites, including Indiana's Roemer, a longtime scholar on the achievements of the Adams family.

Schwadron also noted the wonderful coincidence of author and historian David McCullough's best selling biography John Adams, which has renewed interest in the nation's second president, including a doubling of annual attendance at the Adams National Historical Park.

In addition to the national memorial and efforts to provide upgrades to the Adams National Historical Park, Delahunt has proposed that a suitable memorial to John Adams be considered for the State House.

McCullough, who visited Quincy last week to take part in ceremonies for the new John Adams Statue commissioned by the Quincy Partnership, also took time to address an audience at the Beale Estate where he urged the creation of a private foundation to support the Adams National Historical Park.

An ardent supporter of the Adams National Historical Park and the role of the National Parks Service in general, McCullough emphasized the importance of preserving the nation's heritage by quoting former Librarian of Congress and fellow historian Daniel Boorstin:

"Trying to plan for the future without a knowledge of the past is like trying to plant cut flowers."

No, We Don't Endorse

Whenever we have a good mayor's race, like the one this year, people ask: "Is The Sun going to endorse?"

And, the answer each time -- except once -- has been "no."

Frankly, we just don't believe in endorsing candidates in a local election. We don't think the voters of Quincy need us telling them who to vote for. They certainly are tuned in and well qualified to make their own choices on election day.

We respect their judgment.

But we did make an exception in 1977 in the heated mayoral campaign between incumbent Joseph LaRaia and challenger Arthur Tobin, who was president of the City Council.

LaRaia's two-year administration was one of the shortest and stormiest in the city's history, marked with controversy, accusations, clashes with the city council, the police chief and others.

LaRaia blamed his political enemies for the problems. But he could also have blamed some of his friends along with himself. Two of his appointees were convicted of conspiracy and extortion. Another of larceny. And another resigned after a week on the job when it was discovered he was under indictment on two criminal charges.

Those appointees were the crowning blow to his administration.

The city wasn't moving ahead but seemed to be standing still like it was frozen in the "Twilight Zone." We believed a change was needed and endorsed Tobin. Most voters agreed with us. Tobin was elected by a 5,000 vote margin.

LaRaia, to his credit, came back to serve in the city council and ran twice again for mayor, coming within just 460 votes of upsetting incumbent Frank McCauley in 1987. But two years later, he finished last in the four-man race for a mayoral nomination. He is now a city assessor.

That 1977 endorsement was the first and only one in The Sun's history.

Under those same circumstances we would do it again.

But there were no such circumstances this year for us to endorse one candidate over the other.

Incumbent James Sheets and challenger William Phelan had ample opportunity to present their case to the voters.

There were debates carried over the Quincy Access TV channel, candidates' nights throughout the city, news articles and news releases coming out of both campaigns.

And there were profiles of the candidates. Including one in last week's Quincy Sun in which we invited the two mayoral candidates to tell voters what they considered their top five priorities for the city and specifically how they would accomplish them during the next two years as mayor.

Quincy residents are interested in what is going on in the community and at City Hall. We are sure they were focused on this year's campaign and knew the issues.

They did not need us telling them how to vote Tuesday.

If another newspaper decided to endorse a candidate, that's their business and right.

But a below-the-belt political cartoon attacking the other candidate didn't come across as fair play. In fact it came across as character assassination.

Maybe that's considered great stuff in other places like New York or Chicago or wherever dirty tricks are still in vogue.

But not in Quincy.

For 'Solace And Healing'

Open House At Adams Sites Over Veterans' Day Weekend

National Park Service, Adams National Historical Park will remain open and all entrance fees will be waived during Veterans Day weekend "to encourage solace and healing."

This will include tours of Adams Mansion at 135

Adams St., the John Adams Birthplace at 131 Franklin St., and the John Quincy Adams Birthplace at 141 Franklin St. in South Quincy.

U.S. Department of Interior Secretary Gale Norton announced that all entrance fees to national park areas will be waived during Veterans Day weekend, Nov. 10-11-12, to allow Americans to seek solace and inspiration from the nation's parks, monuments and memorials as they recover from the Sept. 11 attack on America.

"Our nation's parks, monuments and memorials are an inspiration to the freedoms all Americans cherish," Norton said. "We have many things to be proud of this Veterans Day weekend. It is important to pay tribute to the men and women who fought and gave the ultimate sacrifice for the freedoms we value and enjoy today."

Adams National Historical Park, a unit of the National Park Service, was established in 1946 to commemorate the lives of the Adams family including second President John Adams and sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Marianne Peak, superintendent of Adams National Historical Park, said, "It is has become apparent that many citizens are finding solace and drawing strength from the examples of civic virtue, patriotism and determination displayed by the Adams family throughout this nation's history and we invite the public to this open house with the hope that this park will serve as a reminder of what it means to be an American."

Homebuyer Assistance Program Available To City Employees

Mayor James Sheets announces that the city of Quincy, through Neighborhood Housing Services in collaboration with the Massachusetts Co-Operative Bank, will now offer the Municipal Employee Zero Down Program.

The program, insured by MHFA, will provide 100 percent financing for single family and condominium units to all municipal employees who live and work in the city.

There are no loan limits and income is limited to 135 percent of median income. For instance, a Quincy family of four would be eligible for the program with an annual income of $94,500.

The program, said Sheets, affords the municipal employee the ability to achieve homeownership, which would then create more stable neighborhoods and increase community spirit and awareness.

For more information on the new program, contact Debbie Kidd of Neighborhood Housing Services at (617) 770-2227, ext. 24.

THIS 1916 POSTCARD is a view from Summit Avenue looking east when many of the house lots on Wollaston Hill were still undeveloped. Across the foreground is South Central Avenue. Belmont Street is parallel just up the hill, and across the top is Highland Avenue. Warren Avenue, never finished because of the steep incline, would have come from the center of the picture to about four o'clock. This is where Summit Avenue would later begin. The top of the hill where there were expansive views was reserved for large estates. The large house on the left at 355 Highland Ave. was the home of Frank and Lizzie Burgess who owned the Boston Gear Works in Norfolk Downs. In the house next to Burgess's large garage lived Charles Bailey who was President of the Boylston National Bank in Boston. The next house on the right, which only appears smaller, is across Highland on the south corner of Warren. The tall dark house was built for Herbert Albee who was a CPA. Furnace Brook Golf Course is to the right. Today this birds-eye view is blocked by trees and houses built on the then empty lots.

Criticizes Union On Letter

I was very disappointed to receive a letter from the Norfolk County Central Labor Council, not because they were asking me to vote for a candidate but for the lie it contained. It stated, "Bill Phelan has proposed a moratorium . . . to all construction."

If the union had bothered to look at the tapes of the debate in which Bill asked the Mayor to put a halt to any new city construction projects, or bothered to speak to Bill about his reasons for this request they would have found out that Bill is only interested in stopping any more sweetheart deals with city owned property until the people of Quincy have spoken in the only way we seem to have in this city — election day!

It is too bad the union is not more interested in the union city workers, who, because they have used their First Amendment right of freedom on speech, have been harassed, had shifts changed, been told where they could park, have been told promotions would not be theirs and yes, told they would not have a job once the election is over!

I thought we all lived in a democratic society where we could voice our opinions and vote for who we wanted without fear of retaliation. Unfortunately as I talk to more and more city workers it has become apparent that Quincy is not a democracy. As a union member and former union steward I was always proud to be union but today I am ashamed.

spoke about the care for children and their education. But he spoiled everything when he said that he was for the "woman's right to choose" to kill her unborn child. What good is the talk about health insurance and care for education for those children whose mothers would have the right to hire skillful artisans to violently interrupt their lives by surgical knife.

George W. Bush impressed me when he said that Jesus Christ is his guide in life, nationally and internationally, and, therefore, So I voted for him.

Yes, I believe with all my heart, as the rest of the Americans, that in the time of national crisis, we should stand together united in support for our Commander-in-Chief. But I also feel that in the time of national crisis when I feel that my President, even if I did not vote for him, needs my own piece of advice, that I should not hesitate to give it to him, if I indeed care for my country.

Who would not agree that Osama bin Laden is the worst American enemy since American began? But to give ultimatum to Afghanistan to hand him over, when we knew in advance that they could not do it, and to start the war, is wrong legally, morally and politically.

I would not trade Osama's life for a single human life, American or non-American.

If I were the American President, I would disassociate myself from Tony Blair, who bombed Iraq twice after Sept. 11, and who encouraged me to bomb Afghanistan. I would also promptly fire war-monger advisors and hire the peacemakers. Finally, I would stop the bombing of Afghanistan and convoked a Pan-Arabic peace conference, for the good of American and the world.

Quincy's Jackie Duffy To Understudy Broadway Star

Quincy resident Jackie Duffy will not only be appearing on stage with three-time Tony nominee Judy Kuhn (Les Miserables, Chess, She Loves Me, Rags, Disney's Pocahontas, Sunset Boulevard) but will get the chance of a lifetime: to understudy Kuhn's role in the upcoming Boston concert production of the musical The Baker's Wife.

"I am really excited to have this opportunity," said Duffy. "Of course, I would love to get a chance to perform Kuhn's role. However, she's such an incredible talent that I wouldn't want to miss the experience of working alongside her."

The production features a full onstage orchestra performing all the original orchestrations. The show's score is the work of composer/lyricist Stephen Schwartz (Godspell, Pippin, Pocahontas) and features the song "Meadowlark."

Both Schwartz and the show's librettist, Joe Stein (Fiddler on the Roof, Zorba) will be on hand for the production and hope to eventually take the show to Broadway, its original destination when it debuted 25 years ago.

The show is presented by Overture Productions, a new non-profit organization modeled after New York's successful Encores series, created to perform concert versions of great Broadway musicals.

The production is a benefit in support of arts programs at Boston English High School. John Hancock Financial Services is providing some financial support as well as access to the 1,100 seat John Hancock Hall.

Suitable for all ages and reminiscent of the recent movie Chocolat, The Baker's Wife is a sometimes comic love story set in rural Southern France in the 1930's. After the bickering town has been without bread for weeks, a new baker arrives with his beautiful -- and much younger -- wife, Genevieve.

All is well until the handsome Dominique tries to lure her away. Then, not only is the love of the baker and his wife tested, but the harmony of the entire town is threatened.

Stage director is Rick Lombardo of Newton's New Repertory Theatre and Music Director is Michael Joseph of Norwell's Company Theatre.

Show dates are Nov. 15 and Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at the John Hancock Hall, 180 Berkeley St., Boston. Tickets are $25 and $50 and can be purchased at Ticketmaster at (617) 931-2787 and at all Bostix outlets.

GEORGE BURKE (center), accepts the Jewish War Veterans Post 'Citizen of the Year' Award presented by, from left, JWW Commander Bertrand Shaffer and Past Commander Irving Isaacson, program chairman and master of ceremonies for the event, which took place Sunday at Beth Israel Synagogue. Burke, a former basketball star at the University of Massachusetts and former city councillor, state representative, and Norfolk County District Attorney, was honored for his community involvement in many areas of Quincy life.

For His Service To Community And Dedication To Worthy Causes George Burke Honored As JWW 'Citizen Of The Year'

The Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post honored Atty. George Burke as its 51st annual "Citizen of the Year" Sunday at a breakfast at Beth Israel Synagogue.

"I just want to say how appreciative I am that you have honored me this way today," Burke told the more than 100 audience members, crediting family and friends and making special note of the role Quincy High School played in his upbringing. "Thank you."

Burke, a lifelong Quincy resident and former basketball standout at the University of Massachusetts, was honored for his service as a former city councillor, state representative, and Norfolk County District Attorney but was also recognized for his generous contributions to the city, both financially and in terms of community involvement.

"The theme of the program is people helping people," said Program Chairman Irving Isaacson, who added Burke's academic, athletic, and political contributions to the city made him an excellent example of that "very simple but very meaningful" definition.

"George Burke has represented himself in such a way that all of us can identify with him and look up to him," said Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti, adding that Burke's love of people made it easy for him to befriend and advise those of younger generations.

Mayor James Sheets thanked Burke for his successful bid of $160,000 to purchase the historic Colonel John Quincy Tankard, one of 11 pieces of colonial silver auctioned off by United First Parish Church to finance needed repairs.

"That is truly giving back to the City of Presidents," said Sheets, who presented Burke with a citation, as did the city council, state Legislature, and Governor's of-

Mass. George Burke was "always there for you."

Jake Comer, past national commander of the American Legion and a past "Citizen of the Year" recipient himself, congratulated Burke on the honor and urged those present to contact Senators Edward Kennedy and John Kerry on behalf of the Flag Amendment, which would prohibit burning of or any other desecration to the American flag.

Hank Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans Services, thanked Burke for being "a team player," no matter what the field of endeavor. On a more personal note, Burke's daughter Joanne joined her sisters Jean and Sue at the podium and said that both their father and mother, Sandra, taught "lessons of family, faith, and giving back to the community" and that her father was, and is, always ready to lend a helping hand.

Another speaker was retired Federal Administrative Judge John Sweeney, a personal friend of Burke's. Also in attendance were Gerard Coletta, who was Burke's executive assistant when he was Norfolk County District Attorney, and two of his 1956 basketball teammates at UMass Amherst: Jerry Cohen, former state representative and Walter "Buddy" Frye of North Quincy.

Burke has made donations to many local charities and has given thousands of dollars in scholarships to graduating seniors from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools going on to attend the University of Massachusetts.

Thick Crunchy Cookies

In my last food column for the giant oatmeal cookies, (Oct. 25), I inadvertently left out the flour although mentioning it in the directions. Here is the corrected recipe with my apology.

Giant Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup dark brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter (softened)
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup applesauce
1 egg
1 1/2 cups oats (regular)
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat sugar and butter for about five minutes. Add the applesauce and egg and beat well. Combine the flour, oats, soda, cinnamon and salt. Add this mixture to the sugar mixture and beat at low speed until blended. Stir in the raisins, walnuts and vanilla. Use about three tablespoons per cookie and drop two inches apart into a slightly greased cookie sheet. Flatten them slightly and bake for 10 to 15 minutes. Remove and place on a wire rack.

GUMMING UP THE LUNGS

While earlier research has indicated that periodontal (gum) disease may increase the risk of tooth loss and heart disease, there is also preliminary evidence that gum infections may threaten the lungs. A retrospective study of data on some 14,000 adults showed that those with severe periodontal disease were 45% more likely to develop either emphysema or chronic bronchitis than those with milder or no gum disease. Also, people with more severe gum disease tended to have poorer lung function. Gum disease may adversely affect the lungs directly by inhalation of the infecting bacteria. And, there may be an indirect link as gum disease stimulates the release of inflammatory chemicals, which spread to the airways and increase susceptibility to infection.

November is "Lung Cancer Awareness Month," a month created to increase awareness of the need for screening and early diagnosis. If you would like further information, or to schedule an appointment, please call us at 617-479-6220. As with any worthwhile investment, after your dental work is completed, continued, regular visits will help ensure your future good dental health. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where comfort, care, and convenience make the difference. Our professional dental team would be complimented to have you as a patient. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Gum disease can lead to heart disease by releasing infectious agents into the bloodstream that damage the heart's arteries and valves.

The first meeting of the North Quincy High School Senior Stay-Out Committee will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Media Center at North Quincy High School.

Roy To Barbara, With Love Nostalgic World War II 'Letters From A Troop Train'

by TOM HENSHAW

For many veterans, recollections of World War II include brief bursts of action interspersed with long periods of boredom, particularly aboard ships at sea and troop trains crossing the continent.

It happened to Alfred "Roy" Kemp of Quincy, a machinist mate in a Navy construction battalion (a Sea Bee), who spent six days aboard a troop train from Camp Peary in Virginia to a point of embarkation in California.

But the 23-year-old Kemp was different. He recorded his experiences on the trip as they happened in a series of letters to his girl friend, Barbara Piper, back in Quincy, who wove them together as "Letters from a Troop Train."

Here are some excerpts from those letters:

I am writing on a troop train. We have been traveling since 10 o'clock this morning. It is 4:15 now and we still don't know where we are after seven hours of traveling. . . I think we are in West Virginia. We are in Pullman cars that look like they came out of a railroad graveyard.

On leaving Camp Peary we were in dress uniform. A Navy band played for us. I thought my arm holding my furlough bag would fall off. We weren't allowed to switch to the other hands when marching along. When we finally got on the train we changed to our fatigues or dungarees. We will wear them throughout the trip.

For two hours, I had SP (shore patrol) duty between two cars --- I had to stop anyone from passing through from one car to another unless he had a pass. Didn't have any problems.

At 1:15, we had our meal in the dining car. One carload of men eat at a time; ours being next to last of 13 cars, we get fed later by over an hour-and-a-half than those in the first car. The meal was really good and it seemed good to have someone waiting on us, instead of standing in a chow line. We had potatoes, string beans, lettuce with a dressing, and a large piece of very white fish --- this besides all the bread and butter and chocolate pudding we wanted.

For an hour or so we have been passing through foothills and along mountain streams and rivers. . . Every once in a while we pass through a town. Everybody waves to us as we go by. Sometimes we see hunters --- two were lugging a deer and they stopped to give us a wave. You see some of the unpainted broken-down houses with window panes and curtains missing. People dressed in ragged long dresses and baggy old pants come out and wave to us.

Eight p.m.: the Pullman porter is making up our berths for the night and the fellows are standing around watching. Hurray! We don't have to make up our own beds! Like in boot camp, we retire at 9:30 p.m. and are up at 5:30 a.m.

Had our Thanksgiving dinner this evening: turkey, potatoes, peas, cole slaw, noodle soup and rice pudding. Not bad! After supper I went back to our car and got a pass and visited friends in another car, where I joined the fellows in some singing.

I was up at 6 a.m. and found we are now in Indiana. Our train had run parallel with the Ohio River through the night. It stopped in the town of North Carver. I stood out on the steps of the train talking with some of the people. As we can't leave the train, we gave

World War II B-24 Pilot

Russell Erikson On Hand To See His 'Louisiana Belle' Become Part Of History

By CRAIG SALTERS

For a distinguished World War II flying record which included 33 missions over Germany, Russell Erikson's career as a B-24 bomber pilot did not begin auspiciously.

"I was airsick my first 10 training flights," said Erikson, recalling from a distance of some six decades the embarrassment of holding the control stick between his legs while vomiting out the cockpit window. "I had to pay to have the plane washed and, after the first two times, I grabbed the bucket and brush myself so I wouldn't go broke."

Wives' tale remedies such as a paper bag under his helmet or a pebble in his mouth did nothing for the young pilot. Facing the prospect of "washing out," First Lieutenant Erikson managed a strong eleventh flight in front of his superiors only to become sick one last time on his twelfth training flight.

"After that, I was fine," he said. "Never had it since."

For Erikson, a 1940 graduate of Quincy High School who grew up on "Swede's Hill" and married high school sweetheart Beverly Johnson -- the couple raising six children in the city -- the memories of World War II took center stage recently as he traveled to Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana to see a restored version of his old plane, "The Louisiana Belle," become part of the 8th Air Force Museum.

"It was a very nice get-together," Erikson said of seeing old crewmembers at the ceremony for "The Louisiana Belle," one of only 12 remaining B-24 Liberators from the original 18,000, the most produced American aircraft of World War II.

Dedication ceremonies for Erikson's plane, which was named for the hometown of former crew chief, Master Sgt. Francis "Woody" Wood, and most likely selected by the museum for its Louisiana connections, took place as part of the reunion of the 44th Bomb Group Association.

RUSSELL ERIKSON of Quincy in his flying days as a B-24 Bomber pilot stands beside his plane "The Louisiana Belle," a restored version of which was recently dedicated at the 8th Air Force Museum at the Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana. The "Flying Eight Ball" insignia behind Erikson represents the 44th Bomb Group.

Known affectionately as "the flying eight balls," the 44th Bomb Group, as part of the 8th Air Force, compiled an impressive combat record which "The Louisiana Belle" now commemorates.

"The infantry won the war and we were their helpers," said Erikson, eager to emphasize the team effort involved in winning World War II.

The recent reunion was the first such event attended by Erikson, who said he had been happy to come home at war's end and "get back to what life was all about," but his memories of his 33 B-24 missions are vivid: "The Louisiana Belle" taking over 200 flak holes during a bombing run over a Hamburg oil refinery; a parachute pack saving the life of his "tunnel gunner" by taking a large piece of flak; the nighttime "blitz landings" which Erikson compared to "going to an amusement park;" and the quiet courage needed to accept the number of required missions steadily climbing from 25 to 30 and then to 35.

"Luckily, the war ended after 33 missions," said Erikson, whose interest in flying was sparked as a member of the model air plane club at Central Junior High School and who took his first flight at Dennison Airport in Squantum for 75 cents.

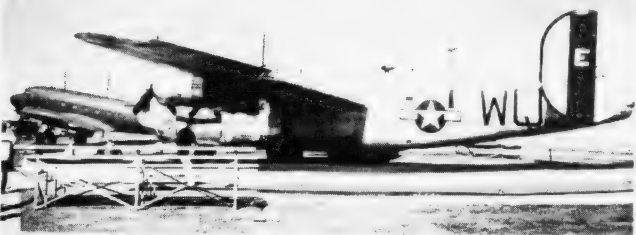

But Erikson also remembered the lighter side of the war years, including the one bucket of coal delivered monthly to the servicemen's 12-bed, corrugated metal huts with the advice to "throw it on whatever night you feel like staying warm."

Attending the dedication ceremonies were four of Erikson's sons -- Chris of Winchester, Mark of North Providence, RI, Peter of Arizona, and Russell D. of Duxbury -- who led those gathered in The Pledge of Allegiance.

Unable to attend were Erikson's wife Beverly, his daughter Sheryl of Quincy, and his oldest son Ron of Marshfield, a former head math teacher at North Quincy High School.

ON HAND TO CELEBRATE the museum dedication ceremonies for "The Louisiana Belle," the B-24 flown by Quincy's Russell G. Erikson (center) in World War II, were, from left sons Chris, Mark, Peter, and Russell D. Erikson. Unable to attend the ceremonies were Erikson's eldest son Ron, his daughter Sheryl, and his wife Beverly (Johnson) Erikson.

THE LOUISIANA BELLE, or rather its restored version, awaits dedication ceremonies at the Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana. Roughly 18,000 of the B-24 bombers were produced during World War II but only a dozen are still in existence.

In addition to their six children and 10 grandchildren, the Eriksons, who now live in West Quincy, are awaiting the arrival of their first great-grandchild.

Although Erikson has "three or four shoeboxes" full of photographs from his war years, courtesy of an interest in photography and the ample rolls of 35 millimeter film available from the cameras placed at the guns of "The Louisiana Belle," he has no written record of his times above the skies of Europe.

"You weren't allowed to bring your diary home so I burnt mine," Erikson explained, joking that he was one of the few members of his crew to follow the order.

"My friends are all using their diaries to write books on their experiences, but I don't know if they've made any money."

The men of "The Louisiana Belle" included: First Lieutenant Russell G. Erikson, pilot; First Lieutenant William M. Parkins, copilot; First Lieutenant Clarence W. Thompson, navigator; First Lieutenant James F. Wright, bombardier; Technical Sergeant Anthony J. Bury, radio operator/gunner;

Technical Sergeant Raymond Rydz, engineer/top turret gunner; Staff Sergeant Ralph Rolland,

Appreciation Breakfast Held For Supporters Of Marie Curry Walk

Quincy city officials and representatives from the more than 25 South Shore businesses that supported the Marie Curry Walk gathered at a "Walk Appreciation Breakfast" recently at Quincy Medical Center.

The breakfast was a way of thanking the participants, who were among the more than 60 sponsors who helped to raise over $100,000 this year.

"The Marie Curry Walk is not just about raising funds, it is about people helping people," said Mayor James Sheets, who attended the morning event.

The annual Marie Curry

Walk is coordinated by the Mayor's Commission on Women and Quincy Medical Center. The five-mile walk raises funds for free mammograms for women in need. Several local women were to receive free mammograms at QMC from the walk proceeds on the same day as the breakfast.

The Marie Curry Walk was established to honor the memory of Marie Curry, who died of breast cancer in 1995. Her husband Robert "Bob" Curry, owner of Curry Ace Hardware in Quincy and chairman of the QMC Board of Trustees, launched the walk and fund.

In addition to the many local businesses supporting this popular community event, a unique approach was used by QMC employees to raise funds. Co-workers formed teams to raise funds. The winning team was treated to dinner.

"The teams and the competitive spirit were a great success," said Harriet Messcher, vice president of development at QMC. "We hope to use this technique as a model for other local firms when planning for next year's walk."

The 2002 Marie Curry Walk is planned for Sept. 15, 2002 and business sponsorships are available on several different levels. By becoming a sponsor, businesses will receive a high level of exposure in the community, while supporting the vision and commitment of the Curry family, the Mayor's Commission on Women and Quincy Medical Center.

For sponsorship information call Laura Backner at 617-376-5493.

Largest Privately Owned Realty Firm In State Jack Conway & Co. Enters 45th Year

Jack Conway & Co. recently entered its 45th year serving real estate buyers and sellers in southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod.

The company's founder and chairman, Jack Conway, said a full slate of events are being planned during the next 12 months to mark the achievement.

Conway, who started the company Oct. 12, 1957 in a small storefront on South Street in Hingham Square, said he was proud of the fact that his firm has survived for more than four decades.

"Statistics show that many businesses fail in the first five years, and even fewer make it to the 10-year mark," Conway said. "I'm absolutely delighted that we have endured for 44 years, and still are independent and 100-percent family-owned."

In addition, the 750,000-member National Association of Realtors this year named Jack Conway & Co. the largest privately owned, independent real estate company in Massachusetts, and placed the 38-office organization among the 100 largest firms in the United States.

The NAR's annual ranking, published in REALTOR Magazine, listed Norwell-based real estate and mortgage-brokerage company as the 98th largest in the nation according to the number of transactions, and as the 82nd largest in combined sales volume.

Conway, the company's chief executive officer, noted that he has rejected numerous buyout offers from national conglomerates and franchises in recent years, bucking an industry trend toward consolidation. The unsolicited offers to purchase came from out-of-state players, including the parent companies of other large firms in Massachusetts.

"We've been involved in our communities and helping families in the region since 1957," Conway said. "We see no reason to change that philosophy, especially since all of us who work here love what we do."

"Besides, who wants to buy a house in Massachusetts from a guy who lives in New Jersey?" he joked, in reference to the remote headquarters of the national chains that sought to buy the Conway company.

Instead of selling, Conway has grown, opening four new sales offices in the past two years and building a new regional headquarters in Lakeville. In recent weeks, the company has announced a second location in Mansfield and plans to open a new sales center in Westport.

In addition to the residential sales offices, Jack Conway & Co. has a commercial and business brokerage division, a relocation services company, property management division, referral registry and in-house advertising agency. The company also has a mortgage-brokerage arm, Conway Financial Services.

The company has more than 1,000 sales agents, associates and administrative staff working in its trading area, which has become widely known as "Conway Country."

Affordability, Home Values Strong

By CAROL BULMAN

There has been much press since the disaster of Sept. 11 about how the U.S. economy will react in both the short term and the long term.

In the world of real estate and mortgage financing, the questions I hear most are about how well housing and financing will fare. This is a legitimate concern because for the majority of homeowners their single most valuable asset is the equity in their home.

For the majority of potential homebuyers, the questions are about their ability to purchase a home, especially in terms of affordability and the number of homes for sale in their price range.

The local newspapers have been covering this topic quite thoroughly during the past few weeks, providing readers information that is critical as we move through an unfamiliar time.

According to a recent article in a newspaper south of Boston, the average price of homes on the South Shore has increased significantly, from a low of 31 percent in Abington to a high of 109 percent in Cohasset during the past five years.

Will this staggering rise in property values continue? The paper also reported that the average price of a home on the South Shore as of early October was $307,300, down from the peak of $321,000 earlier this year, but higher than the $282,850 average in 2000.

What does this mean as we consider the value of our homes? It's important to consider values over the long term. Although the average price has come down slightly, it's unlikely that our houses will drastically lose value. According to a report provided by Credit Suisse First Boston Corporation, any drop in house prices will follow a more traditional pattern of a quick fall and a quick recovery than what was experienced in the early 1990s.

Therefore, homeowners should take a long view of the wealth in their equity over period of years, just as they would consider the value of an IRA or 401(k) retirement account.

For buyers, the good news is that the theory of supply and demand also will begin to take effect. If prices are dropping, albeit slightly, this means demand has decreased, translating into more properties available when compared to the number of buyers looking.

Potential homebuyers who are still searching for that dream home now have more choices. For some time now, these buyers have been faced with a dearth of homes available for sale.

I visited our Conway-Weymouth sales office recently and the manager, Karen Golden, reported that there were more than 100 listings available in the city of Weymouth this week, while only three weeks ago there were just 52. Company-wide, the Jack Conway Company's listing are up 11 percent over last year.

Affordability is the next thing for the first-time buyer to consider. Affordability is at a record high and is affected both by the rate of mortgage interest, as well as the flexibility and opportunities available through various mortgage products.

According to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (Freddie Mac), the 30-year fixed rate of 6.58 percent (in mid-October 2001) was the lowest since October 1998. The average rate on a 15-year mortgage, a popular refinancing option, was the lowest last week since Freddie Mac started tracking rates back in 1991. And for the one-year adjustable rate mortgage, the rate was the lowest since February 1996.

Robert Van Order, Freddie Mac's chief economist, predicted that "mortgage rates should remain at or below 7 percent well into 2002, which will keep housing affordable and still active during this slower period."

Chairman Alan Greenspan agreed when he said in a recent speech in Washington, D.C. that although there has been some slowdown over the past six weeks as a result of the disaster in New York, he feels strongly that "human beings are adaptable and resilient."

Greenspan said that once the initial shock wears off of the nation, we will better be able to determine the effects on the economy.

I liked the fact that although Mr. Greenspan is a "numbers" man with the weight of the financial world on his shoulders, for him, much of this comes down to human nature. I also liked the faith he has in us as human beings, that we are adaptable and resilient and that we will fare well through the next time of change.

Change is inevitable and although the real estate and mortgage market will indeed experience change, some inherent opportunities will emerge. These opportunities will be available for those who are willing to look for them and, most importantly, to act.

Bulman also is president of Norwell-based Conway Financial Services. #### GETTING YOUR HOUSE IN ORDER

Sellers are advised to take a step back (literally) and view their homes as strangers would from the street. "Curb appeal" plays as important a role in selling a home as a presentable appearance does on a job interview. With this in mind, sellers should view their houses in the context of other homes in their neighborhood. If the house does not rank among the most appealing homes, sellers should take some remedial steps. Chief among these is painting or replacing the front door so that it looks substantial and inviting. If the siding and shutters need paint, select a color scheme that is neutral, as well as visually expanding. And, finally, tend to the landscaping.

Although the real estate market continues to be strong, it's important that sellers take active steps to enhance the curb appeal of their homes. When ERA CENTRAL REAL ESTATE sells a home, we perform a market analysis to establish a price, advise owners on strategic improvements that will give the home a strong first impression, and implement an aggressive marketing campaign that includes open houses and inclusion in the Multiple Listing Service. Call us at 617-328-1312 to arrange a consultation, or visit us at 128 Mayor McGrath Highway. We sell on purpose -- not by accident!

HINT: A new brass door handle and doorknocker can help increase the curb appeal of your home.

Inexpensive Ways To Winterize Your Home

(NAPS) —There are a number of simple ways to cost-effectively insulate and winterize your home. Try the following in order to protect your home from the harsh effects of winter weather:

- Insulate your windows: Window insulation is a quick and easy fix that keeps the heat in and the cold out while keeping your energy costs down. While window insulation is notorious for difficult installation, new innovative roll-on kits have proven to be hassle-free.

- Cover the air conditioner:

In order to keep your air conditioner intact each year, it helps to purchase a cover that protects the unit from winter weather. By covering the air conditioner, less moisture comes into contact with the unit, therefore, decreasing the chance of rust or malfunction. The cover also prevents cold air from entering around the seam of the unit.

- Cover outdoor faucets: Covering outdoor faucets keeps them insulated and prevents freezing. Faucet covers are easy to assemble and are just another way to winterize your home and save money.

- Wrap pipes: Prevent pipes from freezing by applying inexpensive, insulated pipe wrap. By making this small effort, you can minimize the frustration that comes from frozen pipes either bursting or not working.

For more information, call Duck brand winterization products at 800-321-0253.

Bow 2-1 To Newton South Dream Season Ends For Red Raiders

By CHRIS POISSON

Sometimes, it just doesn't seem fair. How else to you explain the North Quincy girls' soccer team's unexpected ending to its storied season last Saturday afternoon at Teal Field?

The fifth-seeded Red Raiders outplayed 12th seed Newton South, holding a significant edge in shots (20-4) and corner kicks (10-1). But they lost the only category that counts — goals scored — falling 2-1 in the first round of the Division I South Sectional tournament.

"I guess I'm just stunned," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "I don't have an emotion right now. I can't cry. I can't laugh. I'm just stunned."

"We outplayed them all over the field and it's frustrating. Bottom line is they put the ball in twice and we put it in once."

Newton South's Liza Rothchild provided the dagger with her second goal of the afternoon, sneaking in a 30-yard floater with 1:15 left in the game that sealed the Red Raiders' fate.

North Quincy held high expectations for a postseason run this year. It rampaged through the regular season, setting a school record for wins with a 14-3-3 overall record.

It had arguably the best keeper in the Old Colony League, senior all-star Kathryn MacRitchie, and one of the top five players in the league, senior all-star forward Allie Lacey.

It had one of the stingiest defenses in the league. The goals against column could have passed as computer program, as it was filled with 1's and 0's. It allowed two goals or more just twice during the season.

And it was peaking at the right moment, going 5-0-1 down the stretch, including a 4-0 victory over Silver Lake, the only other team besides Bridgewater-Raynham to defeat the Red Raiders during the season.

"In my 24 years of coaching, this was the worst loss because the expectations were so high and we were a better team than they were," Bregoli said. "If we played them 10 times, we'd beat them 10 times."

The loss ends the brilliant careers of 15 seniors, all of whom played a role in North Quincy's historic season. Captains Lacey, MacRitchie, Lauren Sleeth and Kelly Rice, along with Meghan

ERIN MCFARLAND (40) dribbles the ball near midfield in North Quincy's 2-1 loss to Newton South last Saturday afternoon in the first round of the Division I South Sectional tournament. Coach Paul Bregoli said the junior defender played her best game of the season. (Quincy Sun Photos/Lance Morganelli)

McLean, Amy O'Donnell, Jackie Koch, Kelly Coleman, Diana Berberan, Laura Matos, Kate Markhard, Kara Cheesman, Caitlin Herlihy, Kristyn Shea and Allison Downs all played their final game, in front of the home crowd, last Saturday.

"I said to them, 'You can't look at one game and let that take away from what you did the rest of the season. You won more games in the history of North Quincy soccer,'" Bregoli said. "This is a special team. Everyone contributed. Right now it means nothing to them. And nothing I can say will make them feel better."

Newton South struck first with about five minutes left in the first half. Rothchild scored in front as the Red Raiders misplayed a corner kick.

North Quincy had plenty of chances to score but couldn't cash in. Prior to Rothchild's first goal, Sleeth headed a ball off Lacey's corner kick that was rejected by the crossbar. And then with the half winding down, Sleeth had another header hit the crossbar, this time off a fantastic Herlihy throw-in.

The Red Raiders came out energized in the second half, controlling most of the play and creating quality scoring chances.

About 10 minutes in, their hard work came to fruition. Lacey beat the Newton South keeper top corner off another throw-in by Herlihy, who was a threat all game from the sideline. It was Lacey's 11th goal of the year and the 20th

"Herlihy is a weapon for us," Bregoli said.

Junior Erin McFarland also turned in a strong performance.

"I thought Erin McFarland played her best game of the year," Bregoli said. "She was just everywhere. She was tremendous."

The Red Raiders threatened down the stretch, but they just couldn't deliver when they needed it most.

We buzzed the net all game," Bregoli said. "Allie was hitting balls across, we just couldn't get on the other end of them. We didn't finish. That game should be 5-1. You have to put the ball in the back of the net. It's just like hockey. You can get 60 shots but if you don't put the puck in the net, it's useless."

Quincy-North Swim Team Completes Season

The Quincy-North Quincy swim team recently wrapped up its season with a 4-6 overall record.

The team had a chance to finish above .500, but it dropped its last two matches. Still, the season is a success considering it won only one meet last year, which at the time ended a six-year drought.

With over 50 girls in the program, second-year head coach Katy Duncan has something to build on.

"This was a big season for us," Duncan said. "The team did really well. We have a lot of great swimmers. The kids improved phenomenally this year. I'm real proud of them."

In its final meet of the season, Q-NQ lost to Dedham, 103-77. Junior Merry Acton took first place in diving. She gained 160 points for the second time this year, qualifying her for the sectionals.

Senior Katelyn McDonald won the 200-yard individual medley, freshman Lynn Gilbody the 100-yard butterfly and Kristen Eng the 100-yard breaststroke.

McDonald and Gilbody will be heading to the sectionals to compete in individual events. Also qualifying for the sectionals are juniors Karin O'Toole, Erin Griffiths and Kathryn Ioannilli, sophomores Lindsey Languille, Courtney McDonald and Rita Buscher, and freshman Michelle Tuori.

On Oct. 26, Q-NQ led most of the day but ended up dropping a tough meet to Weymouth, 97-89.

Multiple winners were Gilbody (50 freestyle, 100 butterfly) and Katelyn McDonald (100 freestyle, 200 medley). Griffiths won the 100 backstroke.

Gilbody, Griffiths, Eng and Buscher won the 200 medley relay, while Katelyn McDonald, Gilbody, Languille and O'Toole captured the 400 medley relay.

On Oct. 24, the team swept first place in all 12 meets to cruise to a 101-74 victory over Stoughton at home.

Multiple winners were Katelyn McDonald (200 medley, 100 backstroke), Gilbody (50 freestyle, 100 butterfly) and Courtney McDonald (100 breaststroke, 100 freestyle).

Acton placed first in the diving event. Griffiths won the 200 freestyle and Buscher the 500 freestyle.

In the relays, Buscher, Courtney McDonald, Gilbody and Languille placed first in the 200-yard medley.

In the 200 freestyle, Griffiths, O'Toole, Tuori and Courtney McDonald earned the win, while Katelyn McDonald, O'Toole, Languille and Gilbody took first in the 400 freestyle.

North Quincy Boys Soccer Showing Promise

The North Quincy High School boys' soccer team faced a tough challenge this season: To make a good showing in the demanding Old Colony League with only three returning starters and several young and inexperienced players.

The Red Raiders finished the season with a 5-10-3 overall record, but showed a lot of promise for the future with some brilliant games down the stretch, tying Bridgewater-Raynham, 0-0, and Silver Lake, 1-1, which knocked the Lakers out of first place in the OCL.

"We showed all the characteristics of a young team," said head coach Robert Dano. "There were several games in which we played a great half, only to have the roof fall in the other. The boys are still learning to be consistent and how to put a game away."

North Quincy's season was aided considerably by the contributions of its two OCL All-Stars, junior defender Erik Ranstrom and senior David Rochon.

"Erik had a fabulous season this year," Dano said. "He was our defensive leader and nearly unbeatable at the sweeper position. And David is in a class by himself. He was voted the top player in the OCL, and I didn't even have to nominate him. Every coach knew he was the best."

In four years on the varsity team, Rochon scored 41 goals, the most of any North Quincy player since joining the OCL. He is again an EMass All-Star and is being looked at by several college coaches.

Eric Stanton, a senior playing his first year as the starting goalkeeper, also had several outstanding games and was selected for North Quincy's Sportsmanship Award in the OCL.

Other seniors contributing to the season's effort were Adam O'Hara, Stephen Pizzi, Pat Ryder and Dan Wooster.

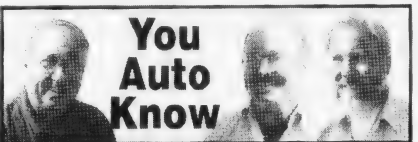

In addition to Ranstrom, juniors on the varsity squad included Elio Celso, Dan Coughlin, Mike Tormey and Collin Wolf. Several starters came from the sophomore class: Daryl Costa, Rich Stone, Brian Weeks and Prasert Wiwatukhan. Freshmen John Fitzgerald and Frank McKenna saw their first varsity action.

"This is going to be a team to be reckoned with in the next few years," Dano said. "It's going to be fun watching them develop."

AT THE END OF A LEASE

At the end of a lease, there is the option of purchasing the vehicle in accordance with the previously agreed upon "residual value" amount (its expected market value). Most leases are "closed end" leases, which means that the residual value is not subject to change once it is agreed upon, regardless of what changes might take place in the marketplace. This presents a potential opportunity in that, if the vehicle has held its value, it can be purchased for a price that is under the prevailing market rate for a vehicle of its type. And, of course, those purchasing vehicles at the end of leases certainly know who the first owner is and how the vehicle was maintained.

Regularly scheduled maintenance, such as oil changes, can greatly extend the life of your car, especially important if you are considering buying your car at the end of its lease. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we want you to be well informed about every system of your car. Our friendly, professional ASE Certified service staff, here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550) will gladly answer all your questions. We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. Give us a try. We'll earn your trust!

HINT: It is important to determine which models hold their value well before agreeing to lease with the intention of purchasing the vehicle at the end of the contract.

Red Raiders Can't Put Scare In Bridgewater-Raynham

By CHRIS POISSON

The Old Colony League leaders and defending Division 1 Super Bowl champs took it to the North Quincy High School football team early and often last Friday night.

Bridgewater-Raynham scored on its first play of the game and then on its next four possessions, handing North Quincy its fifth straight loss with a 33-13 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium. "I'm happy with the effort the kids gave," said head coach Tony Green. "They're the No. 5 team in the state for a good reason."

North Quincy (2-6 overall, 1-6 OCL) will try to snap out of its funk Saturday afternoon when it hosts Canton at 2. Canton (0-8) stumbles into the game in last place in the Hockomock League, having been outscored, 241-20. It's the final game before the Red Raiders clash with Quincy on Thanksgiving.

It was a long first half for the Red Raiders. They managed just a measly 38 yards and three first downs on offense, and, to make matters worse, they lost starting tailback Pat Pregoli. Early in the second quarter, the senior quad-captain re-aggravated an ankle injury sustained Oct. 5 against Barnstable and did not return.

Meanwhile, the Trojans spread the ball around and scored on all four first-half possessions, totaling 227 yards (157 rushing) of offense.

If B-R head coach Dan Buron had any fears of a possible letdown before the game, they lasted about as long as a kid's bag of Halloween candy. On its first play from scrimmage, senior quarterback Ryan Post faked a handoff and the Red Raiders bit in respect of B-R's vaunted rushing attack. Post rolled right and hit a wide-open Tom Higginbotham for a 46-yard TD pass.

FOOTBALL

On its next series, Post ran around left end for a 20-yard score and Jon Frizzell added the extra point for a 14-0 lead. B-R extended its lead to 20-0 when senior back Will Morey (107 yards) busted up the middle for a 12-yard TD run with 28 seconds left in the first quarter.

In the second, B-R mounted its longest drive of the game, traveling 65 yards on 12 plays in 5:12. Morey picked up most of the real estate with 47 yards on four carries before senior fullback Matt Lyford plunged in from 1 yard out with 18 seconds left in the half. North Quincy blocked the extra point attempt.

And on the ensuing kickoff, junior Chris Dolbeare shook a tackle, broke to his left and raced along the sideline for an 80-yard touchdown with 3 seconds left. North Quincy trailed 26-6 at the break after it missed the two-point conversion.

"Boy, is he good or what," Green said. "That was a tremendous kickoff return. He's a player. He's going to be good next year as a senior."

In the second half, B-R scored on the opening series when Post scored his second touchdown of the game, a 4-yarder with 8:25 left in the quarter. With a 33-6 advantage, Buron pulled his starters and the bench finished out the rest of the game.

North Quincy closed out the scoring on Dolbeare's 50-yard TD run in the fourth quarter. Senior Dennis Thomson kicked the extra point. For Dolbeare, it was his second straight two-touchdown game, giving him 10 TDs on the season.

Quincy Earns W At D-Y

The Quincy High School football team earned its second straight win with a convincing 33-14 victory over Dennis-Yarmouth last Friday night to conclude its three-week Cape Cod road trip.

The Presidents kicked off the Cape tour with a tough 21-6 loss to Nauset but rebounded a week later to pitch an 8-0 shutout over Sandwich.

Quincy (3-4-1 overall, 2-2-1 Atlantic Coast League) returns home tomorrow (Friday) night at 7 to battle Plymouth North (6-2, 3-1). The Blue Eagles are coming off a disappointing 35-14 loss to Whitman-Hanson that cost them the ACL championship.

The Presidents are looking to pull out a win to get back to .500, with a chance to lock up a winning season on Thanksgiving Day.

"We have a very good opponent this week," said head coach Bob Noble. "We can play with them. They're a good football team, but they're that superior than us. This game will make or break our season."

Like it has done all season, the defense once again shined as it forced five turnovers (4 fumbles, 1 interception). The Dolphins scored their two touchdowns in the fourth quarter after Noble brought in his second and third units with a 33-0 lead.

"Defensively, we've played well all year," Noble said. "For the second straight week we really stifled our opponent. They never really threatened until garbage time."

Quincy converted three of the turnovers into touchdowns, including senior linebacker Scott Kelley's 45-yard interception return for a score. Senior nose guard Chris Sullivan recorded two sacks and forced a fumble and junior defensive end Steve Ekunseitan had a sack and a fumble recovery to also lead the defense.

"It's nice to see that happen to someone else for a change," Noble said of the turnovers. "The last couple of weeks we've turned things around in terms of turnovers."

The Presidents held a 7-0 lead at halftime after senior quarterback Mike Lorenzano fired a 22-yard pass to senior wide Dan Galligan in the second quarter. Senior Tom Shruhan kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, Quincy separated itself with a three-touchdown outburst. Senior Kris Kamborian, who moved to wing back, broke free for a 53-yard TD run. Shruhan added the extra point for a 14-0 lead.

Sophomore J.J. Niamkey and junior Matt Ramponi, the new tailback tandem in place of Kamborian, combined to rush for over 100 yards.

Lorenzano made it 20-0 with a 17-yard TD strike to junior wideout Shawn Munchbach. Kelley then scored on the interception to extend the lead to 26-0.

In the fourth, Lorenzano hit Kelley with a 15-yard TD pass on the first play of the quarter for this third touchdown of the game. Shruhan kicked his third extra point to make it 33-0, giving the starters the rest of the night off.

"He's throwing the ball really well, particularly in the last two games," Noble said of Lorenzano, who completed 6-of-10 passes for 85 yards. "He's starting to play well again."

Alexis Miranda Leads Colby-Sawyer Volleyball

Alexis Miranda of Quincy tallied 12 digs to help the Colby-Sawyer College women's volleyball team recently defeat intrastate rival Plymouth South, 3-1, to conclude the regular season with a 12-11 overall record.

In a previous match, the junior also recorded 12 digs in a 3-1 loss at Middlebury in Vermont.

Presidents' Golf On The Upswing

Bob Sylvia is stepping down as the head coach of the Quincy High School boys' golf team after next season.

And he would like to leave knowing his successor has a program that is heading in the right direction.

This season, the Presidents recently finished play with a 2-12 overall record. A program on the rise? Sylvia believes so.

The longtime coach thinks the Presidents might have some players who are more than just recreational golfers, which he feels is important to building a successful varsity club, in any sport. Sylvia also doubles as the hockey coach.

"We finally have some golfers that I think will be more than recreational golfers," Sylvia said. "We have a really young club. I think we made great strides this year. The kids are starting to make a commitment. I think the program will get steadily stronger as the years go on."

Although Quincy only had a pair of wins, both against Randolph, Sylvia said the team was competitive.

"I'd say half of the matches we were right in contention," he said. "We played Cambridge real close both times and we were close with Plymouth North in one match. We had good matches against North Quincy. But the Cape teams did a number on us."

The Cape teams. When Quincy was apart of the Old Colony League, it was the Barnstables and Falmouths.

This season, its first year in the Atlantic Coast League, it was the Nausets, Dennis-Yarmouths and Sandwiches.

"We don't have country club members like they do," Sylvia said.

Sylvia hopes that changes soon, especially with the Quarry Hills golf course on the horizon. He would like to see kids be able to play golf year round so they can improve their games.

"I'm hoping Quarry Hills throws some benefits to the kids in the summer seasons," he said.

Next season, Quincy will lose only three seniors: Mike McLaughlin, Rob Arnold and Christine Niosi, the first girl on the varsity team in Sylvia's tenure.

The Presidents will return both their captains, juniors Francis Orlando and Joe Scribi. Sophomores Joe Priscella, Rob McEvoy and Mark Dondoro will also be back, along with a strong freshman class of John Folino, Joe Salvucci, Steve Priscella, Ed Laura and Peter Gilcoine.

"We have three or four kids that can get 38 to 41 on a consistent basis," Sylvia said. "Now we have to get the kids in their 50s to get to 43-45."

"If we can do that, I think we can be competitive in the Atlantic Coast League. I'd like to leave the program in halfway good shape when I'm done here."

This year, Quincy also held its first annual Principal's Cup at Furnace Brook Country Club, with both teachers and golfers teaming up. The group of McLaughlin, Niosi, athletic director Ed Miller, Jack Raymer and Dr. Linda Wilson captured the cup.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

30-Minute Fitness, Weight Loss Center 'Curves For Women' Opens In Quincy Center

Curves for Women, a 30-minute fitness and weight loss center exclusively for women, has opened its doors in Quincy at 27A Cottage Ave., Quincy Center.

"Business has been great," said Kimberly Barry, a lifelong South Quincy resident and manager of the new location, which opened in September and is owned by Brenda Pearson. "It's new to the South Shore and the concept is catching on."

That concept, Barry said, is to provide both exercise and weight-loss guidance in the same location and to offer a complete workout in half an hour. The facility features the 30-minute Curves Circuit system of exercise which alternates hydraulic resistance machines with recovery stations.

As women move around the circuit, enjoying music and the motivation on an instructor, they perform both a cardiovascular and strength training workout at the same time followed by a stretching routine.

The 30-minute workout burns as much as 500 calories and, Barry said, is safe for any age or condition because the exerciser is moving fluid rather than weights.

"When you diet alone, 40 percent of the weight you lose is muscle," said Pearson. "Muscles are the engines of our bodies that require fuel. If you drastically lower your body's energy needs each time you diet, you will always gain your weight back."

"The key to permanent results is lean muscle. When a woman loses 20 pounds with us, it is predominantly body fat. Strength training protects and increases lean tissue while raising metabolism. The Curves workout is strength training women will do."

There are no classes, Barry added, but rather 30-minute workouts done at each woman's convenience and focusing specifically on women's body needs.

The first thing you'll notice when you walk through the door is the absence of mirrors," said Barry, who said the average age of Curves for Women clients is 35 but that the Quincy location boasts an age range from 11 to 75 years. "That's because fitness is less about body image and more about how you feel."

"We concentrate on women's health, not necessarily flat abs or a washboard stomach."

Curves For Women has approximately 18,000 locations across the United States as well as Spain and Canada.

Why Alcohol?

By JILL BARONI
Massachusetts
Prevention Center

The Massachusetts Prevention Center has been a partner with Impact Quincy in its community campaign to reduce drinking among underage youth. Our mission is to promote and support community-based prevention to create and sustain healthy communities, with special attention to those populations most in need. Throughout the past several years, we have joined Impact Quincy in urging your community to pay attention to an important public health issue: alcohol use among youth.

You may be asking yourself, "Why should we care about alcohol? Aren't other drugs like ecstasy and heroin what we need to worry about?" In fact, Quincy is no different from other parts of the country in that alcohol is used and abused more often by youth (and adults) in your community than is any other type of drug.

What's difficult about alcohol is that it can be and is used safely by adults. A key to keeping it that way is to delay alcohol use until after young people turn 21 years of age. Research indicates that 40 percent of children who start drinking before the age of 15 will become alcohol dependent later in their lives, while 10 percent of those who do not begin drinking until they are over 21 will do so.

Another important reason to focus on alcohol is that injuries, crimes and illnesses related to alcohol occur more often and cost our society more than those related to any of the illegal drugs that we hear about.

You also may be asking yourself, "Every kid drinks as part of growing up, what's the big deal?" First, you might be surprised to learn that more teens do not drink than do. A recent local survey showed that about two-thirds of youth in Quincy do not drink at all. This will definitely be a surprise to the nearly 80 percent of adults who thought that more than half of youth drink on a regular basis. Reality is exactly the opposite of their perceptions. This is important because teens look to adults to set expectations and to be role models as to how they should behave.

Are you perpetuating the myth that "everyone does it"? Are you or the other adults in your children's lives (your relatives, friends and neighbors) giving the message that it's OK for them to drink while they are underage (as in "it's OK if you drink as long as you do it at home where I know about it")? What kind of example are you setting? Are adults including young people in their own use (as in "go get me a beer") or purchasing alcohol for them?

Although it might seem as though teens are not interested in what adults have to say or do, parents and other adults play critical roles in shaping teens' attitudes about alcohol. Do your best to surround your children and other youth in your community with positive role models.

I am hoping that you now are asking yourself, "How can I be a part of reducing underage drinking in my community?" You can start my talking to your children about your and their feelings about drinking.

JILL BARONI

You can educate yourself about alcohol and other drug prevention by going to your local library, on the Internet, and/or visiting the Massachusetts Prevention Center's Resource Library (call 617-441-0700 for information).

Contact Impact Quincy at 617-472-6027 to see how you can be involved in its local efforts. Join with others to look at the different prevention efforts that are taking place in your community that support youth in making healthy choices rather than risky ones.

What's happening within your families, schools, community agencies, workplaces and local government? What types of support, norms, messages and programs are Quincy youth getting that will help them in their decisions not to drink?

It's a challenging and complex process, but communities can reduce alcohol use among young people. Your efforts to reduce underage drinking and other unhealthy behaviors among youth in Quincy will be successful if they are done in concert with others — the best way to truly "Impact Quincy."

Great American Smokeout Celebration At Presidents' Place

The Quincy Health Department along with Bay State Community Services and the Blue Hills Tobacco Free Community Mobilization Network will celebrate the Great American Smokeout Thursday, Nov. 15, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at President's Place.

smoke free by March 2002.

Local legislators and City Council members, as well as representatives from the Mayor's office will be participating.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

What is the secret for successful achievement? There have been many "secrets" of success presented and defended...

Success comes in cans; failures in can'ts...

Success is a series of failures -- put to flight...

There aren't any rules for success that work unless you do...

The only way to get anywhere is to start from where you are...

Real success is more of an inward feeling than an outward show...

Some people have ability and some have ambition -- those who succeed have both.

It has been said that people fail most frequently because they seek a goal by someone else's path. They stumble most trying to walk the other person's way. It has also been said that you can't find a path to the top; you have to make one.

Success is not a matter of position or possessions. It is a frame of mind. It is the satisfying feeling of a life spent in a worthwhile way, and a feeling of service rendered.

Siciliano Invited To Forum On Emergency Management

Quincy Emergency Management Agency Deputy Director Anthony Siciliano has been invited to participate in a special meeting tomorrow (Friday) at the State House to discuss the events of Sept. 11 and their impact on the future of emergency management.

The forum, hosted by the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) and Acting Governor Jane Swift, is intended to provide an opportunity for local emergency management officials to recommend what has proven successful in the past and strategize about what steps are necessary in the future.

Recently, Siciliano, who serves as president of the Massachusetts Emergency Management Association, urged local emergency managers to form Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT), similar to those established in Quincy and Auburn and endorsed at both state and federal levels.

Former Pennsylvania Governor Tom Ridge, the new director of Homeland Security, has emphasized the importance of emergency management at the local and state level.

Nostalgic World War II 'Letters From A Troop Train'

money to the kids to buy us candy, cigars, magazines, etc. One of the men gave a boy a half-dollar to buy something and then the train pulled out, so he missed out. Lucky boy!

Boy! It is 10:45 a.m. and no breakfast. The dining car was taken off back in Cincinnati for some reason. I just got hit with guard duty again for two hours. Here it is now 5:30 a.m. and we haven't had a meal since last night's supper.

We have just passed through Louisville, Kentucky... I spent most of the time on the steps of the car, waving and talking to the people... The porters got off the train and bought bags of cookies and candy bars from nearby stores. You should have seen us, who had nothing to eat since yesterday, wolfing down the goodies. The porters tacked on a nickel to 15 cents a bag for everything. I suppose they deserved a tip for their trouble.

Finally, after a 24-hour wait, we got our breakfast, 12 noon! At close to 3 p.m. we sat down to dinner, which included chicken fricassee on toast. At around 6 p.m., we'll probably have supper --- the government paid for three meals, so the railroad has to feed us, no matter what the time.

It is 10:30 a.m. Saturday and we are now going through the Ozark Mountains of Missouri... This morning we were told to put on our dress uniforms (our blues). We are leaving the train for some exercise and a little marching at the RR station. After three days on the train, this should be almost fun!

Well, we are on our way again. The whole trainload of C.B.s got off while a new engine was added to the train. We formed platoons of 60 men and then marched across railroad tracks to a large parking lot half-filled with cars, and which ran under a bridge that was soon lined with people watching us. Our chief P.O. (petty officer) put us through some exercises, including running in place at double time. We did this all in about 45 minutes. Back on the train, off came the uniforms and back to dungarees.

We just went through the towns of Aurora and Verona, Missouri, little towns with probably 2,000 people in each... Our train takes the back way when it comes to a big city and stops at some dinky town outside the city. We just went through Monett, Missouri. Heard of it?

Approaching Oswego, Missouri. I get a kick out of watching the horses and cows as they go galloping away from the train. They run 100 feet and then turn and stare at the train... We are passing through some very large farms: hundreds of acres of dried cornstalks as far as I can see.

We were told to stay dressed and not go to bed as some girls are supposed to come aboard in Wichita... There really were girls at the station. They passed out the usual, plus stationery, cookies, post cards, matches and more cookies... All these things we reached for through the windows. Some fellows reached for the girls, who smiled and laughed a lot and were pleasant, too.

On a track directly opposite to us was a trainload of German prisoners. They are going to one of the two prison camps in Kansas. They girls gave them cigarettes after talking them into singing a German song. They said the Germans were in pretty good spirits. They stared at us and the men couldn't get them to wave.

Nine-thirty p.m. I wonder what state we'll be in when we waken. Seventy-three a.m. Turns out we are 50 miles from La Junta, Colorado. We had to put on our dress blues because we got off the train and had breakfast in the RR station cafeteria. We had a swell breakfast with plenty to eat. We lugged Sunday papers and magazines, etc., back to the train.

We have stopped to let a fast express train go by us. We are on a sidetrack. Wow! It went by just now --- sure is an express train --- it is called "The Chief."

Our chief PO just told us to get into our "blues." We are approaching Las Vegas (New Mexico) to have dinner. Two fellows who are growing beards had to shave them off --- against Navy regulations. We were due to have an inspection.

In the last two hours, the scenery has changed from flat prairie to low rolling hills that gradually rise up to bluffs about five miles away. We have just come into Trinidad, Colorado, which is a few miles from the New Mexico border... We are entering the Sangre de Cristo Mountains. Mountains some miles away have snow on them.

We are climbing now. The engine is working hard. We are going so slow we seem hardly to be moving. The towns we pass remind me of the town you see in western movies --- unpainted, mostly one-story buildings. The hills are not at all pretty as everything is dull or dirty brown with scrubby small trees on the sides of the hills. No signs for life for miles and miles.

Five p.m. Just left Las Vegas where we had dinner at 4:15. Looking at my map, La Junta and Las Vegas are not far apart. Because our train was climbing nearly all the way and going so slow, this made it seem a long way between the two towns. Waiting a long time for dinner made it seem longer.

I have been feeling a little stiff and achy since leaving La Junta. I ran up and down the RR platform for exercise but am still feeling sore. I hate to say it, I'm afraid I'm getting a cold. Since feeling this way, I lost interest in this train ride.

This morning, we had breakfast in a very picturesque hotel and dining room in Winslow, Arizona. It is out together without nails. We have missed a lot of interesting places to see, such as the Grand Canyon and Painted Desert. We passed through the Petrified Forest, but at night. We did stop in Ashford (Arizona) but because of my cold, I had no appetite and ate very little.

I forgot to mention that since we stopped in Winslow, we have seen quite a few Navajo Indians in the towns we stopped at. Most of them look and dress like the ones you have seen in pictures. They are not very friendly.

We reached Needles (California) at about 6:30 p.m. The restaurant had cur meal all ready. After dinner, we had a chance to look around. The weather was beautiful. I understand that in the summer to temperature is sometimes 120 degrees in the shade. It was a relief to be able to stroll around after a long stay on the train.

During the night, we passed through the Mojave Desert. (Another famous spot we missed.) When it was light enough to see, we were high up in the mountains... What a sight it was to look down while traveling along near the top of some of these mountains. Trees, rivers, houses and everything else looked like toys way down below. There were three engines pulling our train at this height.

We came down out of the mountains into a wide, flat valley filled with the best-looking farming country I have ever seen. Orange, grapefruit, apple, walnut, pecan and grape orchards for miles until we reached Bakersfield. Nearby homes had orange and grapefruit trees in their yards.

After leaving Fresno, our train stopped in what looked like a freight yard. We got off, lugging handbags and started walking in columns of four, stumbling along in the dark. We near walked a mile. We finally reached some Navy buildings. No one knew we were coming! Two hours later, we were pointed out our sleeping quarters for the night. This was 1 a.m. People came around at 6 a.m. and that was the start of our first day at Camp Clark.

After six days on the train, we were a rough-looking bunch. We had to wait until after breakfast before we marched to a drill field. We listened to a few speeches by officers who said they were assigned to our group. Then some chiefs took over.

Finally, no more orders. Everyone made a mad dash for the shower room. Been a long time between showers! Thank goodness we were given the rest of the day off.

Roy Kemp survived the war and returned to civilian life in Quincy, where he worked for Brockway Smith Supplies in Andover, retiring in 1983.

And, oh, yes, he married his Barbara at war's end and they shared three children and 54 years of marriage before he died at the age of 80 in the summer of 2000.

Quincy College To Show Colors At Veterans' Day Parade

Quincy College administrators will participate in Sunday's Veterans' Day Parade as a demonstration of commitment to the community and appreciation for our nation's veterans.

In addition, an oversized American flag will be carried through Quincy Center as part of the college's efforts. The 20 by 30-foot Stars and Stripes is usually reserved for Quincy College commencement ceremonies in June.

"We hope that the stirring sight of this beautiful flag will remind Americans of the importance of the day," said Theresa Lord-Piatelli, chairwoman of the Quincy College Board of Governors.

In the wake of Sept. 11, members of the campus community were encouraged to participate and they responded by deciding to honor America's veterans as well as the heroes and victims of the Sept. 11 attack on the United States.

Sunday's parade will mark the two-month anniversary of the attack.

"This is a very local event and an opportunity for our employees to once more demonstrate their dedication to our neighborhood," said Sean Barry, president of Quincy College. "Many employees have contributed to charities and there were wonderful, thoughtful tributes on campus, but here is a great tradition in Quincy and we are thrilled to participate."

To become part of the parade, Quincy College contacted Hank Bradley, director of Veterans' Services for the city, who welcomed their participation. "Mr. Bradley was kind and we are proud to know that he and the city would allow us to march," said Thomas DeSantes, executive director for Marketing and Recruitment.

Barry said he hopes that employees unable to march with the flag will be able to view the parade along the route.

Granite City Electric 'Exemplary Employer'

Granite City Electric Supply Company was presented the Massachusetts Exemplary Employer Award by acting Gov. Jane Swift at a recent ceremony at Great Hall in the State House.

The Quincy-based company was honored for its role in providing employment opportunities to individuals with disabilities.

Granite City Electric, a full service electrical distributor, was founded in Quincy in 1923, and now has 10 locations in the state.

Phyllis Papani Godwin, chairman and CEO, said, "Our company has a long history of supporting community organizations. We are honored to be presented with this award. The employees we have hired from WORK, Inc. are productive members of our work force, and have made significant contributions to our company."

Award winners are nominated by both public and private agencies and selected by the Governor's Commission on Employment of People with Disabilities.

"A diverse work force helps business develop and maintain a competitive edge," Swift said. "Hiring individuals with disabilities and thinking about their ability to achieve real results is an approach many other businesses can benefit from in this new economy."

Receiving the award from Granite City Electric were Godwin, Steve Helle, president of the company, and Human Resources Manager Avis Wergin.

gratulatory handshakes from a throng of well wishers at City Hall. "I can't wait to start working for the people of Ward 4."

Connolly also took time to thank D'Amico for all his efforts and accomplishments in the ward over the years.

Finn, 45, took the open city council at-large seat being vacated by Paul Harold.

"I'm excited and I'm honored and I hope I can live up to the trust the citizens of Quincy have placed in me," Finn said.

Finn's vote of 11,136 gave him the second spot, 2,072 votes behind front runner Tim Cahill and just 53 votes ahead of incumbent Francis X. McCauley who slipped from second place in the preliminary election to third Tuesday.

Cahill said he was proud of his victory and strong finish in the polls and noted his excitement about the many new faces on the council. "I think the City Council is going to be in good hands," he said.

McCauley, still busy checking his own figures on his own notepad after the victory, noted the strong field in the at-large race, making special mention of newly elected Councillor Finn and the strong if unsuccessful campaign waged by John Keenan. "I congratulate all the candidates," McCauley said, "and I'm pleased that the people of Quincy saw fit to return me to office for two more years."

Behind McCauley were John F. Keenan, 10,282; Jimmy Liang, the first American Asian candidate, 7,173 and Brian McNamee, 5,602.

Coughlin, 45, won the Ward 3 seat left open by incumbent Patrick McDermott. Coughlin topped John Garland, 2,156 to 1,871. Garland had finished first in the preliminary election.

Coughlin said he was "exhausted but elated" over the victory.

"I promise to work hard for those who supported me and to earn the trust of those who didn't," Coughlin said. "There are a lot of issues in the ward and I promise to work hard on them."

The fourth new council face is that of Gutro, 36, who defeated James E. Mullaney, III for the Ward 5 seat by a vote of 2,420 to 1,658.

"I'm extremely gratified," said Gutro, who thanked his supporters for their efforts in what he called "truly a grass roots campaign" to improve the ward. "A wise man once said that some things need to be believed to be seen and we had people who believed from the very beginning that we could achieve victory."

Gutro and Mullaney won the nominations in the preliminary election, eliminating incumbent Stephen Durkin.

The four represent the biggest turnover in the City Council since 1973 when five newcomers won seats: Leo Kelly (Ward 1), John Lydon (Ward 3), James Sheets (Ward 4), Warren Powers (Ward 5) and Dennis Harrington (Ward 6).

Joseph J. Newton, 34, fended off second-time opponent Maryann P. Mahony, 62, to keep his Ward 6 seat for a second term. Newton's vote was 2,318 to Mahony's 1,471.

Newton, elected to a second term, thanked Mahony for "running a great campaign" but said he was just happy how everything turned out. "I think we did a good job addressing the issues in my first term and it showed," Newton said.

In Ward 1, incumbent Gregory Hanley, 36, racked up a second term, rolling by Gretchen C. Grant, 73, 3,124 to 954.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi was re-elected unopposed to his seventh term. His vote was 2,930 against 575 blanks.

Oversight Meeting Monday

Raymondi, Cahill Questions On Quincy Ave. Parcel

A Nov. 19 meeting of the Oversight Committee of the City Council to discuss the city's purchase of land off Quincy Ave. for a proposed new Quincy High School will also consider the council's decisions on the parcel and the council's actions on similar projects.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi and Councillor at-Large Timothy Cahill introduced five questions on the matter Oct. 15 in the form of a resolve, which was referred to the Oversight Committee and its chairman, Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton.

Originally scheduled for Tuesday night, the meeting was postponed until Nov. 19 in consideration of the recount process currently underway in the city's mayoral elections.

The resolve essentially asks councillors to explain whether or not the neighborhood effects of capping, blasting, and potential airborne contaminants would be any less for the construction of apartment complexes, which might occur if the property were sold to a developer, than the construction of a high school, the original idea scrapped by the city after public controversy as to whether the land, a former quarry and onetime land-fill for Bethlehem Steel, could be properly remediated.

The resolve also questions why the council mandated 22 acres of open space at the Highpoint Project, also a former quarry and

Mayoral Recount Monday

By CRAIG SALTERS

A citywide, manual recount of the city's closest mayoral election in history is scheduled to begin Monday, Nov. 19 at 9 a.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall.

A hand recount of all 24,935 votes cast, including 252 votes cast in the mayor's race which registered as "blank," is expected to last all business day Monday and could spill over into Tuesday, Nov. 20, said City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Both Mayor James Sheets, who received 12,315 votes in the Nov. 6 election, and Mayor-Elect William Phelan, whose tally of 12,330 beat the six-term incumbent by 15 votes, said they remain optimistic next week's recount will be resolved in their favor.

"I'm very optimistic," said Sheets, who pointed not only to the 252 blank ballots but the margin for error in the voting machines themselves which, he said, becomes significant when multiplied by all 25,000 votes. "We're going to look at every single vote."

Sheets, who said the mayor's office has been unusually quiet as

Amendments To Inclusionary Zoning Expected To Pass

Ward 1 Councillor Gregory Hanley, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, said he intended to bring the strengthening amendments to the city's Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance out of committee at Tuesday night's City Council meeting and that he expected those amendments to pass.

"I expect it to pass," Hanley told The Sun Tuesday afternoon, hours before the council meeting. "I will bring it out of committee and I strongly believe that the remaining members of the council will reaffirm their 8-1 vote which they made at the Sept. 3 public hearing."

Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton was the sole vote against at the Sept. 3 public hearing on the amendments, which would raise the number of off-site units of affordable housing a prospective large-scale developer would have to build from 10 percent to 15 percent of all units. In addition, if the developer chose to contribute into an affordable housing fund, the contribution would be set at 15 percent of total development costs rather than the current figure of 10 percent of per unit costs.

The percentage of on-site affordable housing a developer would have to build would remain at 10 percent.

Hanley said he had heard from city business leaders, including representatives of Quincy 2000 and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, asking him to hold off on the vote because of the downturn in the economy and a fear of stagnated growth in the city, but Hanley said there had been enough discussion on the issue and that a compromise had already been reached between affordable housing advocates, business leaders, and developers.

"This process started on Dec. 18 of last year," Hanley said. "There have been seven public hearings and more than enough discussion. It's about time that it passed."

Hanley added that the Planning Board met in October on the issue, voting to continue discussion until its Wednesday night meeting, which he said satisfied the legal requirement for a council vote. He also said that Council President Paul Harold had told him that the public hearing portion of the process had been opened and closed.

The original Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance was passed by the council in August.

Larger, Enthusiastic Turnout For Parade And Ceremony Resurgence Of Patriotism For Veterans Day

By LANCE MORGANELLI

A sign of the renewal of patriotism that has swept the nation since Sept. 11 was much in evidence here Sunday as the largest crowd in recent years turned out for the Veterans Day parade and ceremony.

Several hundred lined the sidewalks. Some waved flags. Some held signs thanking the veterans. Horns honked from passing cars in salute.

Keynote speaker, Robert Curry, a Purple Heart veteran of the Vietnam War, paid tribute to those of all wars at a more than usual attended ceremony at the Adams Academy.

Curry noted a quote at the base of the Korean War memorial -- "Freedom is not free" -- and said how true that statement really is.

"It's hard to believe it's called the forgotten war," Curry said about the Korean War, which recently observed its 50th anniversary.

Curry served in the Marine Corps from 1965-1966 during the Vietnam War. He received the Purple Heart and the Presidential Unit Citation.

ROBERT CURRY, keynote speaker, recognized veterans of all wars.

"I could go on for days talking about Vietnam because I lost so many close friends," Curry said. "The bonds of our friendship (in Vietnam) were stronger than with our families."

"Because of their dedication to duty, we enjoy the freedom we have today,"

MAYOR James Sheets told listeners "the 20th century taught us that there will not be a war to end all wars."

Curry said about all those who served in World War II.

"(I wanted to note) the reverence toward the flag: more men than in the past took their organizational hats off to salute the flag," Hank Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans Services, said about the veterans when they passed the US flag in the parade en route to the Adams Academy.

"The 20th century taught us there will not be a war to end all wars," Mayor James Sheets said.

Sheets said each generation makes the decision to defend democracy not only in the United States but all over the world.

"(Whether it is) this generation or the next generation or the following generation, the young generation will stand up to defend freedom," Sheets said in a determined voice which was followed by an eruption of applause from the audience.

City Council President Paul Harold recognized the ongoing work which Quincy's veterans do for the youth of the community.

"They teach our schools that the price of freedom is eternal vigilance," Harold said.

Curry said the American flag raised at the World Trade Center's Ground Zero, which reminded many of the flag raised at Iwo Jima, was folded and sent over to the troops near Afghanistan. It was then placed in a cockpit with a fighter pilot and, as he dropped the first bomb on Afghanistan, said, "This is for you, New York, New York."

GETTING TO THE ROOT

If tooth decay goes through the crown and pierces the root chamber, the root becomes infected and pain ensues. The patient then has the choice to extract the tooth or undergo root canal treatment. Extraction is a quick fix that poses two drawbacks. To begin with, the gap left behind must be filled. Secondly, when teeth are extracted, the supporting bone under the gum shrinks. Generally, it is best to keep the roots of natural teeth as long as possible. A tooth with an infected root can usually be saved with root canal treatment. Even if the crown is too badly damaged to be saved, the root is in place to accept a post and artificial crown.

Root canals, fillings, partial or full dentures, tooth replacement, cosmetic dentistry, and extractions are just some of the services we offer. We believe in the importance of regular dental health care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we encourage children and adults to start and continue a healthy habit of regular dental checkups so their smiles will last a lifetime. We want you and your family to look and feel your very best. Please call us at 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. It is the abscess that causes pain, not the root canal treatment that puts an end of the pain.

For Raymondi, Double Satisfaction

For Dan Raymondi, wrapping up the city council presidency as quickly as he did, must have been a double dip of satisfaction.

When the new council is seated in January, he will be second only to the mayor in political power under the city's Plan A charter.

And, in putting the votes together he chalked up a victory over an old rival: Frank McCauley.

And, you might say, it sort of evens the score a little.

Back in 1981, McCauley and Raymondi squared off against one another in a battle for the mayor's office when incumbent Arthur Tobin decided not to seek a third term. McCauley won it and went on to serve four terms as mayor.

This time, McCauley now back in the city council, wanted the presidency and was Raymondi's lone opponent for it.

For McCauley, winning the presidency would have been something like a baseball player hitting for the cycle.

McCauley is the only one in the city's history to hold all four city elective offices: school committee, ward councillor, councillor at-large and mayor.

Winning the council presidency would have been a handsome feather in his political cap.

But Raymondi didn't waste any time and reportedly had the necessary five votes committed by the day after the city election.

And more the next day.

McCauley says: "I would have liked it. But I think Dan will do a good job. And I will vote for him. I imagine it will be unanimous."

McCauley, who enjoys his image as the "fiscal watchdog" of the city council, probably will lose his chairmanship of the Finance Committee. It no doubt will go to one of Raymondi's key council presidency supporters.

As council president, Raymondi will not only preside over the council meetings, but appoint the council committees and chairmen and serve as acting mayor in the absence or illness of the mayor.

And, council presidents usually get more press on issues than their colleagues, keeping their name before the public for, say, maybe a mayoral bid.

The presidency is considered a political springboard to the mayor's office.

And Raymondi, long seen a potential candidate for mayor, is still interested in taking another shot at the office.

Although right now, things look a little complicated. If Jim Sheets overturns Bill Phelan's 15-vote margin win in the city's closest ever mayoral election, Raymondi as council president would be in a good spot for a mayoral bid.

The feeling is that Sheets would complete what would be his seventh term and then retire. That would mean an open office in 2003 and Raymondi, after two

Veterans Honored At Squantum School Assembly

Commander Frank Iantosca and Anthony Wolowicz, members of the Robert Nickerson American Legion Post, were the distinguished guests at a recent Veterans' Day Assembly at the Squantum Elementary School.

Iantosca spoke to the students about his witnessing of "the biggest show," explaining that he had been stationed on Okinawa when news of the negotiated peace with Japan was announced, prompting cannon fire which lit up the night sky and the firing of guns as war-weary soldiers celebrated the good news.

RAYMONDI

years as council president, would be in an ideal position to make the run.

But if the recount confirms Phelan as the winner, that presents a little different story for Raymondi. Does he take on Phelan in 2003?

Or if Phelan loses the recount, will he run again two years from now? With its powerful performance this year as a relatively political newcomer, plus a loyal following and energized organization, he would be a formidable candidate with now a well-known political name in 2003.

The council presidency may be a springboard to the mayor's office -- but not always. And sometimes it's a delayed spring.

Among council presidents who became mayor were Joseph Whiton, Charles Ross, Thomas Burgin, Amelio Della Chiesa, James McIntyre, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin and Sheets.

But of those, only two went directly from the council presidency to the mayor's office: Whiton in 1917 and Tobin in 1977.

A number of mayors were never council presidents. Among them Hannon and McCauley. And a number of council presidents never became mayor. In recent times: Leo Kelly, John Lydon, Peter Kolson and Paul Harold.

Raymondi was re-elected to his seventh term as Ward 2 councillor this year.

At age 54, he still has time to make it to the mayor's office.

SPEAKING OF RAYMONDI, he apparently topped the write-in vote for mayor in last week's election with six and two ballots to be checked in the recount.

Bill Phelan, who edged Jim Sheets by 10 votes in the regular balloting, picked up five write-ins to make his margin of victory 15, pending the recount.

Among those getting one write-in vote each for mayor were: Councillor-County Treasurer Tim Cahill (still a possible mayoral candidate), former Mayor Joseph LaRaia, Joseph Finn (who won a council at-large seat), Michael D'Amico (who lost the Ward 4 seat to Bryan Connolly) and School Committeewoman Christine Cedrone.

Other one write-ins: Kevin Gracey, Kevin Mantville, Tom Kiley, Paul Hines and Peter McDonough.

FORMER MAYOR Arthur Tobin, now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court, and a Marine Korean War veteran, has had "that old patriotic feeling" surging since the terrorist attacks and the start of the war on terrorism in Afghanistan.

So, he wanted to march in Sunday's Veterans Day parade. But he couldn't find his Marine Corps League Caddy Detachment hat.

He mentioned it to Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, a fellow Marine and Caddy Detachment member.

Coincidentally, she had been looking through some of her husband's belongings and noticed his Caddy Detachment hat.

She brought it to Tobin and said: "Arthur, I want you to wear Jim's hat. But take good care of it."

So Tobin marched in the parade wearing McIntyre's hat, the same size as his.

Maybe it was meant to be.

McIntyre and Tobin were born three days apart at Quincy Hospital in May, 1930 and their mothers were beds across from one another.

The two babies grew up to be friends, remaining close personally and politically until McIntyre's unexpected death in 1984 following major surgery.

"I felt something special Sunday," says Tobin. "I felt there were two mayors marching under that hat."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1918 POSTCARD is a view of Raccoon Island from Rock Island Road on the west side of Houghs Neck. Early in the last century this island was used by the Stigmatine Fathers as a summer camp and school. The buildings visible here were probably used by them. The island has been deserted ever since. While you can walk to the island from the mainland at very low tide this is the only remaining real island in Quincy. Moon and Nut Islands were long ago connected to the shore by cause-ways. Half Moon was leveled for fill to build Quincy Shore Drive. In the Town River were Cat and Pincushion Islands. All the other sections of Quincy called islands including Rock Island are connected to the mainland by marshland. Many of the names of those other islands are long forgotten. Raccoon Island is now a part of the Boston Harbor Islands National Park Area.

Praise From Close-Up For Quincy Medical Center

Once again, the services of the Quincy Medical Center, under emergency conditions, were provided me and I cannot say enough for the care and treatment received.

On Oct. 30, 2001, I awoke at 6 a.m. with severe tremors and difficulty breathing. My wife phoned my Harvard Pilgrim HMO and was advised to take me immediately to the Quincy Medical Center ER.

Upon arrival Dr. McElroy and his professional staff performed the necessary tests and diagnosed I was suffering a massive infection caused by pneumonia. Prompt treatment with antibiotics for an extended period was required.

Because of my allergy to certain antibiotics, Quincy Medical Center physician Dr. Bresnick prescribed a new, potent antibiotic to be taken intravenously at Quincy.

During my stay I saw the many facets of health care that comprise treating the whole needs of patients. Case workers, social services, nurse specialists, and respiratory technicians were key members of the medical care team.

Important to the holistic needs of patients are the services provided by Chaplain Rev. Ted Fortier and his team of eucharistic ministers.

Upon discharge I was given written instructions and prescriptions which I took home with me for follow-up.

Two years ago the orchestrated efforts of many officials and organizations fought to keep the doors of Quincy Medical Center from closing. Quincy's large senior population can be justly proud of the role seniors played in keeping this facility open for all residents of Quincy.

The affiliation of Quincy Medical Center with Boston Medical Center should rank as the major accomplishment of medical care in the history of our historic city.

I know from personal experience, having been born in 1920 in the maternity ward of the old wooden structure when it officially became Quincy City Hospital.

News On Veterans' Benefits

This is in response to an article from Brian McNamee, candidate for councillor at-large, in the Oct. 25 Quincy Sun, regarding his statement of cutting the waiting time for benefits adjudication to our veterans.

Quincy Veterans Services, located at 24 High School Ave., phone number (617) 376-1192, has helped veterans for over 75 years to file their claims for disabilities, increase their present disability, or file for any other VA program that is necessary to help a veteran. We assist all veterans, should they be senior World War II veterans or veterans who have served their country since World War II.

On the 22nd of August, 2001, Secretary of Veterans Affairs Anthony J. Principi announced an unprecedented effort to move some long pending applications for benefits, especially from older veterans, to a special unit designed to speed action on their claims. The focus of the administration's initiative is veterans 70 years of age or older.

Earlier this year, Secretary Principi authorized the hiring of 1,200 new employees to help reduce the growing number of claims associated with new regulations and claims.

The VA can earmark the special resources to aid older veterans as a result of the greatest expansion of its benefits processing work force in more than 25 years.

The new process started to take hold back in August when plans were announced and changes put in place. The 57 regional claims offices are already instructed to pull the benefit applications of veterans age 70 or older that have been pending for more than a year, which at the time numbered in the area of 6,000 cases. There are over 50,000 other long pending claims out of a total of over 660,000 total cases awaiting adjudication by the VA. Due to the large number of VA employees who will retire and their replacements hired and trained to continue this important project, it will take time to complete this tremendous task, but Secretary Principi is determined to cut the backlog as it presently stands.

Due to attrition rates in the VA and the freeze on hiring in order to bring the VA budget in on level funding or to make up the cuts in the budget without hiring replacement staff, it is plain to see this did not work and the veteran was the one to suffer. Hopefully, with the ambitious plan set forth by Secretary Principi the backlog will diminish and veterans will get the total service promised years ago.

Quincy Veterans' Services is available to assist a veteran or the spouse of a veteran with any of their questions. Please call (617) 376-1192.

Gossard Asks Boston To Stop Raiding Teachers

By PAUL HAROLD

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard sent a letter to the Boston School Committee asking them to stop the practice of raiding the Quincy schools for first year teachers.

Gossard said there was a gentlemen's agreement in New England that no teacher would be taken from another system during the first year. However, last year one teacher was taken with five more this year, including two in their first year. Assistant Supt. Albert Cochrane said the school department had a contract with these teachers, but that it was difficult to hold them to it.

EVICION OF LAST FAMILY ON COTTAGE ST. POSTPONED

The eviction of the Ludwig family, the last family on Cottage St. was postponed at the request of their pastor.

The Ludwig home stood in the path of the new John Hancock parking area that was under construction.

The Ludwigs held off deputy sheriffs when they arrived to carry out the eviction order by quoting Bible versions through the window. The Ludwigs said they wanted guarantees from city hall on the ability of their heirs to repurchase the property if it was no longer used for public parking purposes.

BURKE DENIED RECOUNT IN THREE WARDS

Thomas Burke, Democratic candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District, was denied a recount in three out of four wards by the board of registrars. City Clerk Donald Crane said the recount petitions were not properly sworn to and thus defective.

Burke's recount was allowed in his home Ward 3, but not in Wards 4, 5 and 6, because he swore to the preamble on the petitions, but he was not a resident of those wards. Burke was defeated for the rep seat by Republican incumbent Carter Lee by 220 votes.

After conferring with state party leader Joseph Doherty, Burke said he was planning an appeal before the superior court.

Native Americans Subject Of Environmental Treasure Tour

The Quincy Park Department's monthly walking tour will be located at Caddy Park on Quincy Shore Drive and will deal with Native American History Saturday at 10 a.m.

The tour will be led by Margo Davis, archeologist of the Massachusetts Historical Society, who helped lead a team of archeologists in a major dig at Caddy Park two years ago.

Davis will present the findings of the dig and the knowledge they gathered of the Native American culture that existed in the Quincy area before the coming of the white man.

Following the walking tour, there will be an optional slide show presented by Davis at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex in Merrymount Park.

The show will begin at approximately 11:15 a.m. and, since the tour is part of the Environmental Treasures of Quincy series, there is no charge.

"We are very fortunate to have our tour led by Ms. Davis from the Massachusetts Historical Commission," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

"She helped lead one of the most significant finds on Native American culture in our area. In addition to the interesting historical fact, people will be able to view Black's Creek, Caddy Park and Merrymount Park in all their autumn splendor."

Beechwood Center Celebrates 20 Years

Beechwood Community Life Center has planned special events throughout the month of November to celebrate the center's twentieth anniversary.

"So many in our city and throughout the South Shore have participated in the origin, mission, and growth of Beechwood, it was impossible to plan a single Thanksgiving event," said Sharron Beals, executive director of the Beechwood Community Life Center, which opened its doors in 1981.

One such event, scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 14, is a "Founders Fest" celebration dinner to honor Beechwood's founder, the late Dr. Cecil Paul.

The event, Beals said, will revisit "20 years of milestones and memories" and include such special guests as the Paul Family, Mayor James Sheets, former Mayor and current Councilor at-Large Frank McCauley, former Councilor and current City Solicitor Stephen McGrath, Janet Powell, Don Strong, Betty Southwick, and Edward O'Leary.

All anniversary events will take place at the center, 440 East Squantum St. Other events planned for the week of Nov. 12 include an Open House and Parent Recognition Day, a Senior Celebration and Volunteer Recognition Program, and a Staff Recognition Day.

Throughout the month, Beals said, tributes will be bestowed upon those in the fields of education, business, and city service who worked with the late Dr. Paul to develop his unique vision of a citywide community center dedicated to "lifelong learning and care in an intergenerational setting."

For more information about Beechwood's intergenerational programs or anniversary events, contact the center at (617) 471-5712.

Checking, Installing Smoke Detectors Project SAFE Serves 200 Seniors' Homes

Project SAFE Senior Service Day volunteers recently visited 200 senior homes in Quincy, reports Sharron Beals, executive director of the Beechwood Community Life Center.

Beals said 20 teams made up of Quincy Fire-fighters and volunteers fanned out to neighborhoods across the city, installing and checking smoke detectors, providing general information about the prevention of fire and falls, and presenting detector check sticks and night-lights to all elders visited.

"Our mission is a year round effort to reduce injuries and deaths caused by fire and falls," said Beals, citing statistics from the National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA) that 30 percent of people age 65 and older are involved in falls each year. Some of those falls are fatal while others may permanently disable victims and cause loss of mobility or independence.

According to research, elders 65 and older are twice as likely to be killed by fires or falls compared to the population at large. By 75, that risk increases to three times that of the general population; four times by age 85.

"The simple goal of our year-round SAFE Seniors Program is to focus upon safety issues, particularly the serious nature of fires and falls," Beals said. "Home visits are the best way to help older adults evaluate their safety needs and pay attention to our fire and fall prevention messages."

Detectors, grab bars, railings, and other assistive devices, Beals said, allow seniors to remain independent and in their own homes longer.

Checking, Installing Smoke Detectors Project SAFE Serves 200 Seniors' Homes

Project SAFE Senior Service Day volunteers recently visited 200 senior homes in Quincy, reports Sharron Beals, executive director of the Beechwood Community Life Center.

Beals said 20 teams made up of Quincy Fire-fighters and volunteers fanned out to neighborhoods across the city, installing and checking smoke detectors, providing general information about the prevention of fire and falls, and presenting detector check sticks and night-lights to all elders visited.

"Our mission is a year round effort to reduce injuries and deaths caused by fire and falls," said Beals, citing statistics from the National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA) that 30 percent of people age 65 and older are involved in falls each year. Some of those falls are fatal while others may permanently disable victims and cause loss of mobility or independence.

According to research, elders 65 and older are twice as likely to be killed by fires or falls compared to the population at large. By 75, that risk increases to three times that of the general population; four times by age 85.

"The simple goal of our year-round SAFE Seniors Program is to focus upon safety issues, particularly the serious nature of fires and falls," Beals said. "Home visits are the best way to help older adults evaluate their safety needs and pay attention to our fire and fall prevention messages."

Detectors, grab bars, railings, and other assistive devices, Beals said, allow seniors to remain independent and in their own homes longer.

For more information about Beechwood's Project SAFE or other citywide services for older adults, call (617) 471-5712.

Response To Nov. 8 Sunbeams Column

LaRaia Takes Issue Regarding His Administration

(The following letter to Henry Bosworth regarding his Sunbeams column Nov. 8 was submitted by Joseph LaRaia for publication.)

Henry,
You used me as your whipping boy during my two years as Mayor and you once again used your column to engage in character assassination once more.

In your attempt to justify your once only endorsement of my opponent, you proceeded to tear me apart in trying to convince your readers you had a divine inspiration to conquer good over evil.

Your assault alluded to my term as the shortest and stormiest in the city's history, marked with controversy, accusations, clashes with the city council and others. You said, "the city was standing still." "In the Twilight Zone" as you put it.

In case it slipped your mind let me remind you, the city hall addition was designed and federal monies were obtained during my administration. Some councilors wanted to see me use the monies to plant trees. The Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre was built largely from federal CETA funds. We used those funds wisely rather than have the same laborers rake leaves and do menial jobs. The North Quincy High reconstruction, Merrymount School addition, Manet Health Center, master plan for Quincy Center all undertaken and moved along during my administration.

We had some real talented people around us that enabled us to progress during my administration and you call it, "The Twilight Zone"? Shame on you!

You were writing about me from my first day in office. Remember when I replaced the outgoing administration? You headlined it as "The January Massacre." Those that were replaced were given time to make that adjustment. We did it with dignity, but you had to paint your own dark picture once again.

Remember when you were challenged by a weekly paper called "The Post Gazette" of the North End of Boston? The late editor of that paper saw your verbal persecution and responded by writing and reporting my views to offset your biased reporting. The paper was distributed weekly in Quincy. This upset you so much that you began writing weekly denunciations, criticizing the stance that paper was taking. It got so bad that lawyers for the opposition were filing threatening civil action to the Post Gazette.

Henry, your endorsement of my mayoral opposition that year had as much impact as a raindrop hitting the sidewalk. When you made the comments, the word on the street was "What took him so long?" The outcome of that mayoral election was pretty much known before your once only endorsement of my opponent. The brush with the law by two of my appointees was a heavy obstacle to overcome. If the opposition were going to return to city hall they would have to work for it.

When I entered the Mayor's office in January 1976, the bicentennial year, I had just gone through a recount declaring me the winner by 473 votes after I had been declared the loser three weeks earlier. We caught them doctoring the vote tally, and the recount rights what went wrong. There was tremendous hostility on both sides over this abuse of authority.

You protected your close friends in the city government by soft pedaling the outcome as "human error."

When I entered that office I was surrounded by longtime civil servants and others whose allegiance was to previous political heads and a city council that was on record as being hostile to me as a councilor. Is it any wonder that this chemistry became explosive during my administration?

Henry,
Santa was good in 1977 (Sunbeams 12/77). He did bring me paper to write my book, "A City Under the Influence" and it explains it all.

Joseph J. LaRaia

(Joe: Yes, there were a number of projects started during your administration and they were reported and credited to you in The Sun which you seem to forget. Regardless, your administration was still one of the stormiest in the city's history.)

You say that newspaper in the North End challenged The Sun. The fact is that The Sun and a number of people were being attacked and The Sun responded.

You also say in your letter that two of your appointees had a "brush with the law." As we noted in the column, the fact is that two appointees were convicted of conspiracy and extortion, another of larceny and another discovered to have been under indictment on two criminal charges. That's a "brush with the law"?

By the way you short-changed yourself in the 1975 election. You actually won by 483 votes — not 473.

As for your book, Joe, I thought it was interesting but pretty much one-sided. But thanks again for the autographed copy you gave me in 1979. I still have it but haven't had time to finish it.)

Henry

The Election An Education For Us All

dorsement.

Unfortunately, too many citizens make decisions about candidates based solely on what they read in the paper, or what they see on community access television. Is this right? The answer is no.

I was deeply saddened to see such a poor turnout at many of the candidates' nights, which had been held in various locations throughout the city in recent months. So many people failed to take an active role in formulating a well-rounded decision on the candidates. This is not entirely the fault of the citizens, however, considering the dates and times of these "debates" may not have been conducive to the schedule of many citizens. Furthermore, many people may not have known about these candidates' nights, and even others may have had trouble arranging for transportation to these events. Thus, I put much of the blame for these uninformed decisions on the media.

Granted, the freedoms of speech and press give the media the right to print or say whatever they want, provided their statements do not present a clear and present danger to our society. However, even in a large city such as Quincy, we do not have too many media outlets to turn to for information on local affairs. When the most widely read "local" paper in any city or town endorses a candidate, you can bet heads will turn and opinions will change. This practice discourages several decent potential candidates each year from running for office.

In his article, Bosworth stated, "If another newspaper decided to endorse a candidate, that's their business and right." Writing about the O'Mahoney cartoon in The Ledger from Nov. 2, depicting William Phelan as Abe Lincoln, Bosworth writes, "...a below-the-belt political cartoon attacking the other candidate didn't come across as fair play. In fact, it came across as character assassination. Maybe that's considered great stuff in other places...wherever dirty tricks are still in vogue. But not in

Granted, there is one happy chap named Bill who was able to override a "Ledger endorsement," but what about the other candidates who are treated unfairly by the media? What about the candidates who worked so hard this past year that they walked the soles off of three pairs of shoes, yet were not given equal media coverage of candidates who barely scratched their shoes on the streets?

What about the candidates who spent hours putting community access television programs together to better educate the citizens on the issues, yet were told by television executives that there was not enough room on the "deck" to run their spots?

What about the candidates who spoke so passionately about their views on the issues at the candidates nights that their voices were raised and their faces turned red while speaking, yet were barely covered in print the next day? For the sake of these candidates, and for the sake of future candidates for public office, I implore all citizens of every city and town to take advantage of every opportunity to speak to, meet with, or watch the candidates in action. Please take full advantage of events such as candidates' nights, and do not make a decision about a candidate based solely on what the media circulates.

Fortunately, for papers like The Patriot Ledger, the first amendment of the United States Constitution protects their freedoms of speech and press. They have the right to endorse anyone they want. It is my feeling, however, that the role of the media is to inform the public, not bias them. An endorsement from the press is like an insult to the intelligence of the public. The citizens of Quincy do not need the media to make up their minds on who to vote for. Mr. Bosworth for one certainly feels as though we are smart enough to make our own decisions on election day.

Adams St. Burger King Seeks 7 a.m. Opening

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The oldest Burger King in New England, located on 670 Adams St., asked the License Board Tuesday for permission to open and start serving breakfast at 7 a.m. instead of 11 a.m.

On a request from Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, the board voted to delay its vote until January so that the new Ward 4 Councillor Bryan Connolly has a chance to arrange a neighborhood meeting.

Only one abutter, Norma Rodberg of Campbell Street opposed the early morning opening citing more traffic problems in the area, and odors from several other restaurants in the area.

Rodberg also asked the board to change the closing hours from 11 p.m. to 10 p.m. because of the noise especially during the summer months.

Atty. Robert Fleming, representing Burger King said the restaurant has been at the same place since 1965 and is the oldest in New England, said the nature of the business has changed with other restaurants serving breakfasts.

The company's intent to capture the breakfast trade is to serve the consumer and be in line with other restaurants and to have a "level playing field." Fleming said.

Fleming also said that Gorman's request was a "reasonable one", but added that the area where the Burger King is historically a business zone. He said "36 years is a long time, you can't please everyone but that has been a corridor of assorted businesses for years."

Gorman said he had no problem with the early morning opening and said most people would go in for a quick breakfast sandwich and coffee. He added that many of the early morning customers would be senior citizens because the prices are usually lower.

Chairman Joseph Shea, who said he would send a copy of Tuesday's meeting to Connolly, promised that the board would hear the request as early as possible in January.

The board allowed a change of managers at the Burger King from Michael Wilber to Mark Hayward.

Dear Friends, Supporters and Citizens of Quincy:

A candidate for public office has one enduring mission - never forget to thank those who help you. To this end, I want to sincerely thank my friends and family for all their support in my bid for Quincy Councillor At-Large.

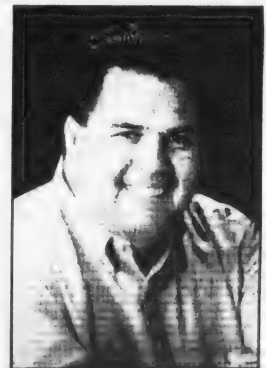

With each election comes either renewal of past leadership or an embrace of new leadership. Unfortunately, in the midst of this process there is often a casting aside of those who have served us well and/or those who aspired to serve. Some like to characterize this process in terms of winners and losers. Although political outcomes can have a blunt quality, there are no losers. Please consider, when the voter has choices we all become winners.

Again, I extend my warmest thanks to all who supported me in the Councillor at-Large race. Even though we did not succeed, we still won! We offered the voter a choice.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Thanksgiving Cran-Sauce

It wasn't a typical Sunday because my husband and I were invited out to dinner instead of cooking in.

Our daughter Ann Marie made delicious stuffed chicken breasts, mashed potatoes, as well as many sides of vegetables. However, one thing she prepared and one I will have for our Thanksgiving dinner is the type of cranberry sauce she served.

It was so different-sweet and sour at the same time as you will see. Here is the easy recipe.

Ann Marie's Special Sauce
1 package of frozen strawberries
1 8 ounce can of mandarin oranges a 20 ounce can of chopped pineapple

1 can of jellied cranberry sauce
1 can of cranberry sauce with berries.

Drain liquid from the oranges and pineapple, but reserve the liquid that comes with the strawberries.

Thaw the strawberries. Mix all ingredients together until well blended, refrigerate for a couple of hours and presto, the best cranberry sauce ever to enhance any entree especially turkey. And with all of us there, including a lot of tiny tots, there were lots of dishes...and our son-in-law David cleaned everything. What a guy!

Mayoral Recount Set For Next Monday

the city waits to see who will be the next mayor, said he expected to know the results of the recount by Tuesday, adding that "the recount will define the next step" in the process.

Phelan, whose upset victory Nov. 6 shocked many in the city, said he is equally optimistic as to the results of the recount, emphasizing that he has been elected mayor and is scheduled to be sworn into office come January.

"The fact that the votes were tallied and I won, that they were re-tallied and, again, I came out on top, and that I was certified by the city clerk as the winner, in addition to the reliability of the ballot system, makes me confident that the results will be upheld," said Phelan, who said he would not speculate on what his next step would be should next week's recount reverse the decision of Nov. 6.

The city uses electronic scanning machines to read broken arrows which have been filled in by voters. The scanners are considered extremely reliable and have an accuracy rating above 99 percent.

Sheets' Campaign Manager Sheila Hill filed the requisite recount petition containing a minimum of 60 certified signatures of registered voters — 10 needed from each ward — early Tuesday morning.

Phelan, whose campaign also took out recount petition papers but has yet to file them, said he would examine the situation further before making a decision as to whether or not to file.

Whether Phelan decides to file papers or not, the recount is "99 percent certain" for Monday, said Shea, who will send notification letters this week to both candidates.

Shea estimated the citywide hand recount would cost between $15,000 and $20,000, adding that the recount itself would involve himself, the board of registrars, city election officials, a police officer, a computer expert, an attorney to represent the city, and the various attorneys and witnesses of the two candidates.

Of the 252 votes in the mayoral election which registered as blank, Shea said that 95 percent would most likely be non-controversial, meaning a resident simply did not cast a vote in the mayoral election.

But the remaining five percent "is where the battle will be," said Shea, explaining that this group could contain circles, checks, underlines, or even stray pen markings which will most likely be contested by either Sheets' attorney, Dennis Newman, or Phelan's attorney, William McDermott, Jr., both experts in the field of election recounts.

According to Shea, write-in votes where the voter failed to complete the broken arrow or failed to fill it in properly would be read as blank by the computer.

Shea said that he had been in contact with the Solicitor's Office to find out the appropriate procedure for the city in the event of a tie. Although not certain, Shea said one possibility could be an outcome of "failure to elect."

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath said such a scenario would be unknown territory for the city, explaining that the question of a mayoral tie had never arisen in Quincy's history.

Both candidates have the right to contest individual ballots and appeal any recount decision, meaning that there is a possibility the matter could ultimately be decided in the courts.

The city contains six wards of five precincts each.

Tallies the night of Nov. 6 showed that Phelan beat Sheets by a razor-thin margin of 10 votes, 12,325 to 12,315, representing percentages of 49.93 and 49.89, respectively.

A subsequent tally of 43 write-in votes, five of which were awarded to Phelan, increased the winning margin of victory to 15 votes, leaving Phelan at 12,330 and Sheets still at 12,315.

landfill, but rejected an open space proposal for the land off Quincy Ave and why councillors questioned the findings of engineers Weston & Sampson on the Quincy Ave. site but accepted its expertise as it pertained to the Highpoint Project.

Raymondi said the questions were brought to his attention by constituents and point to "a seeming conflict" concerning decisions of the council.

Raymondi and Cahill's questions will be added to earlier questions brought forth by councillors, including Council President Paul Harold, over the purchase price of the 15-acre parcel and the process by which the city brought the property.

The city purchased the property in 1998 for $3.5 million.

The meeting will take place before the council's regularly scheduled meeting at 7:30 p.m.

How Smoke Alarms Save Lives

(NAPS) — A smoke alarm is one of the best safety features that homeowners can buy and install to protect themselves, their families and their property.

The impact of smoke alarms on fire safety and protection is dramatic—60 percent of all fatal fires occur in homes without working smoke alarms. The benefits can be simply stated: When fire breaks out, smoke alarms, functioning as early warning systems, reduce the risk of death by giving people time to alert loved ones to the fire and to get out.

Location Of Your Smoke Alarm

Install smoke alarms on every level of your home. Many fatal fires begin late at night or in the early morning. For extra safety, install smoke alarms both inside and outside sleeping areas.

Also, smoke alarms should be installed on eight inches below ceilings. Since smoke and many deadly gases rise, installing smoke alarms at the proper level will provide you with the earliest warning possible. Always follow the manufacturer's installation instructions.

Acquiring Your Smoke Alarm

Most hardware, home supply or general merchandise stores carry smoke alarms. If you are unsure where to buy one, call the fire department (on a non-emergency telephone number). Some fire departments offer smoke alarms for little or no cost.

Installing Your Smoke Alarm

In most cases, all you will need is a screwdriver. Many brands are self-adhesive and will automatically stick to walls or ceilings. However, be sure to follow the directions from the manufacturer because each brand is different. Call the fire department if you have problems installing a smoke alarm.

Keeping Your Smoke Alarm Working

Smoke alarms are very easy to take care of:

- Replace the batteries at least once a year. Some smoke alarms now come with 10-year batteries. These alarms must be replaced as whole units, thus avoiding the need for battery replacement. If your smoke alarm starts making a "chirping" noise, replace the batteries and reset it.

- Keep alarms clean. Dust and debris can interfere with smoke alarms.

What If The Alarm Goes Off While I'm Cooking?

Then it's doing its job. Do not disable your smoke alarm if it goes off due to cooking or other non-fire causes. Instead, clear the air by waving a towel near the alarm, and leave the batteries in place. The alarm may have to be moved to a new location.

For more information on fire safety topics, write to the United States Fire Administration, Public Fire Education, Building 1, 16825 South Seton Ave., Emmitsburg, MD 21727, or visit the Web site (www.usfa.fema.gov).

For Municipal Workers

South Shore Savings Announces $4 Million In Mortgage Financing

South Shore Savings Bank has committed $4 million in affordable mortgage funding for city and town employees through the state's new Municipal Mortgage Program.

The favorable-rate mortgage plan, which features up to 100 percent financing, is designed to provide local housing opportunities for municipal employees in the city or town where they work.

The announcement of South Shore Savings Bank's participation in the statewide program was made by Arthur R. Connelly, chairman and chief executive officer.

"Communities are stronger when the people who work there are also able to live there," Connelly said. "We welcome the opportunity to help make that possible in the neighborhoods we serve."

South Shore Savings Bank's "zero down" municipal mortgage program is available to city or town employees in Quincy, Abington, Braintree, Cohasset, East Bridgewater, Hanover, Hanson, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell, Pembroke, Rockland, Scituate, Weymouth and Whitman.

Mortgage plans include fixed-rate or adjustable-rate terms and $500 off closing costs if the monthly mortgage payments are automatically deducted from a South Shore Savings Bank check-off account.

All municipal employees are eligible to apply, as long as one applicant is a full-time, salaried city or town worker. The program is geared to first-time homebuyers who may not have the resources for a significant down payment, but will extend to current homeowners whose goal is to live in the community where they work. The properties financed must be owner-occupied, and certain income limits and other restrictions apply.

The Municipal Mortgage Program was initiated by MassHousing, formerly the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA). That agency's Mortgage Insurance Fund provides insurance on the loans the bank will make under this program.

"We are pleased to be able to help municipal employees realize their home-ownership potential," Connelly said. "The $4 million we have earmarked for these mortgages recognizes the contributions made by municipal workers in the neighborhoods served by South Shore Savings Bank."

More information about the Municipal Mortgage Program at South Shore Savings Bank is available by calling 781-337-3000.

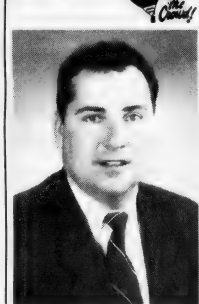

South Shore Savings Bank, which operates under an 1833 state charter, has offices in Quincy, East Bridgewater, Hanover and Weymouth, including an Educational and Training Facility at Weymouth High School. The bank is a member of the FDIC and a member of the DIF.

Salvation Army Needs Volunteers For Kettles

The Salvation Army in Quincy needs volunteers to help man the collection kettles during the Christmas season.

The kettles will be at various locations starting Fri., Nov. 16, through Monday, Dec. 24.

Major Douglas Jones, commander with his wife, Major Linda Jones, of the Salvation Army Quincy Temple Corps, 6 Baxter St., said individuals and groups are needed as volunteers for a day or part of a day on whatever time they may be able to give.

Volunteers standing at a kettle "may at the same time be standing in honor of a loved one or a friend as a tribute or remembrance," Major Jones noted.

Sought are volunteers from churches, service clubs, companies and families to help raise funds to help others in need as the Salvation Army has done in the Quincy area for more than 100 years.

A sign attached to the kettle will identify the group or individuals who are volunteering or name the person they are honoring or "standing for" if so desired.

Typically, a group stands for about eight hours a day, with two people from the group volunteering for one- or two-hour shifts together. It takes about 16 people to handle a day at one-hour shifts. Groups can work as few as four hours if they are smaller.

Just before the turn of the century, the Army started collecting money in soup kettles following a shipwreck in San Francisco.

They were housing and feeding the survivors when the soup kettle and their resources ran dry. An inspired Salvation Army worker took the empty kettle off the stove and ran to the street to ask people to "keep the pot boiling" by making donations to help the people in need in their city.

Today, the Army uses the red kettle on a tripod in 107 countries to collect funds for people in need. The Quincy Salvation Army uses the money it collects to meet local needs such as emergency food assistance, toys for children and gifts for shut-ins, Major Jones said.

"Contact The Salvation Army in Quincy at 617-472-2345 if you can join the other volunteers and groups who have already signed up to help," he said. "Please call right away to be assured of the date and location you or your group want most."

Presidents Pin 21-14 Defeat On Plymouth North

By CHRIS POISSON

Not too long ago, the Quincy High School football team would have lost last Friday night's game against Plymouth North.

After blowing a two-touchdown lead, the Presidents found themselves in a 14-14 tie in the fourth quarter, a scenario that almost always seems to swing in favor of the opposition.

This time, though, Quincy made the plays down the stretch, capitalizing a PN turnover into the game-winning drive, capped by sophomore J.J. Niamkey's 11-yard touchdown run for a 21-14 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

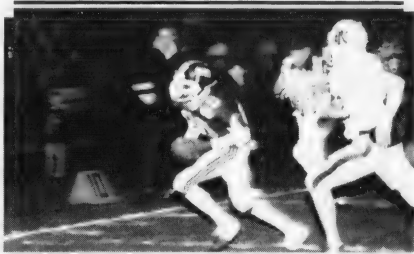

"That wasn't a bad team we just beat," said head coach Bob Noble. "That was a team that played for the league championship. We weren't lucky. We beat them. We played well and we earned it."

Quincy (4-4-1 overall, 3-2-1 Atlantic Coast League) heads into the Thanksgiving Day game with a three-game winning streak and a chance to finish above .500, a remarkable feat considering its dreadful 1-4-1 start.

"It's just a testament to all the kids," Noble said. "After that difficult game against Randolph that ended up in a tie, we could have gone in the tank. But we didn't. Now we go into Thanksgiving riding a real high."

"I was nervous of a let-down," said PN head coach Bill Burkhead, whose team was coming off an emotional loss to Whitman-Hanson the week before that decided the ACL title. "Give Quincy credit. They're playing good football right now and they

SPORTS

J.J. NIAMKEY (80) prepares to dive into the end zone for the game-winning touchdown as Quincy held off Plymouth North, 21-14, last Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Niamkey, a sophomore, rushed for 101 yards on 12 carries.

It looked as if the Blue Eagles were going to strike for the go-ahead score after traveling to the Quincy 29, but they fumbled a pitch on third and 4 and Quincy took over at its own 33 with 3:34 remaining on the clock.

On the victory march, Niamkey, who recently moved to tailback after starting the season at wideout, carried the ball six times for 56 yards, including back-to-back 16-yard scampers that gave the Presidents a first and goal at the 9. Three plays later, he turned the right corner, outraced a defender and dove into end zone for the ballgame.

"That's a sophomore back there," said Noble, who watched Niamkey rush for 101 yards on 12 carries. "He made a great play at the end of the game. We noticed that we could get outside on them, particularly with the Niamkey kid. He has brought an element of speed to us that we haven't had in a while."

The Blue Eagles fumbled on the opening possession of the game and Quincy recovered at the PN 16. After a penalty pushed them back to the 21, it took just two plays for the Presidents to score. Niamkey picked up 10 yards on an option and senior quarterback Mike Lorenzano followed with an 11-yard gallop up the middle for a 7-0 lead with 7:28 left in the first quarter.

The early score seemed to energize the Presidents. On PN's next series, Quincy line-backer Matt Ramponi and defensive end Steve Ekunseitan sacked quarterback Chris Kirschner for an 11-yard loss on second down. On the next play, Kirschner threw an incomplete pass on a screen, which was ruled a lateral and Quincy recovered the loose ball at the PN 20.

The Blue Eagles received a huge break, however, when Quincy turned the ball over on the first play from scrimmage.

Pinned at its own 10-yard line, PN could only must 14 yards on the ensuing series and was forced to punt the ball.

The Presidents, led by

SHAWN MUNCHBACH (17) drags down Canton's Tim Brouillard (30) for no gain in the second quarter. Quincy's Scott Kelley (28), Tom Shruhan (53) and Brian Keefe (23) are also in pursuit.

Lorenzano, answered with a 7-play, 67-yard drive. With the ball at the PN 43, Lorenzano fired a 17-yard strike to senior wideout Dan Galligan. On third and 1 at the 17, Lorenzano gained 4 yards on a sneak. And then on third and 4 at the 7, he rolled right and zipped a pass to Galligan coming across the middle for a touchdown. Senior Tom Shruhan kicked the first of three extra points for a 14-0 lead.

The Blue Eagles finally had an answer to Quincy's defense on the ensuing series, engineering an 8-play, 72-yard drive, capped by junior Tim Brouillard's 15-yard TD run with 4:56 left in the half.

With the half winding down, Quincy had another great chance to put more points on the board. Ramponi picked off a pass and returned it to the PN 11 with 25 ticks left on the clock. But two plays later the Presidents fumbled and led just 14-7 at the break.

"We hurt ourselves," Noble said. "We fumbled inside our 10-yard line and another just before the half. If we don't do that, the game doesn't have to be exciting as it turned out to be."

The game became exciting after PN scored on its opening possession of the second half thanks to a little trickery. Facing a fourth and 2 at its 36-yard line, PN lined up in punt formation but snapped the ball to the up man, junior Sean Ketterer, who hit Brouillard with 14-yard pass for a first down at midfield.

Two plays later, senior Kyle Lopes plowed up the middle, shook a few tackles and jetted 45 yards into the end zone with 4:37 left in the quarter. Junior Kevin Swiniarski added his second extra point to tie it at 14.

North Quincy Girls' Volleyball Chasing State Title, History

By CHRIS POISSON

There was never any doubt the North Quincy volleyball team would play for the state championship.

And now that it is there, it has a chance to make history.

If the Red Raiders prevail, it will be their fifth state championship, capping off an unprecedented 26-0 season. No team has ever won that many games before. The 1992 squad went 25-0 in its state title run.

North Quincy will play against the winner of Wednesday's Barnstable-Chelmsford match Saturday at 7 p.m. at Assumption Col-

ALL IN A LINE

The inline-6 (straight-6) engine, with its six cylinders arranged in one line, is one of the only naturally balanced engine configurations. It requires no counterbalances to keep the engine from vibrating harshly. An inline engine will not vibrate side-to-side because the pistons never move from side to side. There won't be any up-and-down vibration because the first piston always moves with the last piston in the line. Similarly, the second piston and the second-to-last piston move in tandem, while the middle two pistons move together. Inherent smoothness results from no net vibration in any direction.

gine configuration is, our ASE Certified service technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO will do their part in making sure your car is properly maintained for maximum performance and efficiency. ## Red Raiders Run All Over Canton, 12-0

By CHRIS POISSON

Around this time last year, the North Quincy football team traveled to Canton in hopes of ending a five-game losing streak, but it returned home with a loss and went on to lose the Thanksgiving Day game.

Facing almost the same situation last Saturday afternoon, North Quincy was able to change the outcome this time around.

The Red Raiders blanked winless Canton, 12-0, at Veterans Memorial Stadium, halting a five-game losing skid and providing some momentum before next Thursday's holiday matchup.

Canton, however, is not to be confused with that place in Ohio that enshrines the Hall of Fame. It's simply not the head of its class this season, as they limped into the game having been outscored, 241-20, in eight losses.

"We played well enough to win," said head coach Tony Green. "We have to play a lot better to compete with Quincy. We saw Quincy [Friday night] and we have to play a lot better to beat them."

North Quincy dominated the first half, outgaining Canton, 206-37, in total yards. But it only had a 6-0 lead, thanks to two interceptions and a drive that stalled inside the red zone.

The lone touchdown came on the opening drive when the Red Raiders moved the ball 60 yards, all on the ground, in 10 plays. Senior tailback Pat Bregoli rushed six times for 40 yards, including a 1-yard plunge into end zone with 5:26 left on the clock. The extra point was blocked.

"I'm very pleased," said Green of the opening series. "That was the whole idea. We wanted to grind it out, kill the clock."

Early in the second quarter North Quincy had a chance to put more points on the board. After Bregoli's 46-yard jaunt to the Canton 32, North Quincy was called for pass interference that pushed them back to the 47. Senior quarterback Dennis Thomson answered with a 28-yard completion to senior Gary Dalton for a first down at the 19. But North Quincy was called for holding and on the next play Canton's Ensley Cotard intercepted a pass to end the threat.

Canton, though, immediately fumbled on the ensuing possession. The Red Raiders seemed in position to score after senior Chris Dolbear's 11-yard run put them at the Canton 9. But they were called for a personal foul after the play and faced a first and goal from the 24. The eventually turned the ball over downs.

In the second half, North Quincy's defense held the Bulldogs to 86 yards in offense, picking off two passes, forcing a three-and-out and recovering a fumble.

Late in the third quarter, Bregoli re-aggravated his ankle injury and left the game. He finished the day with 138 yards on 22 carries, with 125 yards coming in the first half.

Bregoli's counterpart, Dolbear (62 yards), and his replacement, junior Ryan Farnham (63 yards) picked up the slack.

"We ran the ball well," said Green, whose watched his team rush for nearly 300 yards. "Our line played well. Chris Dolbear always runs hard. Bregoli was good until he tweaked his ankle again. Farnham came in and he ran well. I'm hoping by next week all these people that take turns getting hurt will all be healthy at once."

North Quincy cemented the win on Farnham's 4-yard TD scamper with 1:35 left in the game. The 2-point rush failed.

Canton threatened to score on its final drive. Sophomore quarterback Paul Amicangelo caught fire, completing three passes for 57 yards, but the Bulldogs would fumble at the NQ 12 and the Red Raiders recovered.

"They don't have a bad offense," Green said. "They need a few more skilled players but their offense is nice. I think they're going to be very good in the future. They're a young team."

"The regular season is over and now we get to the second season. Quincy vs. North. It should be interesting."

lege in Worcester. "It's a bit premature because we haven't won the big one yet," said head coach James Rendle about where this team ranks in school history. "But this team has a chance to do something that no other team in Quincy, at either school, has done before."

After breezing through the regular season, the Hancock Street juggernaut remained perfect in the Division I Central tournament by sweeping all three of its matches.

On Monday, the Red Raiders cruised past Boston

Latin, 15-9, 15-5, 15-6, in Milford for their 10th sectional championship in the last 14 years. Last year it lost to Newton North in the sectional championship.

"Boston Latin had a tough serve and they were a good defensive team," Rendle said. "We kind of overpowered them at the net. Our offense was superior."

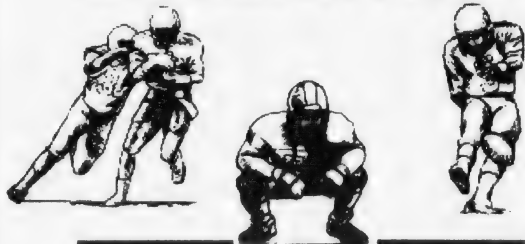

Juniors Makini Thompson (11 kills), Krystle Neves (8 kills), Kristen DiMattio (7 kills) and Kathleen McCarthy (18 assists) powered the offense. Juniors Shannon Desmond (19 digs) and Julia McGunigle (18 digs) and senior captain Beth Houghton (16 digs) anchored the defense.

After knocking off Franklin in the first round, North Quincy defeated Cambridge Rindge & Latin, the Greater Boston League champs, 15-4, 15-2, 15-5, last Thursday in the semifinal.

Thompson led the attack with 10 kills, seven digs, two blocks and two aces. Neves added seven kills and two blocks. McGunigle (23 digs), DiMattio (21 digs), Desmond (15 digs) and Houghton (6 digs, 2 aces) also turned in strong performances.

Apaches Bow In Championship

YOUTH FOOTBALL

Andy Tsanotellis rushed for two touchdowns to lead the Milton Mustangs to a 14-0 win over the North Quincy Apaches to capture the Quincy Youth Football championship Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Mustangs defeated the Houghs Neck Manets and the Apaches knocked off the Quincy Point Panthers in the semifinals to reach the title game.

In that game, honorary captain Mike Regan, the Apaches' top receiver and linebacker, was injured and did not play in the championship. North Quincy was also without the services of end Jonathan Eaton.

"Mike Regan was an essential part of our team and was sorely missed on Sunday," said head coach Doug Henderson.

The Apaches received a huge break when the Mustangs fumbled on their first play from scrimmage and an alert Terrance Sibley recovered for North Quincy. After driving to the Milton 25 on big runs by Kyle Costa, the offense stalled as a costly penalty put them in a fourth-and-long situation.

The Mustangs attacked the middle of the Apaches' defense and drove downfield, as Tsanotellis picked up several first downs. Near the end of the quarter, he scampered 4 yards into the end zone to give the Mustangs a 6-0 lead. After a scoreless second quarter, the Apaches fumbled the second-half kickoff and the Mustangs recovered at the NQ 40. The defense dug in, led by Costa, Zach Reilly, Chris Garvey and Akil Benjamin, who recorded a huge sack to push the Mustangs back.

But on fourth and 9, Milton completed the pass for a first down to keep the drive alive. As the clock ticked down in the quarter, Milton methodically punched holes in the Apache's defense for big plays, eventually scoring and adding the 2-point conversion for a 14-0 lead.

In the fourth quarter, North Quincy reached midfield after quarterback Mike O'Mahony's long pass to Sibley. With a tough wind hampering their passing game, the Apaches offense tried to march downfield but they were unsuccessful and turned the ball over on downs. Milton ran out the clock to seal the win.

"Coach Jim Marinelli did an outstanding job with our defense, led by tri-captains Kyle Costa, Zach Reilly and Akil Benjamin," Henderson said. "Benjamin played his best game of the year. However, we couldn't get anything going offensively and the wind took us out of our game."

Also leading the defense were O'Mahony (fumble recovery), Mark Cugini and Nick Gizzarelli with strong line play. John Benoit played a strong two-way game at linebacker and guard, while Costa ran the ball effectively.

Wide receiver Kevin Donovan, linebacker Sean McBrien and linemen John Ridge and Tom Henry also saw action.

New Research, Additional Support Help Alzheimer's Sufferers And Their Families

Within the next 50 years the number of people suffering from Alzheimer's disease and other progressive degenerative diseases of the brain is expected to grow from the current 4 million to 14 million.

In years past, a diagnosis of Alzheimer's offered little or no hope for treatment. And for families of sufferers, information and support resources were diffused among a number of organizations with a few direct links.

However, today, ongoing medical research and a growing network of support services present a brighter future.

Medical Advances

Scientists are following a number of exciting trails toward new treatments and preventive measures for Alzheimer's. One of the most recent developments has been in the area of nerve growth drugs.

"Until recently researchers thought that it was impossible to chemically induce new connections between brain cells," said Paul Raia, Ph.D., director of patient care and family support for the Alzheimer's Association, Massachusetts Chapter.

"However, several drugs that may cause brain cells to form new branches to other brain cells are being investigated."

This may enable information to be rerouted around damaged areas of the brain.

"This could be most beneficial to early stage Alzheimer's sufferers," Dr. Raia added.

Other drugs being studied include the following:

- Compounds that increase the amount of natural substances that help prevent short-term memory loss.

- Anti-inflammatory drugs that reduce swelling of brain tissue associated with the formation of protein or "plaques" within the brain.

- Drugs that inhibit the secretion of an enzyme that promotes the development of plaques.

- Two substances that are believed to maintain or enhance the strength of the signals from one brain cell to another.

Studies are also being conducted on a vaccine for people who have known genetic risks for Alzheimer's or who may have already been diagnosed with the disease. The vaccine helps prevent the build-up of plaques on brain cells by promoting the body's immune system to remove the plaques or prevent their formation. Trials of the vaccine are currently underway on a small group of people.

Recognizing the Symptoms

While the search for a cure or a vaccine for Alzheimer's continues, researchers and physicians agree that early diagnosis remains essential to maintaining the quality of life for both sufferers and caregivers.

Some of the early warning signs for Alzheimer's may include the following:

- Memory loss affecting job skills.

- Difficulty performing familiar tasks.

- Problems with language.

- Disorientation to time and place.

- Problems with abstract thinking.

- Misplacing things.

Janet Jankowiak, M.D., vice chair of the Massachusetts Medical Society's Committee on Geriatrics, said that while we tend to think of many of these symptoms as a part of growing old, that need not be the case.

"Don't assume that just because a person is aging that a reduction in cognitive skills is ordinary," she warned. "Get a doctor immediately if you recognize the symptoms."

Support for Caregivers

According to the Alzheimer's Association, more than 70 percent of the 100,000 Massachusetts residents suffering from Alzheimer's live at home with the majority of their care provided by family members. The typical primary caregiver is a female in her 70s. One-third of these caregivers will die before the person that they are caring for dies.

"Providing care is extremely stressful and all-consuming," Dr. Jankowiak said. "They (caregivers) need to be taken care of, too. They need to maintain their friendships, community activities and physical exercise."

For many years, family members seeking information on how to best care for loved ones with Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia had to develop their own network of services to meet these needs.

Now, the Alzheimer's Association, Massachusetts Chapter, has established a help line that is staffed with professionals and operates Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., to provide information to Alzheimer's sufferers, family friends and caregivers. The help line number is 617-868-6718 or 800-548-2111. Callers can receive information for services, including adult day health programs, home care agencies, assisted living, nursing homes and more.

Dr. Jankowiak recommends two Internet sites for Alzheimer's sufferers and those looking for more information on the disease as well as available services. They are the Alzheimer's Association, Massachusetts Chapter (www.alzmass.org) and the American Academy of Neurology (www.aan.com).

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

How young a person are you? Are you a tired 30 year-old or a vibrant 70 year-old? A wise person once said that age is not measured by years. Nature does not equally distribute energy. Some people are born old and tired while others are going strong at 70...

"Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind; it is the temper of the will; a quality of the imagination; a vigor of the emotions; a predominance of courage over timidity. Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear, and despair are the long, long years of aging. Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the sweet amazement at the stars and the star-like things and thoughts, the unfulfilling child-like appetite for what is next, and the joy and the game of life. You are as young as your hope, as old as your despair. So long as your heart receives messages of beauty, cheer, courage, grandeur and power from the earth, from man and from the Infinite, so long you are young."*

49% Voter Turnout Kids Give Phelan Wider Margin

By LANCE MORGANELLI
The 2001 Kids Voting Election saw Quincy students agree with their parents by choosing William Phelan as the city's new mayor but give Phelan a larger margin of victory than did their adult counterparts.

The official Kids Voting results placed Mayor James Sheets at 2,045 and Phelan at 2,238, giving Phelan the edge by 193 votes.

Phelan also won the mayor's seat in the actual city election but by a considerably smaller margin of 15 votes.

Out of 10,000 registered student voters in grades Kindergarten through 12, 4,522 voted -- a voter turnout of approximately 45 percent.

Kids Voting Coordinator and Quincy School Community Partnership Executive Director Arthur Keough said the goal this year was to achieve a 60 percent turnout.

"Our target (age group) was the middle schools," Keough said in regards to which grades needed improvement in turnout from last year. "Hopefully, more middle school students will vote this year."

The Kids Voting councillor at-large results gave the three available seats to Timothy Cahill, who topped the ticket with 2,272 votes, followed by John Keenan at 2,088 votes and Jimmy Liang with 1,827 votes.

The actual city election yielded those seats to Cahill, Joseph Finn, and Frank Immediately following the parade, the Band and Float Awards Ceremony will take place at the North Quincy High School Auditorium.

The theme of this year's parade is "Christmas in Our Home Town."

Eugene Creedon, retired Superintendent of Quincy Public Schools, will be Parade Grand Marshal. Creedon, who served Quincy schools for more than 35 years, is being recognized for his "outstanding career and achievements in the field of education."

Also riding in the parade will be Seven Maccini of Braintree, who submitted the winning theme for the parade, accompanied by his wife and son. Winners of the public school poster contest will also take part in the parade.

Top Philadelphia 'String Band' At This Year's Christmas Parade

A new crowd-pleasing unit in the 49th annual Quincy Christmas Parade will be the Joseph A. Ferko String Band, a Philadelphia "String Band" which has been entertaining audiences worldwide for over 80 years and is coming to Quincy under the sponsorship of the South Shore Savings Bank.

The band, which has performed throughout the U.S., Canada, Europe and Asia, blends an array of musical presentations with smooth melodic harmonies and a cavalcade of elaborate costumes.

Philadelphia String Bands are unique because of the combination of instruments used as well as the interplay of music and dance.

The Joseph A. Ferko String Band has placed within the top five positions 70 times in the Philadelphia Mummers Parade with as many as 27 bands competing and has long been regarded as "the best of the best."

The Ferko Band was formed in 1922 by Joseph A. Ferko who was a leading figure in String Bands of Philadelphia, having marched and even been captain of other bands prior to forming his own.

The band has been described as "mummery at its best" and boasts a 1957 hit song "Alabama Jubilee," which reached number one in America that year, as well as other hits such as "Four Leaf Clover" and "Baby Face."

Mummery is a longtime tradition in Philadelphia and the famous Mummers Parade on New Year's Day dates back to pre-Colonial times.

Christmas Lighting Friday Night

The holiday season officially begins in Quincy Friday with the turning on of lights on Constitution Common in front of City Hall.

The lights will be switched on in front of First Parish Church, across the street, at 8 p.m.

Prior to the lighting ceremony, there will be a children's program beginning at 6:50 p.m. featuring a Christmas program for children and Donna Marie and Friends puppet show. Costumed characters will distribute candy canes to the youngsters starting at 6:30 p.m.

Officials and winners of the elementary schools' Christmas poster contest will be introduced at 7:15 p.m. The winning contest posters will be displayed in the windows of The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St.

A Quincy public school Select Choral Group will present Christmas season music at 7:35 p.m., concluding with a sing-a-long.

Santa himself will make a brief visit between 7:55 and 8 p.m.

In the event of inclement weather, the lighting ceremony will be held at Presidents Place Galleria, Hancock St., across from First Parish Church.

Widens Win Margin To 24 With 21 Precincts to Go In Recount Phelan Gains 9 Votes In First 9 Precincts

By CRAIG SALTERS

With nine of the city's 30 precincts having been recounted as of Monday night, Mayor-Elect William Phelan showed a net gain of nine votes over Mayor James Sheets.

Added to Phelan's 15-vote margin of victory Nov. 6, the spread between the two candidates was now 24 votes in Phelan's favor.

Election workers began the recount 9 a.m. Monday morning and managed to recount all five precincts in Ward 1 and the first four precincts of Ward 2 before stopping around 7:30 p.m.

As The Quincy Sun went to press Monday evening with an early deadline due to the Thanksgiving holiday, the recount was scheduled to begin again Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. with Ward 2, Precinct 5.

Election officials were confident the remaining 21 precincts could be recounted by Tuesday.

Election officials, as well as those in Phelan's own camp, emphasized that Phelan's nine vote gain was good news for Phelan but in no way indicated a trend, explaining that Phelan had performed very well in the recounted precincts on Nov. 6 and had been expected to pick up votes in those areas.

In general, the first nine recounted precincts saw Phelan pick up votes in areas where he was strongest and Sheets pick up votes in areas where he was strongest, meaning that the partially completed recount is still much too close to call.

The second floor conference room of City Hall was hot and crowded all day Monday with the activity of election officials, registrars, vote counters, partisan observers, talliers, and attorneys for both sides. There were two counters, two talliers, and an observer from each camp at each of the eight tables set up in the room as ballots were tallied in groups of 50 for much of the day.

The vast majority of votes went unchallenged. However, when a ballot looked questionable, an ob-

Voltaire, the French philosopher, writer, and historian, was born in Paris in 1694. He became a leading thinker of the Enlightenment and lived to the ripe old age of 83.

On Nov. 21, 1694, Francois-Marie Arouet, later known as Voltaire, is born in Paris. Of note, his epic poem "La Henriade," a satirical attack on politics and religion, infuriated the government and landed Voltaire in the Bastille for nearly a year in 1717.

On Nov. 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy is assassinated in Dallas. Three bullets allegedly were fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, fatally wounding Kennedy and injuring Texas Gov. John Connally. Kennedy was pronounced dead 30 minutes later. He was 46.

On Nov. 24, 1971, a hijacker who identified himself as Dan Cooper parachutes from a 727 airliner over Washington state with $200,000 in ransom. No trace of Cooper was found.

On Nov. 19, 1977, in an unprecedented move for an Arab leader, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat travels to Jerusalem to seek a permanent peace settlement with Israel after decades of conflict. Sadat was assassinated in 1981 by Muslim extremists.

On Nov. 23, 1979, Thomas McMahon, a member of the Irish Republican Army is sentenced to life imprisonment in Dublin, Ireland, for his responsibility in several bombing deaths. In 1998, he was freed as part of a peace accord that approved the release of more than 400 convicted members of Irish paramilitary groups.

On Nov. 25, 1999, the United Nations General Assembly passes a resolution designating Nov. 25 the International Day to Eliminate Violence Against Women.

Other Close Mayoral Elections

Quincy's history of close mayoral elections is long and varied. In 1892, Henry Fairbanks edged William Hodges by 24 votes -- 1,508 to 1,484.

But, if a few votes were to shift here and there during the recount, the closest-in-history title could possibly shift with them to a long ago election. That would be the one back in 1892 when Henry Fairbanks edged William Hodges by 24 votes -- 1,508 to 1,484.

In those days, the city elections were partisan and the mayor terms were one year. Fairbanks was a Republican and Hodges a Democrat. Hodges, who won the mayor's office over James Thompson (by 361 votes) a year later found himself in another tight one in 1894.

He fended off a challenge from Republican Stephen Moxon by just 28 votes, 1,576 to 1,548. Those 24 and 28 vote victories by Fairbanks and Hodges stand as the closest to the results of this past election night.

And there have been other pretty close ones. Among them: Democrat Harrison Keith by 45 votes over Republican Russell Sears in 1898. Fairbanks by 61 votes over Hodges in 1891. And Fairbanks by 65 votes over Democrat Jason Whitham in 1890.

As the city grew in population and the number of registered voters increased, the victory margins in mayoral contests widened.

In 1922 Gustave Bates defeated William Bradford by 429 votes when the elections had become non-partisan and the mayor terms two years. The number of voters casting ballots was up to 12,833.

'Diabetes Awareness' At QMC

Quincy Medical Center is offering a free "Diabetes Awareness" program as part of the medical center's series of Health Awareness Talks Thursday, Nov. 29.

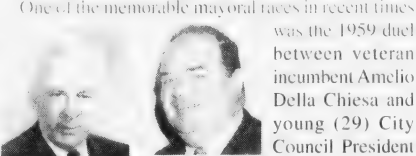

The program will be presented by Jeanned'arc Karam, QMC clinical dietitian, at 5 p.m. in the Crossroads Cafe on the first floor.

The symptoms of diabetes, the latest treatments for the disease and how best to prevent diabetes will be discussed.

A discounted dinner will be provided to all senior citizens who attend as part of QMC's Thursday Night Senior Dinner Program.

Quincy's history of close mayoral elections is long and varied. In 1892, Henry Fairbanks edged William Hodges by 24 votes -- 1,508 to 1,484.

But, if a few votes were to shift here and there during the recount, the closest-in-history title could possibly shift with them to a long ago election. That would be the one back in 1892 when Henry Fairbanks edged William Hodges by 24 votes -- 1,508 to 1,484.

Della Chiesa came out a 2,117-vote winner. It was an election that really generated voter interest. Some 33,355 of the city's then 44,173 registered voters -- 75.5 percent -- cast ballots.

This year's 47 percent turnout pales in comparison. Joseph LaRaia has the distinction of figuring in two of the closest and two of the widest margin mayoral elections in recent years.

McIntyre and LaRaia were the contenders when Della Chiesa decided not to seek re-election in 1965. McIntyre piled up a vote of 22,034 to LaRaia's 7,713 for a victory margin of 14,321.

McIntyre's vote was the highest of any candidate in the city's history and his victory margin the second biggest ever. Second to his 15,607 vote win over Harold Nannis in 1967.

LaRaia came back in the famous recount election of 1975.

On election night -- after a slugfest campaign -- incumbent Walter Hannon went home a third-term winner by a slim 134 votes -- 17,060 to 16,926.

But a recount determined LaRaia was the actual winner by 483 votes -- 17,231 to 16,748.

Two years later, LaRaia lost the mayor's office to Council President Arthur Tobin by 5,050 votes in another bitter campaign.

In 1987, he threw a scare into incumbent Frank McCauley, coming within 460 votes of an upset win and what would have been a triumphant return to the mayor's office.

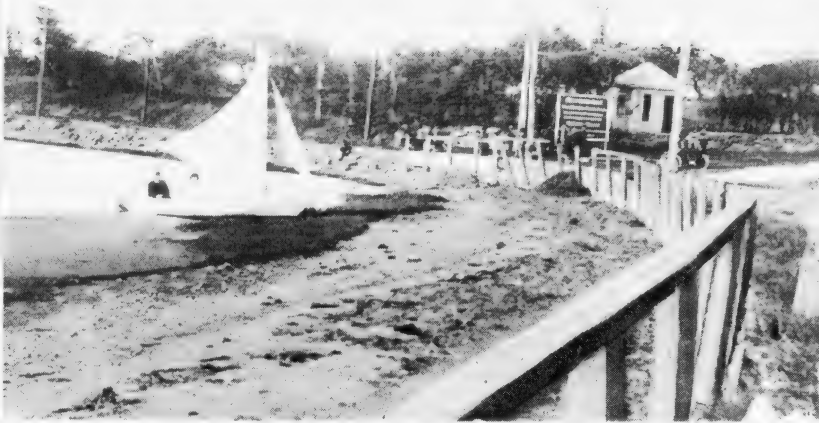

The Sheets-Phelan election could be the most remembered of them all.

SQUANTUM MASS

THIS 1911 POSTCARD is a view of the north shore of East Squantum Street, and as it veers to the left, Dorchester Street in Squantum. The Nelson Building is today on the site of the for-sale sign and small building on the right. Nelson was the sales agent for 914 house lots created by subdividing the 100-acre Lillie Titus estate on the north side of Squantum. Few of the lots were over 5,000 square feet and many, if not most, were well under 4,000 sq. ft. They were sold to people building year-round homes. The larger lots in Squantum, most facing south to Quincy Bay, were from other estates, and were mostly set aside for summer homes.

Backs City-Wide All-Day Kindergarten

On Oct. 25-16, I had an opportunity to substitute teach at Quincy High School and at the Center for Technical Education. Up until then, I had limited my subbing to middle schools but after the experience I was glad to have seen how well our public school system serves all its grades. At Quincy High and at the vo-tech, I saw students wanting to learn and teachers wanting to teach them.

Some of our schools may be inferior. Some of our schoolbooks may be inferior but our kids aren't inferior. I spent a day in the woodworking shop and saw kids taking pride in the work they were creating. I had lunch at the Three Seasons restaurant which is a part of the school's culinary arts program. The students prepare the food, serve it and sell it at the best price for a meal on the South Shore.

It was a learning experience for me as it has been for over two and a half years now subbing inside Quincy's public schools.

Jumping from high school to kindergarten, I was glad to see that the school committee is quite serious about getting all-day kindergarten system-wide across the city rather than just at a few school sites. All children would surely benefit from a full day of it rather than the half-day program most of our kids get right now. Hey, I know it will cost more money but educating our children in kindergarten means they will be more prepared to move through their school years. Kindergarten is the foundation upon which their school years will rise or fall.

It is amazing that in the 21st century, kindergarten is not yet mandatory. Early childhood education is more than day care, it is preparing children for their futures.

Hopefully, Quincy will in the near future adopt a citywide full-day kindergarten program available to all parents in every neighborhood of this city.

Rather than say you can't do something, find the way to do it. The Quincy School Committee needs to make this a number one priority.

Feels McCauley Should Remain Finance Committee Chairman

The "Sunbeams" column of Nov. 15 speculated that the presumptive new president of the Quincy City Council, Dan Raymondi, will oust Frank McCauley as chairman of the Council finance committee and replace him with one of Raymondi's "loyal supporters for the presidency" (McCauley having entertained the idea of competing for the presidency himself).

Dan Raymondi is a shrewd politician, but he is also a sensible and dedicated public servant. He has the sagacity to know McCauley is the best chairman the finance committee could have. Frank McCauley knows more about Quincy municipal finances than anyone in or out of city government.

McCauley is also the most conscientious chairman the committee could have. Every year he produces an estimated revenue stream at budget time. Would (or could) anyone else on the Council do that? I think not. It would be a mistake to replace him. We all make mistakes, but here's hoping Dan Raymondi doesn't make that one.

Goal Of 'Smokeout' Has Been Twisted

It used to be that the Great American Smokeout was a friendly gathering of smokers helping smokers. Now, after reading your article, it seems that the Great American Smokeout is being twisted into some kind of political rally with a central theme of "get the smokers!"

But I never thought that the anti-smoking brigade would stoop so low as to equate their outrageous intolerance as being something "patriotic."

Quincy's Yesterdays Mothers Petition To Re-Open Washington School

By PAUL HAROLD

A group of Quincy Point mothers appeared at the city council meeting asking plans to use the closed Washington School for housing be rejected and instead the school be re-opened.

Nov. 22 - 28
53 Years Ago

Mrs. Robert Allison and Mrs. Stewart Sherriff and others presented a petition signed by 250 residents urging the school, closed for seven years, be put back into use. They argued the mile and a half walk from the lower Point to the Pollard School on the Southern Artery was too far and too dangerous a walk for elementary school students.

The school committee had already voted to abandon the school for school uses and the fate of the building was up to the city council.

GROSSMAN COMPANY OFFERS TO BUILD PARKING GARAGES

Reuben Grossman told Mayor Charles Ross his company would build parking garages in downtown on city-owned land at no cost to the city for the "underground rights" to the property for 99 years. Grossman said he would use the "underground rights" to build garages and storage areas.

Mayor Ross said the idea merited serious study but didn't want this proposal to interfere with already announced plans for parking expansion.

FERRAZZI TALKS ABOUT CITY'S TRAFFIC

Captain William Ferrazzi, head of the police department traffic bureau, told the Probus Club meeting at the Oar and Anchor Restaurant, that traffic was the nation's number one problem. He said Quincy was suffering from growing pains and that the congestion could hurt business unless additional parking was built downtown.

He said he favored the proposed rotary design for Quincy Square (near city hall) as an efficient way to control traffic flow.

Presiding at the meeting was Probus Club President Henry Cutler.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Ross proposed a Memorial Wall to be built through the middle of the municipal parking area with the World War I "doughboy" statue at one end and a World War II memorial at the other. He asked the Quincy Veterans' Council for their approval and appointed a committee that included William Keefe and James Ricciuti. . . City Clerk Hattiemay Thomas said by raising the top liquor license fees the city could increase its revenues by $10,000 annually. The fee for drug store licenses would remain the same. . . Wollaston Lutheran Church announced that when the mortgage was burned for the kindergarten they planned to expand by building on top of the present basement structure. R. L. Stimmer, chairman of the building committee, said the expansion plans had been worked on for 14 years. Rev. Elmer Kettner was pastor. . . The "Pony Express" was the new newspaper at Quincy High School. . . Mary Papile was the chairman of the Ladies Waltz Night at the Torre dei Passeri. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Solmonte were winners in the dance contest. . . After a three-year campaign, the city's new $1,500 city dog pound opened. Dog Officer Francis Sweeney said the new pound compared favorably with any blue ribbon kennel. A seven-foot high fence was installed around the building to discourage the abandoning of pets, a frequent occurrence at the old facility. . . Quincy's "big three" Munroe MacLean and assistant coaches Bill Sullivan and Russ Rayner, conferred before the annual game against North Quincy High School. . . A daughter was born at Quincy City Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wood of Quincy Ave. . . City Councillor Edna Austin was chairman of a committee to establish a Women's Council of Churches in Quincy. . . Rev. Isaac Higginbotham, pastor of Wollaston Baptist Church, was re-elected president of the Massachusetts Council of Churches. . . Kent Ogilvie replaced Jerry Spataro as Commandant of the William Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League. . . Mrs. Marguerite Spillane was chairman of the Adams Shore Community Council's bard dance. . . The bodies of Sgt. James Ryan and his brother Sgt. Richard Ryan, Jr., arrived at the Quincy railroad depot to be transported for a funeral at St. Ann's. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ryan, Sr. of Hummock Rd. They were killed in Italy while serving in the 10th Mountain Division. . . Robert McPherson married Kenneth Dunbar. Lillian D'Olympio married Larry Frachitto.

Impact Quincy To Present 'Community Hero Award' Dec. 7

Impact Quincy, a program of Bay State Community Services, will hold its Community Hero Award ceremony Friday, Dec. 7, from noon to 2 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

The award is issued to outstanding members or groups of the local community for their dedication to the reduction of substance abuse and underage drinking in Quincy.

It is offered annually and is a result of nominations by other members of the community. Impact Quincy will provide refreshments.

"The importance of this event is difficult to overestimate," said Lilly Michnik, program director Impact Quincy. "This is a pure example of a celebration of outstanding members of our community."

The 2001 recipients are: Eugene Crendon, recently retired superintendent Quincy Public Schools; M. Jane Gallahue, commissioner Quincy Public Health Department; Cristina Brown, director Quincy Mental Health; Peer Leaders, Blue Hills Tobacco Youth Action Alliance; John Franceschini, head of physical education and health department Quincy Public Schools; Linda Stice, director Quincy's Commission on the Family; Barbara Fenby, health teacher Broad Meadows Middle School; Michael Morris, former director of community corrections Norfolk County Sheriff's Department; Leonard Mikulski, director "Right Turn"; and Kristen Scanlan, district coordinator Norfolk County District Attorney's Office.

"These people are community activists and leaders who truly care about our community, and work well with all segments of the population," Michnik said. "They keep an outstanding initiative in all their endeavors, and are committed to the goals and mission of Impact Quincy."

"The youth group nominated for this award worked hard through the last year to set an example to others and to show adults and teenagers alike that it is possible to have fun without tobacco and other drugs. This group participated in public hearings in Boston, and currently educates Quincy teens around tobacco-related issues."

Friends Of Library Meeting Nov. 28

Patrons and supporters of The Thomas Crane Public Library are invited to an organizational meeting of the Friends of the Library Wednesday, Nov. 28 at 7 p.m. in the third floor meeting room of the main library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Friends of the Library are groups of citizens who support, promote, and improve the work of their local libraries.

"With the completion of the magnificent addition and the restoration of the Richardson Building, we would like to rejuvenate the Friends groups," said Mary Weaver, chairwoman of the Board of Trustees.

Goals are to develop community fund raising activities and increase the public's awareness of the library's resources. The addition has meant more space for books and materials and greatly expanded the number of computer terminals. Efforts of the Friends would help the library buy more books and materials, expand programs, and offset the burgeoning costs of computer technology.

No Parachute Jump, Will Arrive By Fire Engine Santa Grounded By New FAA Regulations

A decades-old tradition will come to an end Saturday at 12:30 p.m. when Santa Claus and his elves arrive at Faxon Field via his favorite engine of the Quincy Fire Department and not his traditional parachute jump.

Due to a Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) regulation adopted following the events of Sept. 11, the use of "air space" within a 15-mile radius of a metropolitan airport -- in this case, Boston's Logan International Airport -- for non-regularly scheduled commercial flights is restricted.

"The Christmas Festival Committee readily understands the reason for this regulation and recognizes this policy to be in the interest of public safety," said George White, general chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee. "The Christmas Festival Committee is committed to conducting this very positive community activity, adapting to the new regulations.

"This is an event to get into the spirit of the Christmas season ahead."

Under the new schedule, Santa Claus and four of his elves will arrive via fire engine Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at Faxon Field, which is located diagonally across from the Quincy Police Department headquarters at the intersection of Coddington St. and Southern Artery, directly behind the Center for Technical Education.

Santa and his elves will also be accompanied by 13 costumed characters who will pass out candy canes to all of the children at Faxon Field. There will be appropriate holiday season music to add to the festivities.

Santa and the characters will then climb aboard the fire engine and ride through the Quincy Center business area.

The 49th annual Quincy Christmas Parade will take place the following day, also beginning at 12:30 p.m.

DENTISTRY
for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

A PARTIAL SOLUTION

If you are missing teeth and so not have enough remaining (or properly positioned) teeth for a bridge, or sufficient bone for implants, a removable partial denture should be considered to replace the missing teeth. Partial dentures are composed of a cast metal base with clasping metal "arms," which hold the denture in place. Pink plastic is baked over the metal to lend the appearance of gum tissue. Porcelain teeth are set into the pink gum plastic to replace the missing teeth. The base of the partial denture rests lightly on gum tissue, which will change over time. To ensure a proper fit, therefore, it is necessary to visit the dentist at regular intervals to modify the denture base.

Missing teeth can also affect the way you chew and speak.

Your appearance, dental health, and the proper functioning of your mouth are all important reasons for wearing a bridge. Call us at 617-479-6220 if you have questions about your dental health. We provide a wide range of innovative dental services specifically tailored to the needs and wants of our patients. At all times, our focus is on you and what you want from dentistry. Ultimately, you manage your own oral health. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com

P.S. Partial dentures are like stars. They come out at night to give natural teeth and gums time to rest.

Biological Threats Ward 4 Seminar Topic Nov. 29

The Ward 4 Neighborhood Association has invited an array of experts to consider possible biological threats at a seminar Thursday, Nov. 29, at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Neighborhood Center, 100 Brooks Ave.

The expert professionals will discuss preventative means and response of potential biological attacks by terrorists. They include:

Edward Brown, vice president of General Services for Quincy Medical Center and overseers of the QMC's Environmental Services and Property

Services and Security Departments.

Anthony Siciliano, the city's deputy director and currently acting director of Emergency Management.

Lt. William Phelan of the Quincy Fire Department, who is also the Hazardous Material Removal Specialist for the city.

Robert Cannon, communication manager for the U. S. Postal Service.

Mrs. Jane Sheehan, a training specialist with the American Red Cross.

Their presentation will include such subjects as cautionary procedures for opening mail, an overview of Quincy's efforts to prepare for possible biological threats and the role of individuals and agencies in response to emergencies.

After the presentation, panelists will be available to answer questions.

"The association feels very fortunate to have these experts available for what promises to be an important and timely presentation," said Thomas A. Fabrizio, president of the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association.

Questions should be directed to the association at 617-786-0696.

Friends Of Library Organizational Meeting Nov. 28

Patrons and supporters of the Thomas Crane Public Library are invited to an organizational meeting of the Friends of the Library Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 7 p.m. in the third floor meeting room of the main library, 40 Washington St.

Friends of the Library are citizens who support, promote and improve the work of their local libraries.

"With the completion of the magnificent addition and the restoration of the Richardson Building, we would like to rejuvenate the Friends groups," said Mary Weafer, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Goals are to develop community fund-raising activities and increase the public's awareness of the library's resources. The addition has meant more space for books and materials and greatly expanded the number of computer terminals. Efforts of the Friends would help the library buy more books and materials, expend programs and offset the burgeoning costs of computer technology.

Library supporter are encouraged to attend the Nov. 28 meeting.

LEAD PAINT HAZARD CONTROL GRANTS & LOANS

If your house was built before 1978 and if you have children under six, they may be exposed to lead paint poisoning that can result in serious permanent learning, behavioral and physical disorders. To remove these threats, grants and low-interest loans are now available for lead hazard control and related renovation in owner-occupied and rental units. You may get energy efficient windows, new doors or sidings too. If the household income of the homeowner or rental unit is at or below the following (as of 3/29/01):

| HOUSEHOLD SIZE (person) | HOUSEHOLD INCOME |
|-------------------------|------------------|
| 1                       | $36,750         |
| 2                       | $42,000         |
| 3                       | $47,250         |
| 4                       | $52,500         |
| 5                       | $56,700         |
| 6                       | $60,900         |

If your household income exceeds these limits, you may still qualify under the City's MHFA program:

HOUSEHOLD

| Size        | Income   |
|-------------|----------|
| 1-2 persons | $77,000 |
| 3 or more   | $87,500 |

Then, the unit may be eligible to obtain the following benefits from the City of Quincy's Lead Hazard Control program:

- > Grant of $10,000 or 50% of the lead hazard control cost, whichever is lower;
- > 0% or low interest loan for the remaining costs;
- > Additional grants and loans for related rehabilitation work (CDBG and MHFA);
- > No application fees or closing costs;
- > Earn $1,500 state tax credit;
- > Save $ on energy costs with new windows;
- > Increase property values;
- > FREE work specification services - to ensure that contractors will give you quotes for the same work and materials;
- > FREE assistance in finding contractors and preparing the contractor agreement - to help you find qualified contractors and specify the scope of work;
- > FREE construction supervision - to ensure that the work is done according to your approved work specifications.

The Lead Paint Safety Initiative

The Quincy-Weymouth Lead Paint Safety Initiative (LPSI) is a joint effort by the City of Quincy, the Town of Weymouth and Neighborhood Housing Services to protect children from the dangers of lead poisoning through education and outreach, free blood screenings and professional deleading services.

What is Lead Poisoning?

Lead poisoning can occur in several ways, but most commonly through breathing or eating lead contaminated dust, paint chips and soil. Without knowing better children can all-too-easily ingest lead dust

What Can Lead Poisoning do to Kids?

High levels of lead in children's blood can produce permanent nervous system damage. Research also shows that even low levels of lead can result in:

- ♦ Reading and learning disabilities
- ♦ Speech and language handicaps
- ♦ Hearing problems
- ♦ Lowered I.Q.
- ♦ Behavior problems

Is Your Child Lead-Safe?

Don't be too quick to answer, "yes." Consider this: the effects of lead poisoning are often invisible. In fact, these symptoms may result from a disorder or illness other than lead poisoning. The only way to be certain is through blood testing.

Symptoms include:

- ♦ Slower than normal development
- ♦ Behavior problems
- ♦ Short attention span
- ♦ Restlessness
- ♦ Tiredness, poor appetite, or stomach

QCAP Awarded $10,500 To Promote Fair Housing, Homeownership

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) is one of only three Massachusetts housing counseling agencies to receive an award under the US Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) annual competitive grant process.

In total, HUD awarded $17.5 million in housing counseling grants nationwide to 11 regional intermediary agencies and 358 local and state housing counseling agencies.

The $10,500 award enables QCAP Housing staff to provide housing counseling services to current homeowners, prospective buyers, or renters needed to improve their housing conditions and prepare them to be responsible owners and renters. Through high quality renter and homeowner education, QCAP prepares families to make better, more informed home purchases; improves their ability to budget for needed housing expenses; and makes the lending process less confusing.

"This is another example of HUD working with non-profit groups and the housing industry to increase homeownership across the nation," said HUD Secretary Mel Martinez. "These grants will help take the uncertainty out of homeownership for thousands of Americans, allowing them to take part in the American dream and own a home."

Through individual counseling and First Time Homebuyer education workshops, QCAP offers consumers advice and guidance on a wide variety of housing topics, ranging from providing information on all stages of the home buying process, such as financing options and recognizing and avoiding predatory lending tactics, to personal budgeting and credit repair. In addition, QCAP offers mortgage default counseling to prevent foreclosure, education for tenants about fair housing rights and meeting the responsibilities of tenancy, and assistance to homeowners in obtaining home equity conversion mortgages, lead abatement, and home improvement loans.

Participants successfully completing QCAP's MassHousing and HUD certified homebuyer workshop may be eligible for downpayment assistance from QCAP and mortgage options offered through the MassHousing (formerly MHFA), other financial institutions, local cities and towns, and nonprofit organizations.

"We are honored to receive HUD's continued funding commitment and recognition of our Housing Program," said Trish Appert, QCAP's housing program director. "The award is important in that it speaks to the quality of our services and allows us to continue providing vitally needed housing assistance, which includes everything from helping people buy their first home to preventing mortgage foreclosure — to keep people housed in the current housing crisis and economic downturn."

Bay State Housing Market Lower Rates, Higher Inventory In Third Quarter

Sales of single-family homes rose unexpectedly in the Bay State in the third quarter of 2001 as declining mortgage rates and an improved housing supply in much of the state sparked renewed interest among buyers, boosting the pace of market activity for the first time in two years, according to data released recently by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

Home prices also rose this past summer, but the rate of appreciation in home values has started to moderate, especially for detached single-family homes, as price pressures have eased due to a more relaxed sales pace.

The MAR report shows sales of detached single-family homes increased 4.4 percent in the third quarter of 2001 compared with the same period last year, climbing from 13,546 units in the third quarter a year ago to 14,144 from July-September 2001.

Condominium sales also rose this summer by 2.1 percent, from 4,176 units in the third quarter of 2000 to 4,265 in the comparable period this year. It's the first quarterly year-to-year gain in residential home sales in eight quarters, and with 18,409 detached homes and condos sold from July-September, it makes the 2001 third quarter the third busiest summer for single-family home sales in state history, topped only by the sales totals for the third

Neighborhood Housing Services First Time Homebuyers Workshop

Neighborhood Housing Services, an approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency, will hold an accredited and MHFA certified First Time Homebuyer's Workshop in collaboration with Randolph Savings Bank Saturdays, Dec. 1 and Dec. 8.

The workshops will be held from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Randolph Savings Bank, 10 Cabot Place, Stoughton.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate which is required by most lenders to qualify for the many different mortgage options such as the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs, down payment and closing costs grants, and other special first time homebuyer financing options.

Neighborhood Housing Services is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting first time buyers through the homebuying process. The staff at NHS is unique in their approach to obtaining down payment and closing costs assistance as well as rehab grants for their clients, which are available throughout the entire South Shore area.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on the many changing aspects of homebuying, including how to locate a property within one's budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage for one's needs. Advanced registration is required and space is limited. A $10 refundable registration fee is required.

Lower Rates, Higher Inventory In 3rd Quarter

quarters of 1998 and 1999.
"Today, buyers are finding market conditions that are much more favorable than at any point in the last three years and that helped to trigger the mini-rebound we saw this summer," said MAR President David Walsh. "Sellers have had the upper hand for a long time but, now, with lower mortgage rates, a larger number of homes to choose from, and more time to present an offer, buyers are regaining some control of the process. It's a good time to buy."

Regionally, in the third quarter, sales of detached single-family homes rose throughout most of the state, with the largest gains over year ago levels occurring in southeastern Massachusetts (+9.3 percent) and the South Shore region (+7.7 percent).

Healthy sales increases also occurred in the West (+6.7 percent), Northeast (+6.5 percent), and Central (+4.8 percent) regions during the third quarter, while sales rose a more modest 3.6 percent on Cape Cod and fell 1.2 percent in greater Boston from the same period last year.

The improvement in condominium sales activity was confined primarily to three regions of the state—Greater Fall River-New Bedford (+31.9 percent), Worcester County (+14.1 percent), and the Northeast (+5.7 percent)—as other areas reported flat sales or small declines of between 4-7 percent between the third quarter of 2001 and the comparable period one year ago.

"The sales growth we've seen in many areas is due in large part to an increase in supply," said Walsh. For the first time since 1998, inventory levels are rising in most communities and that's enticed many entry-level buyers back into the market, he said.

"Buyers who were frustrated by a lack of starter homes or those who were previously priced out of the market have returned to take advantage of the wider selection of homes and more relaxed, less competitive search process."

The MAR data show single-family property listings have risen almost 13 percent in the past year, from a statewide monthly average of 30,569 homes and condos for sale in the third quarter of 2000 to 34,526 in the comparable quarter this year.

In addition, the average days on market before a home sells in Massachusetts has increased by nearly three weeks since last summer, from 100 days in the third quarter of 2000 to 118 days in the same three-month period this year.

Along with a greater selection of homes to choose from, homebuyers also have more purchasing power today, as the average rate on a 30-year fixed mortgage has dropped more than one full point in the past 12 months from 8.11 percent in the third quarter last year to 7.08 percent in the third quarter of 2001.

"Assuming the same down payment and closing costs, the typical buyer who purchased a $250,000 mortgage last year could now afford a loan of $267,377, or 11 percent more, with new lower rates," said Walsh. "That beats the rate of home price appreciation in most areas."

The MAR report found that the statewide average selling price for detached single-family homes rose at just slightly more than half the rate it did last year during the third quarter. This year, from July-September, the average selling price for detached single-family homes sold in the Bay State was $324,226, an increase of 9.9 percent over the 2000 third quarter average selling price of $295,058. Regionally, average selling prices rose at rates less than or nearly equal to the statewide rate of appreciation in Cape Cod, Central, Greater Boston, and West regions

This Is New England... Winterize Your Building

By MARC CELLUCCI
Property Manager
Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc.

With the winter fast approaching, it is important for commercial property owners or managers to be ready for snow removal, freezing temperatures and icy stairs.

Here are a few tips to help prevent the winter cold from bursting your budget like a frozen water pipe.

- Know the important telephone numbers. In case of an emergency, you will need to get in touch with your utility providers at a moment's notice. Keep the names and numbers of key contacts handy and accessible to all appropriate personnel. Key contacts include the water department and fire department, the electric company, your plumber, your electrician, a clean-up crew and elevator repair technicians, among others.
- Keep tenants and staff in the loop. Make sure that everyone who needs to be on the same page is on the same page with regard to property repairs. Making sure tenants are aware of your progress will alleviate some of their frustration and a lot of the pressure on you, the property manager. If you have a maintenance or security staff, be sure they have access to emergency telephone numbers and supplies.

- Protect your pipes. Your biggest concern during extreme cold is the danger of a burst water line. Be especially conscious of pipes that are exposed or located in exterior walls. Walls and pipes should be well insulated to protect against the elements. Keep exterior areas, such as foyers, heated. If you are unable to heat your foyers, keep interior doors open for as long as possible.
- Understand your insurance coverage. When facing even minor repair costs, knowing your deductible can cut back on the impact on your wallet. Also, be sure to have your insurance agent's number handy.

- Take pictures. You don't have to be an artist to keep a decent photo album of any sustained damage. Photo records can be crucial when submitting insurance claims, and are very useful for your own use when attempting to pinpoint the problematic nuances of your property.
- Pay attention to your invoices. Don't assume that just because your contractor is trustworthy you won't be overcharged. Mistakes happen. Be sure the work you've been charged for coincides with the work that has been completed. A little vigilance can go a long way.

- Keep supplies on hand. Don't be caught without a mop and bucket when the pipes burst. A flashlight with batteries, a shovel, sand or some other de-icer and a water vacuum or sump pump with also make life easier.
- Protect your inventory. In case of flooding, never keep your inventory on the concrete floor. Even the slightest flooding will cause unnecessary damage to your stock. Keep inventory up off the floor and on to pallets, or better yet, shelving.

Ultimately, your mission as a property owner is to avoid interrupting your tenants' ability to conduct business while you straighten out the issues. Think prevention and be prepared for the winter well into the spring.

A SENSE OF ENTITLEMENT

When purchasing a home, buyers want to know that the sellers actually have full and legal title. The party who conducts the closing will look into this matter by going down to the local property records office to research the history of the ownership. As official as those records are, however, they can be wrong. It is also possible that the person conducting the title search can make a mistake. To protect themselves against title problems, the title insurance known as lender's coverage is available to provide protection up to the original mortgage amount. On top of that, buyers should consider purchasing owner's coverage to protect their equity in the event that an issue arises that clouds their title.

Few people have the time or resources to investigate the many legal dimensions of purchasing a home. This week's column highlights the importance of a title. At ERA CENTRAL REAL ESTATE, our goal is to provide you with comprehensive real estate service from the moment you step into our office. We can direct buyers on legal services, mortgages, and house inspection services. Are you renting? With interest rates dropping, a monthly mortgage may be lower than your rent. Call us at 617-328-1312, or visit us at 128 Mayor McGrath Highway.

HINT: With an inflation rider on the owner's coverage form of title insurance, the value of the title coverage rises along with the value of the home.

A GREAT COMPANY TO DO BUSINESS WITH

QUINCY DISTRICT COURT has reduced the number of trial cases pending before the court from 1,350 in January of 1999 to 360 as of this October, just one of the accomplishments discussed at last Thursday's meeting of courthouse employees to review progress made on the stated goals of the court. From left are: former Mayor and current Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin; Justice Diane Moriarty of the recently established Quincy Drug Court; and First Justice Mark Coven.

Quincy District Court Reports Progress On Achieving Stated Goals

Employees from the various departments of the Quincy District Court had to take a one-hour break from their duties last week to realize just how busy they were.

First Justice Mark Coven, who called the employees together last Thursday in the main courtroom and who made remarks along with Justice Diane Moriarty of the recently established Quincy Drug Court, drew audible gasps from several staff members when he presented statistics showing that Quincy District Court was one of the top 10 busiest courts in the state in both criminal and civil cases, handling more "OUT" cases than any court in Massachusetts and listed at or near the top in cases involving larceny, assaults, breaking and entering, and drugs.

Employees may have been surprised by the raw numbers, explained Judge Coven, but not at the tremendous activity of the court.

"Every job here is different, but people generally recognize that we've been extremely busy," said Judge Coven, who was appointed First Justice in August of 2000.

Judge Coven said the purpose of the meeting was two-fold: for the justices to recognize the efforts of the staff during the past year and to update employees on the progress of several goals targeted by the Quincy District Court.

"It's been a great year, but it's only been a great year because of the work that everyone involved with the court has done," Judge Coven said.

Recent accomplishments of the Quincy District Court include: a reduction in the number of cases awaiting jury trial from 1,350 in January of 1999 to 360 in October of this year, thanks to the creation of a second jury session; a recent program and fiscal audit performed by the state which the court passed "with fly-

'Toys For Tots' Donations Accepted During Sunday's Parade

As the United States Marine Corps celebrates the 226th anniversary of its founding this month, the Marine Reservists who will participate in the Quincy Christmas Parade remind residents that the Marine "Toys for Tots" program is more important than ever.

As they have done in parades past, Marine Reservists marching in the parade will gratefully accept gifts of new toys appropriately wrapped to help make the holiday season a happier time for children.

Because of the call-up of reserves in response to the Sept. 11 terrorism attacks and subsequent threats to the county, the requests to the Marine "Toys for Tots" is greater than it has ever been.

Parade organizers urge residents to show their "Semper Fidelis" spirit by donating an appropriately wrapped gift to the Marine Reservists marching in Sunday's parade.

Quincy District Court Reports On Achieving Stated Goals

ing colors," the recent mark of 95 percent scored by the Office of Probation on an evaluation which will re-certify the department for the next three years; and unannounced visits by state inspectors attempting to carry concealed weapons into the court, stopped every time by the security team under the leadership of Chief Court Officer Peter Cordeiro.

"Quincy District Court was one of the few courts which passed at such an excellent rate," Judge Coven said.

Judge Coven also noted a process whereby all civil business will return to the court by next year as well as improvements to technology and technology training at the courthouse.

Reporting on the Quincy Drug Court, which started March 2 of 2000, Judge Moriarty said the court currently handled 55 clients who were responding well to the combination of long-term treatment and regular supervision.

Although she said relapses did occur given the long drug history of the Drug Court's clients, the majority of clients were clean and sober, neither committing new crimes nor adding to the overburdened prison population.

In terms of community outreach, Judge Coven said the court will expand upon recent successes like "The Long Road to Justice," an exhibit at the Crane Public Library which chronicled the African-American experience in Massachusetts courts, by creating a "Moot Court" this spring for high school students in the seven communities served by the court.

In addition, the Quincy District Court is planning a conference this spring on how witnessing domestic violence affects children.

One priority which has not been achieved is the construction of a new Quincy District Court. "That has not happened," said Judge Coven, who added that a new courthouse would "continue to be a major issue for us."

Braintree Family Honored Guests In Quincy Christmas Parade

Braintree resident Steven Maccini and members of his family will ride as honored guests in Quincy's 49th annual Christmas Parade.

Maccini earned the honor by submitting the winning entry for the parade theme contest open to the entire South Shore area.

Maccini's entry, chosen from hundreds submitted, was "Christmas in our Hometown."

Maccini, a Verizon employee, said he suggested that theme because his favorite television holiday program is "The Homecoming-- A Christmas Story" which features the reunion of the Walton family members for Christmas Day.

Quincy's Christmas Parade attracts thousands of spectators annually and is considered the largest of its kind along the East Coast. Maccini stated that Quincy's parade reminded him of the many families that gather to watch the parade.

North Quincy Volleyball State Champs

Cap Perfect 26-0 Season By Defeating Defending Champ Barnstable

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' volleyball team awoke from its dream season last Saturday night to the delight of its fifth state championship.

Facing Barnstable, the defending state champs, for the third time this year at Assumption College, the Red Raiders took the first two games, 15-12, 15-7, dropped the third, 5-15, before rallying back with a 15-3 triumph in the fourth game for the Division I title.

"We were very confident we could beat Barnstable," said head coach James Rendle. "The kids wanted to play Barnstable for the third time this year. They believed Barnstable is the second best team in the state and they wanted to play the best team in the finals. I wouldn't have mind seeing another team."

With the victory, North Quincy finished the season with a perfect 26-0 record — the most wins in school history — one-upping the 1992 team that went 25-0 to win the state title.

Amazingly, the Red Raiders won 56 of their 58 games this year. Besides the Game 3 setback, the only other game they lost also came against Barnstable way back on Sept. 21.

"Certainly 26-0 is the best we've ever done," Rendle said. "Twenty-six and zero, undefeated, state champions, no one has done that. I said all along that athletically this is the most talented group I've ever had. We have so much depth. I've said this before, we play better teams in practice. Our second team would have gone the state finals."

Junior Kathleen McCarthy engineered a balanced offensive attack with a mind-boggling 32 assists, setting up juniors Makini Thompson (11 kills, 6 blocks) and Krystle Neves (6 kills, 4 blocks) and senior Kahli Dearani (5 kills, 2 blocks).

"McCarthy did a great job of balancing the offense with those assists," Rendle said. "She got people involved and everyone contributed."

Junior Kristen DiMaggio played an outstanding two-way game, chipping in with seven kills offensively and 26 digs defensively.

Senior captain Beth Houghton led a strong defensive effort with 30 digs, while juniors Shannon Desmond and Julia McGunagle each tallied 28.

"The defense was excellent. It was incredibly balanced and consistent," Rendle said.

"Overall, every kid that played did what they had to do — some defense-oriented, some offense-oriented. As usual, a team effort carried us."

The final also featured a showdown between two of the best players in the state: North Quincy's Thompson and Barnstable's Liz Curley, both 6-foot-2 middle hitters. In the third game, Barnstable head coach Tom Turco tinkered with that matchup. He moved Curley to the back away from Thompson and the new-look lineup befuddled North Quincy.

"By flip-flopping the lineup, we saw different plays and that confused us and forced us to make errors," Rendle said. "We were out of synch. We didn't adjust and they dominated us."

North Quincy, though, did make the necessary adjustments between the third and fourth games. In the final game, it capitalized on some advantages and cruised to the win.

"Once we made the adjustments we kind of dominated," Rendle said.

Rendle said that this championship is even more rewarding because the girls were able to set aside their egos. All 12 players could have started for any other team, but there was no bickering for playing time. Each knew their role on the team if it was to succeed in winning the big one.

"I'm so pleased we won it because the kids had to make sacrifices," he said. "The kids sacrificed playing time and stats and that made us more dominant."

North Quincy, which also won the state titles in 1987, '91 and '99, should be the heavy favorites to repeat next year, as it returns eight of the 12 players from this championship squad.

"Right now, I'm sitting back catching my breathe," said Rendle, who finished his 17th year at the helm. "We'll have a lot of kids back so we'll be a very good team next year. If we work they way we're supposed to in the off-season, we have the potential, and I stress potential, to be a more dominant team."

Now that would be a sight to see.

Bill Sullivan, Pete Zoia To Be Honored Before Thanksgiving Game

Preview, History Of 'The Game' Starts On Page 20

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

Win Would Give Quincy First Winning Record In Seven Years

Presidents Eye Holiday, Season Success

By CHRIS POISSON

The last time the Quincy High School football team had a winning season, Jack Raymer was still running the show. Bob Noble was an assistant and the present day seniors were in elementary school.

Simply stated, tomorrow morning's 69th annual Thanksgiving Day game is the biggest game for the Presidents in seven years.

Aside from a chance to three-peat, a win, in terms of the program, would be monumental, as it would register its first winning season since it went 6-4 in 1994 in Raymer's last year as head coach.

"We haven't had a winning record in a while so obviously that is one of the incentives, and we could finish by winning four in a row," said Noble, who is now in his third year as head coach.

After a slow start Quincy (4-4-1) is suddenly as hot as the Caribbean weather, having won three straight, including a rousing 21-14 victory over Plymouth North the last time out.

Since Noble took over the reigns before the start of the 1999 season, the program has steadily climbed back to respectability, going 1-10 his first year, 3-7 last year, and now a chance to finish above .500 tomorrow.

"We're going in the right direction and showing continuing progress," Noble said. "We won three games last year and to this point we've won four. Hopefully we are lucky enough to make it five.

"Again, we're already a very competitive football program. Now it's just a matter of being a consistent winning program and I think we're right on the verge of that. If we're fortunate to win on Thanksgiving, this would be a big step in the right direction. It would be a nice comeback after the start we had."

The main reason for the second-half success has been the team's ability to cut down on turnovers, particularly the ones that seemed to happen regularly at the most inopportune times of the game.

"We haven't turned the ball over," Noble said. "That was the biggest key. It wasn't an issue of teams stopping us, we were stopping ourselves. We have done every drill you can think of to try and prevent that from happening."

Senior quarterback Mike Lorenzano has picked up his game in the second half as well, taking advantage of his running ability while avoiding the costly interceptions. In fact, he has played well enough to be named an Atlantic Coast League second-team all-star, having thrown for 905 yards and 10 TD passes.

"Michael Lorenzano has just flat out played better in the second half of the season," Noble said.

Lorenzano also has Thanksgiving experience. A two-year starter, he led the

6 Presidents, 4 Raiders Named League All-Stars

Ten local high school football players have been named all-stars by their respective leagues for their outstanding play this season.

The Quincy High School football team, playing in the Atlantic Coast League for the first time this season, had six players honored.

Seniors Tom Shruhan (linebacker), Scott Kelley (tight end) and Chris Sullivan (defensive lineman) were named to the first team, while seniors Mike Lorenzano (quarterback) and Kris Kamborian (linebacker) and junior Steve Ekunseitan (defensive end) made the second team.

Kelley has 15 catches for 168 yards and three touchdowns. Lorenzano has thrown for over 900 yards and 10 TD pass.

For North Quincy, senior captains Dan DiNardo (linebacker), Pat Bregoli (tailback), Jeff Narbonne (defensive lineman) and Mike Ryan (linebacker) were named Old Colony League second-team all-stars. DiNardo also received the league sportsmanship award.

Bregoli, who has missed some time with an ankle injury, has rushed for 712 yards and four touchdowns. He has also thrown a TD pass.

DiNardo leads the team in tackles with 132 and has two sacks. Ryan has registered 101 tackles, two sacks, forced fumble and two fumble recoveries and Narbonne has 58 tackles and four sacks.

Sullivan Quincy's Top Thanksgiving Game Coach

Bill Sullivan is Quincy High School's most successful head coach in Thanksgiving Day games.

He went 6-2 against North Quincy from 1952-59. He also led the Presidents to five consecutive wins from 1954-58, the longest win streak in series history.

Sullivan lost to the Red Raiders in 1953 and 1959.

He was an assistant to Munroe MacLean from 1939-51.

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

'No Quit' In North Quincy
Red Raiders Out
To Stop Quincy's Run

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School football team and Thanksgiving have been like mashed potatoes drowned in syrup in recent years.

Not a very good combination.

The Red Raiders will try to find their gravy tomorrow morning in the 69th annual holiday showdown against Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Having lost two straight and six of the last seven Thanksgiving games, North Quincy desperately needs to end Quincy's run this season.

"This is the biggest game of the seniors' career, the second biggest game of the juniors' career, the third of the sophomores and the freshmen, it's their fourth biggest game," said first-year head coach Tony Green.

In other words this is a huge game, particularly for the four senior captains and their 15 classmates who have not tasted the sweetness of victory that much in their careers, with only five wins heading into this year.

After a 2-1 start under Green, optimism of a strong season quickly nose-dived like a seagull chasing a fish. The Red Raiders hit a five-game losing skid before finally getting back on course with a 12-0 win over Canton the last time out.

Although the captains — Pat Bregoli, Dan DiNardo, Mike Ryan, Jeff Narbonne — have achieved individual success this season with second-team all-star status, a win tomorrow would do wonders for them and the other seniors.

"They are our four senior captains and they've withstood the test of time," Green said. "When they weren't winning and other people were quitting, they hung in there, along with all the other seniors."

"They've been through three head coaches, they're one of the smallest teams in the league, so it's very difficult to win. Winning has not come easy in the last three years. But they don't know to quit. It's not in their vocabulary. They keep on banging a way."

And that's exactly the frame of mind North Quincy needs against Quincy. It has to use its size and keep on banging away with its powerful running game, which has been its mainstay throughout the season.

"We're going to try to run the ball extra good," Green said. "We're not going to do anything crazy. We're not going to do the old Thanksgiving morning triple reverse. They never work. We're just going to try and grind them a little bit and see what happens."

The Red Raiders have four backs that run behind a big line, consisting of left tackle Gregory Sommers, left guard against their defense. They're a quick team. They're a skilled team. We're hoping our size can kind of nullify their quickness."

Defensively, North Quincy will have its hands full as Quincy's offense has kicked it into high gear lately. The Presidents have been able to move the ball against just about everybody this season, but they've been hampered by turnovers until recently. If the Red Raiders can force Quincy to make

Bregoli is undeniably the leader of the backfield at attack. Although he has been in and out of the lineup with an ankle injury sustained against Barnstable Oct. 5, he has managed to rush for 712 yards and four touchdowns on 103 carries. And he has also thrown a TD pass.

"He got hurt, so who knows what could have happened," Green said. "How many wins we could have had and what numbers he would have had."

When Bregoli is in on the field, he and junior fullback Chris Dolbeare form a potent 1-2 punch. Dolbeare has rushed for 546 yards and seven touchdowns. He also has two TD receptions and a kickoff return for a score.

Juniors Ryan Farnham (289 yards, TD) and James Coughlin (134 yards, 2 TDs) have filled in admirably when Bregoli has gone down.

"We have a big line and we have good running backs," Green said. "We're hoping we can match up well

Comebacks, Heartbreaks

Last-second comebacks and painful heartbreakers have turned the Quincy-North Quincy high school football rivalry into an annual fight for city bragging rights.

Close, competitive games have defined the series.

Fourteen of the last 18 meetings have been decided by eight points or less.

In 1997, Quincy edged North Quincy, 7-0, on a late fourth-quarter touchdown run by Nathan DoRosario.

That game, along with the '85, '87, '89 and '93 matches, ended on the final play of the game.

In 1984 and 1994 the Presidents grabbed interceptions in the final minutes to thwart North Quincy's comeback bids.

The only game to go into overtime was in 1975, which the Red Raiders won, 15-8.

Of the 68 meetings, 37 have been decided by eight points or less. The outcome has been greater than two scores in 19 games.

The Series Record:

Quincy 35, North 28 5 Ties In 68 Games

Entering tomorrow's 69th annual Thanksgiving Day game, Quincy High School holds the edge with a 35-28-5 series record.

The contests in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983 were scoreless affairs, while the 55th meeting in 1987 ended in a 14-14 stalemate.

The series was last deadlocked at 7-7-3 going into the 1950 game.

The Presidents have won six of the last seven Turkey Day games and are looking to three-repeat in 2001. They won four straight from 1994-97.

The Red Raiders will be trying to rebound after last year's 28-13 loss. They haven't won consecutive games since they three-peated from 1991-93. North's last Thanksgiving victory was in 1998 when the Raiders prevailed, 21-6.

Biggest Game In 7 Years Awaits Quincy On Thanksgiving

Presidents to a 28-13 win last year, throwing a touchdown and running for another while amassing about 200 total yards. It's no secret that when he plays a good game, the team is in a great position to win.

The Presidents have made some changes on offense, most notably in the running game. Senior Kris Kamborian, who started the year at tailback, has moved to wing back, while sophomore wide receiver J.J. Niamkey has joined junior Matt Ramponi in the backfield.

Jackpot. Niamkey and Ramponi have proven to be an effective duo and will split the carries tomorrow morning. If one gets the hot foot—like Niamkey did against Plymouth North with 101 yards and the winning score—Noble said he would ride with that player.

"Moving J.J. Niamkey to tailback has been a big plus for us," Noble said. "He's added some outside speed that we haven't had in a while here."

Defensively, the Presidents have put together another sound season, finishing third in the league in points allowed (15 per game). Take away the losses to Catholic Memorial and Whitman-Hanson and the 14 points the second unit yielded in a win over Dennis-

Yarmouth; and the defense has been downright nasty.

And the Presidents have received recognition for their efforts, with four of their six league all-stars selected for their defensive play. Senior middle linebacker Tom Shruhan and senior defensive lineman Chris Sullivan made the first team, while senior linebacker Kris Kamborian and junior defensive end Steve Ekunseitan earned second-team honors.

The No. 1 concern for Quincy's defense tomorrow is North Quincy's mighty four-headed rushing game. Senior Pat Bregoli and juniors Chris Dolbeare, Ryan Farnham and James Coughlin have combined for 14 rushing touchdowns and 1,681 yards.

"Obviously we have to stop their running game," Noble said. "It's as simple as that. That's what they like to do. If we can do that, then that is going to put us in a position to come out on top."

Shruhan, an all-star last season in the Old Colony League, will be asked to play the role of Ray Lewis and help shut down, or at least contain, North Quincy's running game.

"He has a huge responsibility on Thanksgiving in reference to stopping their inside running game," Noble said. "But again you're talking about a two-year all-star and one of the best linebackers around here."

Quincy has had success this season defending the run. Whitman-Hanson, similar to North Quincy in that it favors the ground game, comes to mind. The Presidents shut down the Panthers' rushing game, only to be beat by first-team all-star quarterback Tom Pimental's four TD passes.

If Quincy can somehow force the Red Raiders to attack through the air, it would be to its advantage. "But then again that kid [Dennis] Thomson that plays quarterback is a pretty good athlete. He's no slouch," Noble pointed out.

Having won the last two holiday meetings, and six of the last seven, Quincy holds the upper hand until it's defeated. But as fans have come to know over the years, history, stats, wins, losses, etc. really don't matter when Quincy and North clash on the second to last Thursday of November.

"All that stuff doesn't matter once the ball is kicked at 10 o'clock on Thanksgiving morning," Noble said.

GAINING TRACTION CONTROL

New-car buyers who resist the current trend toward sport utility vehicles with four- and all-wheel-drive systems may ask themselves if a conventional two-wheel-drive car outfitted with traction control can provide them with a reasonable amount of all-weather capability. The answer is "yes." Traction control functions by using the sensors that are part of the vehicle's anti-lock braking system (ABS) to monitor wheel speed at all four wheels. When tire slip is detected in one of the drive wheels, the computer system will undertake countermeasures, either in the form of reducing engine power or exerting braking action to the slipping wheel. The result is most of the same all-weather capability of four- or all-wheel-drive at a more reasonable cost.

mistakes, they should find themselves in a position to win.

"Quincy is a good team," Green said. "They've been winning. The games that they've lost they've looked real good. I saw the Whitman-Hanson game. Whitman-Hanson is one of the best teams in the state and they played them pretty good. They're a big play team. They're going to throw, run outside, run the option. For us to stop them, we really have to bear down and take away what they do well."

North Quincy is well aware of Quincy's main offensive weapon, senior quarter Mike Lorenzano who burned them in last year's Thanksgiving Day game by throwing a touchdown pass and running for another.

"He's a double threat," said Green, as Lorenzano has also rushed for 245 yards and three TDs. "Actually a triple threat. He runs the option, he runs and throws. He's impressive."

DiNardo (132 tackles, 2 sacks, interception), Ryan (101 tackles, 2 sacks, forced fumble, 2 fumble recoveries) and Narbonne (58 tackles, 4 sacks) — OCL all-stars on defense — need to turn in big games to stop Lorenzano & Co.

And Lorenzano has company. ACL all-star tight end Scott Kelley is his favorite target with 15 catches and three touchdowns. Dan Galligan (23.7 yards per catch) and Shawn Munchbach each have 11 receptions.

"And they have a new running back. That kid No. 80 who looked good," Green said.

No. 80 is sophomore J.J. Niamkey, who has brought some speed to the backfield since his move there from wide receiver. He is accompanied by junior Matt Ramponi and senior Kris Kamborian at wing back.

Having won only one holiday game in the last seven years, North Quincy can only hope that it finds its gravity by tomorrow afternoon. If it does, Thanksgiving dinner for the seniors will be much more sweeter.

"Winning would provide a great closure for our seniors," Green said. "It would be like icing on the cake."

TD With Six Seconds Left Lifts Quincy JV Over North

Quarterback Kevin O'Connell tossed a 7-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Jason Chase with six seconds left in the game to lift Quincy junior varsity team to a 14-8 victory over North Quincy last Saturday.

Quincy linebacker John David intercepted a pass at the NQ 25 and it returned it to the 12 to set up winning score. Defensive lineman Tom Belton pressured the quarterback on the play and forced him to try and throw the ball away.

The Red Raiders had one last chance, but defensive back Bob Ritchie picked off the Hail Mary pass to seal the win.

Early in the first quarter, North Quincy blocked a punt and had the ball deep in Quincy territory. Five plays later, it scored from 4 yards out and added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

The score remained the same until early in the fourth quarter when the Presidents put together a strong drive, led by the running of Mark Giordani, Greg Morton, Steve Ohlson and O'Connell. Receivers Mike Sullivan, John Banks, Marty McEachern and Chase also contributed.

O'Connell capped off the drive with a 2-yard TD run and the subsequent 2-point conversion to even the score at 8-all.

Quincy had a chance to score midway through the fourth quarter, but North Quincy picked off a pass inside its own 5-yard line to end the threat.

North Defeated, Quincy Tied Lone Common Opponent

Deciding who might have the edge in tomorrow's 69th annual Thanksgiving Day game will be more difficult than in recent years.

With Quincy moving out of the Old Colony League and into the Atlantic Coast League this season, the Presidents and the Red Raiders had only one common opponent this year: Randolph.

The results:

Sept. 21: North Quincy 36, Randolph 0.

Oct. 12: Quincy 14, Randolph 14.

North Quincy followed up the Randolph game with a win over Falmouth, but then it proceeded to lose its next five games.

Quincy, meanwhile, turned its season around after the lackluster tie by going 3-1 in its next four games and it easily could have been 4-0.

North Quincy, though, had the toughest schedule. The Red Raiders faced some of the top teams in the state in Marshfield, Barnstable, Silver Lake and Bridgewater-Raynham, which have a combined 27-10-1 record.

Quincy really only had two powerhouses on its schedule. Whitman-Hanson and Catholic Memorial have a combined 13-4 record.

Raiders Perfect Twice: 1966, 1992

North Quincy High School has strutted into the Thanksgiving Day game with an unblemished record twice, 1966 and 1992, in the 69 annual matches.

Ken McPhee played a role in both as the starting guard on the '66 team and the head coach of the '92 club.

The '66 group finished the regular season with a 9-0 record. It captured the Greater Boston League title, shared the Class A crown with Arlington and blanked Quincy, 8-0.

The '92 squad compiled an 11-0 record to win the Old Colony League title. It knocked off Arlington to become Division 1B Super Bowl champs and also shut out Quincy, 20-0.

Estimated 25,000 Watch 1947 Game

There has always been debate as to which Quincy-North Quincy game drew the largest crowd.

It appears the 1947 game had the largest paid attendance, reported to have been 18,003. In 1946 the paid attendance was 16,065.

Many estimate that close to 25,000 saw the '47 game, if you count those who watched from the walls and trees, and those who lined the bus yard where the MBTA garage now stands.

Thousands of extras also watched the '46 contest.

Before 1947, the '39 game attracted the largest crowd with 15,000 fans showing up.

In recent years an estimated 9,000-12,000 have attended the annual game.

Quincy's Undefeated 1970 Team

Quincy's 1970 team, coached by Hank Conroy, ran through its opponents on its way to a spotless 9-0 record.

That year, the Presidents knocked off North Quincy, 16-6, and captured the Greater Boston League title.

Calming Concerns Of Possible Anthrax Exposure

In urging public calm over concerns of possible exposure to anthrax from a package, letter, or object, the Executive Office of Public Safety of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts presents the following facts:

- Anthrax does not present an immediate threat of injury.
- Exposure to anthrax does not necessarily mean infection.
- Anthrax is not spread from one person to another person.
- If it is determined that there is exposure, infection can be prevented.
- All reported incidents have and will be investigated.
- To date, no anthrax has been found in Massachusetts.

If a letter or object contains a powdery substance and is accompanied by a written or verbal threat, immediately notify the local fire department and take the following precautions:

- Do not shake or empty the contents of any suspicious envelope or package; do not try to clean up powders or fluids.
- Place the envelope or package in a plastic bag or some other type of container to prevent leakage of contents. Minimize handling of suspected package.
- If you do not have any container, then cover the envelope or package with anything (e.g. clothing, paper, trashcan, etc.) and do not remove this cover.
- Leave the room and close the door, or section off the area to prevent others from entering (i.e., keep others away).
- Wash your hands with soap and water to prevent spreading any powder to your face or skin.
- If you are at home, call 911. If you are at work, then follow appropriate procedures at your workplace.

• List all people who were in the room or area when this suspicious letter or package was recognized. Give this list to both the local public health authorities and law enforcement officials for follow-up investigations and advice.

• If clothing becomes contaminated, carefully remove clothes and keep in a plastic bag and await further instructions from public safety and/or public health officials.

• If you have been subjected to exposure to a suspect material, shower with soap and water as soon as possible. Do not use bleach or disinfectant on your skin.

• Do not bring or transport suspicious or contaminated material to any facility (i.e.: the police station, the fire station, health department office, hospital, clinic, or doctor's office). Await instructions from public safety and/or health officials.

Health Quiz:

How Much Do You Know About Vitamins?

(NAPS) — You may be surprised to learn just how much, or little, you know about vitamins and nutritional supplements. One way to test your dietary supplement IQ may be to take this quick quiz from SchiffVitamins.com, a health information site:

True or False

1. There is no standard answer for what supplements a person should take.
2. Dietary supplements that contain more than 100 percent of the RDI are dangerous.
3. Dietary supplements are not regulated.
4. You don't need dietary supplements if you eat a good diet.

Answers

1. True. Each person must make choices about his or her health priorities.
2. False. The RDI is intended to set levels of nutrient intake for healthy people to prevent deficiency diseases.
3. False. The Dietary Supplement Health and Edu-

eral product can be a good start. After that, talk to your nutritionist, dietitian or health care provider to determine what else you may benefit from.

A t www.SchiffVitamins.com visitors can take a Health Quiz, which will provide a suggested list of supplements based on age, fitness levels and body system.

2. False. The RDI is intended to set levels of nutrient intake for healthy people to prevent deficiency diseases.

Since the safety margin for most vitamins and minerals is higher than the RDI, higher levels can be consumed to attain biological effects in many cases. At high intakes, some vitamins and minerals have protective or enhanced effects.

3. False. The Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act defines parameters for making claims about dietary supplements and how they affect the structure and function of the body.

4. False. Very few Americans routinely eat a good diet, as shown repeatedly by U.S. Government surveys. There is now evidence that optimal intake of some nutrients, such as Vitamin E, is impossible even from a healthy diet.

Whether you're interested in a specific ingredient or which vitamins and dietary supplements affect a particular body system or wellness concern, SchiffVitamins.com provides you with simple, easy-to-understand information.

And for those who are seeking more in-depth information, the Web site features recent scholarly articles and studies, as well as highlights of nutrition news that's making national headlines.

National Marrow Awareness Month

November is National Marrow Awareness month and Dana-Farber Cancer Institute is encouraging people to volunteer as bone marrow and stem cell donors.

More than 30,000 people in the United States are diagnosed with leukemias, anemias, myelodysplastic disorders and 70 other life-threatening diseases which can only be cured by a marrow, blood stem cell or umbilical cord blood transplant. Nearly 75 percent of these patients must rely on an unrelated donor for their transplants.

"Every day more than 30,000 patients contact the National Marrow Donor Program and other worldwide registries in search of match," says Elizabeth Charney, Dana-Farber's Donor Center coordinator. "There clearly is a constant need in donors."

As a National Marrow Donor Program Transplant Center, Dana-Farber's Bone Marrow Transplantation Program offers patients peripheral blood stem cell transplants and marrow grafting from family members or unrelated donors, as well as transplants using the patient's own stem cells.

Established in the early 1970s, the Bone Marrow Transplant Program at Dana-Farber was one of the first such programs in the world, and is now one of the largest and busiest in the United States. The program performs more than 250 transplants annually and has performed more than 4,000 transplants since its inception.

While there is a need for donors of all races, there is an urgent need for minority donors. To find a compatible donor, certain tissue traits of the donor and the patient must match. These traits are inherited, thus, the most likely donor will come from the patient's same racial or ethnic group.

Minorities only comprise 25 percent of the national registry and are less likely than Caucasians to find a matched donor on it. Moreover, many minority tissue types — especially those found in African Americans — are rarely found in other populations. More donors of diverse race and ethnicity mean that all people will have an equal chance of finding a matched donor.

Joining the national registry is a simple process needing only a small blood test, but becoming a volunteer donor is a serious commitment. Those who join the registry are asked to remain committed to donating for any patient, anywhere in the world, regardless of the patient's sex, age, race or ethnicity. This commitment can mean the difference between life and death for the patient.

"Donating bone marrow or stem cells is a truly altruistic endeavor in which one feels an extraordinary sense of accomplishment. Helping to give someone's parent, sibling or child a chance of a lifetime is one of life's rarest gifts," Charney says.

To find out more about Dana-Farber's Bone Marrow Transplant Program, call 617-632-6140.
